

New Campus Studio Formally Opened With Dedicatory Broadcast

Impressive Program Marks 29th Anniversary

Delta Zeta Chi Honors Founders

An impressive program, presented in assembly Saturday and broadcast over radio station KGNC, marked the twenty-ninth anniversary of West Texas State. The program, which reviewed the high points in West Texas State history, was presented by Delta Zeta Chi, campus sorority.

Prof. R. A. Terrill, head of the department of industrial arts, was introduced by Betty Jeane Ball as one of the Canyon citizens who helped to locate the college here. Mr. Terrill was at the time editor of the Randall County News and secretary of the citizens committee for locating the college here. He became a member of the first college faculty when the institution began operation.

Broadcast from Platform

Eddie Baume, of the KGNC staff was announcer for the broadcast. Ernestine Ballard, sophomore from Amarillo, made the opening address as the College Male Quartet softly sang "Alma Mater" in the background. Significant pages from the history of West Texas State were re-enacted before the microphone.

Lawrence McBee, senior speech student, and Glen Davis, president of the Students' Association, were the principal characters in the dramatization of a meeting between L. G. Conner, founder of Canyon who gave the land for the campus, and Judge Cyrus Eakman, chairman of the committee for locating the college in W. T.

The first major catastrophe in the school's history, the burning of the old administration building, represented in a conversation of two students at the fire. Reba Pool, former Delta Zeta Chi president, George Stokes, junior, and Lawrence McBee were the principal characters in this dramatization.

World War Period

Melodies, popular during the world war period, marked this era in W. T. history. Mr. Stokes sang "Over There," and a chorus of Delta Zeta Chi members sang "Pack up Your Troubles."

Other significant events in the school's history were briefly reviewed over the microphone including, the promotion of Dr. J. A. Hill to president after the resignation of the late R. B. Cousins in 1918; the advance of the school's status from junior to senior college in the same

Dr. E. E. Dale Scheduled to Speak At P.-P.H.S. Banquet

Dr. E. E. Dale, head of the history department in the University of Oklahoma, will be the principal speaker at the next annual banquet of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society here.

Dr. Dale was chosen as the speaker last year, but on account of a spring blizzard was unable to reach Canyon. This year the date has been changed to May 12 in the hope that weather conditions may be more favorable for the session.

Dr. Dale is an authority on the cattle industry who knows his subject by experience as well as training. Former cowboy, deputy sheriff, homesteader, frontier business man, he knows the old west thoroughly and has written much about it.

Teachers and New Students Should Reserve Annuals

Members of the faculty and students who entered school at the opening of the current semester should make reservations for their copy of Le Mirage immediately, Sam D. Burton, yearbook editor, has announced.

The price of the book is $4, but reservations must be made now. Students who entered at the opening of this semester paid $2 on their annual with fees. The balance should be paid immediately in the office of college publications. Special students who did not pay the regular fee should also make reservations for a yearbook.

Fiery-Haired Queen Reveals Contrasting Personality

Versatile Beauty Is Popular Sophomore of Creditable Scholarship

By Dan Hemphill

Three times valedictorian and the distinction of being the "Most Popular Girl" in Lockney High School help make up the background of W. T.'s No. 1 beauty—Trula Mae Phegley, sophomore.

A confessed play girl who doesn't like to read very much, she is a dance enthusiast, like Kay Kyser, plays the piano, is a member of the women's chorus, and honors Richard Green as her movie favorite. She was elected president of Delta Zeta Chi, campus sorority, at the opening of this semester.

The W. T. No. 1 beauty defies a popular idea, that blonde hair, good looks, and gray matter are an impossible combination, with a "B" average in her studies. She is a secondary education major, and prefers Spanish to other college courses. Miss Phegley explained that W. T. was her choice because she recognized the merits of practice teaching methods offered here.

The petite beauty queen appreciates pleats in women's clothing and "has a passion" for satin.

Personality Queen

When students of West Texas State went to the polls to select their personality queen of the year, they gave this coveted honor to Miss Gaynelle Douglas of Silverton, a Junior. Miss Douglas, a red-haired beauty, is president of the College YWCA and is chairman of the newly formed Northwest Christian Council, a "Y" organization.

Fifty-Two on First Semester Honor Roll

Kenneth Hohlaus Is New Senior Vice-President

Kenneth Hohlaus, government student from Lockney, was elected vice-president of the Senior Class at a meeting Thursday. He succeeds Jack Pate of Amarillo who was graduated at mid-term.

