Library Receives Large Number Of New Books

Over 20,000 Volumes are Now Available to Students

Titles of 127 new books received by the library range from "Coloring, Finishing, and Painting Wood," "From Galileo to Cosmic Rays," "The Great Powers in World Politics," "Fiesta in Mexico," to "The Dawn of Conscience."

W. T. library now contains over 20,000 volumes and subscribes to more than 100 standard magazines and a large number of county newspapers.

Aside from the above-mentioned library material, papers and documents published by the government, concerning agriculture, forestry, irrigation, shipping, railroad problems, engineering, aviation, and education can also be found in the library.

Shelf Established in 1927

In 1927 the first memorial shelf was placed in the library by Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Osgood in memory of their only son, Robert Manning Osgood, who died at the age of twelve years. On this shelf were originally placed twenty-nine selected volumes. Since that time other faculty members have contributed books and the shelf now contains several hundred volumes.

Volumes numbering up to 435, compose the B. A. Stafford collection. These books are largely of interest to those students particularly interested in the classical languages. Stafford was for many years Professor of Latin in W. T. Recently the children of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Younger lent the library 1018 volumes which composed a part of the library of their parents. The collection contains a varied assortment of titles although much of it is made up of books on religion.

1,000 Books on Rent Shelf

A rent collection, apart from the regular library facilities, is maintained to satisfy the urgent demand for contemporary fiction and non-fiction. This collection contains approximately 1,000 volumes and is enlarged almost weekly.

The Smithsonian Institute has presented the International Relations Club with a small library which is relative to the work studied by the club. This collection contains a hundred or more selected volumes.

W.T. Demonstration School Will Have Centennial Fair

One penny will be the admission to each exhibit at the Centennial exposition to be held Nov. 22 and 23 at the Demonstration School. In the past, the training school students have featured programs, but now comes the largest of all, a penny exhibit.

New library books will be purchased with the proceeds of the exposition.

The cotton industry of Texas is being studied by the seventh grade who will have an exhibit on that phase of the Lone Star State. The exhibit will show the development of cotton from the seed to the finished products.

Another group of intermediate grade pupils will exhibit specimens of Texas minerals.

Children in the primary grades are experimenting with native clay. The most attractive pottery modeled in the class will be featured.

As announced last week there will be exhibits on "Texas Flowers," "Texas foods," "Our Pets," and "Ways of travel in Texas."

The exposition will reach its culmination in the colorful pageant, "Texas Today," to be presented in the college assembly Nov. 23. The program will be under the direction of Miss Ada V. Clark.

Frances Holman, '35, is teaching arithmetic and geography in the grade school at Hartley and has charge of Girl Scout work.

SENIORS MUST BE PRESENT TO GET DEGREES

CLASS DUES SET AT $4.00 IN MEETING HELD TUESDAY

No degrees will be granted "in absentia" to seniors this spring, but will be conferred at the formal exercise in May. This announcement was made in a letter from Dr. J. A. Hill to Prof. F. E. Savage, sponsor of the senior class, the latter stated at the Senior class meeting held Thursday. This ruling is in accordance with those of many universities and colleges. Previously, a few degrees of this type have been issued from this school.

Class dues were set at $4.00 for the year, one half of which is to be paid each semester. This amount was recommended by Willie Boedeker, chairman of the committee appointed to investigate class expenditures for the year. The dues may be reduced the second semester if the full amount is not needed.

The members voted that senior pictures for Le Mirage this year are to be made without caps and gowns. Deane Fletcher, after conferring with the yearbook staff, said that this change is being made in other colleges of the state. Following this decision, Myles McGehee showed samples of the type and quality of pictures to be used in this connection.

Announcement was made that the first order for senior class rings has been sent, and the rings are expected to arrive within two weeks.

To date, ninety-one seniors have filed applications for degrees to be granted in the spring.

College Broadcast Given Over KGNC Friday Evening

Several members of the W. T. faculty, headed by Dr. J. A. Hill and accompanied by the W. T. band, broadcasted from station KGNC in Amarillo Friday evening, from 8 to 8:30.

Dr. Hill opened the program with an address welcoming ex-students to the annual W. T. homecoming Saturday. He made announcements as to the program, and urged that everyone be present to hear Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, former head of the NRA.

At the close of Dr. Hill's address the band played the "National Emblem March."

L. F. Sheffy, head of the history department, offered a western welcome to all ex-students and friends of the college.

After the selection "American Cadet" by the band, D. A. Shirley, chairman of the athletic commission of W. T., briefly mentioned a number of the former W. T. football stars who had laid the foundations for the present football club.

The band played the march "Little Giant," and Coach Al Baggett briefly outlined the Buffalo team which was to meet the St. Benedict's Ravens.

Larry "Moon" Mullins, coach of the Ravens, was introduced after two numbers by the band. He expressed sincere appreciation for the warm welcome accorded the Ravens by W. T. He gave the lineup of the team, and the assurance of an excellent game.

