

Foster Melodies In Band Program

Prof. C. E. Strain To Direct Commencement
Concert Monday Night

A collection of Stephen Foster's melodies will comprise a Buffalo Band special commencement week concert Monday night expected to be of much interest to students.

Prof. C. E. Strain will conduct the program in front of the Administration Building at 7:30 p. m. Opens Commencement Week.

This program is the official opening of commencement week. Buffalo Band has presented an outdoor concert annually for 20 years. More than fifty members will don uniforms for this finale program for the band.

On Tuesday night, May 29, the combined Women's and Men's choruses accompanied by the College Orchestra are to give Wagner's "Lohengrin." Many Panhandle music lovers will come to Canyon for this second musical concert in honor of graduating seniors.

Clark's Baton Leads

The combined musicians will be led by Prof. Wallace R. Clark's baton. For many years this annual spring festival concert has been given on Tuesday night of commencement week.

Highlight of the instrumental half of the program will be the performance of Mozart's Piano Concerto in D Minor, featuring Marjorie Reeve as a piano soloist.

Bremer Receives Epsilon Beta Honor Award

Neville Bremer was to be presented with the Epsilon Beta award for the outstanding male student of the year this morning in assembly. The announcement came from a faculty committee of seven which was picked to select an honoree.

This award, the third to be given by the Betas, was the first of its kind to be granted by the college. The student is selected for scholarship, leadership, and character.

Ardis Patman, Spanish professor in the college, was the first to receive this award. T. S. Stevenson, now teaching in Portales, N. M., was the recipient last year.

The award, a plaque similar to the Pi Omega award, was presented by James Harrison, a member of the Epsilon Beta club.

West Texas In Position For New Building—Hill

West Texas State is in a good position to obtain a new major building when the Legislature resumes a building program for state educational institutions, in the opinion of Dr. J. A. Hill.

Dr. Hill attended a meeting of state college presidents and boards of regents in Houston Friday and Saturday. Routine business was transacted, faculties were approved, and budgets were studied.

The Teachers College board of regents passed a resolution thanking Judge J. D. Hamlin of Farwell for his gift of paintings and art objects to the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society Museum here.

Fees For Annual Are Due Today

Deadline for payment of space fees for Le Mirage, college yearbook, will be 5 p. m. today. Margaret E. Hill, business manager of the annual, has announced. Books will not be issued to students who have not paid their space fees.

Issuing of the books will begin promptly at 1 o'clock on Thursday, said Sam D. Burton, editor.

No space fees are to be accepted after today until next Monday. Burton stressed the fact that no club member would get a book until the club space fees have been paid.

Books will be issued at the publications office, and students are being urged to form a line toward the west end of the building.

DUFLOT HEADS CHICAGO EXES

J. L. Duflot, professor of sociology has been named president of the newly-formed Panhandle Alumni Association of the University of Chicago. Other officers elected were Miss Bertie Wine, vice president, and Mrs. Jack L. Hough, secretary-treasurer.

Nellie Grady, '39, has been elected to teach home economics in the Lakeview Public Schools next year. She has been teaching in the Ranchvale School, Clovis, N. M., this year.

Brickrieg Promises Addition To Campus Museum

More room for display of interesting material stored at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society Museum is an objective of a lightning "brickrieg" originated by John McCarty, Amarillo News associate publisher, who is chairman of the common brick committee. The new addition would cover the main unit basement of the main entrance building shown in the top view. Dr. J. A. Hill, right, in the center of the panel, is second vice-president of the Society, and Dr. L. F. Sheffy, left, is executive secretary. Lower photo is an interior view.

Brickrieg Approaches Objective

Boys' Home Economics Course Initiated in 14 High Schools

Miss Gladys Armstrong, coordinator in homemaking education, is interested in helping graduating home economics students secure positions in schools of this area. Her purpose is to give information as to vacancies and prevailing conditions. After the teacher has been placed, she attempts to assist in her program planning.

