PRIMARY GRADES SHOW TEACHING PLAN PROGRAM

PROGRAM IS FIRST OF SERIES TO BE PRESENTED BY THE TRAINING SCHOOL GRADES

NO EXTRA WORK DONE BY CLASS

"George Washington" is Subject of Patriotic Program Given by First Grade Children Under Miss Fronabarger

"George Washington" was the subject of the chapel program given by the first grade in chapel Tuesday under the direction of Misses Ada Clark and Elva Fronabarger, instructors in the training school.

A significant phase of the program was that it was prepared in the regular class-room work of the children and required no extra rehearsals, no elaborate costuming.

The children marched in wearing caps of patriotic colors, which they had made during art construction period and which was the only attempt at costuming.

"Washington's Band," led by the eminent conductor Leo Duffot, gave two marches as a curtain raiser. The band had been selected by the children themselves and had received all its technical training in the daily music work of the training school.

Dramatization of the making of the first flag followed. This story had been studied previously as a reading lesson and had been memorized and acted out in language class. The cast was chosen from groups of players in the first grade, those appearing in chapel having been pronounced best by their associates. Sam Burton, Jr., and Lois Marie Daniel had the stellar roles.

"The Flag of Our Country," a reading, was given by Hal Gamble, who had been voted the best declaimer in the class.

The children ended the program by singing a group of songs about Washington, songs, by the way, of more difficulty and tunefulness than most first graders can master. Miss Ada Clark, teacher of music in the training school, explained their ability to sing the songs from memory by their having been taught by rote—listening to the teacher sing a phrase and then singing it themselves.

This program is one of a series being given in chapel by the grades of the training school. The purpose of this procedure is to show prospective teachers of college rank that the daily work of the children affords ample material for public programs. Miss Fronabarger, teacher of the first grade, states: "So often young teachers who face the problem of giving an entertainment in which children participate take upon themselves the burden of time-wasting, tiring rehearsals and expensive costuming, whereas the method used in these chapel programs is intended to encourage public performance without demanding fuss and worry of teacher and pupils. The first-graders took their program from regular lessons they had had in singing, language, reading, and art construction work."

Johnetta Anderson was chosen best girl basketball player at the game between the girls' freshman and sophomore teams. Sophomores won 10 to 26.

Junior Artists Appear in Allanreed Program

Miss Mae Slack, Miss Bettie Rose Kerr, and Mr. Herschel Coffee, members of the Junior Artists Lyceum, presented a program at the Allanreed high school last Friday evening.

The program consisted of violin solos by Mr. Coffee, readings by Miss Kerr, and piano solos by Miss Slack. Miss Slack also accompanied Mr. Coffee's solos.

Mr. Weldon Thompson, who accompanied the Junior Artists to Alanreed, stated that the audience was delighted with the program, and were unstinting in praising the program.

The Junior Artists were brought to Alanreed through the influence of ex-students of the College who are teaching there.

Lloyd Green Allen Chapter of Texas Scholarship Society Has Its Annual Banquet at Cousins

Many Out of Town Guests Are Present at Annual Banquet of Ranking Students; Convention Delegates Make Report.

Lloyd Green Allen Chapter of the Texas Scholarship Society held its annual banquet in Cousins Hall, February 27. The society is composed of the ranking ten per cent of the sophomore, junior, and senior classes of the West Texas State Teachers College.

Ray Daniel, president of the Chapter, was toastmaster. Miss Fay Lockhart, Miss Edna Graham, Miss Mae Simmons, Mrs. Shinn, and Jim Webb had places on the program.

Jim Webb and Ray Daniel, delegates to the Annual State meeting at Georgetown February 22, gave reports on the meeting, pronouncing it the most successful the State society has ever had. Two other states, Louisiana and Arkansas, asked for admittance into the society. Two schools from these states were admitted.

The following members of the Lloyd Green Allen Chapter were present at the banquet: Mrs. Emile Walden, Amarillo; Mrs. Vera Shinn, Taylor; Enoch Dawson, Tulla; Ethel Rice, Hereford; Mae Simmons, Memphis; Midge C. Childre, Hereford; Loraine Bruce, Amarillo; Gordon Fuller, Spearman; Elsie Simpson, Plainview; Sadie Rigler, Plainview; Ruth Anderson, Shamrock; Florence Barrier, Dallas; Amy Daniel, Sweetwater; Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Rhodes, McAllister, N. M.; Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Reed, Colorado; Bettie Rose Kerr, Fay Lockhart, Margie Lyon, Ray Daniel, Jim Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Strain, Mr. and Mrs. Braudt, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Allen, Fred Oberst, Winnie Mae Crawford, Edna Graham, Hattie M. Anderson, L. S. Baker, Fannie Cash, Mr. and Mrs. Irby Caruth, all of Canyon.