The program was closed with the march "W. M. B." by Hall.

HARLEY GOETTSCHKE GETS JOB IN COLORADO HISTORY MUSEUM

Will Have Chance For Promotion In Field
Chosen

Harley Goettschke, a sophomore in W. T. has accepted a position as preparator in the Colorado Museum of Natural History, Denver, Colo.

Goettschke left for Denver last week.

Prof. C. Stuart Johnston of the department of archaeology and paleontology said that Goettschke will be in line for great advancement in the field in which he is most interested, and that his department is indeed happy that the place has been made available to him.

Will Attend Night School
Goettschke plans to continue his college work through night courses in Denver University. He was a student there last year.

"I came to W. T. this year because of its outstanding advantages in the field of archaeology and paleontology," said the sophomore. "Probably no other college in the southwest has such possibilities," he continued.

In the summer of 1934 and 1935 he did extensive field work in connection with the Colorado Museum of Natural History and the Smithsonian.

Jimmie Ortiz Is Student In George- town University

James Ortiz of Santa Fe, N. M., ex-student of '35, has written a letter to Miss Mary Hudspeth and Miss Agnes Charlton informing them of his registration in Georgetown University at Washington, D. C.

Ortiz traveled from Santa Fe, N. M., to the Nation's capital via the hitch-hiking method. To ascertain his ability at "thumbing rides," he hitch-hiked to New York City to see the Baer-Louis championship boxing bout.

Ortiz concluded by expressing his sincere appreciation for the educational advantages of this institution.

Old Charlie Again Visits Buffalo Stadium--- Is Submissive But Inspires Football Squad

Passive for the first time in Buffalo Stadium, Charles Buffalo, mascot of the varsity football squad, inspired the team to new heights of performance against the Ravens Saturday. In an impressive ceremony, the huge mounted figure was carried down the field and across to the sidelines by a group of the Ruff-Nex pep squad.

"Old Charlie" died last summer following one of his periodical attempts at escape. He led an eventful life during his stay on the West Texas State Teachers College campus.

In 1922, an election was held by the student body of W. T. to choose a suitable mascot for the football team. The buffalo running against such stiff competition as the jack-

Campus Scenes Will Be Shown At Centennial

Added publicity will be given W. T. when colored motion pictures of the campus are shown at Dallas during the Centennial next year.

Kodachrome, a new process film to show color, has made possible an interesting collection of scenes in true and natural color. One shot shows the procession of the summer commencement.

In addition to the campus views a color film of a rodeo in Amarillo will be shown as typifying this section.

Palo Duro Canyon, state park near here, has been filmed and will be included in the pictures shown. Other shots are being added to the collection to make the showing more complete in detail and give people in other parts of the state an idea of this section.

Second Centennial Art Exhibit To Be Here In December

The second display in the series of the Pre-Centennial art exhibits in Pioneer Hall is the water color collection done by the late Boyer Gonzales, a native of Houston. The exhibit is a memorial, and will be here in December.

"I am delighted with the response received from all requests of Texas artists for the use of their works in our exhibits," said Miss Isabel Robinson, instructor in the art department. "They all seemed more glad to lend their exhibits for display in the new and modern gallery, in Pioneer Hall."

Some folks never realize what big chances they take until they reach the hospital.

Travis Shaw and Prof. L. F. Sheffy were delegated to purchase two calves from the herd of Col. Charles Goodnight.

When the two dignitaries got out of their car that morning, the colonel, even then an old man, was examining branding irons, indicating that a busy day was ahead. Mr. Sheffy, all smiles and courtesy, approached him and began, "I am L. F. Sheffy, professor of history at West Texas--"

The colonel butted in, "I don't give a damn who you are. What-in-the-hell do you want?" However, Col. Goodnight seemed

Six years and ten months of service rendered to the young people of Canyon, most of it spent in the Little House of Fellowship, has been an inspiration in the life of Mrs. Elizabeth Fry Page.

"I came here in a spirit of adventure," says Mrs. Page, "and arrived with a West Texas sandstorm."

Since that beginning Mrs. Page has been in constant companionship with the younger generation. She has developed her ideas with theirs, giving them the love of a friend.

Disregarding past achievements, Mrs. Page has worked untiringly at her tasks, making the Little House of Fellowship an increasingly popular center of student social life.

The Little House has not only served as a meeting place for the young people and organized clubs, but distinguished people from different parts of the world have been guests there.

Mrs. Page, a widely recognized poet and writer, wrote the words to this song which is used at student gatherings, and carries a warmth to the hearts of visitors that have sat by her fireside.

"O, Little House"

O, Little House of Fellowship,
Of friendliness and cheer
Where all alike a welcome find,
Throughout each sunny year.
May blessings crowd your portals,
And bounty fill your board.
And all who come within your walls
Draw nearer to their Lord.

Within the next few months, Mrs. Page is leaving to go back to her literary work, but she will carry with her many happy memories of W. T. students.