Miss Armstrong is coordinator for Area I, which includes 31 counties. The purpose of her work is to co-operate with all county, state, and public school agencies of homemaking and home improvement. This means working with the home economics departments of high schools and colleges, the Farm Security Administration, the county agents, and the home demonstration agents.

Seeks to Contact Homes

Her principal aim is to bring these agencies in closer connection with each other and to touch all the homes in the counties of her district. There are ten such coordinators in Texas. Miss Armstrong says she has attended both southern and western meetings of such agents and noted that Texas has shown more outstanding improvement than any other state in these regions.

Home Economics For Boys

One of the most interesting phases of her work is the introduction into high school of boys' home economics. The boys' program is planned particularly for the part the boys will have in homemaking. Of the 91 schools, 14 have instituted this new class.

Year-Round Program Started

Another portion of the coordinating work is the introduction of year-round programs in the senior and junior high school home economics plans. Fifty-nine schools have adopted this plan in Area I. The home economics teacher is employed for one month longer, but her work extends through all the summer months. It includes supervision of the girls' projects throughout June, July, and August. Last summer there were completed reports.

Review Given Of Broadcasts

"A Yearbook of the Air" was the theme of the College broadcast from the campus studio last night at 7:30 o'clock. It was made up of parts from the series of the year's programs.

In addition to the review of the activities of the year, Elizabeth Wood, "Student of the Week," was interviewed. The College Dixie Land Quintet furnished music for the period. The band featured Houston Bright at the piano, Raymond Raillard swinging the tenor saxophone, Earl Wilbur on the trumpet, Victor Williams and his clarinet, and Ernest Scheihagen slapping his bass violin.

Weekly features, which include the news and campus fashions, were a part of the program.

More than half of the brick needed to complete the second unit of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society Museum have been collected.

Announcement of the half-way mark came after the ball game last night which was termed "Brickrieg at Malin Field." The objective is 250,000 brick.

It became a Panhandle-wide program a few days after inauguration by John McCarty, associate publisher of the Amarillo News, who is chairman of the common brick committee.

Alamo Exposition, a carnival show in Amarillo, last week, provided 12,000. The Amarillo Maverick Club has collected perhaps as many.

Yesterday was brickrieg in Dalhart, and Friday was recognized over the Panhandle as a day for brick collecting. Cooperation of organizations and individuals is shown by the 125,000 total collected in ten days.

"The campaign Friday and Saturday resulted in the collection of several thousand old brick, and money was donated also with which several thousand can be purchased," Dr. L. F. Sheffy said yesterday. "We would like to thank the students and faculty of the College, Demonstration School, the Public Schools, and the citizens of Canyon who responded so liberally," he added.

Dr. Sheffy, executive secretary of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society, explained that much favorable publicity is being given the Museum. One California newspaper and radio station carried a report of the Brickrieg.

The committee is hoping to complete the campaign by June 1. The committee also wishes to have the name of every donor of brick, and (See BRICKRIEG, page 4)

Opportunities to explore the rich possibilities for creative work in art, offered by the high plains of Texas, will be numerous at the Palo Duro School of Art opening here June 4.

Picturesque Buffalo Courts, the home of West Texas State College athletes, is being made ready for the summer art colony. The big recreation hall will be the studio.

GEORGE STOKES
Virginia Lee Fortenberry and George Stokes will take leading roles in "Monterey in May," senior play, which will be seen by play-goers Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Entertain Visitors—
Plant Is Inspected

More than 400 county and home demonstration agents and farm women attended the one-day short course sponsored by the College home economics department Wednesday.

Miss Margaret Barrett, head of the home economics department, and Miss Elizabeth Cox, associate professor in the department, presided at a reception in the dining room on the third floor of the Administration Building.

