W. T. Sample Room Library Innovation

A new project begun in the college library recently is the sample room Miss Tennessee Malone, head librarian, has planned and which, if intentions are realized, will be kept open during the Educational Conference.

The plan is to display sample copies of books on the state's approved list, from which the classroom teacher is very often asked to select books. They may or may not be graded according to value. Miss Malone stated that that would be unnecessary since the books are graded on the list.

Companies who are co-operating thus far by sending free copies of their books are Macmillan, Rowe Peterson, Newsom, Merrill, and the University Publishing Company. It is the hope of Miss Malone that other companies will submit copies of books to be placed in this sample room.

CONTRACT IS LET ERECTION OF DORMITORY

Lubbock Man Is Low Bidder For the Building

APPROVED WED.

Contract to Washington Before Work Starts

Bids were tabulated Tuesday on the dormitory for men on the campus of W. T. R. A. Stuart of Fort Worth and J. D. Jackson of Alpine, represented the Board of Regents here Tuesday, but the full board will meet next Wednesday in Fort Worth for the final award of the contract. However, the contract must be approved by PWA in Washington before work is started.

J. B. Maxey of Lubbock was the lowest of four general contractors, with a bid of $33,317.50. E. C. Vader of Clayton, N. M., was recommended for the heating and plumbing at the bid of $7,724.

PWA has allowed $47,000 for this project, including $5,000 for furniture. The bids received, together with the other necessary expenses will take practically all of this grant. PWA was represented by E. T. Wright and J. C. Kriz out of the Fort Worth office.

Mr. Maxey will not be able to start work on the building until final approval has been received from Washington.

Dr. J. A. Hill states that the bond transcript for the Home Economics demonstration cottage and the ten resident cottages will be signed by the board of regents next Wednesday. After this is done, these two projects will be in line for letting the contracts. The former is a $6,500 project, while the latter calls for $29,000.

The addition to Cousins Hall has passed the awards board, and is now awaiting the approval of legislation which has passed at the present session. If this bill of the legislature is approved at Washington, this project will be in line for a contract.

The fifth project, the athletic ground improvement and out-of-door swimming pool, has not passed the awards board being held up pending the legislative act. This is the only project which has an uncertainty of being finally approved and constructed, but, everything indicates to its final acceptance.

MRS. SWISHER SUCCEUMS TO PARALYTIC STROKE

Friends of Miss Mattie Mae Swisher will be sorry to learn of the death of her mother, Wednesday, March 13, in Grafton, West Virginia. Mrs. Swisher's death was caused by a paralytic stroke.

Misses Margaret Beck and Josephine Lane visited their parents in Pampa, Monday afternoon.

TO OUR VISITORS:

The West Texas State Teachers College at all times is glad to take its proper place in the development of Education. It is especially happy to have the teachers of northwest Texas, friends of Education in general, and leaders of Educational work in various sections of the state or in other states to come to us for a careful consideration of matters of vital importance to the cause of public education. It is fitting for you to be here at this time to give further consideration to a study of problems of Curriculum Construction for schools of this section. Many people think much should be done in regard to this matter. It is important that the right thing and not the wrong thing be done. A careful analysis of this important problem, it seems to me, indicates at least four basic principles upon which this subject may be approached. They are—

I. The activity of the individual is essential for his development, and it is in proportion to his participation in the activities of his environment, enjoying its benefits, overcoming its difficulties, and sharing its responsibilities, that he is able to function effectively in the situations which confront him in his daily life.

II. As a director of learning the teacher's attitudes, interests, outlook on life, innate and acquired abilities, scholarship, and sensitivity to the problems arising from the child's environment are significant influences in realizing the objectives of education.

III. Every individual is entitled to educational opportunity commensurate with his ability and interests up to the point where the law of diminishing returns to society indicates further provision will not be profitable either to the individual or to society.

IV. Facts and principles scientifically determined and verified are basic to the development of an effective school program.

If these or better principles are used as a basis for thinking in this conference, much good will undoubtedly come from our meeting together at this time. We of the college are indeed glad to have you meet with us for this conference.

R. P. Jarrett,
Dean of the College

People With Vacant Rooms: Notice!

The Housing Committee for the Educational Conference is requesting all people who have rooms or rooms and meals available on March 22 and 23 to list their prices and the number of persons they can accommodate.