"My mind is just running over with college stories," says Mrs. Page. "The students of this college possess a greater degree of unselfishness, courage, and a more earnest desire for an education than any group of young people that I have ever known."

The following words in Mrs. Page's own poem express her desire concerning her life here, and her wish that a rosy afterglow may follow her work in Canyon.

"At Evening Time"

I sat by my window dreaming
Of sunsets I had seen,
The West was hidden from me,
And I sighed for its radiant
meins;
But a friendly eastern cloudlet
Caught tints of gold and rose,
Flooding my garden with beauty,
Just as the daylight's close.
And I breathed a prayer in the twilight,
That always it might be so,
Should I miss life's fuller glory,
God grant me an afterglow.

Batchelder Gives Radio Broadcast Over Station WWJ

C. W. Batchelder, professor of speech, addressed the nation on the Federal Housing Plan over radio station WWJ, at Detroit, on Oct. 26. The address was broadcast over the Columbia Broadcasting System.

to repent of his harshness and showed the two a fine day. They were fed at the chuck wagon and then taken to the buffalo corral. They chose two six-months-old calves and paid $200 each for them.

The student body had the ridiculous idea of rearing the calves by hand so that they might be led out on the field during football games.

Charles soon became ferocious to an extreme and broke out several times. Those in his path never stopped to argue with him. His last escapade resulted disastrously for him.

Oberst Receives Appointment As Biological Chemist

Dr. Fred W. Oberst, a graduate of the Demonstration school and of the College class of 1927 has just been appointed biological chemist in the United States public health service at the United States narcotic farm, Lexington, Ky. This hospital, which cost more than $5,000,000 was opened a few months ago. His work will be biochemical research on narcotic addicts.

Dr. Oberst and his family will move to Lexington within a few weeks. During the past five years Dr. Oberst has been associated with the department of obstetrics and gynecology, doing biochemical research work, much of which has been published in various medical and chemical journals. He is a member of the American Chemical society, Sigma XI, Phi Lambda Upsilon (honorary chemical society), Iowa Academy of Science, and the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine.

Dr. Oberst is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Oberst of Canyon. Two of his sisters are also graduates of W. T., and his wife is an ex-student. Dr. Oberst was a chemistry major.

Clyde W. Warwick Is Main Speaker In Assembly Tuesday

"What this country needs are trained men and women for public offices. Usually persons are elected on sympathy and need and not because they know anything about holding an office," stated Clyde Warwick, editor and publisher of the Canyon News, in assembly Tuesday.

"Lack of interest is a great handicap in the elections. The results of an election reflect the intelligence of the voters," he said.

"What price crime? Critics have been complaining of the cost of running the government, clicking off at the rate of thirteen thousand dollars a minute, while the cost of crime alone is costing the people twenty-eight thousand dollars a minute, almost twice as much as all the other government organizations combined," pointed out the editor.

"Theft is on the increase in every town in the United States, overflowing the reform schools and crowding the penitentiaries. Five million boys in this country are subject to crime. The major problem is to furnish some sort of pastime for these idle boys that will give them less time for committing these crimes."

Movement Begun For Compulsory Spanish Teaching

The McAllen Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a movement in the State Department of Education to make the teaching of the Spanish language compulsory in Texas high schools.

Miss Mary E. Hudspeth received a letter from Paul Vickers of McAllen, expressing his regrets that the McAllen Chamber of Commerce could not participate in the Spanish Teachers Meet, Oct. 26.

Mr. Vickers, manager of the McAllen Chamber has written an essay on the necessity of teaching Spanish, to be published at a future date.

The McAllen Chamber of Commerce has compiled a set of resolutions of why the teaching of Spanish should be compulsory in Texas State high school. These resolutions can be obtained by writing Paul T. Vickers, Manager McAllen Chamber of Commerce, McAllen, Texas.

Clyde Keith, '33, who coached the boys' athletics and taught history at Hartley for the past two years, is now superintendent there and coaches girls' athletics.

Criticism Intended For Purpose of "Saving Country"

Attacking both the "do-nothing, stand-pat" policies of the Republican administration under Hoover and departures from the original New Deal in the present administration, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson poured forth an eloquent barrage of criticism here Saturday as guest speaker on the forenoon Homecoming program.

Cheers and applause greeted the fiery orator time and again as approximately 2,000 persons realized their expectations concerning the virulence of the former NRA chief.

Criticism of the New Deal was aimed at "bringing about a change—to save the country."

Prefers New Deal

Although he rapped the New Deal severely, Johnson maintained, "I still take the New Deal over the Old Deal."

His hardest criticism was directed against wastefulness in relief work projects. The AAA, the WPA, and the PWA received the general's merciless condemnation. He charged the AAA with failure to maintain foreign markets "by selling surplus for what it will bring abroad instead of piling it up to overhang the market."

In addition he accused the AAA of "giving permanently to other countries our farm markets in the world. A continuation of this indefensible policy will bring such ruin as might frustrate the whole New Deal."