CADETS SPEAK HERE MARCH 27

Forum Discussion To Be Held Following Banquet at College

A. D. Cummings, John Overall, C. W. West and Maurice Terry will meet the Cadets of N. M. M. I. in an Open Forum Debate, here March 27. The question is: "Does Preparedness Advance the Cause of World Peace?"

This debate will not be open to the public, but will be given after a banquet for a limited number of men in the Home Economics dining room.

Although the first debate of the kind to be held here, it is not entirely new to the institution; as four representatives from W. T. S. T. C. met the Cadets in the same type of discussion at Roswell last year.

Cornetists Render Difficult Program

Prof. C. E. Strain and Charles Jr., entertained in chapel Wednesday morning with a program of cornet music. The numbers rendered showed wonderful control of music and of the instruments, and their tone quality was wonderful. The first two duets were "Carnival of Venice" and "When the Swallows Homeward Fly."

Charles Strain Jr. rendered "Commodore Polka," a very difficult cornet solo. Prof. Strain then played "Scintilla" (Waltz Fantasia), one of the most exciting and difficult solos the student body has had the privilege of hearing.

Miss Flora Doris spent the week end at her home in Clovis, New Mexico.

Mrs. Reeves has been out of school with the flu the past week.

Miss Louise Palmer spent Friday night at her home in Amarillo.

Intersociety Oratorical Contest to be held March Twelfth

Definite decision to hold the Interschool Oratorical Contest on March 12 was reached at a joint committee meeting of the four societies last Friday.

The oratorical contest is the feature of society activity during the present quarter and considerable interest is being evidenced by members of all the societies, leaders say.

The orations delivered must be written by the speakers participating and any subject may be treated. The committee report recommends that the oration be from seven to ten minutes in length, although no definite limit was placed on the speakers.

SHOP WORKING NEW FEATURE OF AGGIE CONTESTS

POULTRY AND STOCK JUDGING TEAMS WILL HAVE ANNUAL CONTEST HERE ON APRIL 3

MOORE SENDS OUT COMPETITION RULES

Farm Shop Work Competition is New Phase of This Year's Meeting; 25 Schools Have Vocational Departments

T. M. Moore, general superintendent of the annual contest of Panhandle Vocational Agriculture students, and members of his committee have sent out rules for the annual contest which will be held in Canyon April 3.

In the live stock contest the classes to be judged will be Jersey cows, Holstein cows, Hereford breeding cows, breeding hogs, class of draft horses and of draft mules.

The poultry judging and plant production contests as well as the stock judging will be judged under the same rules as the State contests.

In addition there will be contests in farm shop work, including raftier cutting, soldering, harness sewing, rope work and Ford trouble shooting.

The boys who enter the contests will be accompanied by their teachers; each school will select its contestants from the group studying vocational agriculture. The boys will come to Canyon bringing their own soldering irons; in the harness sewing each contestant must make his own thread.

In all the contests except the Ford contest, boys will work as individuals; in the Ford contest boys will work as teams.

O. D. Dinwiddie of Stratford, G. E. Voss, G. L. Boykin, and T. K. Morris have worked out the contest.

This event was participated in last year by approximately 150 high school boys representing about fifteen schools of the Panhandle-Plains section.

A new feature for this year is the Farm Shop contest. This promises to be one of the most interesting of the four divisions of the contest. Several schools have already expressed their intention of competing in these contests and a large attendance is expected.

Following is a list of schools in the Panhandle-Plains section offering vocational agriculture.

Clarendon, Dalhart, Flomot, Happy, Kress, Lubbock, Miles, Pampa, Perryton, Silverton, Stratford, Tahoka, Tulla, White Deer, Farwell, Dimmitt, Hale Center, Hereford, Littlefield, Miami, Olton, Panhandle, Quanah, Spearman, Sudan.

Sandy Morris Sings

"Sandy" Morris received a hearty welcome in chapel Saturday morning from both the student body and the faculty. His old cowboy songs, typical of the early western life, were enthusiastically applauded.

On request of the student body, Mr. Morris sang their two favorites "Get Along Little Doggies" and "Zebra Dunn," which he sang at a chapel program here last quarter.

SCHOLARS MEET AT GEORGETOWN

Ray Daniel and Jim Webb Represent Local Chapter at Gathering

Ray Daniel and Jim Webb represented the Lloyd Green Allen Chapter of the Texas Scholarship Society at the annual meeting held at Georgetown, February 22.

