Dr. Alan Moore Describes Women of the Orient Using Native Costumes, at Y.W.C.A. Meeting Here Wednesday

Ishmaelite Hope Chest is Enough Hair to Weave Tent

One of the most interesting and instructive programs of the Y. W. C. A. this year was given Wednesday afternoon, April 27.

The devotional was lead by Emma Jean Donald, Miss Frankie Kerr favored us with a piano solo, and Emmitt Smith sang "Mother Mine."

The speaker of the afternoon was Dr. Moore, a missionary from Palestine, who is lecturing at the Methodist Church this week.

Dr. Moore's subject was "Women of the Orient" and he made his talk more interesting by the use of costumes worn by Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Andrews. He first talked about the Turkish woman who was represented by Mrs. Andrews. She wore a white robe that covered her entirely with the exception of her eyes. This robe is always worn on the street; so when one sees a woman, he does not know whether it is a young girl, her mother, or her grand mother. Arrangements for a marriage are made by the father. The bride and groom never see each other until after the ceremony. Men still pay for their wives in Turkey. A question often asked a woman is "How much did your husband pay for you?" and she may be judged accordingly. If the husband is dissatisfied with his wife, he finds it easy to get a divorce, for he can dismiss her with one word. Then she has to go back to a dreadful and unhappy life, despised by even her own parents. In contrast with the women of America, the Turkish woman wears her plain white robe on the street and saves her jewels and pretty clothes for home wear. The white robe was removed from Mrs. Andrews and she was found to be wearing gay clothes of many colors, an elegant headdress, and many jewels. These are worn only in the home.

Jewels at Home Dr. Moore then told of the woman from the wildest part of the Orient—the Ishmaelite—who was represented by Mrs. Moore. She wore a blue headdress, veil, and a flowing robe with sleeves long and large enough to drop down over a young kid or anything else she might take a fancy to, that belonged to someone else. Her face was uncovered, and she wore Bufs Lose Four Games in Abilene The Bufs opened the conference season last week with four losses to A. C. C. and McMurry in Abilene. Playing Monday and Tuesday against A. C. C. they lost by scores of seven to two and seven to five. McMurry beat the Herd eight to four and twelve to eight. Poor defense work and lack of judgment on the bases probably cost the Bufs all of these games rather than lack of hitting power.

SENIOR PLAY IS REAL HIT; CAST WELL SELECTED

Mary Morgan Brown's Direction Praised By Large Audience

LEAD PART SCORES

Play To Be Repeated at Olympic Thursday Night at 8:05

"The Whole Town's Talking," a farce in three acts by John Emerich and Anita Loos, presented by the Senior Class in the College Auditorium, Tuesday evening, April 26, was an outstanding success in every way.

Under the capable direction of Miss Mary Morgan Brown, members of the senior class gave a performance that was decidedly professional in tone. Farce is a difficult type of play to put across successfully, but the cast of the present occasion proved themselves fully equal to the task. Rarely has it been our privilege to see a group of college students interpret a farce with such fine restraint and such a keen appreciation for dramatic nuances as did the present organization.

Every member of the cast acquitted himself well, but the special honors of the evening went to Jerry Malin, in the stellar role, Chester Binney; Irby Carruth, as "the clever little fixer," Pa Simmons; Tip Bradford Carruth, as the discerning, though sometimes deceived, Ma Simmons; Dolphina Carmack, as Edith Simmons; Edward Gerald, as the almost-villain, Roger Shields; and Opal Dutton, as the ravishingly beautiful "movie queen."

Tip Carruth's work in the role of Mrs. Simmons afforded us some of the best amateur acting ever seen upon our auditorium stage. Mrs. Carruth's work has always been consistently good, but in the present play it seems to have matured into near-art. The delineation of character was excellent in both vocal and pantomimic expression.

The scenic investiture and costumes were wholly adequate.

Those who missed finding out what the whole town was talking about, missed one of the opportunities of their lives. There is but one hope for them, and that lies in a visit to the Olympic, Thursday night of this week, where the rollicking farce will be repeated.

Lucille Astracan and Violet West Win Last Debate Contest

Misses Violet West and Lucille Astracan won a debate from C. I. A. Thursday night on the affirmative side of the question, Resolved: That the United States should adopt a Uniform Marriage and Divorce law. The decision was rendered by a critic judge. This was the last of a seven-debate series this quarter.