Dr. Harris M. Cook is chairman of the committee; he can be reached at telephone 72; other members of the committee are Mrs. Geraldine Green whose telephone is 81, and Professor T. M. Moore, whose number is 37. It is estimated that several hundred rooms will be needed for Friday night.

Local Studes To Attend IRC Meet

The International Relations Club, in its last meeting, made plans to send one, and perhaps two, cars to Alpine to the State I. R. C. meeting that is to be held there the 22nd and 23rd of March. The meeting was held at W. T. S. T. C. last year.

Many local students have shown great interest in attending the meeting in Alpine, and, as a consequence, the following students have made arrangements to go: Glen Reeves, Lewis Shirley, Francis Rogers, Mable Hare, Seth Lindsey, Virginia Ann Robey, and Miss Ima C. Barlow and Professor Stuart H. Condron.

Summer Bill For the State Colleges Passes In Senate

Approval of the summer school bill for 1935 was given Tuesday in the Senate. The bill provides for a continuation of regular salaries of teachers through the summer months. Owing to the limited appropriation allowed in years past, summer salaries have been greatly reduced.

The Senate approved $21,140 for W. T. for this summer.

The House has not acted upon the summer appropriation bill as yet, but the appropriations committee has recommended the same amounts as allowed last year, or $12,600 for W. T.

Curtis String Quartet Famous Instruments Date Back To 16th Century For Wealth of Tone Quality

During its last seven seasons of ensemble work the Curtis String Quartet, which will appear here in the Administration Auditorium at 8:15 o'clock, March 20th, has become famous for its wealth of tone quality which, without doubt, excels all others in this particular.

It is well known that four good artists, even if their instruments are not of the finest standard, can produce an acceptable and enjoyable tone in their joint work, but with instruments that are of the highest standard of artistic production together with the seasoning influences of a century or more of time, the tone becomes one of surpassing beauty.

Such are the instruments that were given to the members of the String Quartet upon its organization, coming from the very famous collection of the Curtis Institute of Music of Philadelphia and which it will use in its recital here.

The viola is perhaps one of the greatest antiquity, having been made by Gasparo de Salo, Brescia, in 1570; the violinello is a product of Giovanni Rogeri, Brescia, in 1701; and the two violins, one by Francesco Goffriller, Venice, and the other by Pietro Guamerius, Venice, in 1725 and 1750.

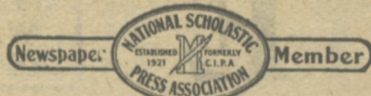

Small wonder that in the hands of these young individual experts, the tone quality of the Curtis String Quartet is of transcendental loveliness. Their programs are much in demand.

When the members of the Quartet drove to their summer home in Maine last summer, it was for the purpose of rest and relaxation and later for rehearsing their programs in preparation for a strenuous season ahead of them.

Almost immediately, however, requests began to be received not (Continued on page two)

FOR YOUR BENEFIT

To point out to students the advantages of staying on the campus to receive their guests and to attend the meetings Friday and Saturday seems a little odd. Still, there are those who do not appreciate the opportunity offered them on those two days. Perhaps a tangible reason would serve to arouse determination to remain here.

On Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday a district convention of the P. T. A. will be held in Canyon. Educational leaders of the region from which W. T. students are drawn will be here taking an active part in the program which directly affects their children back home. P. T. A. members will be interested to know how many of the people from their towns, people who will soon be applying for positions in their schools, remained in Canyon to become acquainted with the new educational work being done in this area. Teachers who are acquainted with the curriculum revision movement in all its ramifications, with problems that are endangering the public school system of today, and with suggested remedies, are more and more in demand. A tangible (pecuniary) reason is this for remaining here and attending the meetings of the Educational Conference.

Aside from that thought, is it not worth something to people who are endeavoring to broaden their visions to glean new ideas and thoughts from the addresses to be made by people who are leaders and thinkers and scientists in the field of Education?

Greet your guests. Show the people you know around the A-I school plant you attend. Entertain them so they will want to come back again.

America is the only country where the schools teach languages in such a way that no pupil can speak them. This is the only country in which one cannot tell from the way the college graduate speaks and writes whether he is educated. . . . A student can get credit toward his degree by listening to lectures about the life of Beethoven, but let him play Beethoven and he is out.—John Erskine.

