

The Editor
Speaking

The best topic of conversation which we have had for some time has waned in interest since Saturday. I am referring to the first Democratic primary election. Of course, we will still hear a little bit about how the election went, and we will probably hear the boys wrangle over the bets laid on their favorite candidates, but the general interest is gone for awhile. We will hear more now about the general election which comes in November and in which we decide who the next president of the United States will be. Yep, all that is left right now for conversation is the hot weather. If we were to get a rain, we wouldn't have anything to talk about at all.

The "play-nite" fans were agreeably surprised Friday night by the W. T. All-stars winning from the strong squad of Texaco Oilers. Those who professed to know anything about the relative strength of each team prophesied ignominious defeat for Dillard and his flashy players. Apparently, more people are getting interested in "play nite" all the time. Next Friday night promises added entertainment in the form of a softball game between two teams from the Women's Physical Education department. That will be the first game on the program for the evening, and will be followed by a game between the all-stars and an out-of-town team.

The writer received a letter last week from Glyndon Riley, sports editor of The Prairie last year. He is working on the Canadian Record at Canadian and reported that he found out that a lot of the admissions he received while working on this paper are actually true on other newspapers. He said that there wasn't any "baloney" about the motto or slogan, "Get the facts and get 'em right." Likewise, he says that he has to be entirely accurate in everything that he writes. He ended by saying that he would be back next fall and would "lend his services" to The Prairie.

A large crowd of Seniors will be finishing four years of college work at the end of this term. Of course, most of them have taken more than four years to complete the requirements for a degree (no offense intended) since they have attended college a great part of the time during the summer sessions. The records in the Registrar's office show that one hundred fifty-two will march across the platform and come down with the long-desired sheepskin clutched tightly in one hand. One thing about the people who get their degrees while attending summer school is that they are usually more serious and worthwhile students than those who attend during the regular sessions. At least, they are more mature and they do look serious.

Are you a procrastinator? If you are, you are in for more real trouble than you can get out of in a lifetime. Our lives all last about the same number of years. We all have a certain amount of work to do while we are living that lifetime and a certain amount of time to devote to each task. If we don't get the work done on schedule, it piles up until at last it is impossible to do everything that should have been done and that could have been done with comparative ease had it only been done at the right time. The evils of procrastination do not apply solely to our school work, although a result of procrastination while in school frequently influences the way in which we perform (or fail to perform) our duties after we "get out into the world." A large number of you are guilty of this pernicious habit, and so am I. What are we going to do about it?

Hill's Secretary
Leaves Wednesday
on Vacation Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunt left Wednesday for a vacation trip to California by the coast drive, a tour through Oregon and Washington, and a return trip over the popular route through Yellowstone National and Glacier National Parks.

Miss Gene Smalley of Floydada will take Mrs. Hunt's place as secretary to President Hill during her absence. Miss Smalley was secretary to Dean Jarrett for four years before her graduation in 1934. Since that time, she has been teaching at Floydada.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunt will return Aug. 20 after having completed their month's vacation trip.

Four W. T. coeds spent last week-end in Hobbs, N. M., visiting in Lubbock and Seagraves enroute. They were: Katherine Shearer, Perryton; Lou Dunlap, Lueders; Maurine Creed, Roxton; and Mary Louise Butler.

It's too late to reform after the undertaker is called.

May Operate Two Daily
Schedules, Says
Dr. Hill

A plan to transport West Texas State Teachers College students from Amarillo to the campus daily was made public by President J. A. Hill Monday.

Dr. Hill was authorized by an advisory committee of the Board of Regents, who met in Amarillo Monday, to start this project if he thought it justified.

"The plan is, of course, still under consideration, but there has been considerable demand for it on the part of Amarillo students, and we will investigate possibilities thoroughly," Dr. Hill said.

Dr. Hill's plan would call for one or more busses to be operated each school day with a possible fare of 25 cents for the round trip, and if patronage warranted, the fare might be reduced to 15c.

"It is possible that we will operate two schedules daily, one leaving Amarillo in the morning and the other in the early afternoon, so that students working a half-day in Amarillo will be able to do part-time work at the college," President Hill said. About 95 Amarillo students were enrolled in the college during the last regular session. A number of these students lived in Amarillo and came back and forth for classes.

"It will not be a money-making venture," Dr. Hill said. "We expect only to give a service to students who might otherwise not be able to attend college, and the amount of the fare will be determined solely by the cost of operating the busses."

Changes in curriculum for the college were discussed by the advisory committee composed of John E. Hill, of Amarillo, chairman; Senator R. A. Stuart, of Ft. Worth, and Dr. J. E. Ulmer of Tyler.

A bachelor degree of business administration will be offered next term. This will be the first business degree offered by a Texas teachers college without requiring teacher training in addition to the business course.

Pre-law, pre-engineering, and pre-medical courses will be offered in addition to other liberal arts courses. It will be possible to secure three full years of liberal arts work with no teacher training, and a fourth year will be available with only psychology and history of education required.

Fisher Will Give Talk Tonight In Assembly Period

R. B. Fisher, superintendent of the Pampa Public Schools, and who taught Education here during the first six weeks term, will give a lecture at the assembly period tonight.

Dr. R. P. Jarrett, chairman of the assembly committee, announced early last week that Mr. Fisher will probably lecture on some phase of his trip through Russia last summer.

T. B. McCarter, professor of physics, received a letter recently from Everett Glenn, a student here last year from Amarillo, saying that he had passed his examinations and had been admitted to the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.

Miss Louise Walthall of Hereford, was recently elected to teach the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades in the Westway School near Hereford.