An interesting feature of this debate was that the coaches of the two teams, Mr. Bachelor and Mr. Shaw, were both ex-students of Emerson College and clashed in debate in their Senior year.

STANFORD WILL DROP LOW WORK

Freshman and Sophomore Work to be Excised at University

PALO ALTO, Calif., May 2. (I. P. A.)—Confirmation of reports that Stanford university's board of trustees contemplates dropping lower division work at the institution has come from Pres. Lyman Wilbur, who announced that a tentative program has been submitted to the board of trustees, whereby the freshman and sophomore classes would be eliminated gradually over a period of several years.

President Wilbur said that he had recommended to the board of trustees that a program be adopted to free the university from junior college instruction. The program provides for the reduction of the number of students in the lower division by reducing the number admitted. President Wilbur believes that by Jan. 1, 1934, that Stanford university's junior college work will be absorbed by other institutions offering such courses. The college would then place all emphasis on upper division and graduate work.

The fact that there are a large number of junior colleges throughout the state, as well as a number of other institutions offering freshman and sophomore courses, is said to be justification for Stanford's move.

"There is no good reason why endowment funds should be used to subsidize elementary instruction given in many places in the state when there is such a constant demand for more funds to assist those students who desire adequate university training for the professions and for research," President Wilbur said. He also stated that, according to the plan, the elimination of the freshman and sophomore classes would start year after the next.

If Stanford adopts the program, it will become a higher institution in fact as well as in name, possibly setting a precedent for other American universities. It is known that the University of California will watch with interest the outcome of the experiment at Palo Alto.

Whether or not the state university will follow suit, leaving lower division instruction exclusively to smaller institutions and junior colleges, depends a great deal upon the action taken by the Stanford trustees, it has been indicated.

With the lower division courses out of the way, Stanford expects to concentrate on the advance of education for the individual, cutting down the number of large lecture classes and organizing students into groups for discussion. There would also be greater facilities for students seeking the higher degrees, according to the program.

GRID CAMP TO OPEN THIS WEEK

Eckhardt Starts Spring Football Training—Outlook good

Spring football training will begin at the West Texas State Teachers College during the first week in May and will last for two or three weeks. Coach Eckhardt, football mentor, and Jones, assistant football coach, will have charge of the spring training. They are preparing to inaugurate a new plan in the spring training this year. Eckhardt will pick his squad and Jones will take the remainder in hand, each man devoting his time to his respective squad. At the close of the training period the two squads will play a full game, similar in every respect to a scheduled game. This plan is arousing a great deal of interest and is meeting with the approval of many people who are anxious to see the game played out of the regular season. It will probably be the first time that such a game has been played in this section of the state.

To defray the expenses of the spring training, Eckhardt is planning on charging a small gate fee and it is expected that the game will draw a large crowd, not only from this town but from the surrounding towns as well.

Teachers Placed In Many Schools

Students of the West Texas State Teachers College who are seeking positions for the school session of 1927-28 are being very successful in their efforts. One school system has called upon the Teacher-Placing Committee of the College at Canyon for 38 members of their faculty for next year. The College is visited daily by school boards who come in to interview prospective teachers.

Among the recent elections have been Mrs. L. M. Cousins and Miss Irene Crawford, grade work at Clarendon; Miss Lillie McKinney, History in Lubbock high school; Miss Maude Crowder, home economics, Union Hill school, Swisher county; Addie Lee Smith, high school English, Pampa; Lem Sone, superintendent at Channing.

West Texas State Teachers College will be host to the 1928 convention of the Texas Intercollegiate Press Association. The honor of entertaining the next convention of the association was given West Texas last Saturday at Waxahachie by a vote of 17-3. Delmer Ashworth of West Texas was elected president of the association, Hallie Adams, corresponding secretary, and Mason Anderson, treasurer, at the same meeting.

The Prairie, student newspaper of West Texas, won second place honors in the newspaper contest, being beaten out by the Lass-o, of the College of Industrial Arts. A news story and an editorial from The Prairie also placed second. The ranking of The Prairie is the highest ever attained in Texas Intercollegiate competition. Baylor Bells, student publication at Baylor College, took third place honors in the newspaper competition.

