

Museum Receives Specimen Of An Ancient Culture

Sandals Identified With Third Period Basket Makers

Specimens of a culture that existed in Texas long years ago have lately been received by Mr. L. F. Sheffy for the Museum. These articles consist of several pairs of grass sandals, woven from a grass almost identical with the well-known prairie "bear-grass."

These sandals were found in a stratified layer of guano forty feet from the surface in the excavation of a cave near Van Horn, Texas, in the course of a project carried on by archaeologists from several of the leading universities of this country.

The pattern of the sandals almost conclusively identifies their makers with the third period basket makers of New Mexico and Arizona, though the tribes were not related except through their bartering. The connection with the third period basket weavers almost insures the age of two thousand or three thousand years with which the authorities have associated the sandals.

Donor of Sandals

These sandals were contributed by Mr. H. Clawson, '29, of Kent, Texas, who was a member of the excavating party.

Placement Of Students Begun For Next Year

The New Method Of Enrollment Is Better

Work has begun on the task of assisting graduates and other students who wish to secure positions for next year.

Students interested in the services of the Teacher-Placement Committee may now enroll at the office of the Bureau of Public Service. Enrollments will be taken daily from 2:30 to 4:30 and from 9:30 to 10:00 on Mondays, Wednesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays.

Some change has been made in the manner of enrolling students and it is expected that this change will make the service more efficient. All students who can possibly do so should provide themselves with four commercial prints when asking to be enrolled with the Placement Committee. The enrollment fees at least 50% of its effectiveness it is estimated if photographs are not made a part of it.

Each student who enrolls will be furnished an information sheet which he is urged to study carefully. The Placement Committee exists to help students who are seeking positions and superintendents or school boards to get together in order that the best interests of children in public schools may be served. W. T. has had this service for many years and for the past ten it has been carried on through the Bureau of Public Service. Members of the Placement Committee are: Dr. Cook, Mr. Condon, Miss Hibbets, and Mrs. Reeves, who is chairman of the committee, together with President J. A. Hill, who is ex-officio member of the committee. Members of all departments co-operate with the Placement Committee to enable it to render good service to all concerned.

Cook Will Talk To Gray County Teachers, March 1

At Alanreed on March 1 at a meeting of Gray County teachers who were organized for the purpose of making a study of curriculum revision in Texas, Dr. Harris M. Cook will make a talk on curriculum revision. The meeting is sponsored by Superintendent W. B. Weatherford of Gray County and will be attended by all rural teachers of the county.

Dr. Cook reports that there is unusual interest in curriculum study in this section of Texas due to the work of such men as Superintendent R. B. Fisher of Pampa, Superintendent C. A. Cryer of McLean, Superintendent J. W. Dillard of Alanreed, Superintendent F. L. Mize of Lefors, and Superintendent Martin Baze of Hopkins.

Walker Directs H. S. Play For Teaching Project

For her project in practice teaching, Ernestine Walker is directing "Moonshine and Honeysuckle," the senior play of the Demonstration School. She is assisted by Miss Mary Morgan Brown.

The plot concerns itself with mountain life, feuds and powerful love scenes with an admixture of much humor.

Thirteen people compose the cast, all of whom, according to Miss Walker, are very capable. The setting, being worked out by Mr. Batchelder's play-production class, will be quite out of the ordinary run of scenery.

It is probable that the play will go on in about three weeks.

Officers of the Press Club as named at the club's last meeting are Winifred Lewis, president; Whitman Fish, vice-president; Lou Ella McDade, secretary-treasurer; and Jack Sitton, representative to the Texas Intercollegiate Press Association.

Saturday Is A Holiday

Saturday, March 2, will be a holiday for the students of West Texas State Teachers College. It is in observance of Texas Independence Day.

On March 2, 1836, a convention called to meet at Washington-on-the-Brazos declared Texas independence; a Constitution was adopted; David G. Burnett was named provisional President and Sam Houston was chosen commander in chief of the army. These events occurred while the Battle of the Alamo was raging. April 21 the famous Battle of San Jacinto was won. The Treaty of Velasco followed, making Texas a republic.

Ruff-Nex Carry Off Honors On "Judgment Day"

Fulfilling every expectation and true to the many forecasts of the past few weeks, the All-College Stunt Night program of last Thursday evening has been acclaimed by 1000 students and townspeople the best ten-cent investment that has been on the market at W. T. in many years.

Stunt number one was that of the Friends of the Library. The scene was in a library, with such signs as "Why Court in the Halls, Use the Library," and "Why be quiet, enjoy yourself." The furnishings were composed of members of the organization. Stunt number two was by the Pi Omegas and consisted in two musical selections played upon glasses filled with water and a tap dance number. A group of songs and dances presented by two members of the Wheeler County Club represented in miniature in front of a screen was the third stunt. ## Men's Chorus Presented at M. E. Church Sunday

The Men's Chorus of W. T., under the direction of Professor Wallace R. Clark, presented a concert at the Methodist Church Sunday evening, at 7:45.