The first session of the Society was held in the Southwestern-University Administration building Monday afternoon, at which the business of the Society as a whole was discussed.

At the Society banquet held Monday evening, Mr. M. C. McElhannon, a former member of the faculty at Baylor Belton was elected president of the Society for this year. H. Y. Benedict was retained in his office as secretary and treasurer. The following new chapters were voted on and accepted into the State Society: Stephen F. Austin, Nacadoches, Sul Ross State Teachers College, Alpine; St. Edwards University, Austin; McMurry College, Abilene; Incarnate Word, San Antonio; Centenary College, Shreveport, La.; and Hendrick's College, Conway, Ark.

Centenary College and Hendrick are the first two out of state colleges to be received into the Texas Scholarship Society.

Mr. Webb and Mr. Daniel gave their report to the meeting of the Lloyd Green Allen Chapter at the annual banquet here Saturday night.

Mrs. Shinn Elected to Society

Mrs. Vera Shinn of Taylor was recently elected to junior membership in the Lloyd Green Allen Scholarship Society. Her average of grades was A, which means that she has made a straight A record.

Senior Girl Finds City Is Not Only Field for Helpful Social Workers

By Fay Lockhart

Slums of cities are not the only fields for social service work. Fannie Cash, member of the Senior class and student of Spanish, found her opportunity in Canyon in a poor Mexican home.

An idle remark made by a grocery clerk was the beginning of the story. Two Mexican children had just bought five-cents worth of kerosene. They could buy no more because "they just had one nickel at their house."

A few days later the same children, bright little chaps, were selling hot tamales on the streets. Miss Cash drew them into conversation, learned that their father was out of work, and asked where they lived.

With her mother she went to see the people and found conditions of appalling squalor. In the ramshackle old house which was the home of the family, there was not a single bed—only piles of quilts to sleep on through the bitterly cold nights of the Panhandle. No chairs were to be found. A stove, an old trunk, and a box which served as a table comprised the bulk of the furniture. No food or dishes were in sight. There were six children all under eleven years of age, the youngest being a baby less than a year old, and all were healthy despite the more or less unhygienic state in which they lived.

The mother could speak no English, but told Miss Cash in Spanish of her husband's unemployment and of the children. She explained that they had come from Colorado, where the children had been in school and where she herself had attended night school.

Miss Cash and her mother told some friends about the family and succeeded in finding work for the father. The people could not thank their benefactors enough, so great was their gratitude. But the agents of charity found themselves well repaid for their effort, knowing that six little children will at least have enough to eat this winter.

Denton Eagles Take TIAA Title From Buffalo Cagers By Copping First of Two Game Series 37-32

Pearson Succumbs to Influenza After First Game; Lowes Injures Ankle Saturday Night and Is Forced From Contest.

Cage Season Ends Tomorrow Night Lions May Prove to Be Formidable Opponents

Special to The Prairie.

DENTON, Feb. 28.—Splitting a two game series with the Denton Eagles here Friday and Saturday, the West Texas State Teachers College Buffaloes lost the coveted T. I. A. A. championship. The Herd was overwhelmed Friday, losing the game 37-32, but took the second 29-31 after playing an extra five minute period. The second game ended with a tie score 25-25 and Lowes, Buffalo center, scored the winning goal in the last seconds of the extra period, after a see-saw of points. The Eagles now appear to be champions of the T. I. A. A. as the Buffs dropped into second place by the loss Friday night. The Buffaloes left here late Saturday for Commerce where they will play two games with the East Texas State Teachers College.

Bad form and below-par playing lost the Buffs the first game and cost them the championship. It was not until the last three minutes of play that the Bisons reached the peak of form that has carried them so far in the conference race this year. The Buffs scored twelve points in the last three minutes of play, while the Eagles were making two but the lead of the North Texas crew was too weighty to be overcome.

Crump, Buffalo forward, who has been out with injuries, gave a good account of himself in the Denton games.

The North Texans are without doubt the fastest and most formidable adversaries to meet the Buffs this season. They have the smoothest passing machine and the most adept crew of goal shooters the Buffs have faced. The long road trip is a partial explanation of the Buffs' failure to display their best style, although the crew seemed in fairly good condition.

Pearson, center, was taken to a local infirmary while here, suffering with an attack of the flu. Captain Hale, Crump, Lowes, Hill, Herm, Pearson, Gamel, Reeves and Bivens make up the personnel of the Buff squad now on the trip.

Taho Lowes went out of the last game here with a badly sprained ankle immediately after scoring the winning points from the floor. Ikey Hill took the pivot post and Babe Bivens was sent in to handle Hill's guard position. Hill will likely play center during the East Texas games Monday and Tuesday nights.