Miss Ethel Rowland, ex-student of '36, has secured a position in Kilgore, as secretary to Tom E. Foster, publisher of the Kilgore Daily News.

COLLEGE OUTING CLUB

Those college or other students who wish to go on the Outing Club jaunt to Gordon-Cummings' Ranch Friday afternoon will please register at the Bookstore and meet the bus at the east entrance of the Administration Building at 4:30 o'clock. Ten cents will be paid by each person to cover coffee and transportation charges. Friday at 3:30, don't forget.

Contracts To Be Let Aug. 7 For
Cottage Furniture

The contract for the furniture for the ten cottages will be let Aug. 7, stated Dr. J. A. Hill Saturday. The cottages are designed for use by married students, or other students who are mature enough not to require supervision and who wish to live together cooperatively.

The cottage group will be ready for occupancy at the opening of the first semester of the regular nine months session in September.

Prof. T. M. Moore will serve as faculty sponsor of the cottage set-up. Six students will live in each cottage and the entire group will be charged $30 per month for rent. Utilities consisting of lights, water and gas will be furnished included in the charge for rent.

Students will share the expenses of living and by co-operating thus can attend college more cheaply.

"The purpose of the cottages is to give the most modern accommodations at the lowest possible price," said Dr. Hill in an interview.

Y.W.C.A. To Hear
Talk Concerning
Oriental Women

"Women of the Orient" will be the subject of an informal talk by Miss Edna Graham when she appears before the Y. W. C. A. at its regular weekly meeting Thursday evening at 7 o'clock on the lawn in front of the Administration building.

Miss Graham's talk will be based on impressions which she received during a visit to Japan, China, India, and other countries of Asia last summer.

The meeting will last for one hour, and is open to any who wish to attend.

Prairie Receives
Letter From
Parks Tour

The Prairie received a letter last week sent from Denver, Colo., written by Miss Lea Belle Hancock, a member of the Third Educational Tour.

The letter is as follows: "The Children's Hospital in Denver which was visited through the courtesy of Mrs. Johnson, Director of Nurses Training and a friend of our own Mrs. McCaslin, proved to be the most interesting experience to date on our educational tour of W. T. S. T. C. This is sometimes called the Warm Spring or President Roosevelt Hospital of the West, however the pools are traumatically heated. Miss Inez Holtzclaw, who is an instructor in the Des Moines school was perhaps the most interested, having been accepted as a student nurse, but had to resign because of parental objections.

"There are three types of pools. The underwater gymnasium where the children are treated for muscle control; the hot pool for severe muscle cases, and the mineral pool for open sores and afflictions of the bone.

"A large and beautiful Sunndex in which to play is provided for the happy children. Plenty of sunshine is one of the main factors in their treatment.

"The institution contains a high school and elementary school. Some of the children having graduated with honors.

"Children from infancy to the age of 21 years are admitted to the hospital.

"A large, beautifully decorated auditorium furnishes recreation for the children. This room was furnished with no regard as to cost. The curtains alone cost $6,000. The children are brought to the room in their beds and wheel chairs.

"Mrs. Johnson led us through Tamen Hall, named for Mrs. Tamen, whose husband was connected with the Denver Post. She donated a large sum of money. Tamen Hall provides for classrooms, an auditorium, individual bedrooms, for nurses, a formal dining room and a most beautifully and artistically decorated and furnished reception room.

"The nurses must rank among the highest third of high school graduates. During the past year out of 100 applicants, only forty nurses were accepted.

"Beauty, fine art, and cleanliness was particularly portrayed throughout the entire hospital."

Excavation Will Begin Monday on Swimming Pool

Project To Be Completed
In Ninety Days,
Says Hill

John McKnight, Amarillo contractor, will begin the excavation work on the new outdoor swimming pool here Monday morning.

C. S. Lambie is in charge of the entire construction of the pool and has sub-let the excavation work to McKnight.

The $40,000 swimming pool will be faced with rock similar to that used in the construction of Buffalo Courts.

Water in the pool will be completely purified every ten hours with the latest filtering system in use which will be installed.

Approximately ninety working days will be required to finish the work after it begins Monday.

Dr. J. A. Hill, president of W. T. disclosed the fact Saturday that an extra amount will be added to the student activity ticket which is purchased at the time of enrolling to pay for admission of students to the pool.

One-Act Drama
Will Be Given In Meeting Thursday

Members of the Dramatics Club will see "The Fourth Mrs. Phillips" Thursday. This one-act drama, written by Carl Glick, San Antonio playwright, has been directed by Marian O'Brien.

The play depicts the character of an ego-filled actor who is about to marry his fourth and youngest wife. By an uncanny hook and crook method, Glick assembles the former three wives in the actor's dressing room in company with him and his cooling bride-to-be, Dolly Harrison, who is played by Isla Mae Donald. Warwick Phillips, the actor is played by Jennings Plathers. His first wife, comfortable, old-fashioned Julia Henderson Phillips, is Alma Lynn Beene. Victor Drinkard is the reserved and dignified personal valet of Phillips, Marston. Two other wives of the vain actor are Madge Smith Phillips, a noisy, slangy, cigarette smoking girl, played by Virginia Good, and Camille Golden, an actress, played by Margaret Beck. A young reporter who represents "The News" is characterized by Frances Armstrong.

Emma Montgomery
Injured In Auto
Wreck Last Week

Miss Emma Montgomery, who lived at Randall Hall last six weeks, and a sister from Bryan were painfully injured last week in New Mexico when their car overturned twice after striking a rough place in the road.