The numbers were presented in two groups as follows: "Pilgrim's Chorus From Tannhauser" by Wagner; "White in the Moon," by Oscar Fox; "Evening," by Frank Abt; "The Pilot," by Daniel Protherton; "Italia, Italia Beloved," by Donizetti; "Invocation," by James H. Rogers; "Lamp in the West," by Horatio Rogers; "Thanks Be To God," by Dickinson-Salter; and "Alma Mater."

Miss Frances Alice Clark accompanied the chorus at the piano. An organ prelude, "A Monastery Evensong," by Calver, and a postlude, "Postlude in D," by Mallard, were rendered by Miss Mary Elizabeth Gantt.

After the program, members of the chorus and the audience were served hot coffee and cake in the basement of the church by the Methodist ladies.

Mr. Clark explained that the rendition of the program was made extremely difficult by the sandstorm.

Stops On Tour To West Coast Are Announced

Plans Are Being Made For Trip To Vancouver

Leaving Canyon on July 16th, the second educational tour of the summer, directed by Prof. Frank R. Phillips, will proceed westward for a visit to various points of importance in that section of the United States.

The first stop, says Mr. Phillips, will be at Trinidad, Colorado. From there, the party will go to Pueblo where the state penitentiary and the iron mills will be visited. The route followed from Pueblo will include Denver, Salt Lake City (with a halt of two days), Yellowstone National Park, Helena, Montana, Seattle (for a four-day visit), a visit to the Pacific Exposition at San Diego, the Grand Canyon, Painted Desert, and the Petrified Forest, Santa Fe, and from there the return will be made to Canyon on August 24th.

Commercial clubs all along the route are planning sight-seeing tours to places and objects of interest for the party. According to Mr. Phillips, the tour will include visits to all the larger universities along the way so as to give students making the trip an acquaintance with the better institutions of higher learning.

A division passenger agent for the Canadian-Pacific Steamship Co. was here recently and gave Mr. Phillips information for the benefit of those making the tour concerning rates and accommodations for members of the tour who desire to sail from Seattle across to Vancouver in southwestern Canada.

Farley Tells Of Canal Zone Visit

Cal Farley, the flying Dutchman, was brought to West Texas State Teachers College for a lecture in chapel Tuesday, through the efforts of Emmett Galloway who recently founded Maverick Club No. 2 in Canyon.

Mr. Farley told of his trip thru the Panama Canal Zone. He described the country, the people, and told of the process of building the canal and how it is operated today.

An interesting note of his speech was that the Canal Zone people feel as if a war with Japan is imminent and that "each person already had his spot," his duty assigned to perform if war does begin.

The audience manifested great interest in his talk.

Subject of Portrait Identified With Many Levels of Society

Picture Hangs Between Those of Husband And Associate

Among the most recent acquisitions of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society Museum is a portrait of Mrs. Cornelia Adair, a woman who was equally at ease entertaining King Edward VII of England in her London home or talking with the cowboys of the JA Ranch with whose history she was identified for more than forty years. The portrait of Mrs. Adair is almost life-size and hangs in the Mary E. Hudspeth Art gallery between oil paintings of her husband, John George Adair, and Colonel Charles Goodnight who was their friend and business associate for many years.

The oil painting was sent to the museum from London, England where it hung for many years in Mrs. Adair's home at 11 Portman Square; here, according to her grandson, M. H. W. Ritchie, of London and Dallas, "she entertained, during a number of years, almost every celebrity of this country and Europe." It was painted in 1894 by E. Tofano, a young Italian artist who went to London with his reputation already made and was soon very popular as a portrait painter. According to the grandson, this portrait marks the highest point of Tofano's artistic achievement, for he died soon after its completion. The frame of the picture has been greatly admired as a fine example of the carving in vogue during the period when it was made.

In a letter to Professor L. F. Sheffy, secretary of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society, Mr. Ritchie writes, "The Ritchie family are glad to make this loan to what I consider a most praiseworthy institution—your Museum."

I had heard a great deal of good about the Museum before I saw the building and the collections; however, the actual acquaintance with it very far surpassed my previous impressions."

Mrs. Adair Hunted Buffaloes Cornelia Wadsworth Adair was born of pioneers, for she was of the family of Wadsworths who left the Massachusetts Colony and moved into Connecticut to establish the town of Hartford. She was born in 1837 and in 1857 became the wife of M. Montgomery Ritchie of Boston, the grandfather of the donors of the portrait. Her first husband died in 1864, and in 1869 she married John George Adair, a Scotch-Irish broker, who was a pioneer in spirit.

At that time it was a popular amusement for society people, both men and women, to come west on hunting trips into the country that had lately been crossed by the Union Pacific. In 1874 the Adairs came on such a trip, hoping to kill many buffaloes.

General Phil Sheridan was commander of the U. S. Army stationed on the frontier, and he insisted upon a cavalry escort for the Adair party. Mrs. Adair thought this unnecessary, and to her objections he replied, "You may not want them, but if you do, you will want them like Hell." Before starting they were told of "Sheridan's Roost," a place where the General and his staff killed 63 wild turkeys in an hour's time, and Mrs. Adair hoped to kill a wild turkey.