A general assembly at 10:30 o'clock followed the reception. Mrs. Curtis Roach of Perryton, District One vice-chairman, presided. Mrs. J. A. Hill gave the address of welcome and Mrs. Glenn Dowlen of Canyon responded.

"Organization Relationships" was the subject of Miss Helen Swift, sociologist of Texas A. & M. College at College Station.

May Comedy To Be Staged Twice

Stokes and Fortenberry
Have Leads in Fred
Short's Monterey Drama

Private life of a foreign correspondent could picture an adventure or two.

Especially if the reporter wished inspiration for a column in Esquire Magazine.

Henry Travers, foreign reporter who thoroughly enjoys his adventures "in every port," is similarly presented in "Monterey in May," a senior class production to be seen for the first time tomorrow night.

It is an original play written especially for the senior class annual production by Fred Short, Jr., senior student from Amarillo. Adapted for production by Mrs. Baxter M. Geeting, the three-act play will be shown a second time on Thursday night. It is scheduled to open at 8:15 o'clock in the auditorium of the Education Building. Tale of Romance Entitled "Monterey in May" because of the correspondent's tale of romance in the historic Mexican town in May, the comedy is made timely with several Leap Year situations.

A surprise in the prologue starts the action in France, Sweden, and England. But the major part of the play has its setting in Monterey.

Stokes In Lead
George Stokes of Plainview shares lead honors with Virginia Lee Fortenberry of Wellington. Stokes is the adventuring writer, and Miss Fortenberry, his American fiancée.

Entrance of German spies promises more timeliness. Anticipation is aroused with the announcement that Bill "Dutch" Longbine of Claude and R. W. Bingham of Clarendon are cast as the "Fatherland" stooges. Der fueher, Adolf Hitler, comes in for a little fun poking.

Carolyn Mayfield, Fred Hart, Bomar Brown, Lannie Line, Sam Burton, Wayndon Fain, all of Canyon; Joan Reynolds of Alamosa, Colo.; Elizabeth Wood of Borger and Frances Campbell of Wildorado complete the cast.

Miss Scheihagen Receives P. O. Honor Award

La Nelle Scheihagen of Hereford, was scheduled to receive the Pi Omega Award for the Outstanding Senior Girl in assembly this morning.

Miss Scheihagen, a music major, is a member of the Madrigal Club, the girls' sextette, Buffalo Band, Women's Chorus, Methodist Church Choir, and Alpha Chi. She has been president of the Young Women's Christian Association this year. Annette White, president of Pi Omega, was to make the award.

Registrar D. A. Shirley was scheduled to explain the standards by which the honoree was selected. Scholarship, leadership, character, and service are the basis for the award.

Charlotte Alice Tubb of Canadian, who has been teaching in Portales, N. M., this year received the award last year.

After the award, Ruth Hill, next year's president of Pi Omega, was to give Dr. L. F. Sheffy money for twelve gold brick for the museum.

Seniors Exams To Be Thursday and Friday

Final exams for seniors will be given at regular class periods Thursday and Friday, Dr. R. P. Jarrett, dean of the College, said yesterday.

"Graduating seniors may be exempted from final examinations provided grades are B or better in the last nine semester hours of work, and provided it is satisfactory with the instructors concerned," Dr. Jarrett said.

Seniors Will Rehearse Commencement Program

All seniors who are to graduate in the spring are asked to meet in the auditorium of the Administration Building at 4:30 p. m., Saturday, Registrar D. A. Shirley, said.

"If you cannot be there, please send an understudy," Mr. Shirley said. Rehearsals for the Sunday and Thursday commencement week programs will be at that time.

If The Shoe Fits

The approach of final exams renews a pet gripe of ours. Examinations prove the anatomy of the gripe to be composed of four members, to wit:

(1) There are the critters who "never cheat on exams" themselves. Of course, they don't mind supplying information and helping someone else cheat. Thus, if they would know the truth, they become cheaters themselves.