JOHNSTON AND ROBINSON DISCUSS INDIAN ART
In connection with the study of Indian Art, the W. T. H. S. art class was given two very interesting lectures on this subject by Miss Isabel Robinson and Mr. C. Stuart Johnston.

Miss Robinson's talk dealt mainly with the discussion of real Indian Art. To make this type of art more graphic, the speaker showed the class specimens of Indian work. Outstanding among the examples were the serapes, Navajo rugs, pottery, paintings, jewelry, and pictures made by the sand painters.

Mr. Johnston opened his lecture by showing the class some lantern slides of the old pueblo Indian ruins to be seen in the Southwest today. He then discussed the types of houses used by the Southwestern Indians. Baskets, he said, seemed to be more commonly used by these Indians than pottery. Probably the most interesting topics of Indian life discussed by Mr. Johnston, were the making of the well-known arrowheads and the methods of war used by the Indians of this territory.

Roman burials always took place by torchlight in order that magistrates and priest might not be disturbed by seeing a corpse, and so prevented from performing their sacred duties. . . . "Funis" is the Latin word for torch, and that is how we got our word "funeral."

MISS DENNIS ENTERTAINS HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

Miss Orpa Dennis was hostess to the Home Economics Club Saturday evening, at the home of Miss Hudspeth.

Games of bridge, dominoes, forty-two, and cards were played by the group in rooms attractively decorated in St. Patrick's Day motif. The same theme was carried out in the refreshments of ice cream and cookies.

The next three meetings of the club will be in charge of the freshmen, sophomores, and juniors in the club with the seniors judging the programs. The winning class and the judges will be entertained by the two losing classes.

The Tumbleweed was edited this week by Billie Norman, in the absence of Editors Oliver and McCaslin, who were unable to edit the column due to work in the senior class play.

Recently when the workers in the public utilities plants in El Paso went on a strike, among those suffering from the shut-down of current was the New Mexico State College. The senior mechanical and electrical engineering students were employed to aid in temporary relief. Two hours and fifty-five minutes after they had been told about the catastrophe, they had moved two tons of electrical apparatus from the second floor of the engineering building to the basement, installed an emergency steam line, fastened their generating equipment to a Weston engine and had the current flowing through the lines again.—The Round-Up.

What is believed to be one of the broadest one-semester courses ever offered in a college is being introduced by Dr. Ernest G. Schwiabert, head of the Valparaiso University history department. Titled, "The History of Civilization," the course will be conducted by 10 professors who will present the contributions of the various countries to the progress of man since the beginning of civilization. Each professor will give a series of three lectures on his special subject and at the end of the course, a comprehensive examination will be given over the whole 10 courses.

MISS MCMURTRY ENTERTAINS

Cousins Hall was the scene of the most elaborate of the St. Patrick parties over the week-end, when Miss Florence McMurtry was hostess to 80 friends in formal evening at-home last Saturday evening.

The reception room of the Hall was very attractively decorated with two large ferns, one on either side of the entrance, a large candelabra holding green candles and a huge basket of cut flowers adorning the baby grand piano. Chairs were arranged in groups of ten.

The ladies were received at the door by Miss Winifred Carter, in a black evening dress. Miss Carter presented the guests to Misses Frances Rogers and Frances Grimes, who then presented them to Miss Florence McMurtry, the hostess of the evening. Miss McMurtry presented the guests to their group hostess for the entertainment of the evening. The eight group hostesses were Misses Marion Hill, Wilma Jo Jones, Isabel Price, Helen Boswell, Frankie Dodson, Clem Embry, Bonnie Gierhart, and Ann Millen. These were dressed in beautiful and colorful evening dresses in keeping with the Spring season.

Miss Pauline Thompson played soft music during which parts of each group progressed among the other groups, visiting and talking with friends.

The program of the evening consisted of various musical numbers. Violin solos were given by Miss Vera Goodwin, and Mr. Kenneth Hohlaus; vocal solos were rendered by Misses Virginia Hohlaus, Ruth Wells and Callahan. A soft solo interpretation of "When Irish Eyes are Smiling," was given by Miss Vera Goodwin.

Soft music by Miss Pauline Thompson was played during the refreshments. The plates were most beautifully and artistically arranged. On green and white plates covered with lace doilies, were arranged triangular pieces of cake garnished with whipped cream and green cherries, the drink, mints, green and in the shape of pigs, with a triangle formed at one side of the plate by three lighted candles. The plates also carried green sweet peas.