On the South Platte River, Chief Two Lance of the Sioux and his lesser chiefs, Fire Lightning and High Bear treated the hunting party to a feast of boiled beans, cooked meat, and cans of tea and coffee.

The buffalo hunt ended almost disastrously, for Adair accidentally shot his own horse and was injured as his mount fell beneath him, and one of the cavalrymen was seriously hurt when his horse stumbled and fell with him. Buffalo were already thinned out except in the Texas Panhandle which the party dared not enter because of danger of the Comanches.

The Adairs liked the West, and in 1875 John George Adair transferred his American business interests to Denver, where in 1876 he met Colonel Charles Goodnight, and soon entered a business relationship which was to result in the settlement of the Panhandle and the development of one of its finest ranches, the JA.

In 1885, Adair died, and Cornelia Adair, whose address was then given as Rathdair, Ireland, continued the partnership with Colonel Goodnight.

During this partnership two great cattle herds were developed. The American herd, for which the (Continued on page two)

CAMPUS DEMOCRACY

To what then is democracy on the college campus pointing? Dr. Dr. Arthur E. Morgan of Antioch College says, "Democracy is not just a form of government by a complex social achievement. It is the ultimate in government, the mean to which all extremes are transformed when their excesses are removed and their deficiencies supplied. It is the best and most complex form of government as the human body is the highest and most complex form of biological organism." Democracy on our campuses points to: (1) a rise in enrollments, (2) experiments in general education, (3) preparation for public service, (4) interest of groups of students in public service, (5) the aid by the Federal Government, enabling 10,000 people to enter or to continue in college. EDUCATION FOR DEMOCRACY just off the press, by Dean J. B. Johnson of the Minnesota University emphasizes the careful fitting of every individual for the occupation in which he will be most happy and will render the best service to society. Visions of campus leaders are not confined to any particular section of the United States. The number of experimental colleges has increased from three in 1914 . . . to one-hundred-twenty-eight in 1932 and to one-hundred-forty-nine in 1934.

Approaches to scholarship may be made more interesting to-day than they were yesterday, but genuine scholarship will always be acquired through eager desire. For the real scholar can not pursue thought or investigation apart from this eagerness of desire, the feeling of service to the world, which differentiates the scholar from the mere pedant. It is not learning but the love of learning that is the guide of life. Whatever the character of his adventures and whatever the method of his training, "the scholar is a knight errant always on the quest for service.—Excerpts from Address Delivered by Miss Edna Graham at the Meeting of Alpha Chi at Austin, February 22.

LIBERAL EDUCATION

It is generally forgotten that every child, boy and young man or woman, should be given the conviction, at the appropriate age, that the community is his or her community, and that he is entitled to some intelligent notion of its structure and working, nature and spirit. He should have the true freedom of contemplating its purpose as something integral with his own purposes and as something in which he has a share. To induce the sense of being a shareholder in the treasure house of civilization is the essence of a liberal education.—George E. C. Gatlin in Fortnightly Review.

best Hereford bulls were purchased reached its peak size in 1880 with 7,314 grown cattle and 1,718 calves carrying the JJ brand; the main herd, branded JA was largest in 1888 with 60,759 grown cattle and 12,654 calves. When the Goodnight-Adair partnership was dissolved, there were 101,023 cattle to be divided.

Since that time the JA Ranch has gradually decreased in size by selling the lands and by the coming of settlers to school and railroad lands which the ranch once used.

During all the years following her husband's death until her own, Mrs. Adair made frequent trips from England to the Panhandle. T. D. Hobart, of Pampa, said of her: "She was a remarkable woman and did a great deal of entertaining in her younger days, having as her guests the late King Edward, Lord Kitchener, and others of that class. On the other hand she seemed happier at the Ranch than at any other place."

"She was always thinking of someone else. If any of the men were sick, or any of their families, she wanted something done about it at once. Those old cowboys who had been with her for years would have gone through fire for her if necessary."

Her family also appreciates what Mrs. Adair did for the Panhandle, for her grandson says, "Since my brother and I have been in this country, we have realized more than ever, the part our grandmother played in the awakening and development of the Panhandle, and the great esteem with which her memory is still regarded by those who met her. We, too, have completely lost our hearts to the Panhandle and the Ranch—it is our hope that we may have the opportunity of carrying on our grandmother's tradition."

Many who will see the portrait in the Panhandle-Plains Museum will remember that Mrs. Adair gave to Clarendon a hospital, a

Y. M. C. A. building which is now used as a Community Center, and equipment and endowment for the hospital, in addition to personal philanthropies of many kinds of which the public had no knowledge.

The picture may be seen on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays from two to six when the Museum is open to the public.

Comments on the Present Scene."

At the opening session significant addresses were made by Professor William S. Strauss of Baylor University and Miss Julia Luker of McMurray College. Their topics were respectively: "Whither Democracy," and "Women in Our Democracy." The address of welcome was made by President H. V. Benedict of the University of Texas who invited Alpha Chi members to hold their meeting there. Dr. Emmette S. Redford of the University made an address at the last assembly Friday at 11:00 o'clock. His topic was "Some Present Problems in American Democracy."