Raps PWA and WPA

Referring to the PWA and the WPA, he said:

"This country cannot afford and does not need the vast and multiplied costs involved in the fantasies of WPA and the torpor of PWA to relieve the distress of the unemployed. It is doing nothing (Continued on page two)

Homecoming Day Crowded With Varied Events

Many Organizations Help To Entertain Exes And Visitors

Another W. T. Homecoming has passed and Exes have returned to their homes.

A large variety of entertainment and the several meetings kept the crowd occupied during the day.

Beginning the day the Y. W. C. A. held an "I remember when" breakfast at the Blue Goose Cafe, at 8 o'clock. At 9 o'clock the Pi Omegas gave a coffee for ex-members of the society.

At 10 o'clock the bands from Panhandle, Hereford, White Deer, Dalhart, and the W. T. Band held a massed concert in front of the Administration building. Five selections were played with the instructor of each band leading a selection.

LET'S DO SOMETHING

Let's do something. Alright, suppose we get to work. Nothing can be done to bring back prosperity and the feeling of peace as long as we have the shiftless attitude that is worth nothing.

Why wait for a leader to plan every cautious step? Are we afraid to put our foot down for fear of the sinking clutches of quicksand? Why not build a bridge over it? It takes only a little back bending and mental labor to put the timbers straight and into firm ground.

The Peace Action, a news bulletin, edited by the National Council for Prevention of War has as a caption, "The World-wide Struggle for Peace Against War." But what good are bulletins and pamphlets going to do as long as we, American citizens, do not support them and take part? We are the backbone of the government, but we seem to be spineless. We have let things go so far that it is going to take support of all the mental and physical ability we have to set up these traditions of our forefathers that have been torn down.

Do we realize the depths of the muddy mire that we have got ourselves into? We are another generation that will have to set examples for the ones behind us to follow. Can we do it?

President Franklin D. Roosevelt urges work for peace. In his message from the U. S. S. Houston to the fifth annual forum on current problems sponsored by the New York Herald-Tribune, he said, "Government can be no more than the collective wisdom of its citizens. The duty of citizens is to increase the collective wisdom by common counsel, by the discovery and consideration of facts relating to the common life, and by the discouragement of those who for selfish ends or through careless speech distort facts and discriminate untruth. . . . Constant vigilance is necessary in a nation like ours, to see that forces make up for discord are discovered and discouraged."

Man is called the highest of all animals. Does he realize the responsibility that is placed on his shoulders today? Maybe he is afraid to take the step. Wake up! We aren't walking in our sleep, and it isn't a bad dream. Let's do something. Who will be the leader? The president of our country has said, "War by government must be changed to peace by peoples."

HOW ABOUT IT?

Some professors in this institution make it a practice to leave the classroom after giving an examination to their classes. Do they expect the students to refrain from cheating with an opportunity like that placed before them? Are they indifferent, not caring whether the student does his own work or not?

In some schools, examinations are given on the honor system. But there is a difference between using the honor system and in merely leaving the student to do as his conscience dictates. With the honor system each student takes a solemn oath that the paper he hands in to his instructor is representative of his own effort. Without the honor system the student feels free to cheat at every opportunity.

Frequently, a student who depends upon someone else for an answer to a question would have made a better grade if he had been guided by his own knowledge of the subject matter. Another evil of this practice is that students who do rely on their own efforts are prevented from concentrating by incessant interruptions from those who are not willing to learn for themselves. Too, it is not fair to the student who really works and is thorough in his studying for other students who cheat to receive equal marks in the course.

What are tests given for? We have always supposed that they were intended to be indicative of the knowledge a student has of the subject.

With the instructor leaving the room as soon as the questions are given, a test is nothing but a formality and is indicative of nothing.

WHAT IS EDUCATION?

(This is the second of a series of editorials concerning education). Educational advances physical and mental health, and develops the appreciation of life and an understanding of nature.

One's connection with some schools of thought should never cease. One is nearing the goal of a complete education when, first, he habitually maintains himself in good health; second, he is a constant learner in all problems of life; third, he maintains his home relationships with an appreciation of their meaning to himself and to society; fourth, he knows how to use his leisure time in ways that build up, enrich, and beautify his own life and the lives of others; fifth, he has some definite guiding power which is his own individual religion—one that he respects and depends upon for supreme council, and one in which he has complete confidence and faith.

An educated man will seek knowledge of the laws of nature which form so complex a science that man can only analyze and comprehend a very small part. He will try to accept and appreciate the wonders of nature which surround him, rather than manufacture explanations that are comparable to his own petty mind.

REGARDING FRESHMAN WEEK

We are now at the crossroads. Is it better to have freshman week or to have only one day for freshmen to enroll?

Our school has only one day, giving as its reason: a longer program has been tried but it was found that the freshmen did not enjoy being by themselves enough to stay here. Some of them went home until time for upperclassmen to arrive. They felt lost here by themselves.

However, the program of enrolling is not complete until the freshmen have had a physical examination and also English and psychological tests which are given later in the semester.