Lawrence McBee, speech major, was elected to manage the annual senior play.

Dues for the current semester were set at $1.50, and a resolution was passed to exclude all members of the class who fail to pay their dues from commencement exercises. Dues may be paid in two installments this semester.

The class voted to extend an expression of confidence to the Student Senate committee investigating the student health fee.

Historical Article By Miss Anderson Received Here

Printed copies of "The Evolution of a Frontier Society in Missouri, 1815-1828," written by Dr. Hattie M. Anderson of the West Texas State College department of history, have been received here.

The article is based on a part of Chapter IV of Miss Anderson's doctoral dissertation entitled "A Frontier Democracy: The Social and Economic Basis of the Rise of the Jackson Group in Missouri, 1815-1828."

It is reprinted from the April, 1938 number of the Missouri Historical Review.

SPANISH CLUB WILL HEAR MRS. M. P. FIELDS

The College Spanish Club will meet Thursday evening at the home of Miss Mary E. Hudspeth, 1905 Fourth Street. Mrs. M. P. Fields, who for several years lived in South America, will speak.

STUDER WILL ADDRESS BUSINESS STUDENTS TODAY

Floyd V. Studer, American National Bank director. Amarillo, will speak to the members of Business Administration 382 on "Business Research" this afternoon at 2:30 in room 211.

Studer is well known for his work in the field of archaeology and heads the project doing archaeological research for Pioneer Hall.

Lahoy White, of Amarillo, addressed the group Tuesday on "Insurance."

Miss Douglas Claims Friend Collecting For Her Hobby

By Lynard Riley

"To me it is a debut into the real world. I've been secretary of this and treasurer of that until it has almost given me an inferiority complex."

So said Gaynelle Douglas, charming redhead from Silverton, who was chosen personality queen of West Texas State.

A native of cattle ranches, she still prefers the outdoor spaces. She likes horseback riding, swimming, and tennis in that order, with dancing coming in a poor fourth. As for football, she readily recognizes a touchdown but spin plays and off-tackle thrusts are so much Greek. Hobby? You guessed it — making friends. Philosophy of life? Well sir, a smile for every situation. Cats she distrusts, but give her a dog and she's ready for a romp.

A creature of moods, this slender, gray-eyed Scotch lass, switches from talk of perfection of movie stars (Donald Duck and Pluto, for their amusing facial expressions of emotions) to inter-racial problems and social studies. She thinks there should be a student fund established at West Texas State to care for German refugees and Chinese students.

Planning a career in radio and stage, she plans to attend the Pasadena Playhouse in California for further training in speech arts. Too, she admits a desire for travel, seeing things, and meeting interesting people.

She likes men who are ambitious, educated and, as might be guessed, who possess this thing popularly called personality.

Mrs. Winnie Davis Hale Supervisor Of History Project

Mrs. Winnie Davis Hale of Amarillo last week was appointed supervisor of the new Federal Historical Project being sponsored by the College. Mrs. Hale was formerly supervisor of the Federal Writer's Project in Amarillo.

Prof. L. F. Sheffy is representing the College in the project, for which a grant of $26,000 was recently approved. Twenty-six counties of the Panhandle will be searched for historical data for the Panhandle-Plains museum. Old ranch records, heirlooms, and public records will be searched and pioneers will be interviewed for information relating to early Panhandle history.

Mrs. Hale will probably get work for the project set up in Potter County and possibly one or two other counties by the end of this week. Workers are being selected entirely from WPA rolls, as they are the only ones eligible for the work under the present arrangement.

'Joy of Pictures' Given Tuesday in Lyceum Series

A unique illustrated lecture by Dr. Carlton Palmer Tuesday night gave many members of a student audience a new appreciation for pictures.

The lecture, which Dr. Palmer calls the "Joy of Pictures," included an exhibit of numerous original paintings including work by such artists as Frederick Waugh, Junius Allen, Howard Chandler Christy, Charles P. Gruppe, Lawrence Biddle, Ivan F. Choultse, Frances Charles Cachoud, Hugo Ungewitter and M. Foscarl.

The program was brought to the campus by the college Lyceum Committee.

Hillard S. Fetherree, who was here as a student last in 1919, is now assistant superintendent of the Abilene City Schools. He recently visited the campus, renewing some of the old acquaintances. He was very much pleased with the improvements in buildings, landscaping, etc.