Entertainment was provided delegates and visitors in a sight-seeing tour and a tea with Phi Beta Kappa and other scholastic groups as hosts. Miss Graham was the guest of Littlefield Dormitory.

New songs were adopted by Alpha Chi following a contest held previous to the convention. The song which won first award of ten dollars and was written by J. M. Branstetter of Marshall, and is entitled "Alpha Chi." The second award was made to Addie Millican and Helen Owen, both of Denton, who wrote the lyric and music for "To Alpha Chi." Pollyanna Pitts, member of the local chapter of Alpha Chi, received honorable mention for a song which she submitted in the contest.

WHITMAN FISH

Was not that a dandy dance we had last Monday? Perhaps—just perhaps—there has been an awakening and we may begin having real dances instead of the type held heretofore. Nice goin', Coy.

This column has been reprimanded concerning the use of numerous jokes rather than exchange news as its title would signify. But just to make peace in the family, we want to find out from our readers if there is any reason for complaint. After all, a school paper and its content is supposed to be a STUDENT publication, and, as such, to reflect the voice as far as possible of the student body. It should be a great aid to us if at least a few of the more courageous members of our assembly would make mention of their opinion to our editor. . . . If you please!

Huey P. Long is most unpopular with the majority of student publications—so it seems. Many papers seldom fail to include one small dig at his majesty. For instance, the Flor-Ala, the publication of the Alabama State Teachers College states: "Huey, Hooley, Phoeey." To the point at least! The University of Michigan Daily says, "It looks as if the college paper editor of the University of Louisiana ran a paper for the students but not for Long? Some pun. What with recalling Jim Farley from his vacation in Florida to fight with the Kingfish in the Senate and being dictator at odd times, it seems as if there is one little man who is having several busy days.

Advice to the Lovelorn

The Badger Club of the University of Wisconsin is through playing detective. They've been finding out just how true their true love is. Each man, thus afflicted, telephoned the object of another's affections and asked for a date. The results were somewhat astonishing, especially to the victims. But anyway, three of the girls were shamelessly untrue. Tsk! Tsk! Three others did not "go out with strange men." Two evaded the issue with alibis. And one already had a date. But vengeance is mine, quoth the thwarted youths, so they most thoroughly "stood up" the fickle dears who accepted. Revenge is sweet, it seems in the fer, fer, north.

American students in Germany have a very individual method of getting even for being required to give the Nazi Salute. They simply grin, raise their hands, and lustily shout, "Heel Hitler!"—The Houstonian.

The Houstonian publications of five has a small box, so they say, in which messages from the student body or anyone else wishing to contribute may do so. It is in this manner that all those unsatisfied with the paper, school, requirements, et cetera, comment upon their likes and dislikes by simply writing it down and dropping it in the box. Signing their name or not, just as you like. If a large enough group think this a good idea, it could be instituted here and thus give us the same advantage of expressing our opinion. What do you think?

Amarillo Club Helps Organize Maverick, No. 2

Friday night in Burton Gym the Maverick Club of Amarillo put on a program for the prospective members of Maverick Club No. 2 and their parents.

Emmett Galloway, the founder of the clubs who intends to form a Tri-State organization, had charge of the program. Youngsters from 50 lbs. on up to 140 put on exhibitions of boxing and wrestling for the entertainment of the crowd.

In both the boxing and the wrestling the boys exhibited a knowledge of the fundamentals which is a commendation of the work of Mr. Galloway and his helpers.

One of the highlights of the program was a battle royal between eight negroes. There were no divisions of the time into rounds. They were to fight until just one was standing up—the winner to receive fifty cents. The crowd thoroughly enjoyed the colorful struggle.

Dutch Mantell brought two of his professional wrestlers, Vic Weber and Gorilla Pogi, to add to the entertainment. A ten minute exhibition match ended in a draw.

After the program ice cream was served to all those present. Registration took place for the club Saturday morning in the Burton Gym.

Seventy-two boys had already signed up at the time of this writing and approximately twenty more had indicated that they would do so.

Regular meetings of the club will be held three days a week until the current basketball season is finished. After the season is over, meetings will be held every day.

Until that time Mondays from 9 a. m. until 12; Wednesdays from 4:30 p. m. until 6, and Saturdays from 9 a. m. until 12 have been designated as meeting times for the Maverick Club No. 2.

Later on a separate building will be arranged for the club, but until that time Burton Gymnasium and its facilities will be available for the Mavericks. Everyone will participate in the different types of activity under supervision.

Membership in the club will offer many advantages to the boys of Canyon and should improve the character, health and interest of the boys as well as prove a benefit to the citizens of Canyon.

Serious Dramas Played Before Club Thursday

Two plays, "Men Folk" and "The Bank Account," were presented at the meeting of the Dramatic Club Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the Education Building. Both dramas were of extremely serious nature.