The University of Colorado, Boulder, finds what are known as "Freshman Days" very successful. Their program includes an English test, medical examination, psychological examination, and a vocational interest test.

The five day program also provides such entertainment as teas for women students, all-freshmen mixer, parties for both men and women, and a beefsteak fry.

The freshmen there, while planning their programs, are advised in much the same manner as they are here.

Both of the colleges mentioned seem to agree that a series of lectures for freshmen is a waste of time. At least neither college offers such.

JOHNSON—

Continued from page one) whatever toward the permanent solution of the absolutely necessary task of providing employment and it threatens the credit and fiscal soundness of the country."

"We promised to see that nobody is going to starve in this country, but we didn't promise to pay people millions of dollars for dancing eurhythmically, studying the sex life of the bullfrog and generally to spread the idea that the government owes every man a living whether he works or not."

Violation of Promises

His change of attitude toward the departure from the plans and policies he helped to draft in 1933 was made plain in this statement:

"What is being done is in absolute violation of what was promised in both the platform and the presidential campaign and that of itself destroys the confidence necessary to business activity."

Touches on Education

Included in Johnson's address were theories concerning education.

"I have a soft spot in my heart for teachers' colleges because I am a graduate of one myself," he declared. "I am a graduate of Oklahoma Northwestern Teachers College at Alva, Okla.—only we called them 'normal' schools then. I never quite knew why."

He criticized teachers' colleges for not teaching people how to think, especially on governmental and economic problems.

"If people don't think, they may lose all that both thinking and fighting have gained for us in a century. It is precious little that a person can be taught."

Johnson scorned charges that he is a political candidate of either party.

"Such reports," he said, "are too silly to notice except to say this:

"If I were politically-minded, I would find some place to light. I have attacked Republicans a lot harder than I attack these synthetic Democrats who are, I think, destroying both the New Deal and the Democratic party. When I get through, I won't have a friend in either camp."

Tobacco May Be One Cause Of More Wrecks

"Tobacco is one cause of eye weakness," Prof. L. S. Baker of the department of biology says.

Prof. Baker said that the indiscretion in the use of tobacco would cause a weakness in eyesight that is seldom if ever, noticeable to the person affected. Baker believes this may be one cause of the increasing number of car wrecks in the United States this year.

army man stated:

"The Republican party offers neither a man nor a plan. . . . They have no more chance of defeating the New Deal and Franklin Roosevelt than a one-legged man at a pants-kicking contest."

At the close of his address, Johnson gave members of the audience an opportunity to ask questions. Arguments resulted in which the general was victorious.

Introduced by McCarty
John L. McCarty, ex-student of W. T. and now editor of the Dalhart Texan, introduced General Johnson to the large audience of students, ex-students, and friends of the college.

Wallace R. Clark, chairman of the lyceum committee and head of the department of music introduced McCarty. Other distinguished guests on the platform were:

Mrs. J. E. Griggs of Amarillo; Judge L. N. Fischer, representing Gov. Allred; George Heath, president of the ex-student association; Wilbur C. Hawk and Gene Howe, Amarillo newspapermen; W. D. Irvin, Perryton; Ed Hardin, Amarillo Chamber of Commerce president; W. H. Fuqua, Amarillo banker; Mrs. Geraldine Green, dean of women; Miss Frances Robinson, General Johnson's secretary; Mrs. John E. Hill, Amarillo; J. O. Guleke, Amarillo, of the State Board of Education; John E. Hill, Amarillo member of the State Board of Regents; and Mrs. J. A. Hill, wife of President Hill.

Loud "Radios" Awaken Girls On Campus

In the wee hours of the night a group of boys, armed with buckets of white-wash and calamine, attacked the streets, sidewalks, and conspicuous places, the night before Homecoming and left evidence of their work in the form of signs welcoming the ex-students and urging the Buffaloes to "Beat those Ravens!"

After painting the town white they discarded their brushes and buckets of white-wash and faced the future. It was unanimously agreed that they all had wonderful voices, so they decided to give the girls of W. T. a break and serenade them.

The first place they visited was Randall Hall and after singing such songs as "Sweet Adeline," "Show Me the Way to Go Home," and "Goodnight Ladies," they trooped merrily over to Cousins Hall, and from the amount of applause, succeeded in arousing most of the girls from their dreams. From there they visited several of the boarding houses, each time receiving an applause from the occupants.

A compliment to the boys was that the next day several of the girls in the halls remarked that some one had turned their radio up awful loud during the night.

Homecoming Day Inspires Many Attractively Planned Social Events

Homecoming inspired many attractively planned socials throughout the entire day and evening. Ex-students renewed old acquaintances, chatted, and laughed together as they sipped coffee with the Pi Omegas Tuesday morning. Baskets of large yellow chrysanthemums decorated the music department in the Administration building, and yellow tapers lighted the table where Mrs. A. M. Meyer, sponsor of the club, poured coffee.