Dr. Hill Presents W. T.'s Needs in Hearing at Austin

Hearings as sympathetic as any he has ever been given at Austin were reported by Dr. J. A. Hill on his return from appearances before the two finance committees of the Legislature.

Dr. Hill was the last of the college presidents to be heard, since the appearances were based on the alphabetical position of the institutions. He spoke briefly but presented facts and statistics which apparently impressed the committees of the House and Senate as to the institution's needs.

Requests New Well

Dr. Hill insisted that a new science building and a $20,000 differential for operating expense above the per capita allotments were absolutely essential, the latter because of higher labor and fuel costs on the high plains. His budget also asked for a new water well, which may however be provided as an emergency appropriation.

The serious fiscal problem before the Legislature is such that the building program suggested by the Board of Control and Board of Regents is in jeopardy. Observers believe, however, that if funds can be found to permit a building program West Texas State College will be one of the few institutions to be favored in the appropriations for the biennium.

Ask Home for President

Dr. Hill was supported in his statements by Gene Howe, Amarillo publisher, John E. Hill of Amarillo, College regent, and other speakers. Judge J. D. Hamlin of Farwell, president of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society, and Judge L. Gough of Amarillo asked for a $6,000 a year to support the museum on the campus. Supt. J. B. Speer of the Canyon Public Schools, in Austin representing the legislative committee of the Northwest Texas Conference for Education, urged the legislative committees to report a bill calling for a $21,000 appropriation to build a new home for the president of West Texas State. He described the inadequacy of old building and mentioned many uses for a new, larger structure.

The first educational bill to be reported out of committee is expected to be one covering only maintenance and salaries for state institutions. Any building program is expected to be developed after revenue-producing measures are passed.

Clubs Must Submit Constitutions to Student Senate

"Every chartered club on the campus should turn in to the Student Senate a copy of its constitution and a list of members." Ed Spann, chairman of a Senate committee on clubs, announced last week.

The Student Senate will meet at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon to hear reports from several committees appointed last week.

Spann pointed out that provision is made in the new student constitution that all club constitutions shall contain a clause requiring a "C" average for all members. "Under the new constitution," he said, "it is the duty of the Student Senate to check the academic standing of clubs. The suspension or granting of a charter is determined by a majority vote of the Student Senate and approval of the Student Welfare or Executive committees, depending upon the nature of the club," Spann said.

Painting by Grant Reynard Takes Top Honors in New York

Grant Reynard, well known painter and teacher of Leonia, N. J., who will be artist-in-residence at the Palo Duro School of Art next summer for six weeks, recently took top honors in New York City.

Mr. Reynard's "Town of Barnard, Vt.," won the Carrington prize of the Salmagundi Club, leading art group in New York.

Mr. Reynard's residence at West Texas State College will start June 5.

Tamsie V. Riley, '38, is working on her Master's degree at Colorado State Teachers College at Greeley.

To Speak Here

Mrs. Edyth T. Wallace, home counselor for the Oklahoma City Public Schools, will be one of the speakers at the Northwest Texas Conference for Education here on March 10 and 11.

Mrs. Wallace was educated at the University of Iowa. She was a primary and kindergarten teacher before her marriage. She has four children and three grandchildren. For twelve years she was engaged in parent education work in Oklahoma, eight years of which was at Ardmore and the last four at Oklahoma City where she has twenty-five hundred persons enrolled in parent study groups.

She is the author of a syndicated newspaper feature, "Points for Parents," which appears daily in twenty-four newspapers. This feature is syndicated by the Des Moines Register and Tribune and is in its eighth year of production. She also is a regular contributor to the Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman and talks weekly over station KOCY in Oklahoma City.

Date for TIPA Convention Set For April 21-22

The annual convention of the Texas Intercollegiate Press Association will be April 21-22 at Texas Wesleyan College at Fort Worth. Announcement of the date was made last week by Leon Matthis, TIPA president.

A meeting of the executive committee on Feb. 25 was also announced. One delegate from each publication in the organization comprises the committee.

Type High, W. T. press club, will send several delegates to the convention.

Ten different fields are open to collegiate writers in the TIPA contest. The contests are open to all students of the college and students interested should see Prof. Olin E. Hinkle.

Contest divisions and prizes are: Serious short story, $5; humorous short story, $5; formal essay, $10; familiar essay, $5; news story, $5; sports story, $5; feature story, $5; poem, $5; and one-act play, $5.

