Allen Early Home Given West Texas State

Maintenance of Standards Asked

Education Conference Has Urged Federal Aid for War Plant Area Schools

Fear that the public and its leaders may become so concerned about the present international crisis that the training of youth for tomorrow's democracy may be neglected, the Northwest Texas Conference for Education through its House of Delegates has urged that schools of the Panhandle try diligently to maintain their high standards.

The delegates believe that the schools may make full contributions to the war effort without sacrificing these standards. Recommendations adopted by the conference in the recent Amarillo meeting, included:

1. That school facilities be made available for defense purposes.
 2. That schools develop a resolute morale by sponsoring public forums and patriotic rallies and keeping fundamental issues clear.
 3. That increased responsibilities placed upon colleges and secondary schools by wartime population shifts be properly financed through federal aid for both construction and operation.
 4. That state, local and federal agencies give immediate attention to providing adequate compensation for able men and women in the teaching profession.
 5. That the state department of education be consulted by school districts when lowering of standards seems necessary.
 6. That the state department of education give attention to wartime requirements imposed upon secondary schools and that checking agencies make some allowance for this necessity.
 7. That schools give special attention to the physical training of every child.
 8. That school administrators stress Americanization programs including flag etiquette and the learning of the national anthem and the pledge of allegiance by every pupil.
 9. That all schools stress the sale of defense stamps and bonds.
- The conference pledged full support of the all-out effort of the nation in the present emergency.

Dr. Condon Talks In New Mexico— Inspects Schools

Dr. S. H. Condon recently spoke at sessions of the Northwest New Mexico Teachers Association at Farmington, visited the schools at Gallup, and saw schools of a Navajo reservation.

His subjects at Farmington were "Educating for Crisis," and "Adult Education." Meetings of the association were well attended.

Dr. Condon said a new building has been completed at Farmington, where vocational training is stressed. He found vocational training emphasized also at Gallup, although both schools have well rounded programs. Miss Lucille Thornton, an ex-student, is teaching at Farmington, and another, Miss Eula Tucker, is secretary-treasurer of the Teachers Association.

Dr. Condon spoke with keen interest of the only Methodist Indian Mission in the United States, which he visited. The building has Navajo designs and was built by the students. Every graduate is quickly employed by the government as an interpreter or worker in the Indian Service.

Cook Speaks at Texas Federated Club Meeting

Dr. Harris M. Cook spoke Friday at a panel discussion for Texas Federated Women's Clubs at Lpbb.

Others on the panel which discussed "The Colleges and the War," were Dr. W. B. Irwin, Lubbock, Dr. J. M. Gordon, Texas Tech, Dr. J. F. Mead, Amarillo Junior College; Dr. McDonald, Wayland; and Dr. Cook, who took the place of Dr. J. A. Hill, who was unable to attend.

Glen Davis, Billy Norman, Leroy Francis, students last year were on the campus over the week-end.

The Home Economics club is one of Plainview's leading study clubs.

Louise Boyd of Oklaunion, a sophomore, was rushed to Vernon Friday for an emergency appendectomy. No news has been received yet as to her condition.

Dahlia Grounds Are Prepared

Plants or Roots Sought
From Growers in All
Sections of Nation

Trial grounds of the Southwestern Dahlia Society located on the campus of West Texas State College are being prepared for the first planting in May.

Letters asking for roots have been mailed to nearly 100 prominent dahlia growers by R. E. Harter of Canyon, secretary-treasurer of the society. Fertilizers, stakes, peat moss, and insecticides have been purchased. All rules of the American Dahlia Society will be followed here, except that there will be a charge of $2.00 for the trial and scoring of new varieties this season. Certificates of merit will be awarded varieties scoring 85 or better.

In addition to the trial ground, there will be a show garden where commercial growers may send stock of the newer name varieties for display. No charge will be made for growing these varieties, and names of donors will be displayed. Either roots or plants will be accepted. There is much interest in the program of this new participating unit of the American Dahlia Society because of the favorable climate and 3600 foot elevation of the plains.

Border plants of the trial grounds will include red, white and blue petunias and other decorative plants. Next fall an inspection day will be held so that the public may see the dahlias in bloom and hear a distinguished dahlia judge. Dr. A. M. Meyer of the West Texas State College faculty is chairman of the trial ground committee. Levi Cole is president of the Southwestern Dahlia Society, which has members in several communities of the Panhandle.