The remainder of the trip was made by train to Colorado where they are to spend the rest of the summer with another sister at Chautauqua Grounds, Boulder, Colo.

New Catalogs For
1936-37 Session
Arrived Friday

Copies of the 1936-37 College catalog of W. A. arrived in the Registrar's office Friday.

The new catalogs differ from those of the past in that they have the graduate school catalog included in the same publication instead of their being published separately as they were last year.

Another major difference in the new catalogs is that they outline in detail the requirements for a bachelor's degree in business administration; work in pre-medical courses and pre-law courses. It is now possible for students to obtain credit in other institutions offering degrees in law and medicine.

Students may obtain copies of the College catalog by calling at the office of the Registrar, D. A. Shirley.

Graham Invited To Present Paper
at Math Meeting

Miss Edna Graham, professor of mathematics here, has been invited by the committee in charge of selecting the meeting place of the Mathematical Association of America for 1937 to prepare a paper to be presented at the meeting next spring.

New Mexico State College, State College, N. M., has been chosen by the committee, headed by Paul K. Rees, as the meeting place of the Association since it is the most centrally located point in the territory.

The 1937 meeting will include a symposium on teaching and will also be concerned with a division in research in the field of mathematics.

Miss Graham was especially recommended to the committee by Dr. Emmett Hazlewood who graduated from W. T. with a B. S. degree in 1928. He is now head of the department of mathematics at State College.

Dramatic Club
Presents "Babbit's Boy" Thursday

A one-act play by Glen Hughes, "Babbit's Boy," directed by Miss Trannie Mae Russell, was given at Dramatics Club last Thursday.

The high standard of characterization, stage play, and stage arrangement that has been in evidence in the plays presented this summer was retained in this drama which had the following cast: Horace Briggs, the successful business man, Earl Bates; Charlotte Briggs, his wife, Vida Cox; William Briggs, their son, home from first year college, Otis Thompson; Jane, their daughter in high school, Cornelia Hunter; Louise Moulton, Jane's friend, Alma Grove; Nellie, the maid, Ruth Richardson.

Art Exhibit by Summer Artists
Now Hanging in Hudspeth Room

Artists on the summer faculty of W. T. art department chose a number of recent productions from that group and are displaying them in the Mary E. Hudspeth Room of Pioneer Hall.

Amy Jackson of Amarillo presents three etchings—of the T-Anchor Ranch house, a Palo Duro mesquite tree, and a barnyard by night. The Jackson group also includes three studies in oils of trees against deep blue skies framed in flat unpainted wood and two pieces of woodcarving—one a bas-relief of a Mexican peon carrying a basket of pottery on his back, and the other a study of Esther Johnson, Amarillo pianist, in native Hungarian costume.

A. W. Mack of San Antonio offers a variety of water color selections. Among these is an ocean scene showing a fisherman and his tiny boat overawed by a power symbolism wrought of clouds and a sun-strand sky. A rhapsody in mauve is that of a scarlet sailboat before a harbor of magnificent selection by Mack displays a chaotic purple ridge of conflicting rock strata against a flesh-tan sky.

Miltia Hill presents three portraits in oil. One shows an old man with pipe, black hat with

ANTIQUES FIT FOR THE CENTENNIAL; HORSE AND BUGGY-ISTS FIT FOR REACTIONARIES

The world has made several universal improvements in education recently, according to most authorities. A large percentage of people can now read, although it is inevitable that some are still illiterate and slick their hair with lard and go to church barefooted, putting on their shoes at the front steps. Obviously, East Texas State seniors know some of these people and are very desirous of these persons seeing how "awe-inspiring" they looked when they graduated from the "colleged" even if their uninstructed friends cannot understand what it is all about.

At most schools, seniors do not have to endure laborious caps and gowns and their accompanying "rogue's gallery" poses. A section of the yearbook is merely labeled "Seniors" and their friends are able to distinguish the fact that they have graduated. Much more harmonious with the rest of the book.

During a year that symbolizes one hundred years of progress; some are still trying to preserve out-worn tradition instead of putting it in a museum case with other conveniences. Caps and gowns are inevitably linked with the day of the impractical, one-sided scholar and the dottering, absent-minded professor in the minds of the public. Undoubtedly, it should not be so, but nevertheless; it is.

In some few schools like this one, seniors still have pictures in caps and gowns, masqueraded, often as sheepish as the originator of their "sheepskin" could look.

Students have trouble enough in remaining natural before a camera without being bothered by an unbecoming cap and gown. Seniors without prejudice will notice this summer the more attractive usual pictures as contrasted with the two poses with blank faces under four-cornered hats. Even in Washington's time they wore tri-corners.

Other schools have found cap-and-gown-less pictures better, and if after a trial they were to prove unsatisfactory, the former type could be resumed again. Seniors who are participating in various activities can save the price of a cap and gown picture by being able to use one pose throughout the book, a considerable saving for regular students.

As it now is, Seniors are having two cap-gown poses and two poses in more suitable attire, with the final decision left to the fall seniors. Summer seniors ought to take advantage of four poses in ordinary clothes, the more likely decision of regular seniors, who are less "bugabooed" by useless tradition.—The East Texan.

DOES COLLEGE INTERFERE WITH EDUCATION?

Does college interfere with our education? This question may be looked upon from two or more views. First, however, college must be defined and then how it is applied to our lives. Let us see what Mr. Webster has to say.

"College is a collection, body or society of persons engaged in common pursuits, or having common duties, and interest; a society of scholars or friends of learning, incorporated for study or instruction in the branches of knowledge."