(2) The next group is made up of those who do the actual stealing on the tests. It may seem that word stealing ought to be put in quotes. We don't feel that way about it.

(3) Some so-called teachers allow cheating. That is, they shut their eyes to it, because it's too much trouble to root it out. This should put them in a class with Fagan, who conducted the school for pickpockets.

(4) Finally, an occasional instructor aids and abets cheating. There's only one way to consider such a person. They are not mere thieves and trainers of thieves—they are guilty of treason to their profession.

We would like to be able to say that none of the types exist in W. T. Or failing of that, that only a few of the first or second groups are to be found. That would be a lie. There are definitely some who fall into each of the four groups who are now in W. T.

To those who find themselves classified above, our compliments, and the statements still stand.

—Jim Bugental.

Spy Hunt—Death of Liberal Ideas

The President's message of last Thursday, in which he requested a tremendously increased military capacity and demanded that all subversive activities be suppressed, was a reflection on the wave of hysterical and unreasoning that has spread over the country since the beginning of the recent Nazi successes.

This fear undoubtedly has its basis in the belief that the "blitzkrieg" might be extended to American shores in the near future. Since such a development is not outside the realm of possibility, there is some merit in the demand for a huge military expansion and for the elimination of all Fifth Column activities. However, the wild acclaim with which the President's proposal is being accepted has an ominous note in that the public seems blithely unaware of the seriousness of the problems that will come as a corollary to the president's plan.

We hardly need to point out here that such an armament program will mean either more taxes than the American people have ever dreamed of paying until now, or crushing addition to the already huge national debt; that it will set the stage for wild inflation and a possible collapse of the present monetary system; that either the public is likely to get very little return in protection from the money spent (witness the disappointing results of the millions spent for military purposes in recent years, as revealed by a preliminary Congressional investigation), or that the government will have to institute measures of control that will make it almost impossible for private industry to survive; that an armament economy is easy to start and hard to stop; and that the engaging of our natural resources in such a non-productive enterprise can result only in a lowered standard of living for the population as a whole.

There are indications that many of the American people are at least vaguely aware of these things, and are willing to make the sacrifice for the sake of national defense. There is much less to indicate that the public is aware of the dangers inherent in a drive to rid the country of Fifth Column activities. Assuredly every effort should be made to rid the country of foreign spies; but when the program is enlarged to include "all agitators who seem to poison the public mind" (quoted from Representative Martin Dies) then indeed we have a real threat to the freedom of speech.

No two men will agree as to just what constitutes poisoning the public mind and engaging in unpatriotic activities; and the men of limited capacity who will engage in searching for "un-American activities" are certain to be guided by personal prejudices. Little by little the program is likely to change from a search for spies into a persecution of those who express ideas uncomfortable to men in positions of power.

The colleges will be one of the first places to come under suspicion for unpatriotic tendencies. Speeches of professors will be studied for indications of foreign propaganda, with the "patriot" putting his own interpretation on phrases that might seem suspicious.

The armament program, for better or for worse, is already beyond the control of the people and will be enacted regardless of any opposition that might now develop. The program for the elimination of foreign propaganda is just getting under way, and will become

WHAT ABOUT IT

Hic never could see—until recently—how a large army and navy could insure peace. It always seemed that it would be an encouragement to aggressiveness. The newscast tells of the students of the University of Missouri taking a public stand in that line.

But notice, that was "until recently." What about now, May, 1940?

It's Hic's personal opinion that we had better take on that terrific national debt and get as large an army and navy as is reasonably possible as quick as it can be done.

What do you say?

SADDLED WITH DEBT

Did you notice in the movie "Geronimo" the discussion of the expense of supporting the Indians? It sounded a lot like some of our present discussions of W. P. A., rearmaments, etc.

And it is a problem. How much should be spent to insure domestic peace without over-running necessity in the national debt?

$2,000,000,000

Look at them goose-eggs!