Historical Review Reprints Journal Of Early Exploring

"The Journal of Lieutenant J. W. Abert from Bent's Fort to St. Louis in 1845," with introduction and notes by H. Bailey Carroll, fills most of the 1941 edition of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Review. The delayed edition was distributed recently by Dr. L. F. Sheffy, editor.

Dr. Sheffy commends the thorough and scholarly treatment of the material by Dr. Carroll, who is professor of history at North Texas Agricultural College at Arlington. Dr. Carroll has travelled thousands of miles over the plains in determining the routes of historic trails. His notes and the reprint of the Journal make available much early history of the plains.

The reconnaissance was executed under the command of Lieutenant James William Abert of the United States Army in 1845. This expedition started at Bent's Fort on the Arkansas and proceeded over Raton Pass on the mountain branch of the Santa Fe trail. Abert's account is a detailed, interesting account of his journey and his observations of fauna and flora, weather, natives and geography of the region. Dr. Carroll declares the report merits Abert a recognition he has so far been denied.

A large map provided with the Review facilitates reading of the Journal and especially the notes.

Lieut. Wyatt To Carlisle Barracks

First Lieut. Malcolm H. Wyatt, medical corps reserve, formerly of Amarillo, has been relieved of his assignment at Fort Sam Houston, Texas and has reported for duty in the medical department of the service school at Carlisle Barracks, where he will instruct officer candidate classes.

The son of Errol G. Wyatt of 1500 Jefferson Street, Amarillo, Lieutenant Wyatt, is a graduate of West Texas State College and Baylor University's School of Medicine. Mrs. Wyatt accompanied him on his tour of duty previously at the Pennsylvania post.

Major Addition to College Properties

Pictured above is the fine residence given to West Texas State for educational purposes by Mr. and Mrs. Allen Early of Amarillo. It is located at 2101 Harrison Street. The gift was unanimously accepted by the Board of Regents.

Two-Story Science Building Has Been Started by Contractors

Specialized Laboratories
Provided—Research Will Be Much Expedited

Work on West Texas State's new science building has been started by W. H. Hayman of Amarillo, who has the mechanical contract. Plumbing and heating materials are being moved to the site southeast of the Administration Building.

Mr. Hayman's contract totaled $26,995.

The general contract went to Ellis, Nicholson and Cramer, Inc., of Oklahoma City, and totaled $130,800. The building was designed by Macon O. Carder of Amarillo to require a minimum of critical materials. Purchases of materials

Mr. Nicholson, of Ellis, Nicholson, and Cramer, general contractors for the science building project, was here with President Hill yesterday and stated that he would have his building headquarters shack up by today.

Nicholson told Dr. Hill that he would have openings for college students who wanted to work on the building. He was particularly satisfied with work done by college athletes on past jobs and wanted more from West Texas State.

Work will probably commence tomorrow or Thursday. Students, Nicholson said, can probably report for work after school hours and work for the remainder of the day. Dr. Hill added that some schedules might be arranged to allow a full half-day's work.

For the structure are being made by the contractors.

The building, for which the last Texas Legislature appropriated $175,000, will be 69 by 172 feet and of two stories. It will house the departments of agriculture, biology, chemistry, and physics. Freshman laboratories, advanced laboratories, and specialized labs for research will be provided. The physics department will have darkrooms for photo-analysis.

The structure will face west. Later additions can be made on the north and south ends. The general appearance will be similar to that of other campus buildings—long and flat-roofed. Brick will harmonize with that of the main building.

Members of the building committee are Dr. D. A. Shirley, chairman, Dr. C. A. Pierle, Prof. T. B. McCarter, Prof. L. S. Baker, and Prof. Frank R. Phillips. This group and the architect made extensive studies of science buildings during the preparation of plans, and Dr. J. A. Hill made other studies.

Important Chorus Meeting Tomorrow

Prof. Wallace R. Clark announced today that it was imperative that all members of the Men's Chorus meet Wednesday at 12:40 in Room 101.

McCarty Studies Farm Problems in College Course

Student John McCarty, who in business life is editor of the Globe-News, has completed Government 422 by writing and binding a study of Panhandle farm problems.

Census tables and a bibliography add to the value of the study. Much of the material used is from Mr. McCarty's private library.

The research grew out of a letter written by Dr. S. H. Condon, instructor, concerning the need for more studies of local problems in times of national and international crises.