Trinity University of Waxahachie entertained the 1927 convention and the Trinitonians worked out the most successful convention in recent years, and were royal hosts to nearly 100 delegates from 20 Texas schools. James M. Krohne, of Trinity, was president of the association during the past year, and was in charge of convention plans. The association passed resolutions thanking Trinity for its excellence of its entertainment and the value of the professional features tendered at the meetings. Krohne was assisted at Waxahachie by the Trinity press club, the Blue Key Fraternity, and the entire student body of Trinity. O. Chauncy Acrey, treasurer and editor of the Trinitonian, student newspaper, was prominent in convention arrangements and in making the meeting a decided success. Herbert N. Peters, corresponding secretary, of Trinity, was the other T. I. P. A. officer from Trinity who had a large part in convention affairs.

The College of Industrial Arts took off highest honors in six of the association contests, winning the news story, newspaper, literary magazine, one-act play, poem, and feature. McMurry College won the editorial; Baylor College, the formal essay; Texas Woman's College, the short story, and Southwest Texas Teachers, the informal essay. The contest material was judged by teachers and professional people with national reputations for accomplishments in the lines of work they judged.

West Texas Teachers was represented at the convention by Delmer Ashworth, Hallie Adams, Mrs. Gordon Lang, Virgel Gore, and Edward Gerald.

Dean Walter Williams of the University of Missouri and J. J. Taylor, of the Dallas News, were the feature speakers of the convention.

The Bufs have four games at home this week, two each with A. C. C. and Tech. Both these teams have been met before. The Tech team split with the locals in two games at Lubbock, while the A. C. C. boys licked the Herd twice last week at Abilene by close scores. The Wildcats will be here Wednesday and Thursday and the Matadors will come Friday and Saturday.

Harvard to Have a Film Library

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 2. (I. P. A.)—Harvard is to have a motion picture library. The films will be selected by a committee of the faculty. In Washington collections, films depicting historic figures and events are being made. Harvard expands the idea by also saving those which possess unusual merit. It is a tacit recognition in conservative circles that the new art has won its place.

Thanks, Trinity

West Texas State Teachers College is grateful to Trinity University for the excellent meeting of the Texas Intercollegiate Press Association the Trinitonian efforts made possible. She Trinity convention is one of the best in the history of the association and has raised the convention standard higher and made it much more valuable.

Especially to James N. Krohne, president of the association, is the association indebted. Krohne handled association matters in excellent style, and gave as the fruit of his labors the 1927 convention. To him and to his fellow Trinitonians who ably assisted him, we extend our thanks.

West Texas Teachers is grateful that Trinity has set so high a standard for conventions. As the 1928 convention is to be held here West Texas is glad that it has a high standard of excellence to equal, and if possible, to excel.

Satisfaction

Satisfaction is something all of us want but seldom get. We are always wanting that which we do not have; and if we get it, we are not satisfied with it, but want something else.

When we are in school, we always wish for it to close so that we can get a job in the summer and make some money. But soon after we get the job, we are ready to start back to school. We have wanted to make trips—we cared not where—just so we could get away from home; but as soon as we got away, we were quite ready to return.

Perhaps it is variety that a person wants most of all. The quotation, "Variety is the spice of life," is an old saying that suggests the idea. Something that brings out a variation from the same old routine and daily grind; a variation from the monotony that comes into one's life.

A person may have the best of a good thing at his command, but he sometimes lacks the appreciation for that which another person would wish for and admire. A person blessed with riches often says he had rather be an ordinary, comfortably provided for person; while on the other hand the impetuous person dreams and longs for riches in order that he might enjoy himself more abundantly. A city person desires the quiet, pleasant country home, and the resident of the country home wishes for the exciting, busy, hurrying city life.

Most people are not satisfied with themselves and start a different way of conducting themselves. It is, however, largely a temporary change that most people want.

The Freshman

1. The freshman has the optimistic outlook, newness and freshness of viewpoint; and whether or not he keeps this depends on his advantages for growth.

2. The freshman begins with a mind that is open, frank, and ready for improvement; if he is given the opportunity for such improvement, he will be a social asset. If not, his Alma Mater has failed in her duty.