Three characters are in the first, a play of fisher folk: the grandmother, the mother, and the wife of a young fisherman whose boat is expected back with the rest of the fleet but does not come. Thrilling atmosphere is one of strain and anxiety. The parts of grandmother and mother, played by Peggy Thompson and Ruth Cox, respectively, showed strong work; and the part of the wife, which was altogether a different type of character, was attractively played by Esther Lou Bandy.

The second play was an example of the modern type of tragedy that is founded upon dejection, hopelessness for the future. It is the story of a man who had trusted his wife to put a part of his earnings each week in a savings bank. After ten years he expected to quit the job on which he worked slavishly because of his uncertainty of keeping the place and his dislike of his employer. The futility of everything was expressed in the man's utter resignation when he picked up his lunch kit and hurried back to his job after having contemplated for twelve years his pleasure in resigning to the country on that day when he discovered that his three thousand dollars were not in the savings bank.

Members of the cast of "The Bank Account" were Ada Lee Singleton, F. B. Mitchell, and Ceva Welch.

Miss Brown has described the play as being a powerful thing; in her opinion both of the plays were well represented.

RUFF-NEX CARRY OFF HONORS ON "JUDGMENT DAY"

lers was the fourth stunt. "Oh Lawdy," and "Glory Be," were typical expressions of those heard throughout the stunt. Stunt five proved to be the winning number. Imitations of Joe Penner, Amos an' Andy, Bing Crosby, and Cab Calloway made their debuts in the W. A. A. Stunt.

"Judgment Day" presented by the Ruff-Nex copped the five-dollar prize by unanimous decision of the judges. The scene was laid before Saint Peter's Desk in Heaven. On the extreme left was seen the doorway to Hades, from which smoke and brimstone were expelled as condemned faculty members entered. "Angel Burkhalter" was the doorkeeper. To the extreme right were the Pearly Gates, and by it was the doorkeeper (Dale Bowman) fast asleep.

Saint Peter (Judge Williams) was first seen playing golf but hastily resumed his seat to execute judgment. The condemned were Travis Shaw (Winfred Lewis), Al Baggett (Carroll Killebrew), Joe Duffot (Buster Leslie), Bob Jarrett (James Compton), Sarah M. Hill (J. C. Line), Prexy (Eldon Schuchart), Rubie Jean O'Keefe (Ralph O'Keefe), Ford Fronabarger (John Hood). Miss Richardson (Ray Long) was chosen by Saint Peter to take his place. Sound effects behind the stage were in charge of Ashley Little and Mr. Batchelder.

Judges who gave decisions on the stunt were Mayor C. R. Burrow, Senator J. W. Reid, Dr. S. L. Ingham, Mrs. Irby Carruth, and Mrs. Tom Knighton.

Last, but not least, was the fac-

Campus Spotlight

We've been making the rounds with a beam in our hand with the qualities of a magnet—for picking up mischievous tales and newsy nonsense.

The first gossip we picked up was of the birthday paddling of Sally Mary Campbell. The big, brave brute who turned her over his knee got the first seven licks. Such a commotion was created, we're afeared the others have to take theirs in installments—unless Sally sees them coming first.

And now comes someone saying Leo Jackson is more handsome with his tooth knocked out.

You have heard the windy about Hutto taking off his helmet during a football game and sailing along with those ears?

Did you see me in my gingham overalls at Stunt Night? They swiped my only and best suit for the faculty stunt. Here's a bit of under-cover work: Van Noy had to be paid for lending those pink shoes before he'd even consider taking them off.

Royalty always has something in common: Marina sets styles in dress and coiffure for the world; our Queen Lucy bobbed up bright and early with a hair-clip all the girls are imitating. Mine came breezing up shorn of her golden locks and I didn't know her.

A tip: The rumor is circulating that Lewis Shirley failed to pay off a bet he lost the other day. Notice we said "rumor." Somebody kissed a coke goodby.

Woodrow Toone loves to hunt books in the library for which the number is incomplete. Just breeze up and ask him for what you want.

Which reminds us! Why, oh, why, don't library pests walk east till their hats float. We're referring to the kind that prevent your getting in the last ten minutes on an important trip problem for the next period class.

Somebody tell Winnie Lewis not to leave his mail in public places. Some inquisitive soul might read it sometime.

And in a flare-up of our candle we saw Business Manager Stanley courting a new woman. All of which proves the early bird gets—you finish it. I'm just ten minutes late to take my wench to a show. We'll be seeing you at the resumed feudal basketball game between the Matadors and Buffs in the gym tonight.

P. S. What is this about Burkhalter and M. Tucker. A case, eh?

ulty take-off of various members of W. T. through an English class. Here we saw ourselves as you see us.

Organizations worked under difficulties because of no lights behind the stage, and a sandstorm made it difficult for the audience to hear.

Miss Ruth Wells, charming master of ceremonies of the evening and president of the Y. W. C. A. announced that this Stunt Night is sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. every other year. This is the fourth one ever to be presented. These events never need advertising; they speak for themselves.