That's what the expenditures for our arms program will amount to if all the present, scattered proposals are accepted. It's an expensive gamble. But personally, Hic thinks peace and the things we've got here in America are worth it.

Still one can't help figuring what advances might be made in science, education, medicine, the arts or most any and all other fields if that money could be devoted to such purposes.

Buddy, can you spare a nickle for a coke?

SOME JOHN "BULL"

A story from London by United Press:

Sir Frederick Whyte, director of the American division of the ministry of information, said in a speech today: "The best we can do is to hold our tongues, hope for the best, and preserve our patience in the belief that in the last resort, the United States will be standing where we want them."

Hic wonders where the United States will be standing "in the last resort?"

JIG SAWS

Fit the above news-clipping in with the following: A German short wave announcer gave this summary last week. The English method of fighting is to delay for as long a time as possible. During the period of delay they seek to enlist the sympathies, if not the support, of all the neutral nations. When this is accomplished they precipitate a major pitched battle. No matter what the cost previously, they make it their point to win this decisive battle and impose their will.

Hic can see no better way of enlisting American support than to play the part of that American favorite, the underdog. It is possible that the English now feel that the United States is standing where they want us?

Of course, another side of the situation was presented by the German announcer. They are seeking to keep the war open on as many fronts as possible to prevent any decisive battle from occurring.

Of course, we Americans find their love of efficiency and clever strategy available to appeal to. Could the Germans likewise be seeking to have the United States standing where they want it?

DISPENSEME USTEDES

Hic Jacet's own Fifth Column turned in some "Quotes from the Profs." A couple of interesting campus stories are available.

But Hic is suffering from an over-dose of war news and can't get off the subject right now. In so doing he is probably aiding the cause he hates, at least George Eliot would seem to think so:

War like other dramatic spectacles might possibly cease for want of an audience.

But someone needs to remind Hitler of an old German proverb:

A great war leaves the country with three armies—an army of cripples, an army of mourners, and an army of thieves.

A PATRIOTIC CREED FOR SANE AMERICANS

I BELIEVE in the United States of America as a representative democracy typifying man's search for the ideal in human law and order.

I BELIEVE in the sacredness of the boundaries of the United States of America as typifying the theoretical and actual limits of our democracy. In respect to this sacredness I believe these boundaries should never be crossed by armed forces, either of other nations seeking to impose their will upon the United States, or of the United States seeking to impose its will on other nations.

I BELIEVE in the divine right of nations of men to plan their own courses of life whether that course be democracy, monarchy or dictatorship.

I BELIEVE that it is the duty of every sane American to follow the dictates of his own belief to the extent of actively opposing any attempt to override those beliefs.

what the people make it. We should exert our influence to see that it is a hunt for foreign spies, and not a hunt for liberal ideas.

Elizabeth Wood Student of Week

A student talented in speech arts was interviewed in the campus broadcast Monday evening as "Student of the Week." She was Elizabeth Wood, a spring graduate whose home is in Borger.

Elizabeth's major is speech, which she plans to teach next year. She is looking forward to getting a Master's Degree in speech. She participated in many of the radio skits sponsored by the drama class and has been in all the leading college plays this year: "Mr. Pim Passes By," "The Unguarded Hour," and "Monterey in May."

Collecting Chinese wood carvings is Elizabeth's favorite hobby. She expresses her like for pretty clothes but definitely dislikes persons with squeaky voices.

She is a member and business manager of the Dramatics Club and the Alpha Psi Omega, secretary to Y. W. C. A., member of the Forum organization, chairman of the drama committee in the Methodist Church, and is a member of "Who's Who among Students in American Colleges and Universities."

Elizabeth plans to do dramatic work in the Pasadena Playhouse in California during the summer.

Shop Ready For New Instructor

Pending the arrival of an instructor, who is to be selected soon, the aviation shop work of the local NYA unit has been halted. Immediately following his arrival the work will begin. Twenty-four men are eager to start the course.