3. A freshman has ideals in the formative stage. It is the duty of the instructors and associations to strengthen these ideals, or instill better ones.

4. In the freshman, the vigor and life of the college is founded—teach him to direct these tendencies to his own betterment, and for the good of his Alma Mater. Above all the freshman should be led to grow better morally, spiritually, physically, and mentally.

Northwestern Prof In Search of Grail

EVANSTON, Ill., May 2. (I. P. A.)—A modern Sir Galahad has clanked his spurs, polished his glasses and armed himself with tomes in search of the Holy Grail, or at least the legend surrounding it.

Dr. A. C. L. Brown of the English department of Northwestern university, is on the high seas, Europe-bound, in a serious effort to get to the bottom of the Grail myth. He wants to know whether the story is a heathen myth or whether it is based upon important events in the history of Christianity.

Girl Scout Direction Is Heard in Chapel

After the usual announcement, Prexy announced that the chapel exercise for the morning would be in charge of Miss Clark and Mrs. Shaw. Mrs. Shaw introduced Miss Pauline Wheery, Regional Director of the Girl Scouts of five states, who gave a short talk acquainting us with the three aims of the Girl Scout movement. Her talk was greatly enjoyed by the student body. The little folk then rendered a beautiful program called "In the Florists' Window." The small performers tripped gracefully about and sang delightfully. Then Mrs. Shaw's dancing class gave the Maypole Dance, a beautiful spectacle as viewed from the audience.

Mr. Osgood remarked that, in a few more days, the class would have finished reading "The Tale of Two Cities," before Wilma Pearson found out what the story was about.

Miss Nellie Halstead, a student here during the fall and winter quarters, is in school in the Teachers College at Warrensburg, Missouri.

Miss Corinne Nash, B. A. '25, will attend Peabody Teachers College next year. She has been serving as supervisor of primary grades at Lubbock for the past two years.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Jordan have been teaching at Dunn, Texas, this year. Mr. Jordan was in school here in 1917-18.

Mrs. Reeves Addresses

Panhandle Press Group

On last Friday Mrs. T. V. Reeves spoke to the Panhandle Press Association in session in Amarillo, regarding the work of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society. Her talk was pronounced one of the best on the program, and the work of the Society was endorsed when the new officers voted to take a life membership in the Society for the Panhandle Press Association.

Misses Bertha Zimmerman, Marguerite and Emily Winman, of Tulsa, visited Iris Edwards and Alta Mae Sexton, at the Scott House, over the week end.

Seniors Picnic at Baptist Encampment

After all there is nothing in tradition—or at least to the old traditional idea that Seniors are dignified. The truth of this statement was proved on the Seniors' trip to the Baptist Encampment Sunday. The only dignified thing on this occasion was Al's new "Chevy."

Counting all those who sung to the tree limb, who got "ducked," who climbed the ladder to the Falls, who rode horseback, who gathered flowers, who dug for gold, who smoked grapevine, who scaled the "mountain" by means of a wire, and last but not least who ate pickles and onions, there were about thirty-five dignified Seniors present.

If the way to a woman's heart is the same as to a man's, Prof. Jarrett certainly won the heart of every one of his "children," for it was he who fried the bacon and eggs, peeled the onions and made the coffee.

Excitement at every turn of the creek filled the day's program. Many pictures indicating fun and folly were taken on the outing.

It is unnecessary to name those who went on this picnic—freckles and peeled noses will do this.

To end a "Perfect Day," Bunyan's "hoopy" had to be towed in for the last fifteen miles on the way home.

Y. W. C. A. to Have Gypsy Hike

In place of the regular meeting of the Y. W. C. A. this week, the members of the organization and their friends will participate in a gypsy hike Wednesday afternoon. Any girl wishing to join the roving band is urged to bring supper for one person and come to room 101 at 4:30. The destination of the hikers will be unknown to all except the two guides who will leave early with instructions to set up markers along the route they take.

Cousins and Sesames Have Banquet

Seventy-nine Cousins and Sesames met at Cousins Hall Thursday evening for the annual banquet. The program was unusually interesting and the general atmosphere was one of enthusiasm and good fellowship.

Special toasts and songs were features which added much pep and amusement to the occasion.

A short talk was made by Mrs. Hill in which she gave a personal touch to the history of the Cousins and Sesame Literary Societies.