The Commerce Teachers do not have a high percentage in the T. I. A. A. thus far, but this fact serves to make them more formidable opponents from the Buffaloes. The Bisons will undoubtedly be wearied from their fast games with Denton and their strenuous road journey. Should the Herd win the Commerce series they will stand second in the average column with a percentage of .800.

Independence Day Observed Tomorrow

Texas Independence Day will be observed by a cessation of activities at the College. Classes will not meet tomorrow and the students will enjoy the second holiday in a two week period.

Many permits to visit out of town have been issued by the Deans. Excursions to the canyons and outings of varied forms have been planned by the College organization who will endeavor to make the most of the holiday.

Others promise to spend the day "cramming" and in the production of term themes. This industrious class of students will be in the minority by a large figure, however, if plans now afloat do not go awry.

DIAMOND SQUAD SHOWING BETTER CLASS WITH ASH

BUFF BASEBALL SEASON TO OPEN WITH 12 GAMES IN A ROW; CANDIDATES ARE SHOWING STUFF

NEW MEN CROWD OLD FOR PLACES

Hitting is Rapidly Improving as Squad Gets Plenty of Practice With Ash Sticks; Hurlers Are Promising

Coach Eckhardt's baseball squad is working daily when the weather permits, and is showing unusually good early season form. It is necessary that an early start be made this spring, for Eckhardt states that the first collegiate games of the season will come twelve in a row without any rest for the West Texas nine. They play a game with Wayland here the last of March, a six game series in Abilene, and Tech and Wayland are met on the return trip.

Baseball material is much more plentiful and experienced this year than last, and competition for places on the squad is keen. A number of the old men are likely to be crowded out of their places on the squad owing to the arrival of untried but very promising timber, many of the recruits having had a full four years of high school experience. Elkins, Oliver, Wells, and Fenken will very materially help to bolster the pitching staff of the past season. The pitching department promises to look better under fire this season than it has for several years, though none of them have had a chance to show their complete line of wares because of the cool weather. Harrell, Captain Johnston, and Dixon are the old chunkers to report for the first call, and Crump will probably appear on the Teachers mound at the close of the basketball season.

Ross Tate will probably watch the first sack. Boone will likely pinch the second base, and Elbert Gee has shown a world of form in covering the area around the hot corner, his speed and flashy fielding adapting him to this position or to the shortstop place equally well. Gee's speed should be a scoring factor for the Buffs in the season to come, for once on base he's a hard man to deal with, and a little learning under Eckhardt's tutelage should fit him for big things against the Bison opponents.

McVicker, last year's star center fielder, has reported again for work with the horseshoe candidates, and will make a high bid for a berth on the squad. Bivens, another man of utility worth, will make his appearance at the close of the court season, also. Whitlington is hustling in the left garden, and looks much better in swinging the ashen club the last few days.

Big "Os" is working the boys overtime on days when the weather permits, for their prolonged series of games at the start of the season will probably call for so great amount of stamina and consistency that it behooves them to lose no time in making ready for the strenuous season.

Tate Fry Presented in Piano Recital Thursday

Tate Fry, graduate student in Piano under Miss Pauline Brigham, was presented in open recital by the department of Music here on last Thursday afternoon. A large and appreciative group of music lovers attended the recital.

Mr. Fry displayed much ability in technique, as well as beauty of expression. His first two numbers, "Arioso," by Bach, and Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" (Op. 27, No. 2) were exceptionally well handled. Three vocal numbers were included in Mr. Fry's recital, all of which were warmly received by the audience.

The complete recital program: "Arioso," Bach; "Sonata Op. 27, No. 2," Beethoven; "Nocturne," Schumann; "Polonaise C. Minor," Chopin; "Romance, E flat," Rubinstein; Songs: "Allah," "Thou'rt so Like a Flower," "The Lament," all by Chadwick, "Idyll," MacDowell; "Rustle of Spring," Sinding; "Albion Leaf," Grieg; "Minuet,"

Adding Machines and Automobiles

Last week a prominent manufacturer of adding machines advertised the sale of his millionth machine.

It has been almost a year since an automobile manufacturer, selling his cars from $1400 up, advertised his millionth unit. The automobiles which sell for a larger sum than $1400 and for less brings the total of automobiles to an almost unbelievable figure.

There is a curious analogy between the spread of the adding machine and the automobile, until each have found a definite place in the modern world. One is the instrument of accuracy and speed; making the labor of the business world easier and its methods more efficient. The other chariot is the symbol of transportation, of speed, and of pleasure. The first has made the science of arithmetic the plaything of even a child, the longest string of figures may be added at the touch of a red button, subtracted at the touch of a black button, and even divided by a simple process. It speeds the business of the world, permits accuracy to be a constant reality rather than a laborious ideal. Its only errors are traceable to its human operator.