Y. W. C. A. Entertains

At the same time Tuesday morning ex-Y. W. C. A.'s were being entertained with a breakfast at the Blue Goose Cafe. Miss Hester Gates presided at the tables. The informal program followed a plan of "I remember when—." Miss Charlotte Alice Tubb rendered special xylophone solos.

W. A. A. present members and exes met and mingled throughout the day in the women's gymnasium. Miss Ruth Cross and Mrs. Florence Fulton, assisted by members of the association, presided at the table which was centered with a miniature gridiron. The gymnasium was hung with streamers and pennants maroon and white. Small hand-painted badges were presented to each guest who called.

Football Queens Presented

Before the initial kickoff of the Buffalo-Raven football game Saturday afternoon, Miss Virginia Murray and Miss Zua Gae Warner were escorted to the reserved box for sponsors of the game at Buffalo Stadium.

Miss Murray of Canyon was escorted to the seat of honor by Joe Collins, Canyon. Miss Warner of Amarillo was escorted by Ogden Stroud, Canyon. Miss Murray wore a one-piece sport frock of green velvet, black accessories, and black fur coat. Miss Warner was attired in a stylish model of red velvet, black accessories, and black fur coat. Both sponsors wore shoulder bouquets of red and white chrysanthemums.

Homecoming Dance

The climax of a gala day on W. T. Campus was the Homecoming dance sponsored by the Pi Omega and Eligible Bachelor Clubs. From the ceiling of Burton Gymnasium hung colors of the Alma Mater in patterns of crepe paper streamers. At one end of the hall rested the large portrait of a Buffalo, and the end of the hall supported the portrait of a Raven, St. Benedict's mascot. Music was furnished by Ned Bradley and his orchestra from Lubbock.

FOOTBALL QUEENS SPONSORED BY PI OMEGAS

Before the Homecoming game the football queens, Virginia Murray and Zua Gae Warner were escorted to the throne of honor by Ogden Stroud and Joe Collins. The Pi Omegas, who formed an impressive circle around the throne released an array of maroon and white balloons, adding color.

Just before the kick-off, a group of Ruff-Nex marched to the center of the gridiron escorting Charles Buffalo, college mascot that died last summer. Four members of the squad led the procession with a banner bearing the words, "Old Charley fought and died for W. T. Fight Buffaloes, Fight." The crowd stood in silent tribute while the band played Alma Mater.

During the half the band paraded the field and formed the letters W and T. A mass band furnished music for the entire game.

Co-ed Believes Honesty Is Best Policy ferrors! Heavens! With frantic fear gripping her heart, the co-ed ran back to her typewriter and searched vainly. They were gone. And it had been only a minute since she went off and left them right there by the typewriter.

Try as he might, Mr. Sandman could never get a grain of his magic into the eyes of the co-ed that night. Toss! Tumble! Self-condemnation for leaving them so carelessly about. At last the dawn and a quick and nervous journey to school and to the lost and found department.

Only after asking all potential "finders" the co-ed at last obtained her lost diamond and high school class rings, from Prof. R. H. Jennings.

Some honest Mr. X. had found them on the table where the co-ed had laid them after removing them to facilitate typing.

Now, the co-ed would like to know who the honest man is. Who can tell, there may be a "smacking" reward awaiting his disclosure.

Harold D. Bugbee Has Art Exhibit In Pioneer Hall

A collection of oils and lithographs, the work of Harold D. Bugbee, young Clarendon artist, now hangs in the Mary E. Hudspeth art gallery in the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society Museum as the first representation of the Centennial Art Exhibit.

Miss Isabel Robinson, head of the art department of the college, and Dr. J. A. Hill, have extended invitations to ten or twelve native artist sons and daughters of Texas to participate in a continuous exhibit to be shown in the local art gallery during the Centennial year.

Each exhibit will remain in the museum for approximately a month and Mr. Bugbee's collection will remain until the first of December, when it will be replaced by a memorial exhibit of the famous Texas marine artist, Boyer Gonzales, who died last year.

Mr. Bugbee is purely a Panhandle artist, and the exhibit now showing is typical of this country. Scenes of round-up, trail herds, cowboys, bucking broncos, branding scenes, deer, plains, far-off caprocks, and canyons are numerous in the collection.

Real Palmist Foretells Girls' Futures

A real palmist read the hands of the college girls who attended the Women's Athletic Association Halloween party Wednesday night. She told those girls things they thought were true and wanted to hear, and she told them things they hope will never materialize.

One smart girl went into her booth a la usual, had her palm read, and later entered again, costumed, and was told identically the same thing. So what?

The mysterious palmist later told wiled tales to the girls in the darkness of the gym. Then the group danced, ran all over the city on a scavenger hunt, at candy and apples, and all in all had a typical Halloween party, even to the extent of "bobbing" for apples.

Inability to recognize anything but trouble is the kind of stuff grouches are made of.

Co-Ed Artist Will Sketch Portraits

A new discovery among the co-eds of W. T. is one who has an artistic ability.