Many New Books Contributed To W. T. Libraries

To the Children's Library Miss Hattie M. Anderson has contributed two other books entitled "With Mikko Through Finland," by Byrne and "Children of the Soil," by Burglon.

To the college library Professor Herschel Coffee's economics classes have contributed "Human Exploitations" by Norman Thomas, and "The Economy of Abundance," by Stuart Chase.

Professor S. H. Condon's extension class in Amarillo has contributed Volume One of "Contemporary Problems in United States." Superintendent H. T. Burton of Clarendon recently donated twenty-one volumes of "The London Encyclopedia of Universal Dictionary Science, Art, Literature, and Practical Mechanics," printed by Thomas Tegg in London in 1832.

The daughters of Judge R. R. Baker, Mrs. Annie Daniels, principal of the Pampa Ward School, and Mrs. W. A. Johnson of Canadian, recently made a gift to the Panhandle-Plains Museum of the law library of their father, Judge Baker, who died some years ago at Canadian, was a pioneer lawyer at Panhandle. He was first State Superintendent of Public Instruction of Texas and came to the Panhandle after he had served in that capacity. The library will be placed in the museum.

PRAIRIE STAFF TO SPONSOR PICTURE

At a meeting of the Prairie division of the Press Club in the Publications Office Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock, it was decided that the group would sponsor a picture show in the near future in order to raise funds to send representatives of the college publications to the Texas Intercollegiate Press Association meeting that is to be held in Huntsville the third week in April.

A committee composed of Brady McCoy and Jack Sitton was appointed to make arrangements with the management of the local theater for sponsoring a show. The picture that is to be sponsored and the dates of showing will be announced soon.

It was also decided at the meeting that every member of the Prairie staff would submit material for the T. I. P. A. contests, which close here Thursday.

NEW DISCOVERIES IN MAYAN CIVILIZATION

TEGICIGALPA, Honduras, Feb. 26, (CNS)—Big stone staircases leading to subterranean galleries of a 1700-year-old Mayan civilization, exposed by recent earthquakes in this territory were reported discovered this week by Gustav Stromsvik, heading an archaeological commission of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, now working at Copan.

Stromsvik said the discovery revealed Copan was the most important center of Ancient civilization yet found, and added he had established the ancient Mayas knew uses of gold heretofore unsuspected.

Under a huge stone statue of a warrior he assertedly found a pair of solid gold boots, marvelously wrought, less than two inches in height.

Big stone canals and a sewerage system connecting large underground buildings were reported discovered.

IMAGINATION MAIN FACTOR IN CHARACTER GROWTH

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 26, (CNS)—"Imagination is the principle factor in developing character and rationality is used merely to give life to the imagination."

These views were presented this week by Dr. Edwin C. Starbuck, professor of philosophy at the University of Southern California, who is conducting an enterprise of creating a "curriculum of culture" to develop character from infancy to adulthood.

The experimentation has been going on for a period of five years in an effort to discover a method to induce children to share their childish valuables without resulting to the use of force.

The "curriculum of culture" is an effort to divert the imagination into desirable lines and covers the field of poetry, fiction and music.

ANNUAL RURAL BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT HELD

The annual rural invitation basketball tourney was held Saturday in the Education Building gym. The entrants included Wayside, Riverroad, and W. T. seventh grade teams.

The first game, which started at ten o'clock, brought together Canyon's first team and Wayside. The Canyon team failed to score in the initial half, while Wayside sank eight field goals and one gratis toss, to give them a seventeen-point lead at the half. In the latter half the Canyon cagers tallied eight points to only six for the visitors, making the score at the end stand 23-8. Sanders made four points for Canyon, while Husler looped ten points for Wayside, making him high-point man.

Next Canyon's second team dropped a listless game to Riverroad by a 35 point margin, 44-9. Johnson made 18 of River road's 44 points to lead the scoring parade.

In the first game of the afternoon, the Canyon teams, having lost their games in the morning, played each other. Canyon's first team proved superior in this one with a score of 19-3. Harlie accounted for eight points to make himself high-point man.

The fourth and final game was played between Wayside and Riverroad. Both teams were well matched, making the game the outstanding one of the day. The score at the half stood 10-10. In the final half both teams played defensive ball till near the end, when each squad tried to gain a substantial lead and failed. Wayside managed to put one more ball through the loop to capture the championship for the second year in succession with a score of 20-22. Johnson was outstanding player for Riverroad while Little field played a stellar game for Wayside.

The tournament was under the direction of Professor A. K. Goodman, athletic director of the Demonstration Grade School.

CAVES GO TO SEMI-FINALS IN TRI-STATE TOURNAMENT

The W. T. High School Calves

marched to the semi-finals in the Tri-State Basketball Tournament held at Dalhart, Feb. 15 and 16, only to be stopped by the powerful Dalhart Wolves, the winners of the tourney. The Calves played their first game Saturday morning with Conlen, another pretourney favorite. After getting a slow start, the Calves were tied up with the Conlen five at the half, 8-8. However, the latter half was quite a different story, the Canyon boys looping five baskets and a charity too, to only one field goal for Conlen, making the score at the end stand 19-10 in the Calves' favor. McNeill, calf star, managed for ten of the Calves' points, while Porter tallied four points for Conlen.