"Faith and loyalty of a people is first to the community because it is there we see the national problem of action," Dr. Condon wrote. "When conditions are fair immediately about us, we consider the nation to be in good condition."

Trends in farm population, debts, and mechanization are given much attention by Mr. McCarty. A national plan for agriculture is suggested.

College Groups Talk in Lubbock

Dr. A. Kirk Knott, professor in the English department and Helen Robinson and Eugene Mielcarek, seniors at West Texas State College, appeared on a program last week in Lubbock. The occasion was the 21st annual convention of the Seventh District, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

Dr. Knott led a joint discussion on "Youth Presents the Allied Nations" in mid-afternoon session. He was assisted by Theodore Alexander, Texas Tech student from Austria; Helen Robinson and Eugene Mielcarek.

Mielcarek was quoted in the Amarillo News as saying, "I can speak for all foreign students of the United States when I say we appreciate this country's freedom and are willing to make whatever sacrifices are necessary to insure that freedom." Although it has not been generally known around the campus, Eugene was born in Poland. He came to the United States at the age of three.

The best in pictorial photography will be placed on display at the museum tomorrow.

The Panhandle-Plains Salon of Photography will last through April 15. While the number of prints is smaller this year, the quality is expected to be higher than in the other three years of the exhibit.

Frank Steen, '34, has just received word that he has been elected for a job doing library work in the Department of State in the capital city.

Miss Mary Nell Jennings of Dimmitt spent last week-end here with Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Jennings.

Fine Residence Has 4 Floors

Auditorium and Stage Are
To Be Useful in W. T.'s
Work at Amarillo

West Texas State College has announced that Mr. and Mrs. Allen Early of Amarillo have given their magnificent residence at 2101 Harrison, in Amarillo, to the local institution to be used for educational purposes.

The residence, which originally cost more than $100,000, is unusually adaptable to the purpose for which the donors gave it. It has a full basement and three additional floors. The top floor includes an auditorium, with a small stage, and has a seating capacity of about 150 persons. Several hundred persons could be comfortably accommodated on the four floors in activities, lectures, exhibits, and similar functions.

"The faculty, students, ex-students, and friends of West Texas State rejoice in the very substantial and useful gift which Mr. and Mrs. Early have made to this institution," President J. A. Hill said in making the announcement.

Dr. Hill said he was not prepared at this time to make a detailed statement of the various educational activities which will be conducted in the Early building. But he added:

"We believe that Amarillo and the general public will be greatly pleased with our program. A committee of faculty members is at work on the project and is favorably considering a nursery school, an adult educational program, various types of exhibits, extension classes, certain types of social activities, and inspirational lecture series."

This committee will seek suggestions from Amarillo people as to public needs which might be served, in the fields of education and culture, which are not already being served by some other agency.

In commenting on the gift, Dr. Hill remarked: "When it is considered that the University of Texas is 500 miles to the south, the University of New Mexico is 300 miles to the west, the University of Oklahoma is 300 miles to the east, and the state universities of Colorado and Kansas are some 500 miles to the north, it is seen that West Texas State is admirably situated for the building of an institution of outstanding national importance. Northwest Texas has reached the point in her development where she needs and can have just such an institution. To build here such educational facilities will require the cooperation of many persons. All really great colleges and universities must be recipients of many benefactions."

Dr. Hill pointed out that the late Will C. Hogg set up a $25,000 student loan fund at West Texas State. The late Judge A. B. Martin provided another substantial loan fund, and other organizations and individuals have done likewise. Judge James D. Hamlin of Farwell will give his great art and antique collection as soon as the addition to the Panhandle-Plains museum is completed. Hundreds of persons have made gifts and loans to the museum, ranging in value from a few dollars to thousands of dollars. The Early gift just announced is (See EARLY GIFT, Page 2)

Epps First Plains Navy V-I Enlistee

To James Epps, West Texas State freshman from Borger, goes the honor of being the Panhandle's first enlistee under the navy's new "accredited college program." C. M. Norman, in charge of the Amarillo recruiting sub-station, said yesterday.

Epps also is the first college student in the entire Dallas recruiting district to qualify under terms of the new enlistment program, known as Class V-I.

Students in their freshman year in college may enroll in Class V-I of the naval reserve and at a later date transfer into their aviation cadet training or officer's training courses. Enlistment in this class gives students the opportunity to complete either half or all their college work, depending upon which type of training course they elect to take.