Taking the first definition of Mr. Webster, we may look at it from the point of view that many students do. It is all a big get-together; a collection of students pursuing a common interest, duty of "making hay while the sun shines"; and having fun while they can. If this is one's attitude of college, he is letting his college interfere with his education. That is, however, the attitude of the more frivolous-minded.

We must now look at this question from the viewpoint of students of a more serious mind. There are two classes in this type: (1) Those who look on education as purely gaining knowledge from the textbook. Dr. Law of the University of Texas gave his opinion of this type of student when he stated:

"When a student engages all his time on his school studies and none on outside reading, he is not getting a broad education. He must keep up with our present day situation, and read at least two novels a month, or he is letting college interfere with his education."

(2) The other type of serious-minded students related to the first, may have not only an education as far as his school work is concerned and keeps up with current events, but does he know the fine arts of useful leisure—if it may be called that? Does he participate in extra-curricular activities? It is generally expected that the world—especially the school world, since we are most interested in that phase of it—need men who have broad knowledge of school work and all that takes place about them outside of the school room.

Mr. Key, of our own college, has expressed his opinion of extra-curricular when he said:

"If I were going to school, I would not only take the regular courses offered, but I would take part in athletics, debate, plays, social organizations, and general activities of student interest. One's ability to obtain and hold a position depends on his knowledge of extra-curricular activities. It is taken for granted that one knows his college work."

If we look on education as the higher branches of knowledge and college as the "society of scholars or friends of learning incorporated for study or instruction in the higher branches," we have college and education going hand in hand. However, if we look on it as a place for frivolity, or even as a place for gaining textbook knowledge, we are letting college interfere with our education.—The College Star.

(By Houston Bright)

Greetings to all our friends in Radioland—oh, pardon us, please, but harrassed as we have been this week by political speeches, circulars, and propaganda, it's a wonder we even had presence of mind enough to get this column to press this week.

For our weekly gem of meditation we have selected the following choice bit of literature:

I bought a wooden whistle
But it wooden whistle.
So I bought a steel whistle
And steel it wooden whistle.
Now I got a tin whistle
And boy, tin I whistle.

According to The East Texan, arrangements for an afternoon program to be broadcast by East Texas State of the Gulf Centennial network have been announced as one of the special features of East Texas State Teachers College Day at the Centennial Exposition in Dallas, Wednesday, July 29. On the program will be the newly organized choral club, under the direction of Roy Johnson, individual student entertainers, and an address by President Sam H. Whitely. The students of the college will probably be given a holiday.

"Does anybody," The Pine Log wants to know, "remember 'way back when 'neck' was a noun?"

Now I sit me down to sleep,
The lecture's dry, the subject deep;
If he should quit before I wake,
Give me a punch, for goodness sake.

Coming to the campus of Stephen F. Austin State Teachers College soon is Irene Bewley of Tennessee, who will present a program of dramatic sketches of mountain life of her state. Miss Bewley has lived and worked among the mountain folk all her life. She depicts character in an amazing manner, and will present some amusing character sketches.

And then there was the freshman who thought that a nightmare was a milkman's horse.

The colorful maroon and gold of the Bobcat band will be flaunted on the Centennial grounds at Dallas next Monday when "San Marcos Day" will be observed at the exposition with a program featuring the band. The college quartet will also be the guests of the college and the city of San Marcos on the Centennial trip.

Pedestrian: A man whose son is home from college.

Socialism: Communism dressed up in spats.

Primps: He left footprints in the sands of time.

Felon: To stumble on—like, "He felon his neck."

"Are Teachers College men students victims of fads?" The Campus Chat wants to know. "That students and men in general (in common with the so-called weaker sex) do adhere to fads is well illustrated by the numerous dark tone shirts worn about the town and campus this summer.

"These dark tone shirts—blues, browns, wines, and even greens—sold to college boys in Denton during the summer have made up seventy-five percent of the sales of the sales of shirts as shown by reports obtained by interviewing the dry goods merchants of Denton."

Some are beautiful and wise,
Some they say, are clever, too—

Southwest Texas State Teachers College at San Marcos has enrolled 1,315 students for the second six weeks of the summer session of school.

"Pop" Humphreys don't want we freshmen to use no bad English this week if we can help it. He don't think we ought to. He wants John and I to write some bad english and then correct it. But he don't know how hard that is to think up. Now if I was a teacher I could think of some of them sentences easier. Did you see John and I leave the class room when all the kids was passin' out? He wouldn't help us a tall. He just said if he was us he would just write down a little of our regular talk and look it over.—Adapted from Kablegram.

A male student at the University of Minnesota found his name to be a source of confusion to the faculty. His name was Marion. Book of the Week

By Marian O'Brian

THE GOLDEN CORD

Warwick Deeping

A mother's serene devotion to her son's career in the face of a multitude of frightful difficulties is the underlying theme of Warwick Deeping's new novel. The lives of the mother, Rebecca, a strong, extravagantly fleshed, vital Jewess, and her youngest son, Karl, a little white flower with dark dream eyes, are pitted, in an effort to raise above the commonplace in life, against the lives of the pale, invalid Russian father and two grown boys. The father, another of the windy Reds, a stage talker who never could get on the platform, had a replica in the form of the oldest son, a cowardly tongue wangler who spent his life trying to urge the down trodden lower classes to revolt against the tyranny of the wealthy. The other son was a big, red-skinned, vulgar lout, a cad of whom no good can be said.