The second has enabled men to laugh at distance, has opened the isolated farm and the inland hamlet to the pleasures of the city, and to its material advantages. It is the symbol of conquest.

Which of these two potent factors in our country's development is the most valuable? If the world had to give up one of these tools which would it be?

It could not be one without the other. In the old days when adding machines and automobiles were not even in the dreams of the most ingenious minds, there was little need for the adding machine. The automobile has made the adding machine a necessity. Were the business world forced to part with all their adding machines on the morrow, the resultant stagnation would make the automobile a useless instrument except for pleasure. If all automobiles were taken from industrial uses to-day, there would be no need for adding machines. The business of the world could easily be handled by the Mr. Lowrys of days gone by.

These two labor saving devices, one the perfection of accuracy, the other the symbol of conquest, are inseparable links in the span of human progress. Through their aid the business structure of the nation has been erected. Together with the many tools of different form but of a like purpose, they are the efficiency unit of our world.

Newspaper Recognition

One of the most gratifying of tributes to the profession of Journalism in its history, was paid recently by the unveiling of Mrs. Laura Gardin Fraser's bronze plaque, "The Long Long Trail." The "Long Long Trail" had its origin in the heated turmoil and swirling vortex of human activity that is the modern newspaper office. Sketching hastily, and in all likelihood, with a copy-boy standing near to snatch the drawing the instant the last line was finished,

J. N. Darling, cartoonist for the New York Tribune, produced an immortal tribute to Theodore Roosevelt. That was on January 7, 1919, when Roosevelt started on the "long long trail."

The cartoon, expressing in full vigor the spirit of Roosevelt, has been copied in bronze by Mrs. Fraser and is now hanging in the lobby of Hotel Roosevelt, New York.

Laboring under high nervous pressure the men of the Newspaper seldom produce such masterpieces. Yet there are news stories that are, line for line, as great as any recognized literary masterpiece treasured by the world. It might seem a bit ironical that cartooning, disowned as a bastard son by Art, should receive such recognition. It is all the more ironical that cartooning is a by-product of newspaper development.

"The Long Long Trail" will live as long as the name of Roosevelt. And yet it was produced merely as a part of the day's work—and to catch an extra edition, at that.

Such tributes fix the newspaper solidly in the artistic field. It is already fixed in modern life as an indispensable news disseminating agent.

Present Real Estate Conditions

The present real estate conditions are much different from what they were at one time. All of us can remember a time when the first desire of a newly married couple was to have a home. All is quite different now.

Upon a question in regard to the reason that she did not buy a home one wife replied, "Why should I buy a home? I was born in a hospital ward, reared in a boarding school and educated in a college. I was courted in an auto, married in a church, live in an apartment, spend my mornings playing golf, my afternoons playing bridge, and my evenings we go to a dance or to the movie. When I am sick, I can go to the hospital, and when I die, I'll be buried from the undertaker's parlor. All we need is a garage with a bedroom."

That is the manner that some people look upon the idea of buying a home. What use would they have for one? They would not live in it, except to sleep occasionally. They could have enough evening engagements obviate the necessity of many meals. Because of these conditions, the present seems to be a rainy day for the real estate dealers. Some of them will have to go out of business.

Of course, you will readily see that there will be little home life under these conditions. On the other hand, you can see something else. There is not to be the toil and work that there was heretofore. The woman is determined to have pleasure and enjoyment, and she generally gets it. Under the present status she will have more time to devote to her pleasure. As a result, there may be more of happiness and less of sighing. Other nations declare that the continual rush of the American nation is harmful. By doing away with the idea of needing a home, we can at the same time care for this rush. As a result we will, in the light of the other countries of the world, increase in efficiency.

The long haired fellow who wonders "what the world is coming to," hasn't the intelligence to go ahead of the world and find out.

If Stephen Decatur had lived in this age he probably would have remarked: "My car! in her races with others may she always win! But win or lose, my car!"

The campus philosopher remarked yesterday that "it's a poor knee, these days, that's skirt-covered."

BISON BULL (PEDIGREED BRAND)

By Squint

Attention, Mrs. Ferguson!

We need a separate building for our training school students. Urchins rush hither and yon in the hallways, and we scholars are forced to wend our precarious way thru this maze of juvenile humanity at the peril of our shins and life. This building doesn't look like a college, but it closely resembles an orphan asylum just as the dinner bell has been rung. The kids leave chewing gum in our chapel seats, drop baseball bats on our scholarly toes, hang their lunch baskets on our hat racks, and give this the appearance of a large town ward school. One new student here this fall presumably entered an economics classroom, and found himself to be in the fourth grade arithmetic class before the hour was gone after he had made valuable contributions to the class discussions, and figured that he would make an "A" when graded on the competitive basis. Children are the men and women of tomorrow, and they're all right in their place, but that place should be in a separate building.