"I believe that all young men between the ages of 17 and 20, who are eligible, have excellent opportunities in the program," Epps wrote to Mr. Norman.

You Shall Have Light!

You must have light and you shall have light!

Some "hot-under-the-collar" student left an anonymous would-be editorial in The Prairie Office last week deploring the lack of attention being paid students concerning improvements.

Subject of this misinformed text was the new fluorescent lighting system which was installed in two departments last week. (Details of story on sports page).

She (or he) wanted to know why the students didn't get the lights rather than others. For the students' information, the editor found out why.

The various departments of the school receive specific allotments each year for improvements and the like. The two afore mentioned departments merely used their money to modernize their offices with new lights instead of buying new machines, books, or something else.

Students are being cared for. Seven or eight new lights are in the building now to be placed in the library for the specific use of students—in addition to the two already there.

Open a Friendship Bank Account

Questionnaires have shown the high value given by freshmen to friendliness on the campus of West Texas State. Few assets possessed by the college equal in value this feeling.

Doubtless the freshmen by their eagerness and friendliness contribute much to the situation they commend. For the way to have a friend is still to be one.

But an atmosphere of friendliness usually is not without some contradictory circumstances. To be capable of friendship is to give some thought to the obligations one must feel toward his fellows. Cheerfulness is "catching," but grouchiness also can affect whole sections of a campus.

The well poised person does not exhibit his deepest feelings freely. He is not hail-fellow-well-met one day and a sour puss the next. To be such a person is to invite many greetings which are frozen because of one's change of mood. Popularity depends much upon unfailing good humor. Those who plan events do not have time to speculate on whether an unstable person is likely to be the life of the party or a kill-joy. Yet one frequently observes persons who seem to delight in recruiting pessimists to share their chagrin.

West Texas State is a friendly campus. But even here there are too many frozen personalities, too much alternate griping and rejoicing. An inventory by a shrewd psychologist would reveal the presence of many frustrated personalities—persons who never give others a chance to know them.

Friendship is easy. It requires no especial beauty of face or figure, no certain scholastic standing, no measure of wealth, no bundle of talents. At democratic West Texas State it is easy to be well liked, simple to make friends, and hard to find a snob. A friend made now may mean happiness, a greater opportunity, or a chance to render a great service in the years ahead.

Friends are assets and no audit is required to realize the pleasure they bring. And since you are gathering assets at West Texas State for future use, why not open a friendship bank account. Deposit a few smiles, a slap on someone's back, a cheerful word or deed—today.

CAPITAL TO CAMPUS

By JAY RICHTER

ACP Washington Correspondent

For those who are wondering what to do during a war-time summer vacation, here's a suggestion: Check with your postoffice for tips from your nearest Civil Service field office on temporary jobs. In addition to whatever openings might normally appear, there are reports that offices of "decentralized" government agencies are short-handed. Hundreds of their employees elected to stay behind in over-crowded Washington rather than move into "the field."

Look for "reactivation" of CAA training programs in some 100 colleges and universities where the CAA program has been allowed to lapse. The expanded program for next year, announced recently by CAA and the War Department, will require use again of dormant college facilities, and possibly establishment of new ones, too. Goals are for an increase of 20,000 in both elementary and secondary training courses. Men who are accepted will acquire status as enlisted reserves in the air corps or will, on finishing, serve as CAA flying instructors.

Signs point to a major Washington effort to sell the University of Iowa's "Phoenix Fund" post-war scholarship plan to all U. S. colleges. If the idea can be "cleared through Treasury department bigwigs, the Department's Defense Savings section will attempt to get a national educator's committee to back the plan. This committee, in turn, would attempt to build up well-oiled organizations in colleges throughout the country this Spring and Summer—preparatory to a campaign spurge when Fall terms open.

Briefly, the Iowa plan provides that each student buy a 10-cent Defense Savings Stamp each week to build up post-war scholarship funds for students in the armed forces.

Treasury officials consider the plan the best collegiate stamp-selling idea to date, and frankly admit they have no suggestions for improvement. Credit for the original idea goes to Francis Weaver, first-year law student at Iowa.

Southern Girls Like West Texas

Alabama College Debaters Speak Brilliantly on Appearance at W. T.