Fifteen hundred hours of shop work will be required for completion of the course in aviation mechanics. Five hundred hours will be given in the local shops. The remainder will be acquired in a senior unit of shop work located somewhere in Texas.

Twenty-four boys of the local NYA unit have been selected to enter the mechanics course.

On the visits were Prof. S. H. Condrion, Dr. Baxter M. Geeting, Ulane Zeek, Association President; George Stokes, Elizabeth Wood, and Virginia Vaughan.

Happy, Claude, Wayside, Hale Center, and Clarendon high schools have sent visitors to the campus recently following invitations from the Association.

Termites Lead Intramural Race In Finals

Firecrackers Place Second

Aggies Push Winners For Track Meet in Decision Wednesday

By DELBERT McGUIRE
Consistent wins through the year brought the intramural title to the Termites last week as they led the Number 2 team, the Firecrackers, by 7 points.

Scores for the season are: Termites, 35; Firecrackers, 28; NYA Terrapins, 25; Bachelors Hall, 21; T-Anchor Aggies, 20; Wildcats, 19. Fifteen teams competed in the contests this year, and a total of 254 boys have taken an active part in them.

A first place in the track events Wednesday made the Termites the definite victors in the year's program of intramurals. The T-Anchor Aggies pressed the Termites in the track and field contests, trailing the winners by 2 points.

Brown Wins 100 Yard Run
In the 100-yard dash, the Firecrackers took first place when E. Brown broke the tape at 11 seconds flat. Bill McWhirter, a Termite, was a step behind Brown with Fred Farmer, a T-Anchor man and Harold Shoulders, a Bachelor, trailing.

The 220-yard dash was won by Alva Thornburg, a T-Anchor Aggie, who stepped the distance off in 25 seconds. He was followed by Weldon Dowlin, Termite, Tom Brooks, a Firecracker, and Earl "Torchy" Walker, a Press Club member.

Aggies Win Relay
In the 880-yard relay, a race in which four contestants ran 220 yards each before handing the baton to his teammate, was won by the T-Anchor Aggies, the Firecrackers taking second place, and the NYA team and the Termites finished third and fourth, respectively. The time was 1 minute, 42 seconds.

Elver Brown led his team to victory in the 50-yard dash when he was clocked at 6 seconds. J. V. Langford, a Galloping Terrapin, was the second man to cross the tape. Bill McWhirter came in third and Warren Driver of the T-Anchor Aggies was fourth.

Dowlin Takes Broad Jump
Weldon Dowlin won the broad jump easily by sailing through the air 21 feet, 7 inches. Dowlin represented the Termites. Warren Driver, T-Anchor representative, was second; Rayford Pounds, NYA representative was third, and R. E. Sanders of the Firecrackers was fourth.

Harold Shoulders of Bachelors Hall won the high jump with the standards at 5 feet, 8 inches. Weldon Dowlin, a Termite, was second and Billy Walker, a Firecracker, was third. Herschel Singleton, a Wildcat, Torchy Walker, a Bullshooter, and Bonnie Lemons, NYA man, tied

Canyon Coach

ERNEST SCHUR

Schur Will Be Canyon Coach

Ernest Schur, captain of the "Tallest Basketball Team in the World" during the last season, has been elected instructor and coach of athletics at Canyon High School.

Schur lettered in football in his sophomore year but Coach Al Baggett reserved him for basketball during the last two seasons. He is a member of the T-Club. He is to graduate this month with Business Administration as his subject.

Coach Baggett has called Schur "the best basketball captain I have ever had."

for fourth place each receiving one-third of a point on their total.

A Bachelor Hall representative, Curtis Thaxton, won first in the discus throwing when he tossed it 90 feet to win. Horace Gordon of the Termites was second. Third place was won by Bonnie Lemons and fourth place by Kenneth Smith, a Firecracker.