The guests were bid good-night by the hostesses and Miss Carter, at the door.

Exceptional talent was displayed by the cast throughout the presentation. The performance of the various characters in the play revealed considerable skill on the part of the director, Ernestine Walker, who is a Speech major and a Senior in West Texas State Teachers College.

The set and stage scenery were recently constructed especially for this play by C. W. Batchelder, of the Public Speaking Department.

The Pi Omegas with their sponsor Mrs. A. M. Meyer were charming hostesses to a lovely Saint Patrick Silver Tea, Sunday afternoon at Cousins Hall. During the afternoon over two hundred guests called.

A color note of green and white was effectively emphasized in the decorations throughout the beautiful reception room. The tea table covered with a handsome lace cloth had for its center decoration a silver bowl of sweet peas surrounded with tall green tapers in silver holders.

In the receiving line were the Misses Frances Holman, Frances Alice Clark, Lou Ella McDade, and Wilma Jo Jones. At intervals throughout the afternoon artists from their own group entertained. # Buffaloes Left Saturday To Compete In National Tourney

Team Recovered From Encounter With Cowboys

Will Make Bid For Recognition Of A. A. U.

Early Saturday morning the West Texas State Teachers College Buffaloes left by bus for Denver to participate in the National Tournament.

Thoroughly recuperated after their two thrilling struggles with the Hardin-Simmons quintet, the Buffs were in an eager frame of mind for the Denver competition.

The Buffaloes have established themselves by their record against strong teams as one of the outstanding college teams in the country. They have not lost a single series this year and have defeated Texas Tech, winner of the Border Conference, three games out of four and split a series with Simmons, the winner of the Texas Conference.

With all AAU teams competing, it is not likely that a college team will win the tournament, but the Buffaloes are determined to make a strong bid for recognition. Fans still remember one Buffalo team's efforts in a national tournament.

Seven of the nine boys going to Denver will be eligible to return next year, and the experience they gain should prove invaluable to the Buff team next year.

Only nine boys from each team are allowed to compete in the tournament, and the Buffs making the trip are Captain Edd McMinn, John Walker, Leonard Britt, Willie Boedeker, Lawrence Clark, Audell Kimmins, Curtis Clement, Jack Davis, and Vernon Johnson.

Basketball Season Has Fitting Close In Final Series

(By Joe Smith)

The 1935 revised edition of the W. T. Basketeers was brought to a finish that was as thrilling as any story ever written when they split a two-game series that had more color than a dozen rainbows or a pair of painter's overalls.

When referee Gib Jackson pitched the first ball up at center, both teams uncorked the ginger bottle, and it was "winner take all" until the final gun. Benson, of the Cowboys, hung up 18 points to his credit, while McCullum of the same team played "heads up" and contributed a splendid floor game.

Captain McMinn led the Buffaloes in the number of points made, although every man on the team played par excellence. The score for the initial game totaled 41 to 38 in favor of the rangy Cowboys.

The second game, played on the following night, was packed full of more thrills than a dozen ordinary games. Both teams banged away at the basket with unerring accuracy and with a combination of hustle and fighting spirit throughout the game, the Buffs and Cowboys found themselves with the score tied at the end of the regular time length. In the extra five minutes of play which then ensued, Simmons jumped into the lead when McCullum made a hope shot from afar. Immediately afterward, a member of the Buff team fouled a man on the opposing team who made his gratis toss good.

With a three-point lead, Simmons started their stalling offense and every person in the stands thought the jig was up, but with less than 30 seconds left to play, John Walker rung up two points and a gym full of people sprang to their feet and did everything except the rhumba and the Highland fling.

The ball went into play again and with less than five seconds to go, Curtis Clements demonstrated his ability to play under pressure as he won the game by one lonely point.

The farewell game brought to a close one of the most colorful seasons of many. This game was also a farewell party for John Walker, M. E. Cleavinger, Leonard Britt, and Captain McMinn.

The box score for the second game:

NEW REGENTS MADE CHAPEL TALK

"And the Federal Housing Act is designed to bring back the music or the 'trio' in which are heard the smack of the hammer, the ring of the anvil, and the song of the saw."