By MAXINE RATTAN

Prairie Managing Editor

"This is a wonderful place. The students and professors are so friendly and everyone acts like he had known you for a long time. I like this school." So spoke Marjorie Stith of Alabama College's debate squad. She was approached during the pajama dance at Cousins Hall last week and before any questions could be asked she had handed out the above opinion.

She was the small, dark-haired one with brown eyes and a sweet smile. She didn't jitter-bug; only waltzed, so this gave the W. T. co-eds a chance to ask questions and hear that soft southern drawl. The others, Peggy Kirk, Sara Rumbley, and Sarah Peck Weaver, were jitter-bugging with the rest.

"The teachers are awfully nice about helping us make up our lessons," she said when asked what they did about studies while touring the country.

She said the enrollment of the college was about 900. It is situated at Montevallo, not far from Birmingham. On this trip they will pay visits to 17 colleges in 16 states and take in the Grand Canyon and Chicago while doing it.

The girls were required to take enough clothes to last a month and yet could take only one small suitcase each. This astonished all the girls, who know the enormous amount of paraphernalia essential on even a week-end trip. Two blondes and two brunettes balance the quartet, and one can see at a glance they are typical of the modern southern belle.

The pajama dance in Cousins Hall ballroom was in honor of the girls. They thought it was lots of fun and said they'd like to come back. In return, they entertained the girls with their pronunciation of "wuds."

Their next stop after W. T. was Albuquerque, and they left early the next morning after staying in Cousins Hall.

If any unusual southern accents were heard after last Tuesday evening, the phenomena can be attributed to the admiration of West Texas girls for that manner of speaking.

Scheduled to have two debates on the subject, "Resolved: That the Democracies Should Form a Federation to Establish and Maintain the Eight Churchill-Roosevelt Principles," there was only one. Nelle Moore of Amarillo on the W. T. team was ill; therefore one debate was cancelled.

Those who participated in the contest on the Alabama team were Sara Rumbley and Sarah Peck Weaver and on the W. T. squad were Gail Ross of Lubbock and Levenie Davis of Sparenburg. No decision was made as to a winner.

EARLY GIFT—

one of the most substantial made to the institution.

The Early home has many appointments which make it ideal for educational activities. The basement has been used as a gymnasium and recreation room. Dining and reception rooms on the first floor are large. Bedrooms on the second floor are large enough for small classrooms. A sleeping room with built-in beds could be quickly converted into a large lecture room. The third floor auditorium could be used for meetings, lectures, exhibits, plays, and similar activities. Dumbwaiter service makes it possible to serve meals on every floor.

The building has steel and brick construction. It faces westward on the corner of a property 210 by 140 feet. A tennis court is south of the residence, and there is a two-car garage, work room, and apartment at the rear of the lots.

Kitchen facilities are extensive. In the basement are a water softener, incinerator, and steam heater. Telephones connect each floor. Closets and bookcases are unusually large, and numerous.

Mr. and Mrs. Early will vacate the property in late summer.

The Board of Regents in session yesterday in Austin accepted the gift of the Allen Early home and expressed appreciation for the gift.

Henson Reported "Fine" After Recent Operation

Acting Business Manager during the absence of Vergil Henson is Jack Jouette.

Jouette reported that Mr. Henson was resting fine this week after a major operation. He will probably be in the hospital during the remainder of the week and will be confined at home after his release from the hospital.

The college orchestra had charge of the assembly program, Tuesday, March 24. The Italian Symphony by F. Mendelssohn was played. The orchestra is under the direction of Prof. Wallace R. Clark. There are approximately 20 members in the orchestra. They are now working on the "Pirate of Penzance" for Commencement Exercises.

A great novel is thrillingly brought to "life" in 20th Century-Fox's masterful film adaptation of Richard Llewellyn's famous best-seller, "How Green Was My Valley," at the Olympic Theatre, Sat. Midnight, Sunday and Monday. Walter Pidgeon and Maureen O'Hara top the featured cast which includes Donald Crisp, Anna Lee, Roddy McDawall, John Loder and Sara Allgood.

IN MEMORIAM TO MRS. PIERLE

THE AFTER-GLOW

She stood upon a cliff
And surveyed her universe.
Of her heart was saddened,
Because loyal, kind hands
Could not ascend.
Her soul has taken flight,
But there remains,
Like a beacon light,
The after-glow,
To guide her countless friends.
As I stood beside
That rose-covered chest,
She seemed to whisper,
"Not a petal, duty given,
But each a loving caress—farewell."
C. R. DeArmond.