Through Rebecca's secret encouragement in the face of poverty and the antagonism of the older brothers, the boy Karl studied drama and the theater. Rebecca's second-hand clothes show grew under the mercenary hand and eye of the woman who was looking to a future for her love-child. Rebecca would have played with black magic to give her son security; but the only magic she knew was yellow. She was afraid of nothing. Had Death stalked into her shop, she would have told him to stop his non-sense, and would have

Wisecracks and . . . Otherwise

Edited by Pete Cowart

Seen around town:

Chris Wooten stepping high, wide, and handsome with Dr. Cook's niece; Bill Hopkins and Linnette Cain making a mighty good-looking couple; Oscar Croson and Hubert Gant picking up a couple of babes in front of the Post Office; Ogden Stroud moping around like a lost spirit in h-l; L. A. Stowe back renewing old acquaintances.

We have heard all of our lives about the old maid who stood behind the door for fifteen minutes every day repeating this sentence, "I am beautiful, I am beautiful," but it has now become a distinct pleasure of mine to be living in the same house with one of these babes. If you don't know who I am talking about, ask Maud Lummas.

After weeks of blissful oblivion, we are forced to bring Ray Small back into the limelight. How and why so many fever blisters on the lips, Ray? Careful, you know those things are contagious.

We would like to know why there was so much laughter coming from the back booth of the Buffalo Monday night? Perhaps Louise Ramey, Emil Hutto, Margaret Beck, or Vernon Johnson could enlighten us.

We thought that we had seen some good exhibitions of the "Black Bottom" in our day, but the one last Monday night by "Tiny" Craig and one of our history teachers was really tops in our estimation. Don't you guys know that the "Buff" isn't the place for such exhibitions?

This department has heard a lot about the domination of an Education class by Alma Lynn Been. Cheer up, the rest of you guys and gals. From what we hear she doesn't really know everything she is talking about.

Who was the man that introduced Lou Ella McDade as his wife in Amarillo the other night?

We are very sorry to hear that one of our favorite babes, and incidentally a mighty swell gal, has been sick abed upstairs on a pallet for the most of the last week. If it isn't true what the doctor said about you, Betty Dale, why do you look so worried? In case you think Betty is a hardboiled moll you bickered closely in trying to sell him a fur coat.

After a splendid war career, during which his brothers fought on soap boxes in lower side districts, Karl returned to a wealthy and influential mother. He wrote a play that became famous overnight, and he was kept from the dangers of the primrose path only by his mother's tact and understanding of people. Rebecca once told her son, after he had slapped and left one of the effrontery soaked after-war vamps, "Right you did. No man ever smacks the cheek of a woman it is good for him to marry."

Until the day of the death of the strong and vivid character, Rebecca, the son blessed and idolized the mother who brought him with her up from the fish-shops into the smartest set in London. And Mr. Deeping leaves him newly married to a refined and understanding Mary to continue a brilliant career.

should have seen those real tears she was shedding when she returned from a visit to the College Nurse.

Tom Knighton is beginning to feel young again after his vacation. The other night when he caught Myles McGehee dancing with Zonell in the back of the "Buff" instead of politely telling them they couldn't do that in there, he just tagged in and really showed the young folks how to hit the ceiling.

We notice that Cleve Jones has been hanging around close to home since his girl friend has returned from South America. Is it hard for an old man-of-the-world like you to settle down to one babe again, Cleve?

If during the next two weeks, you are slandered in this column, don't for goodness sake, take it out on me, 'cause along with Bill Allison, James Vaughan, Buster Smalley, Melvin Alexander, Cy Marchbanks and about 9,000 other buck privates, I will be down at Palacios, Texas, fighting the Battle of Mosquito Bay.

From all accounts, we hear that one of our new English professors is a real sport and a swell teacher. Even though Mr. Logue is new on the campus, relatively speaking, we think he is O. K.

MRS. LEMORE HILL HONORED BY TEA

Honoring Mrs. Lemore N. Hill, formerly Miss Marion Hill, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Hill, a tea and reception was given at the Amarillo Country Club, Thursday afternoon by Mrs. John E. Hill and her daughter, Miss Margaret Esther Hill.

Baskets of garden flowers furnished the decorations for the club house. The ballroom was beautified with floor lamps, ferns, and flowers.

The guests were met at the door by Mrs. Charles Hoover and Mrs. Charles Fisk. As they passed into the lounge, they were asked to register in the bride's book, presided over by Mrs. J. W. Shanklin of Canyon and Mrs. E. M. Yyrick.

In the receiving line, headed by Mrs. John E. Hill, were Mrs. Lemore N. Hill, Mrs. J. A. Hill, Mrs. J. W. Hill, Miss Martha Nell Lang of Canyon and Tyler, Miss Margaret Esther Hill and Mrs. T. H. Huter.

During the reception, Mrs. P. L. Bottoms conducted a program of dances, piano, violin, vocal and whistling numbers.

Mrs. Ray Johnson acted as hostess at the refreshment table. Mrs. C. B. Reeder and Mrs. D. Roach served during the first hour, and Mrs. Ray Wheatley and Mrs. R. C. Snodgrass served the last hour.

Girls dressed in pastel shades, assisting in serving were Misses Marjory Roach, Kathryn Roach, Mesdames J. Alton May, Maurine Sims, Guy Carlander, and Miss Lucile Johnston from Nashville, Tenn.

MISS SIMPSON, HILLSBORO MAN WED JULY 19

Miss Robbie D. Simpson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Simpson, Amarillo, became the bride of George Dewald of Hillsboro, Sunday morning, July 19. Dr. C. C. Grimes, pastor of the Polk Street Methodist Church, officiated in the presence of about 200 friends and relatives of the couple.