New Campus Project Will Aid Fifty

Fifty students, who would like to go to college, yet are financially unable to do so and are interested in industrial work soon will have a chance to further their industrial training through West Texas State's new campus project.

The plan when completed will bring fifty NYA workers who will live cooperatively in the buildings while paying for their maintenance out of their earnings. They will go to school half of each week day and work in the industrial shops the other half.

Four large CCC barracks have been obtained from the Hereford CCC camp and transported to the campus to house the boys and a small office building will be added soon.

According to Prof. R. A. Terrill, head of the College Industrial Arts department, the work will be nearing completion by June 1. Students will move in immediately to start their vocational studies.

One CCC barrack from Hereford has already been moved to the campus. It is situated north of the power house, and will be given a rock veneer.

Thirty-Minute Programs Will Follow Weekly

West Texas State opened the air lanes from its new remote control hook-up last night in a thirty-minute dedicatory broadcast beginning at 8 o'clock through Station KGNC Amarillo, formally opening the new campus studio.

O. L. Taylor, manager of KGNC, gave the address presenting the remote control to W. T. President J. A. Hill, in a brief talk, accepted the studio in behalf of the College.

Officials Interviewed

Eddie Baume, KGNC announcer, interviewed Clay Thornton, president of the Ex-Students Association; John E. Hill, member of the board of regents from Amarillo; Dr. J. A. Hill, president of the College; and Glen Davis, president of the West Texas State Students' Association.

The College Male Quartet sang "The Day Is Over," "Shadow March," and "Deep River." Members of the quartet are Houston Bright, graduate assistant in the music department from Tolbert; Weldon Bright, sophomore from Tolbert; Arvo Goddard, freshman from Pampa; and Robert McKenzie, Amarillo.

Another musical selection, "Waltz in E Minor" by Chopin, was played by Mattie Belle Noel.

Norman News Commentator

A five minute commentary on West Texas State News was given by Bill Norman, sophomore member of The Prairie staff from Canyon. Norman was selected as news commentator by Mr. Baume of the KGNC staff. Lannie Line, Canyon speech major, was selected as his assistant.

On each Monday, a program tentatively called the "Campus Parade" will be broadcast from the W. T. studio, situated in the auditorium of the Education Building. The regular hour will be from 8 to 8:30 o'clock each Monday evening.

A telephone loop connecting the W. T. studio with KGNC was installed last week, and a technician from the Amarillo station will come here for each broadcast.

Dr. Baxter M. Geeling, head of the W. T. speech department and chairman of the broadcast committee, said: "With such an auspicious start we will have to work harder to come up to the expectations of our many friends."

Glen Davis, student president, commented on the value of the new studio as follows: "This development is one of the greatest assets on the campus for practical education for students interested in radio."

W. T.'s previous broadcasts have consisted of fifteen-minute programs, broadcast direct from the KGNC studios.

YWCA Plans Program to Help Unfortunate Students Abroad

The courage and determination of Chinese students and teachers in carrying on college work despite war conditions has astonished and won the admiration of educational leaders all over the world.

One news agency reported last month 1500 university students trekked a thousand miles to a new location. They were led by the faculty and the board of trustees. When they arrived at the new location, they were obliged to use holes and caves in the side of a cliff for classrooms.

Such devout efforts to carry on despite extremely difficult circumstances not only deserve recognition, but also the help of more fortunate students.

The Far Eastern Student Service Fund, organized and promoted by the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A., has raised money for these students in hundreds of American colleges and universities.

Plans to aid in this cause are being considered by the W. T. unit of the Y. W. C. A. Help for German refugee students is also under discussion. Although definite plans for this undertaking have not yet been announced by the Y. W. C. A., an opportunity will likely be given every campus organization to help. If adequately supported, such a campaign might make it possible to bring one or two German students here to continue studies. This undertaking, if successful, would not only have lasting benefit for some unfortunate student, but it would also benefit the W. T. campus. One of the marks of a big college is a cosmopolitan student body, and so far West Texas State has had few students from abroad.

CHURCH WORK AND GRADES

Long after the last echo of the beckoning church chimes has faded away on Sunday morning, many beds in West Texas State student residences are still occupied by students who have heard that you can't take an active part in church work and still keep up with school work. Instead of trying to verify this statement, they take the least line of resistance by sleeping.