Elizabeth Tittle of Plainview, a senior in W. T., is an artist at heart and says she likes the work. "I am willing to do a sketch of anyone who will sit for me," she said.

Miss Tittle made the statement that she hopes to do a charcoal sketch of every girl in Cousins Hall before long and have them on exhibit in one of the rooms.

Indian Relics Are Addition To Susan J. Allen Collection

Baskets woven by skilled hands, beads, dolls, pottery, silver work, preserved through the centuries will soon be on display in Pioneer Hall.

A glimpse or some of the two hundred baskets is now available. One case of trinkets stands out for speculation of visitors. They were found over the barren lands of the Southwest where wild, uncivilized Indian tribes roamed years ago. All that is left to tell the stories of their lives are the remnants. These are all a new addition to the Susan J. Allen collection in the Museum.

Miss Allen became interested in this work when a child, traveling with her father over the plains. The fact that she is now living in Haverford, Pa. does not afford a reason for the display in this museum. Miss Allen picked up these antiquities in the various sections of this country and had them placed in a collection for every one to see. Indian literature comes next in line in her collection.

Ex-Student Letter Savory With Distinctive Flavor

Sometimes letters of distinctive flavor are received in college offices. Recently this one came to the Bureau of Public Service: "In reply to your letter about the home economics vacancy at—I wish to say that I am not interested in the position. I have a permanent job. It is located on a farm near—. I was married Sunday and we are very happily employed in getting our new home arranged. In regard to the salary you asked about on the form you sent a few days ago, it promises to be a very happy, comfortable home, and the nature of my work deals very closely with home economics."

BONFIRE PEP RALLY HELD FRIDAY NIGHT

Much enthusiasm and school spirit was exhibited at the pep rally in front of the bonfire Friday evening. An event of this sort is a tradition of W. T., always being held the night before the homecoming football game.

The student body convened at the museum and then marched to the scene of the bonfire. In the flickering light of the fire, pep leaders Winifred Lewis and Marvin Callham gave pep talks and led a series of yells. The singing of Alma Mater concluded the rally.

When Love Came to a Tomboy! Read about it in S. Andrew Wood's Novel, "Goose Fair," beginning in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next Sunday's Chicago Herald and Examiner.

N. M. M. I. Broncos Will Invade Buffaloes' Corral Saturday

Game Will Be Slug-fest From Whistle to Whistle

The Broncos of New Mexico Military Institute will gallop into the Buffalo corral Saturday afternoon, Nov. 9, to resume a grid war that has existed between the two schools for a number of years.

In past years this event was one of the most exciting games on the schedule so far as the Buffs were concerned, and although interest has sagged for the last year or two, this game will be a slug-fest from whistle to whistle.

The Institute has been the victim of several set-ups this season; having lost to New Mexico University as well as several other leading clubs of the New Mexico circuit.

The West Texas coaches fully realize the spirit that prevails in a military school, and they know that the galloping steeds of Captain Brown will be hard to send home with a defeat hanging from their manes.

The Institute will depend upon Honochek, sent down from Temple by Pop Warner for more seasoning, to tear the Buffs' forward wall to pieces. It has a boy named Miller from Clovis high school that will be hard to stop on end runs. The N. M. M. I. line is a well balanced unit from end to end.

Coach Baggett is expecting a hard game from the Roswell boys. He knows that the Institute considers a victory from the Buffs a successful season, and he will spare no end to send them home "sadder but wiser."

Stadium Static

This world of sports! What a dizzy sea of mud it is. Every man on every corner can tell you who the Army will play this week end, and who will start the game.

The rod-riders can explain just why the lateral pass rule will make the yearly attendance reach a new high in football.

Cowboys on Montana ranging sing "On Wisconsin."

Lumberjacks in the Yukon sympathize with the Chicago Cubs in their hatred against big "George." Chinese opium dealers in Frisco will bet two to one that Ohio State will cop the Big Ten title.

Laborers in the cranberry swamps of Maine say that a Bradley entry will win the Derby next May.

Traders in the Arctic Circle contend that Fenway Park in Boston will enable Jimmie Foxx to raise his batting average 35 points that is if Jimmie goes to the Sox).

Globe trotters read of the tennis skill of Ellsworth Vines while browsing among the ruins of ancient Greece.

Yes, it's a dizzy world, but it's a great one. Five times as much space is devoted to sports now as was three years ago. Managing editors are pulling their hair for want of more sport space. It's a great diversion. It relieves the mind of many of its worries, and its cause is working toward a great end.

The Buffaloes suffered a severe set-back last week when George Caviness suffered a broken shoulder. He will probably be out for the rest of the season.

Floyd Murry, speed merchant from Floydada, received a slight knee injury last week, but it will probably respond to treatment in time for him to be ready for N. M. M. I.

It is a little early to start talking basketball, but there are some good games in store for the student body this year, and we are going to have a "sweet" team.

A few short jabs: Jack Colvin's shining face will run our basketball stock to a new high. . . .