The nuptial vows were spoken before an improvised altar of palms, ferns and baskets of flowers with tall lighted candles at either side. Baskets of flowers were also arranged on the piano.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Simpson home in Amarillo.

Guests for the wedding were from Gatesville, Pampa, Canyon, Tulia, Happy, Hereford, Amarillo, and many other Panhandle cities. After the reception, the couple left on a trip to Denver. They will live at Hillsboro.

Mrs. Dewald is a graduate of Amarillo High School and West Texas State. She taught in Tulia for two years, and last year was a teacher in the Gatesville school.

Mr. Dewald, a civil engineer, is associated with the Texas State Highway Department with headquarters at Hillsboro. He is a graduate of Southern Methodist University and is the son of Mrs. Fred Dewald, of Copperas Cove.

HELEN LYLES RETURNS FROM ARKANSAS

Miss Helen Lyles has returned to Canyon after a two-weeks stay in Winslow, Arkansas, where she served on the faculty of the young people's Provincial Conference of the Episcopal Church.

She will remain in Canyon until the end of the summer session at the college when she will visit her family in Stamford.

EX-STUDENT, LOUISIANA MAN WED RECENTLY

Before a beautiful background of cut flowers and ferns, Miss Ruth Hess, an ex-student and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hess of McLean, became the bride of Mr. Clyde Magee, son of Mrs. J. N. Magee of Baton Rouge, at the ranch home of her parents Sunday morning, July 19.

The ring ceremony was read by Rev. W. A. Erwin, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, in the presence of the immediate family of the bride and few close friends. Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played by a sister of the bride, Miss Margaret Hess, who also played "I Love You Truly," during the ceremony.

The bride's gown, made with a long train, was of coral pink tulle with blue chiffon velvet trimmings, and she carried a point lace handkerchief made by Mrs. Ruth Horton of Dallas, a long-time friend of the family. Her bouquet was of white carnations.

After the wedding, the guests assembled in the dining room where the table was centered with a miniature wedding party. The bride cut the three-tier wedding cake of pink and white and Miss Margaret Hess and Mrs. Lear M. Jones served punch.

Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Magee left for a motor trip to various Colorado points.

The Rev. J. R. Hicks, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Canyon, performed the ring ceremony. The house was decorated with baskets of garden flowers and an improvised arch of vines.

The bride wore a dress of ivory lace over tea rose satin and a corsage of Johanna hill roses. An informal reception was held in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Dean after the ceremony. Refreshments of bride's cake and punch were served by Mrs. Dean's sisters.

Following the reception the couple left for Dallas, where they will be at home to their friends after July 25.

Mrs. Dean is a graduate of the Canyon High School and of W. T. She taught home economics in the Canadian Public Schools the past year.

FORT WORTH BANS GYPS

Transport Lines Offer Low Rates to Frontier

A glorified excursion, sans ant-infested lunch boxes, stalled motors and rooks on every corner, awaits the wide-awake this Summer.

Railroads and bus lines are bending over backwards to make things possible and pleasant for Frontier visitors through the Summer.

There's no need in backing an unwilling family chariot out of the garage and bracing it all the way in. Besides that, highways may be uncomfortably crowded unless your machine is knee-actioned, free-wheeled and streamlined.

Transportation lines are certain of their heaviest traffic in years this Summer but they're not taking the customer by the heels and shaking out his pockets.

There'll be schedules from all points in the United States, and 7-day, 10-day or 30-day excursion rates for cities within a 24-hour radius.

Main point is that instead of paying more to get the biggest single show in the history of the entertainment world, you'll be paying less.

Same way with buses. Customary rate is a round trip for the double-way fare less 10 per cent. Those who are smart and intelligent and fun-loving enough to come to the Frontier Centennial will get a round-trip for a fare and one-half's worth.

In addition to paring down the rates to meet the pocketbooks, transportation operators are increasing schedules, adding equipment, installing air-conditioning.

Once you get here, Fort Worth will treat you right.

Duck into any restaurant and you can purchase chicken and dumplings for the same price as ever. Ask for a breezy southeast hotel room and you'd never suspect it could be rented for twice what you're paying. Souvenirs, necessities, clothing and entertainment will wear the same old price tags. The staggering features of the frontier show itself can be seen for a ridiculously low tax.

"We're just square-shooting, that's all," says a Fort Worth spokesman.

BRIDAL SHOWER GIVEN FOR FLORINE BOWMAN

Miss Ethel Bourland and Mrs. W. D. Mateer honored Miss Florine Bowman, bride-elect of Mr. O. F. Dean of Dallas, with a bridge-shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Bourland, on Thursday evening, July 16.

Pink and white, bridal colors were carried out in the flower arrangements and in the refreshments.

The hostesses presented Miss Bowman with a bridge table loaded with gifts as guest prize.

Individual angel food cakes and ice cream on a plate with favors of miniature baby breath and sweet pea corsages were the refreshments served to the honoree, the Mesdames G. B. Bourland, R. T. Bowman, Harry Wood, C. W. Batchelder, Elmer Wooten, W. L. Dever, W. L. Molyneux, Roy Long, Walter Long, Carroll Cannon, C. A. Newsom, and the Misses Elizabeth Cox, Orpa Dennis, Cleo Bourland, Ethel Brasuel, Helen Johnson of Dimmitt, Ferne Lurline and Helen Elizabeth Bowman, and the hostesses, Miss Ethel Bourland, and Mrs. W. Fresh and Stale Jokes

He: There are two periods in a man's life when he doesn't understand a woman.