In their second encounter, the W. T. High boys played the Dalhart Wolves. All the Calves seemed to be "off" in the Dalhart game, but were also playing a strong team. The Wolves had the Calves doubled at the half, 8-16. Each team looped three field goals and a charity toss to make the Wolves win by a score of 15-23 as the final gong sounded. Brown and Hamblen made four points each, to be high scorers for the visiting team; while Maulden made nine points, enabling Dalhart to capture high scoring honors of the game. Penick, calf guard, and Holton, Dalhart player were chased from the game in the last half because of too many personal fouls.

The tourney was won by the Dalhart Wolves.

Rivals Resume Feudal Cage Game Tonight

Odds Of Games Were About Even Last Night

For the West Texas State Teachers College Buffaloes and their followers the most important basketball series of the year is that of the Buffs and their traditional rivals, the Texas Tech Matadors, who resumed basketball competition in a two game series in Burton Gym last night and tonight.

For years there has been an intense rivalry between the two schools on the painted floor, and until last year the Buffaloes have always had the best of it. Last year the Matadors won their first series from the Buffaloes, winning three out of four.

This year the Buffs were the under dogs when they played Lubbock in their second game because the Matadors were leading the Border Conference with six straight victories. The Maroon and White played some brilliant basketball to win the first game, but were swamped by the fighting Matadors the second night.

Neither team was satisfied with the split series, and both have been anticipating the coming series with an eye on settling the issue of superiority for 1935 definitely.

Since the first Lubbock contests, the Buffaloes have improved with every game, winning eight consecutive games without a defeat until they dropped a thriller by one point last Tuesday night to Sul Ross in the Alpine gym.

Just before the Buffaloes invaded Alpine, Lubbock had also split a series with Sul Ross; and when the two teams faced each other in the first game last night, the odds were about even.

With Boedeker, Clement, and Captain McMinn all fully recovered from the flu, the Bison Herd is at full strength for the contests with the men of Coach Ballard. Co-Captains Priddy and Gilmore, Crews, Wester, Weaver, Snodgrass, West, Thornton, Wilkinson, Hale, Bridges, Neill, Stanphill, and Garrett have made the trip to Canyon for Coach Ballard.

Bulletin On Illness
The sickness jinx seems to be on the trail of the Buffaloes. Leonard Britt, whose recent play has been a strong factor in the success of the Buffaloes, has been taken down with the flu, and may not be able to participate in the Tech series.

John Walker started the thing off in the first game of the season by having his tonsils removed. Then some one has been missing in nearly every game. Boedeker was ill during two series. Captain McMinn was missing from the last Aggie series with the flu. Curtis Clement also had a bad case of the flu. Now even Coach Baggett has succumbed. Nearly all that is missing is Manager Brown.

With Britt missing, the Buffs will be hampered in the Tech series, but their spirit may make the difference.

Curtis Clement has not recovered his early season form since being sick, but if he plays against

Correction Of Misleading Item In Prairie

An account of the W. T. Tech Boxing and Wrestling meet which appeared in the last issue of the Prairie was misleading. It appeared that the W. T. team had won the meet, which was not true. It is hoped that the following account of the meet will entirely rectify last week's error.

It was a good meet, closely contested throughout. The scoring was done by the point system used in intercollegiate contests. In the wrestling three points were awarded for a decision and five points for a pin. One point was awarded in boxing for any kind of a decision and one-half point for a draw.

When the points were added up it was found that Tech had a slight margin of two points in the wrestling, and also two points in the boxing.

Tech gained the advantage in the wrestling because they won two matches with pins to one for West Texas. Both teams had four victories each.

Small and Blaine were pinned by their Tech opponents. Gardner Sanderson in the 175 lb. class won the only match for Canyon by a pin. Brown, Wooten, and Caviness gained decisions over their mat opponents with time advantages. Morris and Jackson lost decisions.

When Jackson's match was over, it was first announced that he had 1 minute, 52 seconds time advantage. It had seemed to be his match all the way, but some wrangling over the time resulted in another announcement that Jackson had only eight seconds advantage. As one minute was necessary for a decision, the referee called for an extra period.

After some more wrangling over the time, Jackson did not re-enter the ring and the match was awarded to Browning of Tech by decision.

In the boxing, unless the match was clearly one sided, it was called a draw. Wendell Cain won the 118 lb. class by default.

Gerald Brown and Gibbs of Tech fought three rounds to a draw. Purple Garrett lost the 138 to Tech when his seconds tossed in a towel in the third round.

Brady McCoy looked like a winner, but was also awarded a draw in the 148. McCarty of West Texas also dropped a technical to Tech when his seconds threw in the towel in the third round.

George Caviness, looked tired after wrestling first, and dropped a close decision to his opponent, in the 168.

Stina Cain and Mitchell of Tech fought three furious rounds to a draw in the 178, as did Meek and Katrola in the unlimited.