There is hardly an adult in the United States who is not working more hours than he did before Pearl Harbor. That statement is true of the members of the History Department. Students are recognizing the significance of facts that have always been present in history. This reporter interviewed fourteen students who are taking history courses. Ten of them said they had experienced an increased desire to enroll in these courses because of the war. Two students said the war had not changed their attitude toward history and another first said that it hadn't and then decided that it had, after all. Another enrollee had decided that all history was the bunk, because every war changed it and one had to learn all over again.

Eugene Mielcarek answered this argument by saying, "No man who is ignorant of the past should be trusted with the future. Then too, in history we study social advancement, and certainly it will help us to be able to see that human progress prevails."

Tom Brooks said, "The study of history is showing the mistakes that brought on this war, and it helps us to be able to know how to solve the problems that will follow."

Dr. L. F. Sheffy, head of the History Department, and his colleagues are working overtime to meet this new interest in history courses. Dr. Ima C. Barlow is offering a course called "Background of World War No. 2."

Miss Barlow explained, "I interpret it as nearly as possible in the light of the present situation."

Dr. Hattie M. Anderson is doing research work in preparation for offering a course in "History of the Navy." This course will be offered for the first time during the summer session. It is thought that students who plan to go into the navy will find it especially suited to their interests.

Dr. Sheffy is offering, this semester, a course called "World War Issues and Post War Problems." He also meets a class of seventeen school teachers and townspeople of Amarillo once weekly. This course was offered to meet the demands of those interested in world affairs who were unable to attend college classes.

Mary Ethel Adams, '20, is now teaching mathematics in the junior high school at Electra.

Intra-Squad Track Timings Prepare Buffs for Tech Meet

McMahan Better Cactus Circuit Record in Preliminary Check Runs

Chances for a successful track season were rising this week as several new prospects donned Buffalo uniforms in preparation for their first meet which will be held in Lubbock April 11.

Although very bad weather conditions have prevailed during the past two weeks of training period, the men are getting into tip-top shape.

Weldon Dowlen, one of the new recruits to report, took the 120-yard high hurdles in 17.1 seconds.

Entered in the 220-yard event are Maek Winters, Curb, and McMahan. Maek Winters' time was 23.1. The Border Conference record in the 220-yard dash is 22.9, just .2 of a second faster than Winters' time.

McMahan Beats Record

The 100 yard dash was taken by McMahan with a time of 10.2 seconds. Following him are Stockman, Curb, Anderson, Pruitt, and Schultz. McMahan's record is 9.9; 2 seconds below Border Conference time last year.

In the distance events, Berl Clinton has cut the two mile run down to 11.44. This was only the second time he had tried this distance. Finishing the one half mile run was Tom Brooks, who was clocked in first attempt at 2.16 seconds.

Reed In Weight Division

Competing in the weight contests in the shotgun department, Olin Reed took that one with a 38 feet 1 inch heave, while Joed Forbus placed second with 37 feet 2 inches, followed by Frank Stockman with 36 feet 8 inches.

Reed was also first in the discus throw with 115 feet 9 inches. Forbus was second with 114 feet 10 inches; Stockman, 103 feet 6 inches; C. Shultz, 100 feet 8 inches.

The first trial they will get will be when they go to the tri-school affair between Tech, Hardin-Simmons and West Texas State held on the Tech campus, April 11.

Brookfield And Halbert Shine

Although the team on which they were playing lost by two points, All-American Price Brookfield and 6 foot 10 inch Charlie Halbert of West Texas State College were standouts on the All-Star team which played a crack Army team in Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

The tournament all-stars were selected from the eight teams participating in the fifth annual Invasion College basketball tourney that was finished last week.

Brookfield came in to start the second half and in the first four minutes had poured in 10 points before the Army team could get started. When "Brookie" left the game, his team was leading 51 to 49, with six minutes left to play.

Six minutes was long enough, however, for the Army team to recuperate and to ease by the All-Star bunch, 57 to 59.

Although big Charlie Halbert was responsible for only one point, he saved at least eight or ten points in his under-the-basket work.

College Play's Reception Good

Students Praise Drama As Best of Year—Audience Large Each Night

By DOROTHY WARWICK

"Alison's House" was enthusiastically received Wednesday and Thursday nights when the Speech Department of the College presented the play before large audiences. Seldom has such praise been given a college play.