You cannot judge a man's character and turn of mind from his writings, we are glad to state. Look at Byron, for instance, as well as some of the themes that we turn in to the English department.

No, friends, Henry the Eighth's supporters were not all made of elastic.

Several members of the art class are down with the bronchitis, they say. We have warned a number of them all along that they were chewing too much artgum, but they would not heed our admonitions. Impetuous Youth, O, Impetuous Youth!

P. T. Barnum, the big circus man, has said that the American public dearly loves to be humbugged. This may be so, but a smarter man could have said that so it wouldn't hurt our feelings so.

Le Mirage Write-ups

How'd you like for this write-up to go under your picture in the Annual?—Boisterous and assuming, so-and-so has won the disrespect of all his classmates. He is thoroughly disliked by the faculty as well, for he made the unusual grades of four D's and a Q last quarter. He is an athlete of note, too, having fumbled so consistently in the Blank College game that victory for us was impossible. So-and-so's chief diversion is gambling, and his hobby is that of never being on time. We predict a rotten future for so-and so provided he escapes the electric chair.

Once upon a time a long time ago a girl was out riding in a Ford coupe with her lover, and he hit a rough place in the road, his girl friend exclaiming, "Oh, I hurt my neck." He explained that the word neck was vulgar, that throat was more proper. He wasn't surprised a little while later to hear this same girl exclaim, "John, please throat me."

quickly, and later change them to conform to our moods. We some times like persons instantaneously, and find later that we have misjudged them. Often we decide before we meet a man that we aren't going to like him, and nothing that he can do to gain our friendship is successful. We become attached to a person because he possesses one quality that particularly appeals to us and not a combination of them. We judge people by their walk, talk, laugh, clothes, the way they eat soup, and in a thousand other ways just as unjust and silly. A great man has said that we should be quick to become acquainted, but slow to forming friendships. Be careful, and go slow, they tell us in choosing a friend, and there will be fewer howls later about the fickleness of friends in time of trouble. There is no one so capable of accomplishing our undoing as an old friend who has turned an enemy.

If all the time that has been wasted by college students could be concentrated and utilized, it could be used in Lansing, Michigan or Wheeling Virginia. It would make an entirely New York, or could easily milk a New Jersey or an old one either. A man from Massachusetts says let the college boys alone and just trust in Providence. We don't need to spur the boys on with words, just give them a plow and put them in a Littlefield in Plainview of the old papa and let them fondle the old Panhandle at meal time, and they'll lose this loafing habit. Let the boys drive a few tacks in the Muleshoe, let them toss the lariat at a Hereford or so; let them put out the Washington right and they'll appreciate a little loaf in the Canyon. Don't Pampa them so. Am I right, or Amarillo? Well, the static's pretty bad, so tra la la. We thank you.

They say the bath tub has been broken for a month over at the (Censored) House, and nobody staying there has found it out yet.

The Chinese call the English language the "language of the snakes." They have so named it because of the hissing sound that results from our pronunciation of the letter "s." The Asiatics use guttural tones largely, they say.

We're sad. Our boy friend, Dick Hughes, has gone off to foreign parts to have one of his foreign parts removed, his appendix, that is. They say the appendix and tonsils are of no use to us. Neither is our middle toe or our second million, but we want 'em both.

Keep your mouth shut when you're in a crowd or you'll catch the influenza, they tell us. Catching this disease is one of the least dangers from not keeping your mouth shut, it seems to us.

Intelligent selection and efficient gathering of routine news are primary considerations in reporting, and the ability to state news clearly and accurately is more important than what is commonly called literary ability. Beautifully stated half truths are insults to the reader and menaces to intelligent public opinion, which very largely is based upon newspaper information. The best prose is that which is clear, interesting, and accurate to the furthest degree possible. Literary polish consists of well chosen words and idioms and adequate imagination, all of which good reporting tends to develop.

The New York Times spends $10 in verifying every $5 worth of news it buys.—O. E. H.

Campus Society And Club Activities

Antlers and Elapheians Hold Joint Meeting

Antler and Elapheian joint meeting was a success and the program was very much enjoyed. Miss Hazel Mathis read, "Clothes," Felix Phillips talked on "Something" which proved to be really something when he had finished.