Captain Willie Boedeker will be "shorty" this year—he is six feet three. . . . They say that Conway Butler can do more with a basketball than Sir Malcolm can do with a speedometer—that is hot news.

Frank Van Noy puts on full regalia to play ping-pong—quote Jackson. . . . Odus Mitchell of Pampa and Elmer Shotwell of Longview are probably the two most widely known coaches that call W. T. Alma Mater. . . . The freshman football team has some good Buffaloes in the making. . . . Anyone wishing ping-pong opposition please call at the Buffalo Courts. . . . Plans are being made for a "greater" Great Plains Meet. . . . There are some neat handball players on the campus. . . . Some of last year's "fish" basketballers will make strong bids for the varsity.

P. B. Grissom, M. A., '33, is now superintendent of school at Andrews, Texas: "Oil development in Andrews county promises to make Andrews one of the strongest schools in the oil belt." Mr. Grissom was much pleased with the recent ex-student issue of the Prairie.

Netmen Prepare For Match With Goodwill Team

When the Buffalo netmen travel to Goodwell, Okla., and cross racquets with Panhandle A. & M., they will be undertaking the most severe test of their season. Since their defeat at the hands of the Cadets from Roswell, N. M., the racqueteers have been pointing to this match in earnest.

George Smalley, Glyndon Riley, Norton Curry, Darrell Hemphill and Bruce Howard will see service in the match. Hemphill is the only newcomer of the quintet, and his addition should strengthen the team.

HOMECOMING—

Gen. Hugh Johnson spoke to a crowded auditorium as conditions of the weather kept the speaker inside. Following the lecture, the T-Anchor boys, led by Prof. T. M. Moore, served barbecue.

At the football game the five bands played and gave several demonstrations. At the beginning of the game the football queens were presented by the Pi Omegas followed by the Roughnecks' presentation of Charles, the buffalo which was mounted for the museum.

At the half the W. T. band marched on the field and formed the letters W. T. Then the bands held a massed concert on the field.

At Burton gymnasium, a dance concluded the day for the Homecoming exes and the students. The

RAVENS DEFEAT BUFFS IN HOMECOMING GAME 21-7

Dow Draws First Blood With Touchdown In First Quarter

The Ravens of St. Benedict's rolled over a stubborn Buffalo eleven 21 to 7 before a record homecoming crowd, and again turned toward the bluffs of the Missouri River to continue the dazzling touchdown parade that has marked them as one of the outstanding teams in the nation.

The Buffaloes drew the first blood in the opening quarter after Murry, Clark and Van Noy placed the ball in position for Dow to crash it over. The burly Buffalo fullback cracked Mullins' shock troops for the touchdown, and kicked the extra point.

At this point Mullins sent in his first team and the Buffs' lead faded fast. The highly praised backfield of Neff, Martin, Dana-music was furnished by Ned Bradley and his orchestra from Lubbock.

M. W. Graves, who is now living at Frederick, Okla., writes, "We have been talking about Canyon all fall, and wished that we might be present at Homecoming, but my work keeps me early and late and the drive to Canyon is forbidden unless one has plenty of time."

her, and Weiffenbach lived up to all expectations as they began their power drives toward Buffalo territory.

After Champion got off an 80-yard punt early in the second quarter that went over the end zone, Neff immediately hit his own right tackle for 65 yards, being hauled down from behind by Dow. Three Raven thrusts put the ball on the Buffs 8 and Neff again rounded end for the touchdown. Duetsch converted from placement.

In the second half after an exchange of punts, Neff lateraled to Weiffenbach who ran 16 yards for a touchdown. Deutsch again kicked the point.

In the third quarter with Dana her, Neff, and Weiffenbach hitting the Buffalo forward wall hard and often carried the ball to the Buffs' own 8 yard line where Danaher circled end for the pointer. Deutsch's talented toe again came through for the extra.

In the fourth quarter a fighting Buffalo line that never gave up all afternoon despite the fact that they were playing against a superior team, began boring into the Raven backfield and Martin was again forced to punt. With the ball on the Buffs' own 43 yard strip, Gibson, Slack, and Murry pounded out a first down, only to have the final gun find them with the ball in their own possession on the Ravens' 41 yard line.

Mild and yet they Satisfy —how do you do that?

Well, to start with, we take tobacco from our own Southland—mild ripe tobacco with lots of natural flavor but no harshness or bitterness.

THEN AS A SECOND STEP—

We blend this home-grown tobacco with spicy, aromatic Turkish tobaccos from across the seas. These Turkish tobaccos, you may know, have a flavor and fragrance entirely different from our own.

AS A THIRD STEP—

These tobaccos are cross-blended—welded together—the best way we've found to get a more pleasing flavor and a better taste in a cigarette.

THAT'S WHY CHESTERFIELDS
ARE MILD AND YET
THEY SATISFY

In a single day people from ten different states visited our Chesterfield factories. 8,200 visitors during the past year saw Chesterfields made.