Free-Lancer Wins Shot
The shot put contest, which was the final event on the intramural program, was won by a free-lancer. Sidney Burgess, who did not represent a team, threw the 16-pound cannon ball 36 feet, 3 inches. Earl Coley, representing NYA, was second and Curtis Thaxton of the Bachelors was third. Luther Archer of the Termites won fourth place.

The educational clinic of College of the city of New York has trained 22,000 "problem" children since its founding in 1913.

Buffalo Wallow

"THERE AIN'T NO FLIES ON ME . . ."

Buffalo cagers completed their floor polishing Thursday afternoon when Coach Al Baggett told them, "that's all." . . . Headed by 6 foot, 10 inch Charlie Halbert, tallest regular in the world, Price Brookfield, flashy forward, and Frank Stockman, sophomore ace, the Buffs are slated for one of the best seasons in the history of the school . . . several newcomers also boost the Buffaloes' possibilities.

DID YOU KNOW
That the University of Iowa officials have not taken the score down since Iowa handed the University of Minnesota Gophers their defeat last November 18. They must think a lot of this victory. . . . That of 114 boys in the Chicago White Sox baseball roundup farm at Jonesboro, Ark., 51 listed themselves as hurlers. Only six of them wanted to become shortstops. . . . That since Lou Ambers' defeat in the "Garden" recently, Lew Jenkins has been called one of the greatest lightweight fighters ever to pull on the "mittens"—he hails from Sweetwater. Before his fight with Ambers he was rated with the lowest of the "punks." Some experts even say that he will beat Henry Armstrong's head in so far that Henry can't hear anything but footsteps. . . . Even now, after their longest slump in the history of the club, Manager Joe McCarthy and his world champion Yankees say that they will be in first place by August . . . just for your benefit—they are tailing the American League now.

OR THAT
Ernest Schur, 1940 captain of the "Tallest Team On Earth," has been selected as coach of athletics at Canyon High School . . . or that Jack Edmondson, Buffalo gridster, has been elected to a teaching and coaching position in the Pampa schools.

FOOTBALL ETIQUETTE
A football victory isn't a gift—By being polite you must earn it. Remember your manners when taking a punt; Be courteous, men, and return it.

Be careful, as well, of the health of your foe, Whenever he's running around. And if he's dashing too far with the ball, Induce him to lie on the ground.

The way to induce him to lie on the ground, Is to give him a loving embrace, And then, after hoisting him high in the air, Deposit him on his face.

When running the end, let no man interfere, No matter how hard he may try Just throw out your arm in a courteous way, With the heel of your hand in his eye.

A lineman gets weary of standing all day—He's likely to fret and to frown. Invite him with gestures that speak for themselves To be at his ease and sit down.

Remember these courteous rules, my lads, Good manners are always worth while; It pays to defeat your opponent with tact, And send him home with a smile. —Swiped.

Service of evening prayer will be held Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the local Episcopal Church. The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. J. R. Kittenger.

ARMSTRONG

ports on 1300 projects out of 91 high schools.

The projects include such phases of homemaking and home improvement as gardening, bedroom improvement, canning, meal planning, yard improvement, and furniture repairing. At the close of the summer, the girls sponsor an achievement day in which the projects are shown and demonstrated.

Exchange Classes Initiated

There have also been started the new idea of boys' and girls' exchange classes in home economics and agriculture. This is to bring the two departments closer together. It is arranged so the boys may have two or three weeks of home economics and the girls may study appropriate parts of agriculture. Miss Armstrong said that this is one of the most progressive parts of her program. So far, 25 schools have begun this plan and many others have made arrangements to begin next year.

Miss Armstrong seeks to help the college department of home economics in all the programs and activities it sponsors. Through the wide contact with the various schools in the counties, the coordinator is able to give much assistance to the girls, as well as the supervisors. Her headquarters is at West Texas State.