Students and others were delighted by the production which portrayed life during the last days of the 19th century. Typical reactions from students included: "Alison's House was by far the best production of the department. . . . This play was more on the college level than most. . . . All actors were at their best."

The play centered around the pathetic figure of Aunt Agatha, portrayed by Inez Franz. Symbolizing the century, the old lady passed away the last day in order to stay in that period. Old and childish, she could not understand why she should be moved to Father Stanhope's place. It only meant that she would have to leave Alison. Because of this situation, it was a blessing when she died on the last day of the century.

Professor Is Actor

Father Stanhope, played by Prof. James Butler, presented an old gentleman of the last century who did not believe in showing his love. Professor Butler did a superb job as the father who was sick of the affairs of his family. His quick comebacks at Louise and his rebuffs of Ted made the picture complete.

Elsa and Louise, played by Grace Rogers and Nancy Colly, took honors with their acting. Elsa, portrayed as a girl who disgraced her family, came back to see the house once more. Louise was the stabilizing force of the family, but she seemed a little hard-hearted to the others. Her erect body and the way she held her head and hands made her seem all the more dominating.

Dorothea Harter as Ann, Stanhope's Secretary, depicted the new generation with ideas somewhat different from those of Father Stanhope. Through Alison, she found her lover, Knowles, played by Joe Crisler. Knowles came to Alison's House to get a story about Alison and her poems.

Hilarious laughter greeted the two hillbillies, Mr. and Mrs. Hodges, played by Joe Davidson and Eileen McCall. Ted, the youngest of the family, furnished family humor in his attempt to get through college on Alison's name.

Jennie, the maid, had taken care of Alison and Aunt Agatha. Now that they are both gone, the old, stern, doubled-over woman seems at a loss for something to do. Jennie was played by Imogene Robinson.

The costumes and setting corresponded to the nineteenth century. The women wore high-necked dresses with bustles in the back. Tight legged trousers, high stiff collars, derby hats, ruffled shirt and sleeves and cutaway coats portrayed the costumes of the men. Ted's loud checked suit matched his red hair.

Light sifted through the windows making the room sunny at 3 o'clock in the afternoon in one act. The fire from the fireplace played on the furniture, making a soft glow over the room. Through the old high-paneled double doors with the paint peeling off, the characters drifted to make a lively story of Emily Dickinson's family. Old pictures and an old trunk completed the picture of the old-fashioned living room.

New Lights for Library Here

Something new has been added. The Business Office and offices of the President were outfitted last week with new, modern fluorescent lighting equipment.

Five new appliances were installed in the Business Offices and four in the two offices of President Hill.

Seven or eight more such appliances have been here several days and will be added to the two already installed in the library as soon as possible.

The office of the Business Manager was remodeled and "got out of jail" when the old-fashioned bars were removed last week.

Other construction and improvement work on the campus is also in vivid evidence. Walks in front of the Phebe K. Warner Home Management House and north towards the Pueblo Courts have been completed. Work is under way to finish sidewalks across the low area between the Pueblos and the campus proper.

The drive in front of the Administration building will be finished in from a week to ten days and similar paving construction is being done between the Pueblos and the Home Management House.

TRAILIN' the Herd

By STUART CONDRON

Tire shortage won't hamper Berl Clinton this year. Anywhere he decides to go he will just hoof it. That is to be taken literally . . . for, the other day in track, Coach Van Meter told Clinton to warm up a little and before the other boys could get him stopped, the guy had beat it around the quarter-mile oval 32 times. If my algebra stands me right, that happens to be somewhere around eight miles.

It seems that three games were not enough for the basketball fans in New York. The Buffaloes have accepted an invitation to return to the Garden next January. . . . Also in the news is the fact that All-American, Price Brookfield and towering Charlie Halbert were elected to play on the recent Metropolitan Tournament's All-Star team. The Buffs were the only team to place two men on this squad of eight.

If a person would stop and say more than a "Hello" to one of the 17 basketball players who have just returned from New York, he would be in for a complete 30-minute discourse on everything from New York glamour girls to how 6 foot 10 inch Charlie Halbert can sleep in a 6-foot Pullman berth . . . but from the two and three column stories that were wired back by John McCarty, you can readily see just how and why the boys were so enthusiastic over the whole thing.