Willard Vineyard discussed "Nothing," but he proved nothing was something before he had proceeded far with his subject. Several numbers were played by the Antler Saxophone Quartet which were enthusiastically received. "Uncle Tommy" Clark then entertained the societies. He had intended, he said, to make a talk, but since the other speakers had talked about "everything under the sun" he decided to read a selection. Uncle Tommy was lured to the piano under the guise of playing the Alma Mater for the assembly's accompaniment, and acceded to the pleas of the crowd for a piano solo. By request he played and sang the song he gave the Elapheians in 1923, "Where the Plains Kiss the Sky."

The program was closed by singing of Alma Mater.

Cousins at Sesames Observe Washington Day

In response to the breezy invitation: "At the sight of the cherry We'd like to be merry, February twenty-two, So at Cousins Hall Cousins and Sesames all— A welcome is waiting for you," more than a hundred Cousins and Sesames met at Cousins Hall to celebrate Washington's birthday. Under bright flags and fluttering ribbons of patriotic colors the crowd played progressive "42" until invited to the dining room, where they were served with cherry pie.

Cook, and Professor Albert Barnett, members of the local department of Education.

Dean Lowes visited with Amarillo friends Saturday. Marie Wallace visited at the home of Mrs. M. M. Arbuckle of Amarillo this week.

Angles of Friendship Viewed by Y. W.

At the meeting of the Young Women's Christian Association last Wednesday, the term "Friendship" was discussed from various angles by several members of the organization. In addition to these talks the program consisted of a pretty piano solo by Margaret Anderson, a reading "That Old Sweetheart of Mine" by Delia Wyszog, and the reading of several famous quotations on friendship. Only a few members were present at this meeting. Next time discussion of the "Ideal Woman" will be continued.

Big Chief Sitting Bull Entertains Tribe

Twenty Red Men and their "squaws" were entertained with a party Saturday night at the home of Chief Wille McCarty. "42" and many other games were played. When the report came that the Buffaloes had won the crowd gave a yell for the Buffs. At a late hour unique refreshments of chocolate ice cream in the form of a Buffalo, and maroon and white cake were served.

Officers Are Elected By Spanish Club

The Spanish Club met Wednesday, February 17. After a short, interesting program, rendered by members of the second year class, officers were elected for the end of the year as follows: Thelma Parson, president; Jaunita Harland, secretary-treasurer; Montie Rockwell, reporter; Grace Myers, social chairman.

The students of vocation agriculture, one of the strong departments in the high school have constructed a building of their own where their classes in shop working meet. The laboratories for science and home economics are outstanding in their completeness and are perhaps the best equipped of any in this section of the state. ## The World's Loudest Voice

On the rolling plains of South Schenectady, in several scattered buildings, is a vast laboratory for studying radio broadcasting problems. Gathered here are many kinds and sizes of transmitters, from the short-wave and low-power sets to the giant super-power unit with a 50- to 250-kilowatt voice.

Super-power and simultaneous broadcasting on several wave lengths from the same station are among the startling later-day developments in radio. And even with hundreds of broadcasting stations daily on the air throughout the land, these latest developments stand for still better service to millions of listeners.

Only five years old, yet radio broadcasting has developed from a laboratory experiment into a mighty industry. And alert, keen young men have reaped the rewards.

But history repeats itself. Other electrical developments will continue to appear. And it will be the college man, with broad vision and trained mind, who will be ready to serve and succeed.

From the studio of WGY in Schenectady, six miles from the developmental station, there may be controlled a great number of transmitters, one of which is the first super-power transmitter in the world. WGY, together with its associates, KGO of Denver and KGO of Oakland, is the General Electric Company's assurance to the American public that radio broadcasting shall be maintained upon the highest standards.

A new series of G-E advertisements showing what electricity is doing in many fields will be sent on request. Ask for booklet GEB-1.

Men's Debating Teams Paired Off For Work

Men's debating teams have been paired off and work has definitely started on the actual preparation of speeches, Earl C. Bryan, coach of the teams, said last week.

Willard Vineyard and Irby Caruth will comprise one of the teams and Maurice Terry and Darris Chaney have been paired for the other. Ray Daniel will serve as alternate for either team. Carruth and Vineyard will debate the affirmative and Terry and Chaney the negative. These two teams will debate on April 9.

The Roswell open forum engagement will take place here March 27. Four men will participate in this argument.

Effective Tableaux Seen by Dramatics Members

One of the best tableaux given this year for the Dramatic Club was seen last Wednesday afternoon at the regular meeting of the club. This picture, "Why the Chimes Rang," was presented in an effective manner with well placed and nicely poised characters. The actual ringing of the chimes added much to the effectiveness of the scene.