Early Newspapers Given to Museum

Copies of the Panhandle's first newspaper, the Clarendon News, dated October 15, 1880 and December 23, 1881, have come to the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society through the Pampa Daily News from E. E. Carhart of Panhandle, the former publisher.

The old papers were given Olin E. Hinkle, director of journalism, while he was in Gray County on a visiting-speaking trip last week.

Originally the Clarendon News was printed in Oshkosh, Wis., from copy prepared at Clarendon. The printed papers were sent by express to Sherman and from there to their final destination by stage.

The almost priceless old papers tell of the passing of the buffalo, doings on the ranches, gossip from the East, Indians, prohibition, and lodge and church meetings. Political comment required much space. Featured on the first page were the words, "Christianity, Temperance, Civilization—Westward." An editorial on education was begun with the following paragraph:

"Education is the drawing out of the mind. A true education is the complete development of all the faculties of the intellectual nature. True culture implies more than education; it is the proper development of all the faculties of mind and heart. Education and culture are not, therefore, synonymous."

TOP-RANKING TRANSFER

Ann Mohler of Galveston, former W. T. co-ed who is attending Sam Houston State, made the highest grade achieved by transfers, according to information received this week. She made an all-A record. While here she became a member of Alpha Chi. She will receive the B. S. degree in home economics at Huntsville Monday.

Dr. Baxter Geeting gave the commencement address at Olton, Friday night. His speech was "Forty-one Graduates in Search of New Horizons." He gave an illustration the story of the country of the blind, familiar to many W. T. students.

Art Display Shows Student Art of Year

By ELIZABETH MILLER

Artistic renovation of the second floor of the Administration Building is not the result of a modern surrealist gone berserk. The display of grotesque designs, surrealist figures, fantastic color combinations, and symbolic shapes is to be blamed not on Greenwich villagers, but on the art teachers and students of W. T.

This year's work represents everything from newspaper designs to wall paper, and from amateur water color drawings to professional oil pictorials.

For a long time there have been a number of valuable opportunities for student advancement, enrichment, and artistic development in this department. This year the students have taken advantage of these opportunities and have done much better work, according to Mrs. Alice Nichols, art instructor. Stimulation of ideas, techniques, and methods have brought about this enriched expansion more than anything else.

Proof of this expansion is evidenced by the great variety of divisions of art study as exhibited. These divisions include blocked and hand printed posters, costume and style designing for both men and women, and nature designs—done in water colors and charcoal.

The feature of the whole exhibit, however, is a case of crafts work compiled by the crafts class. The case contains wood carvings, paper mache fruit, copper plates, plaster of paris masks, and plastic bracelets and rings.

New Members Entertain Pi Omega Sorority

Thirteen new members of Pi Omega, social club for women, entertained sorority members with a dinner at Salome's in Amarillo recently. The table was centered with the Pi Omega emblem. Pansies completed the decorations.

Honorees present were Frances Usery, Ruth Hill, Margaret Ester Hill, Dorothy Warwick, Marcelette Reid, Evangeline Baker, Annette White, Dorothy Dickenson, Mogie Routh, Myrtice Kinard, and Mrs. A. M. Meyer, sponsor.

Hostesses were Mary Ruth Curl, Mary and Virginia McGowan, Jerri Dromgoole, Christine Jarrett, Ann Shelburne, Billye Jo Davis, Dorothy Jane Day, Louise McDougal, Merrie Lib Duflot, Kathryn Doak, and Mildred Smith.

Lynn Edwards Is Gamma Phi Head

Gamma Phi, social club for women, elected Lynn Edwards of Knox City as president for the 1940-41 term.

Other officers are: Vice-president, Helen Eoff of Shamrock; secretary, Grace Margaret White of Vernon; treasurer, Frances Hoskins of Spearman; pledge captain, Ruth Kreis of Floydada; The Prairie reporter, Jerry Daniels of Spearman; and Le Mirage representative DeAlyss Eddins of Estelline.