If any student would wish to know more of the general construction of the Statute of Liberty, I suggest that you see Ralph Davis. He has become an authority on the subject.

League Meet on April 17-18 to Be Staged Here

District events of the Interscholastic League will be held on the campus on April 17 and 18.

Track preliminaries, however, will begin at 10 a. m. April 18 and the finals will follow at 2 p. m.

The one-act play contest will be held here on Thursday, April 16, according to Prof. F. E. Savage, director general. The regional one-act play contest will be held April 24.

Regional literary and track and field events will be run off on one day, April 25.

Despite difficulties of transportation, the League events will be held as usual.

Best Season Now at Close

Another Tall Team Is In Sight—And Another Journey to East

West Texas State's tall Buffaloes, champions of the Border Conference, are back to normalcy—and home—at the conclusion of their most impressive basketball season.

That is, all of them except Coach All Baggett, All American Price Brookfield, and 6 foot 10 inch Charles Halbert, center. These two aces remained in New York to play in an all-star game at Madison Square Garden. After participating in the Metropolitan tournament, the West Texans saw their popularity proved and their high standing firmed as coach Baggett signed contracts for games in New York, Buffalo, and Philadelphia next January.

This season the Buffs won 28 games and lost three. They amassed 2185 points, averaging 70.4 points a game. Opponents made 1349 points for an average of 43 points a game. Brookfield set a new national single season scoring mark with 520 points. Other leading point makers were Jack Maddox, 345; Frank Stockman, 332; Charles Halbert, 277; and W. Stockman, 246.

The Stockman brothers, of Malta Bend, Mo., divided honors as Captain Frank was voted the most valuable player by teammates and William was elected captain for next season. William will be the only starter returning next season, but powerful reserves and freshmen will give West Texas State another tall and formidable outfit.

High points in this season included road trips into Old Mexico, the middle west, and two trips to New York City. The Buffs won every game in the strong Border Conference, taking sixteen straight. The three losses were to Bradley Tech, Long Island University, and Creighton.

The yearbook of the Dalhart Contemporary Study Club has recently been received by the Bureau of Public Service. Exes whose names were recognized included Mary Joe Gates Foote, '34; Margaret Peery, '36; Ruth Burtz Schubert, '36; Pauline Swofford; Polly Anna Pitts Kimmins, '35; and Marie Park Reynolds, '34. The club meets bi-monthly and is devoted to study and community service.

Graves Now Training Cadets

Former Buffalo Star Is Physical Director for Lubbock Air School

B. C. Graves, former Buffalo star football and baseball player, is director of physical training for cadets at the Lubbock flying school—an Army establishment.

For fifteen years he had been head coach at Sul Ross State. He had military experience in World War I as a member of the naval reserve unit at Texas A. & M. He later attended West Point for a year. Recently he obtained a private pilot's license.

Now for an hour each day Graves is putting aviation cadets at the Lubbock Army Flying School through a series of conditioning exercises he has developed out of his own experience—exercises which he believes will keep them in the tip-top physical condition demanded of them. And by keeping them up and dressed in a flying suit, the nation's battle to "Keep 'em Flying."

First of all, he has designed his physical training program to relieve nervous tension. Besides that it is intended to build organic power, stamina, endurance, teamwork, morale and cooperation.

Calisthenics of the coordination type, aimed at all-round physical development, is elementary in this program. The rest is group activity—softball, volleyball and the like. And the ultimate product of all is physical balance.

"For it's not the muscle, but rhythm and coordination that counts in a flyer," Graves contends.

Jones, Skeen, Matlock, Kirkpatrick, and Lovelady To Represent West Texas

The West Texas State tennis team will match rackets with the netters from Texas Mines Thursday morning and afternoon in the first match of the season for the Maroon and White.

Under the tutorship of Coach W. H. Ball, who is a chemistry professor at Mines, the boys from the sandy country will arrive here Wednesday night after meeting other Border Conference teams on their way to the Panhandle.

Matches will commence between 9 and 10 o'clock Thursday morning, Coach Jack Jouette announced today.

The five netmen from here who will probably oppose the Miners are Bobby Skeen, Clark Jones, Gerald Matlock, Rex Lovelady, and Duncan Kirkpatrick.

Jouette said that Mines team is one with a seasoned record and would probably be "hot." Students are invited and urged to watch these tennis matches.

Two doubles matches and either four or five singles matches will be played.