Dr. Munson gave an inspirational talk on the true value of the friendships formed in the literary societies, and of the pleasure which the students will experience in meeting with these friends in later life.

J. R. Wrinkle acted as toast master and introduced the following numbers:

McLean and Montfort Speak to Elapheians

The regular Elapheian meeting was held Friday evening, April 29. The business for the evening was discussed after which a very interesting program was rendered. Miss McLean spoke to us about the work we have done this quarter and what is needed to make our society still better. Following this Mrs. Montfort struck the key note of the society by telling us to think more of our "little sisters" and to work always with this view. The meeting adjourned to meet next Friday, May 6, at 7:30 p. m., room 101.

Swisher Club Hikes to Wragge's

Last Monday evening, April 25, the Swisher County Club donned its boots and hiked out to Wragge's Park for a moonlight picnic, carrying with it the necessary weenies, marshmallows, pickles, and buns. It arrived at the park with only a few mishaps and made itself at home. The Club enjoyed itself immensely: it climbed the hills and sat on the huge rocks, it watched the shadows of the leafing trees in the rippling water, lifted up its eyes to the twinkling stars, gathered wood and built its merry fire on the grassy bank. It roasted its weenies, toasted its marshmallows, ate its pickles and buns with evident relish, and enjoyed the presence of its beloved sponsor, Miss Hanna. When the club had eaten its fill, it stretched itself luxuriously, put out the fire, and tramped back to town singing songs and declaring that the moonlight picnic was a success even though the heavens were moonless.

Batchelder Given Surprise Party

Members of the debating club surprised their coach, Mr. Batchelder with a picnic party on his birthday Saturday. Mr. Batchelder returned from Denton from his last debate on Saturday morning.

At the suggestion of Mr. Goza, Mr. and Mrs. Batchelder and Miss Brown drove out to Wragge's Park for a little swim. When the party arrived, the members of the club were already there with the picnic lunch of bacon, potato chips, pickles, cake and ice cream already spread.

The special feature of the dinner was the big cake covered with little pink candles with a large one for the coach to grow dignified on. Each member lighted a candle and made a happy birthday wish for the honor guest before the cake was cut.

Honor Society Elects New Officers

Officers were elected for the year 1927-28 at a meeting of the R. P. Jarrett Chapter of the National Honor Society Wednesday, April 27. They were:

President—Frank Steen.
Vice President—Claudine Fox.
Secretary—Winston Savage.
Treasurer and Sponsor—Miss Angie Debo.

These people will not take office until next fall, when it is hoped, they will begin an interesting and successful year.

Foods Contest Is Planned By Home Ec. Department

Under the direction of Miss Falba Foote, a food contest for home economics students in the secondary schools of the Panhandle will be held at the College, Friday and Saturday, May 6th and 7th.

There will be contests in judging menus, and in cake and biscuit making. Prizes will be offered for first and second places. The purpose of the contest is to deepen interest in home economics and bring the schools of the Panhandle closer together.

Helen Harvey spent the week end in Hereford with Ethel Wom. Miss Vera Roberts, a former student, now of Alameda, Texas, visited in Canyon Sunday.

Dormitory Dope

Randall Hall

Randall Hall is in a tumult of joy over their debating team. Miss Lucille Astracan and Miss Violet West, both from Randall, met and vanquished the C. I. A. representatives last week. Now Dr. Pierle says that our girls have settled the marriage and divorce question for good.

The Hall welcomed back a very well known and well liked student in the person of Miss Mary Estes, senior, who has returned to resume her work in W. T. Mary was president of the Hall in the fall quarter and is quite popular in the dormitory and in the college.

Another addition to the Hall register is a new student, Miss Lois Parker, who ranks as a Sophomore.

Polly and Dorothy Pronger were happily surprised Thursday by the visit from their father and uncle, and a small boy who claimed to be their brother. Needless to say, he afforded quite a bit of fun to the girls, who miss masculine attention since Dicky has been ill.

Thursday night, the Hall turned out in full force to the opening of the Oasis. Mrs. Smith was the recipient of a beautiful bouquet of roses and carnations, and with all the blossoms brought home by the girls, Randall is quite a cheery place.