Deploing the "present attitude" of little desire for homes, the new board member, illustrated terms of the housing act. "Money can be had for the building of homes with an interest rate which makes them available at less than the rent many tenants are now paying," Stuart said. "We must get back to the foundation of American government—home ownership."

The speaker concluded his address with announcement of an essay contest for teachers college students on the Federal Housing Administration. Literature on this subject, he announced, will be mailed those asking for it.

Edd McMinn Will Not Return To W. T. In 1935-'36

CAPTAIN EDD McMINN

It was with sincere regret that Coach Al Baggett of West Texas State Teachers College announced Friday that Edd McMinn, captain of the Buffaloes basketball team, will not return to school next year.

McMinn was offered a job as coach of his home town high school, Kirkland, Tex., and decided to accept the position.

Captain Edd would have another year of eligibility, if he wished to avail himself of it, but his decision to graduate this summer will remove from the rolls of the Buffaloes, one of the most colorful players in some years.

McMinn, a member of the freshman team in 1932, was named as the best prospect for the varsity.

He earned a regular's position in 1933, when he was a sophomore, and proved one of the most dependable players on the team.

At a reward for his ability, he was unanimously elected by the lettermen to lead the Buffaloes in 1935 as captain from his forward position.

Since then he has directed the team play on the floor, and has been the individual high scorer for the team. McMinn will be missed next year.

Coach Baggett, expressing regret that McMinn would not return next year, wished McMinn every success in his coaching career.

Intercollegiate Track Team To Be Revived Here

April 27th Is The Day Set For Meet

Along with all the other improvements in the physical education department at West Texas State Teachers College in the year 1935 will be seen a revival of the intercollegiate track team.

Nineteen-hundred-thirty-two was the last year that a track team from West Texas competed in intercollegiate meets. Because a great deal of interest was evidenced in intramural track and field events last year a full program has been planned for this year.

One of the most important events of the year is the revival of the Great Plains Track and Field Meet. In its day the Great Plains meet was one of the major attractions of this part of the country and was famed for the intense rivalry and competition in all divisions.

April 27 has been designated as the date of the meet. Finals will be that night under the lights. There will be both college and high school divisions of the meet, and entry blanks will be sent out soon.

Trophies will be awarded to the winners of the meet; medals go to individual winners. The date of the meet will place just between the high school regional and state meet, and the resumption of Great Plains competition should witness some real achievements.

Besides the Great Plains, West Texas will have entrants in the Texas Relays and in the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show. Then there will be some dual meets with other colleges.

A meet that is already attracting a lot of interest and attention is that with the Texas Tech tracksters on April 6th in Canyon, and a return engagement in Lubbock on April 13th.

Something will be done in track in West Texas State Teachers College this year; and with many good freshmen continually coming up, it is planned to develop one of the best track teams in the country.

FERA STUDENTS HAVE DIVERSIFIED PROJECTS

Six students work in the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society Museum. They are Sallie Mary Campbell of Sweetwater, Isla Mae Donald of Goodnight, Alleane Lynch of Enochs, Mary Elizabeth Gantt and Pollyanna Pitts of Canyon, and Mildred Windsor of Plainview. Included in their routine is cataloging documents, biographies, pictures, ledgers, record books, and letters found in the archives of the museum. They are making quantities of historical data easily accessible to the public.

An interesting example of this undertaking is the perusing and cataloging of several thousand letters concerning business and personal affairs of people connected with the historic XIT ranch of pioneer-day Panhandle. According to Pollyanna Pitts, librarian of the museum, with the present force, cataloging will require two or three years more for its completion.

The occupations of the FERA group are varied. A number of boys are carpenters, masons, and painters on college construction projects; several boys are waiters in the college cafeteria; a few workers serve as student assistants; some do secretarial work for college instructors; while others do janitor work.

The two hours the federal aid students work each day has made no material difference in the quality of their academic efforts, for they have maintained a higher scholastic rating than the whole college group so far.

Bill in Legislature Asks For Money to Do Work at W. T.

State Representative H. K. Stanfield has introduced a bill in the House asking for an emergency appropriation of $10,000 for W. T. Of this sum $2,500 would go to the improvement of the main building and $7,500 would purchase materials for the completion of Buffalo Court.

Senator Clint Small is urging a like amount in the Senate in the emergency bill.