Brown and Caviness represented their school in both the wrestling and the boxing divisions.

There was much dissatisfaction

Tech like he did at Lubbock, everything should be all right. Anyway, tonight is another night. We hope things were OK last night.

W. T. WILL PARTICIPATE IN INTERCOLLEGIATE TOURNAMENT OF WRESTLING AND BOXING AT N. M. M. I. IN ROSWELL, NEW MEXICO, MARCH 8, AND 9.

March 8 and 9 the wrestling and boxing team of West Texas State Teachers College will participate in the annual Southwestern Intercollegiate Tournament in Roswell, New Mexico.

Schools from several states will be at the tournament, and competition in all weights will be close.

Since the meet with Lubbock the pugilists and ear-twisters of West Texas have been training steadily and should be in much better condition for the Roswell Tournament.

The dual meet with Lubbock which was originally scheduled for the 8th, will be postponed until the following week in Canyon.

Several of the West Texas wrestling entrants and some of the boxing entrants have outstanding chances of bringing back trophies from Roswell.

Gerald Brown is the defending title-holder in the 128 lb. class, having won the tournament last year by defeating Warren Heller of N. M. M. I., champion of the year before. This will mark the third year of competition for these two boys for the championship, and should they get together this year, a story might be written.

In 1933 Brown defaulted to Heller, after going to the finals, because of sickness. Brown defeated Heller in the finals in 1934. Now comes 1935.

Stina Cain, Clinton Meek, and Brady McCoy look like the best on the part of both teams as to the outcome of the meet, and when the two teams get together again, a colorful struggle should ensue.

sets at present in the boxing, while several others may come through. Competition is pretty stiff with so many schools competing, and a winner has his work cut out for him.

It seems that West Texas has brighter prospects in the wrestling than in the boxing. While there were no winners last year, several boys have shown up well this year.

Ray Small, Gerald Brown, John Morris, Clarence Wooten, John Blaine, George Caviness, Gardner Sanderson, and Leo Jackson made the trip to Lubbock, but freshmen will be eligible for the Roswell meet and may beat out the upper classmen.

How many feathers make a pound? How many hand spans are there around the water tank? How many stair steps are in the Ad. Building? How many dark squares on the first floor of the Ad. Building? These are a few of the statistics which the Ruff-Nex Vital Statistics Committee, which is made up of the ten pledges, is gathering during Hell Week.

BUFFS SPLIT SERIES WITH LOBO CAGERS

Have Edge Of Three Victories In 4 Games

Last Monday and Tuesday nights the Buffalo Cagers repayed a visit to the Sul Ross Lobos in Alpine, splitting a thrilling two game series with a 34 to 32 victory the first night and a 35 to 36 loss the second.

Monday night proved to be a thriller from the very beginning, with the lead changing hands every few minutes and neither team gaining more than a point or two advantage.

Just before the first half was over the Buffs took the lead 24 to 20, but lost it again soon after the second half started. With but thirty seconds to play, the Buffaloes found themselves three points behind. Captain McMinn, who had been keeping his team in the running with free pitches, sank another toe-line toss, and Little Johnny Walker tied the score with a wild over-hand shot.

For almost ten minutes previous to the tied score the Lobos had held the ball with a revolving circle formation. Now but fifteen seconds remained, and the Lobos got the ball again.

It seemed that all was lost, but fate in the person of Referee O'Brien, took a hand, and ruled that Captain Carl of the Lobos had taken too many steps.

Curtis Clements was given the ball for the Buffaloes out of bounds. He passed in to Britt who shot from the middle of the floor. The ball passed through the little iron hoop with a swish, not even touching the ring, to win the ball game as the final whistle blew two seconds later.

Willie Boedeker was unable to participate in the first game because of a return attack of the flu, but Audell Kimmins, who started the game, proved to be a sensation, scoring points from any angle. Twice he made solo dashes, dribbling through the entire Lobo team to score.

Kimmins was hampered in the second half, because he had obtained three personal fouls, one short of too many, in the first half. He scored only one point in the last half, but when the melee was over, the scorer found that his fourteen points won individual scoring honors.

Addison, Sul Ross forward, was second with thirteen points. Jack Davis received a cut over his eye in one of the mix-ups, and had to be removed from the game.

The second contest proved to be almost a replica of the first. Both teams played defensive ball from the first, and the game proved to be as close throughout as the first one.

At the half the Buffs had a one point margin 17 to 16, but again in the last period the Lobos took the lead. As the game drew into the closing minutes the Buffaloes were four points short of the Lobo score. The Bisons tried to repeat their performance of the night before with Britt making a free pitch and Butch Clark ringing a field goal, but the final point found them one point short.

Caraway won high honors with five field baskets and three gratis tosses for thirteen points. Scoring for the Buffaloes was more uniform than it had been the night before with McMinn scoring 11 points, Britt 7, Walker 8, Boedeker 5, and Clark 4. Kimmins, after his previous performance, failed to mark the score book.

The Alpine series closed basketball relations between the two teams for the year, with the Buffs having the edge of three victories in four games.