Marie Bentley left Friday for her home in Shamrock, on account of illness. Bad luck seems to be on Marie's trail, but she is a plucky girl who will win out in spite of difficulties.

Last week, while the track meet was in progress, large numbers of the dormitory girls went home, including, of course, Dorothy Madden. Sickness reigned over Randall Saturday and Sunday when Walter Cowart failed to make his usual appearance.

Scott House

Mrs. Scott, the Scott House landlady, returned Wednesday from the Plainview Sanitarium. We feel it quite needless to say that she received a royal welcome.

Frances Morrow, Iris Edwards, Alta Mae Sexton, Stella Strange, and Mattie Devin spent last week end at home in Tulsa.

Misses Nellie, Lucy and Elizabeth Scott were Scott House guests during the track meet last week.

Iris: "Oh, Vera, I didn't dream of its being time for the lights to wink."

Marie Dodgen visited her parents in Groom last week.

Miss Debo spent the week end with a friend in Amarillo.

Iris Edwards made a business trip to Groom Friday.

Alta Mae to Mattie: "What do you think, one of the girls told me that Frances actually got tickled at the table last night."

Cousins Hall girls are going to be great athletes. One afternoon they played baseball for two hours. As they could hardly walk the next day, they decided not to play any more.

The girls at Cousins Hall were excited last Friday at noon. They could not see any potatoes anywhere, but when they tasted the stuffed peppers, the mystery was solved—they were full.

The following girls spent the week end away from Cousins Hall: Zella Mae Walser, Blanche McDonald, Gwendolyn Spradley, to Hereford; Katherine Curl, Mary Frances Miller to Amarillo; Bobbie Roland to Wildorado.

been, and was seen roaming wildly up and down Randall Hall corridors last Thursday night, crying in a heartbreaking wail, "Henrietta!" But Henrietta did not hear. Miss Callis was at that moment securely hidden in Viola Davis' closet, and in no notion to be scolded. Finally, however, the culprit sneaked home, and peace was restored on East Wing.

The girls at Randall Hall have suddenly taken up tennis with a will. It is said their object is to reduce. Is that why Maurine Wallingford and Martha Smith haunt the tennis courts. Or does "tennis court" explain it all?

BUFFS BIDDING For TIAA TRACK
TROPHY, MAY 14*Association Relays at Denton to Draw Big School Interest*MEN HOLD RECORDS*Some of Best Men in Team's Track History
Are Entered

For the second time in the year 1927, Coach Burton of the West Texas State Teachers College will make a bid for a collegiate championship and both times he makes the bid in Denton. His second attempt at winning a championship will be when he takes his track team to Denton for the T. I. A. A. track meet to be held in that city on May 13 and 14. Burton's basketball team won the championship of the T. I. A. A. by defeating the North Texas Eagles in Denton last March and he hopes to win his second championship with his track team, which, although it is not as great a team as was his basketball team, has been making some real records this season. The Buffaloes took a triangular meet from Simmons College and Abilene Christians, but lost a dual meet to Texas Tech team in the Great Plains meet.

Burton boasts of some real track men among his track team, the best one of which is probably "Red" Keith, who is the second four letter man the West Texas Teachers College has ever produced. Keith holds the honor jointly with Odus Mitchell, who was probably the best athlete that West Texas has produced in many years, if at all. Keith bids fair to excel Mitchell in athletic performances as he has already lettered in three sports, being a member of the championship basketball team, a member of the football team, on which he was selected as All-T. I. A. A. quarterback. Keith is an all-around track man. He does the dashes, 100, 220, and 440, and runs a leg on the relay team, in addition to which he is a consistently good broad jumper. He has records of less than ten seconds on the century and has a record of 22 seconds on the 220 yard dash. He won the broad jump at the T. I. A. A. meet at Denton last year and was second high point man of that meet.

Ragan, another of Burton's real track stars, holds the T. I. A. A. record in the 880 yard run and is captain of the track team. He is being closely pressed for his laurels by the fast stepping Bagwell, former holder of the state high school record in the half mile.

Lowes is the pole vaulting ace of the team, he having soared over the bar at 12 feet during the season. Burton is counting on Lowes to give the noted Dailey, of San Marcos, a run for his money at the T. I. A. A. meet.

Burton's team will be weak in the field events unless some unheard of youngsters shows to better advantage than any man has shown yet.