She: When are they?

He: Before he is married and after he is married.

Codpiece: They tell me Dr. Lancett has a good practice now.

Crabshaw: Yes; it's so large that when people have nothing the matter with them he can afford to tell them so.

Professor: Can you tell me what would happen if an irresistible force would meet up with an immovable object?

Student: Yes; the same thing that would happen if two women drivers met in the middle of a one-way bridge.

Guppy: My dear, I want you to go to the photographers with me this morning dressed just as you are.

Mrs. Guppy: Oh Henry! I didn't know you liked my new summer outfit so well.

Guppy: I don't. I just want the picture to show you two or three years from now so you can say the things I want to say this morning.

While on one of his periodic trips to Washington Uncle Eli took in a movie where the newsreel showed Germany's ruler watching some marching troops. "Here," said the announcer, "we see Der Fuehrer reviewing his troops as they march into the Rhineland."

"Well, I'll be dratted," commented Eli. "That there feller is a spittin' image of Hitler."

Mrs. Busby: Wake up, John! There's a burglar going through your pants pockets.

John (turning over): Oh, you two just fight it out between yourselves.

Frankie: We had chicken croquette for dinner.

Herbie: What part of the chicken is the croquette?

Frankie: It is the part that goes on the table last.

Mrs. Turnrod: Hiram, here's a letter from some city folks answering our advertisement. They want to know if there's a bath in the house. What'll I tell 'em?

Turnrod: Tell 'em the truth—that Prof. Tugwell hasn't got 'round to makin' out county over yet, and if they need a bath they'd better take it before they leave.

Book Agent: I have here a volume entitled, "How to Meet Trouble in the Home"—and—

Mr. Peck: Stop right there. I find it easy to meet trouble there now. If you have a book on how to dodge trouble we may be able to do business.

Frogmore: I wonder what has become of the old-fashioned mother who spanked her son for smoking cigarettes?

Fishneck: Oh, she's the grandmother who spans her grandson for swiping her cigarettes.

Mrs. Duff: Aren't these eggs rather small today?

Schmonsky: Yes'm; but the farmer who sells me my eggs had to start to town early this morning and took them out of the nests too soon.

Pink: That man Piddler can talk by the hour on capital and labor.

Groot: That's strange. He has no personal acquaintance with either.

Mrs. Schmonsky: What does that word "asbestos" on the theater curtain mean?

Schmonsky: Don't show your ignorance. That's Latin for "welcome."

Brokaw: Old man, can you lend me a couple of dollars?

Tyro: No I cant. I've tried to lend you money but you have apparently looked on the money as a gift.

Jub: It is always the unexpected that happens.

Slupp: That's right. I remember one time that it rained after the weather bureau had predicted it.

Mr. Kickbush: So you want to marry my daughter. Can you give her everything she desires?

Young Rollo: I think so; she says she wants only me.

Pete: I want some hinges for the back wall of my garage.

Haas: That is a strange place to put them.

Pete: I know, but my wife doesn't always stop the car when she gets inside the garage.

Gumbusta: Why do you always insist on sitting by a window when you eat in a restaurant?

Dillpick: Because they always give the people by the windows the biggest helpings.

Henry: Can your wife drive a nail?

Lester: No, but she is mighty successful in nailing a lie when I make excuses for getting home late.

Mrs. O'Pinch: I keep my boarders longer than you do.

Mrs. O'Jawish: You keep them so thin they just look that way.

Ray: You are just like an icicle.

Vanda: Well, you know an icicle melts easily enough when you squeeze it.

Gypsy—a la 1936! Auto Trailer Is 'Home' to Fast-Increasing Thousands

ALMOST a million Americans are making their homes in auto trailers this summer. These modern nomads enjoy the traditional ease of the gypsy life. They go where they want to go, when they want to go, and as leisurely as they like.

And, better still, the hardships of the vagabond trail have been eliminated. When night comes, the tourist retires to his de luxe trailer, equipped with davenport convertible into beds, stove, ice box, sink, folding table, and even hot and cold water and a chemical toilet.

Most of the newest models have chrome fittings. Electric heat and light are available, either from batteries or from lines especially constructed at many of the country's 15,000 trailer camps.

Recruits are swelling the ranks of these tourists every day. Roger Babson has predicted that within 20 years half of this country's population will live in trailers.

MR. BABSON'S prediction provides several things to think about. First is the effect on real estate values. A house and lot won't be worth nearly so much money if half of the United States is living on wheels.

Here is the latest in auto trailers. Compact and complete in every detail, it provides a comfortable home for Gloria Stuart, film actress, while on location. Note the telephone.

Then the trailerman, of course, pays no local taxes except in states which have sales taxes. He licenses his car where the license fee is lowest. And, if he doesn't approve the attitude his temporary home state has adopted toward him, he can move on without further ado.

The Auto Tourists' Association is the trailerman's organization. Annual conventions, held wherever comfort and convenience decree, are well attended.

One of the major auto manufacturers is reported planning mass production of luxury trailers. Motor industry experts believe a good low-priced trailer might bring sales to 400,000 annually within a few years.

THERE is nothing ramshackle about the trailers rolling along the highways nowadays. They are streamlined, about 15 to 30 feet long, and as elegantly outfitted as a yacht.

The house-car, a variation of the trailer, is a single four-wheeled unit containing one or more living rooms, driver's seat, and motor. William B. Stout, widely known motor designer, has another type which the owner tows to a desirable location, jacks up on cement blocks, and unfolds into a four-room bungalow.