After this tableau a short one-act play, "Three Dear Friends," was given. Some of the best character work seen in Dramatic Club this year, according to Miss Brown, head of the department of Public Speaking, was in evidence at the presentation of this enjoyable play.

MICHEN BUYS STOCK AND TAKES CHARGE OF OASIS

A. A. Michien, of Cisco, has bought the stock of the College Oasis from L. A. Warren. Mr. Michien assumed active charge of the confectionery last Wednesday.

Only the stock was purchased by Michien, according to L. A. Warren, former owner. The building and fixtures have been leased for a term of years.

Michien was former district sales manager for the Gulf Refining Company in this territory. He also has been connected with the First National Bank of Cisco.

DICK HUGHES UNDERGOES APPENDICITIS OPERATION

Dick Hughes, of White Deer, underwent an operation for appendicitis at St. Anthony's Sanitarium, Amarillo, last Thursday.

Hughes has been in school during this quarter. He is prominent in student activities, especially in Dramatic Club work. He served as assistant editor of The Prairie during this quarter.

Latest reports indicate that he is recovering nicely.

MISS BROWN WORKING UP A MUSICAL RECITAL

Miss Mary Morgan Brown of the department of Public Speaking and Miss Hazel Allen of the music department are working on the musical recital of Tennyson's "Enoch Arden." They hope to present this publicly sometime during the spring quarter.

The musical background for the poem was written by Strauss and is so arranged that the mood of the poetry is matched exactly in the themes of the music.

Misses Ruth Newton and Nell Galloway of Petersburg visited friends here Saturday.

Misses June Kolloer and Elizabeth Chandler spent Sunday in Amarillo.

Unkept beauty is less alluring to man than immaculate ugliness.

Vocational Teachers To Attend Institute

The State Department of Agricultural education does not have sufficient funds to hold its usual statewide conferences of Vocational Agricultural Teachers this year, so it will hold group conferences in connection with Teachers Institutes in various parts of the State.

T. M. Moore, vocational agriculture teacher of the high school of the West Texas State Teachers College has received word that one of the regional conferences will be held at Canyon in connection of the Plains Counties Institute, which is annually attended by more than 1000 teachers.

Five half-day sessions will be conducted for teachers of vocational agriculture and the state department will furnish a teacher and supervisor, according to C. L. Davis, director of this division.

Eagle Scout Award Is Made by Area Council

C. W. West one of the issue editors of The Prairie, has been honored with the award of an Eagle Scout Badge by the Area Council of Honor of the Boy Scouts of America. The awardment was made last week when that body met in Amarillo.

West took his Scout work at Portales, New Mexico, and has had it completed for some time. His record as a scout has been very commendable and his work has been outstanding. Only very few boys in the organization receive the honor of being made an Eagle Scout.

Best Prose in Dailies

Not in our leading magazines, but in our newspapers is to be found the best prose written in America today, said Dr. Henry Seidel Canby of Yale University faculty and editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, in a recent speech before New England Teachers of English.

He said that a knowledge of rhetoric is not enough to produce good English, but that there must be some motivating thoughts and emotions demanding expression. The language of the press serves as an example of writing with a swift, compelling purpose, Dr. Canby asserted.

Dr. Rollo W. Lyman, professor of methods of teaching English at the University of Chicago, urged teachers of English to cull the newspapers, saying up for use in the classroom the best that the daily press has to offer. English instruction, he said, must be in line with the everyday experiences of children of all nationalities and intelligence.

In part, Dr. Canby said: "The fact of the matter is that the best prose today is not found in the best magazines; it is not the product of those writers who write for these high-class magazines. Rather, our best examples of prose are being turned out in the columns of the American newspapers by certain 'low-brow' reporters with no reputation whatever as writers. The reporter's writings are full of the meat of the sort which America needs. He achieves his needs because he has to, and that is the answer to our problem. We must reach a point where we are less teachers and more critics, to assist the writers who have to write in obtaining the equipment they need, then to assist them in its proper use."—Cincinnati Times-Star.

"The newspaper touches varied fields of knowledge, and if the reader really seeks to understand things to which daily dispatches point he will educate himself."—Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin.

Flu Hits Canyon School—Third of Students are Out

"About one-third of the pupils in the schools are sick with the flu," stated Supt. A. D. Payne, yesterday.

Four teachers have been out most of this week, while others are almost sick enough to be at home, stated Mr. Payne.

Physicians state that while there are many cases of the flu this week, there are no serious cases. However, they advise those having the flu to take good care of themselves, as a mild case of the flu may develop into pneumonia.

W. E. Lockhart was elected Monday at the Boy Scout banquet in Amarillo as training chairman of the Panhandle district.