Alan Moore

many necklaces and other ornaments.

Instead of going to school, the Ishmaelite girl spends her time gathering from the brush and bushes the hair that is pulled from the goats as they pass. When she has gathered enough she spins it and weaves it into a tent cloth. This constitutes her "hope chest," so when a man marries her he gets a house as well as a wife. And every woman marries in that country. She is never asked "Who are you?" but "Whose are you?" A man would have a hard time there without a wife, for it is her business to pitch the tent and take it down. When a storm comes, she must take her pegs and hammer and make the tent secure. Since work of that type is her customary task, it is not strange that Jael was able to drive the nail, which was really a wonder peg, through the temple of Sisera and pin him to the ground, as the Bible tells us.

Woman Distinctive

"Woman" is a title of distinction there, because one cannot be called a woman until she is married. So when Christ addressed his mother as "Woman," he was paying her a tribute of highest respect.

After Dr. Moore's conclusion, Mrs. Moore made a few remarks about the last part of his talk. She said the greatest goal we could achieve was to be a woman in the real sense of the word. To possess such womanly qualities as modesty, friendliness, helpfulness, love, Christian morals, understanding and sympathy are much more to be desired than riches or fame. She said the women who have had the most influence in her life are not those of fame and successful careers, but those of simple and sterling qualities of true womanhood.

This program was indeed worth while and was enjoyed by everyone.

Grace Ferguson Is Presented in Recital

Miss Grace Ferguson gave an interesting program to an appreciative audience last Wednesday evening, April 27, when she was presented in a studio song recital. "Farewell," by Franz and the group of flower songs by Edward German were especially well received by those present. Her program included:

From Grief I Cannot Measure; Through the Valley now 'Tis Night; Farewell; Summertime; Eventide; Now Welcome My Wood, by France.

Three Flower Songs by Edward German; Rose in June; Daffodils a Blowing; and, Who'll Buy My Lavender?

'Tis Springtime on the Eastern Hills; I Know a Hill; and Phyllis, by Whelpley.

Pierle Shows Home
Ec. Diet Experiments

In his discussion of the effect of Nutrition on rats, Doctor Pierle, in addressing the Home Economics Club, Thursday, pointed out how diet can effect the human body. By the use of lantern slides, he showed the results of calcium depletion in the rat and how a lack of calcium in the diet may cause crooked teeth in children. Dr. Pierle stressed the fact that proper nourishment is conducive to a good, strong bony structure.

Press Association is Member Historical Group

At its annual meeting in Amarillo last week, the Panhandle Press Association voted to take a $25.00 membership in the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society. This was done to show the interest which the newspaper men of this territory have in the preservation of the historical material of this section.

C. W. Warwick, publisher of the Canyon News is secretary of the Panhandle-Press Association. Senator J. W. Reid and Mrs. T. V. Reeves were other Canyon people who appeared on the program. Senator Reid spoke on the Newspaper Libel Law; Mrs. Reeves on Preservation of Panhandle History.

Many organizations in this territory are expressing their approval of the work of the Historical Society by taking $25.00 memberships.

L. F. Sheffy, Miss Hattie M. Anderson, and President Hill are among the faculty members who have done much to shape the policies of the organization since its beginning in 1921.

Richardson Tells of Browning Works

The chapel exercises Tuesday morning, April 26, were in charge of Miss Mary Moss Richardson. After a few announcements, Miss Richardson read from Deuteronomy the thirteenth chapter beginning with the eleventh verse. Miss Swisher sang two beautiful solos: "This is My Task," and "In My Garden." The assembled students appreciated these solos very much as evidenced by the persistent applause. Miss Richardson then told the story of Browning's "Pippa Passes," how Pippa, a little silk-winding girl, on her one holiday in the three hundred sixty-five days of the year, passes through the streets of Asolo, singing blithely; how her innocent songs influence the lives of four groups of great people whose homes she passes; and how, when her holiday is over, she lies down to sleep with the hope that God has seen fit to allow her to do at least one good thing for someone, never knowing that by her happy little songs she has saved these great people from crime.

Miss Richardson told the story in such an interesting manner that the students could not fail to see the beauty and the good in a simple life, and to appreciate the poet Browning more deeply.