The regulation trailer, however, remains most popular. Although most of these are being used by vacationists and traveling men, a rapidly increasing number of families call the mobile houses "home."

These families are usually made up of husband and wife, both well past middle age; children, and a dog. The husband has either saved something from the depression or has a retirement pension. It's almost always a happy family, whose members, without a care in the world, are thoroughly content to spend the remainder of their days rambling over the countryside.

From all manifest indications, Toby Waggoner and his string of football players are going to be hard to stop in the softball intramurals, but their preeminence is not sufficient to make them invincible and either of the teams is liable to push over the lethal blow.

Seeing some of the ex-West Texas cagers in action again last Wednesday night was a great thrill. They worked together nicely to give the coming Buffaloes a good lacing. These teams will again be pitted against each other tomorrow night, and additions to the Buff line-up should make them victors with little trouble. The game is scheduled to start at 8:00 o'clock and will be free to all those interested in attending.

Starting tomorrow, there will be another all-college tennis tournament for men under the direction of W. E. Lockhart. Anyone desiring to enter into the competition will please sign the paper on the bulletin board today. Winners of the previous tourney will not enter this one.

Shall we remove the tenth man in softball? This question has caused some heated arguments since Canada found the use of only nine men expedient. After all the game was instituted for young chaps who needed an extra man, and since the grown-ups have taken over the game, they have continued with the same organization.

The college all-stars continue their winning streak. Only outstanding teams from the Amarillo softball league have been selected to oppose them each time, and the collegians seem to score at will. With the addition of Cain and Caviness last week, the squad was, without a doubt, greatly strengthened.

All of you who have been missing these regular "play nite" performances should come out some time and find out just how much fun you have been failing to see.

Basketball Exes Tounce Squad For 1937 40-38

Clement, Star of Last Year Team, Leads Scoring

A selected group of ex-W. T. cagers defeated a part of next year's Buffalo hoopers 40 to 38 Wednesday night in Burton Gym. George Ray Colvin is piloting the potential Buffaloes during the absence of Coach Baggett.

Curtis Clement, star of last year's Buffaloes, was the backbone of the exes and leading scorer of the game with a total of 16 points. He was closely followed by Raymond "Too Tall" Shackelford, playing for the varsity, who amassed an aggregate of 14 tallies.

The exes started fast in the initial division when the Clement and Myers combination scored 3 field goals in rapid succession to gain a lead that was held throughout the entire game.

Shackelford, center for the Buffs taking advantage of his extreme height, came in consistently to take the ball from rebound and easily push it through the hoop. Craig Walling slipped through the opposition several times for easy crisp-shots.

The Buffaloes made a desperate attempt to win in the last few minutes of the game, but fell just short of a rally.

According to George Colvin, the Buffs will be in action two nights a week during the remainder of the semester, and will be strengthened by the addition of Lother Stephenson, who was absent from the last game due to slight injuries.

The starting line-up:

Exes	Position	Buffaloes
Clements	Walling
R. Davis	forward	Amburn
Myers	center	Shackelford
Britt	guard	Willingham
J. Davis		Fikes

Tennis Team of 1935-36 Receives Sweaters Thurs.

As merit awards, members of West Texas State's 1935-36 tennis squad received sweaters Thursday.

The Buff netmen lost three and won three intercollegiate matches during the year. Two of the defeats were at the hands of the powerful Tech Matadors, and the other loss was to the N. M. M. I. Cadets.

In encounters with Oklahoma A. and M. and Amarillo Junior College, the Buffs were triumphant.

Those awarded letters by W. E. Lockhart, coach, were: George Smalley, Glyn Riley, Norton Curry, Bill Allison, Bruce Howard, and Darrell Hemphill. Howard is the only member who is not returning for next year.

According to Mr. Lockhart, the returning netmen are capable of regaining the Lone Star Conference crown which was held by W. T. in 1931.

Waggoner Leads Intramural League

Waggoner continued his winning streak last week by capturing three more softball games.

The standing to date:

Durham	3	1	.750
Calthorpe	1	3	.250
Harper	0	4	.000

Handball Tourney Begins With Joe Stribling In Lead

After the drawing last Wednesday, the summer session handball ladder tourney, under the direction of Coach Bob Cox, was started with Joe Stribling on the top rung of the ladder.

The contest will continue for several weeks before the victor is selected.

Arrangements have been made by Mr. Cox for others to enter the competition, and he requests that all those interested see him at the gym as soon as possible.

The top five are Joe Stribling, Lloyd Hunt, Lee Gordon, Curtis Clement, and Monroe Horton.

Two Innings Are Added To Game On Buffalo Field

Women's Phys. Education Teams Will Play Next Friday

In a fast game with numerous errors and long range hits, the college all star softballers, piloted by Bill Dillare, conquered the Texaco Oilers from Amarillo 14 to 9 Friday night in Buffalo Stadium. As added entertainment for spectators, two extra periods were added to the conflict.

The usual battery of Naylor and Waggoner for the allstars played with their customary abandon through the entire game. Mitchell, hurler for the Oilers, was relieved in the sixth division.

Both sides played above reproach for five innings with few blunders, but the visitors lost control in the sixth and Naylor, Killingsworth, and Miller rounded the bases to give the collegians their first lead of the game which they held the rest of the evening.

Next Friday there will be two softball games. The first will be between two teams of the women's physical education department, and an out-of-town team will oppose the W. T. squad in the second game.

The average number of songs played each day by Merle Clark on the Hammond electric organ in Chrysler Hall at the Texas Centennial Exposition, Dallas, is sixty. During the run of the exposition it is estimated that he will play 10,620 different melodies.