The assumption that school work and church work won't mix is contrary to the facts. There seems to be a high correlation between church work and the high grades in West Texas State. A check-up in the registrar's office last week revealed that one church organization had an average above "B". It is likely that many other church organizations would show equally high averages. This record is surpassed only by Alpha Chi, honorary society for scholarship.

This indicates clearly that the frequently heard, "I don't have time for church work and school too", is mere rationalization and poor rationalization at that. B. N.

THE YOUTH PROBLEM

The Youth Problem—what to do with the increasing numbers of high school and college graduates who each succeeding year face a longer gap between graduation and a permanent job—challenges Texas, along with every other State.

Recognizing the fact, Dr. Homer Price Rainey—director of the American Youth Commission at Washington, who will become President of The University of Texas on June 1—indicates that he will continue to seek an answer here. He admonishes fellow-educators that they must face the crisis which this State is approaching!

"Today about 60 per cent of Texas's youth are in the high school. This is a constantly rising figure which presents a big problem. After all, we can't just plow those young people under; a new kind of secondary school that will help youth find or make a place for itself is required. Their effort to meet that need is keeping educators awake nights."

Dr. Rainey recalls that Hitler rode into power on just such a crisis as that rapidly coming to head in this country. Before the World War only 8 per cent of German youths went through high school. In the after-war years the great majority finished secondary school, and many trained young men and women then could not find jobs in their callings.

A "revolt of youth" followed—and that gave the dictator his opportunity. Now Hitler boasts that there are "no unemployed" in the Reich. Every young man is assigned his place in the completely regimented state and then trained for the job. His employment is much like that of the bondman. Hitler has said that the young German will not know a day's freedom in his entire life, but that he is happy about the whole thing.

One hardly expects the free-born American—nourished on the democratic traditions—to accept such a condition. He would rather be jobless and hungry than be completely regimented.

Y. W. C. A. MAKES STUDY OF HOUSES

Y. W. C. A. made a study of houses in the $2,000 to $4,000 income group under the direction of Miss Osce Saunders at its meeting last week. Using models from "Life" magazine they furnished their houses by scale from top to bottom even considering drapes and vases.

One young lady was so earnest that she sacrificed a large car so that she might have a baby grand piano. The whole idea was to study the modern, average home that the girls expect to live in after they complete their education.

Girls making the study were: Marie Crow, Elizabeth Wood, Mattie Bell Noel, Jo Frances Sommerville, and Majory Merchant.

THE FABULOUS INVALID

By Moss Hart and George Kaufman
New York: Random House . . . 1939

A file of old magazines is the motivating force back of the newest Hart-Kaufman play, "Fabulous Invalid." However, that may be, it took a Caribbean cruise for Mr. Hart and Mr. Kaufman to collaborate in the idea and work it to completion. Nor must we forget that a harrowing attack of insomnia on the part of Mr. Hart had a direct bearing on the initial force, long before Mr. Kaufman knew that the germ of such a play was in the mind of his friend. It was during the last few rehearsals on "I'd Rather Be Right", when the thoughts of the opening were crowding all chances of sleep from the mind of Mr. Hart, that he resorted to a file of old "Theatre" magazines. Here he found the theatre of the later eighties and nineties in what appeared to him to be a utopian setting—no radios, no talking pictures. Why not write a history of the American theatre from the period of 1900 to 1930?

Pictorially, "The Fabulous Invalid" carries the story of the stage within itself. It would be hard for the average theatre-goer to conceive of the time and trouble involved in the selection of the fifty-two scenes from plays and musical comedies. The authors read one hundred sixty-five plays in making the selection and were very careful in selecting no scene that would require more than thirty seconds in showing. The criticism that these scenes represented merely box-office successes cannot be sustained in view of the fact that they were characteristic of the period from which they were selected.

This panorama of the American Theatre covers every crisis in its development beginning some time close to 1900 with the opening of the Alexandria Theatre—the symbol of the best in taste of that period. The story of this theatre chronicles the episodes in the life of the building until it degenerates into a burlesque dance school and the life of the stage productions to their threatened passing. The old Alexandria survives actors' strikes, panic, ticket speculation, critics, taxes and all the other opposition that a changing world dumped into its lap.

"Everything I know about the theatre learned from Augustin Daly. Usher, call boy, property man, state manager—", is John W. Carleton's remark on taking on the management of the Alexandria for its initial opening. Its struggle was to him vitally personal; its near-failure his personal loss. Appearing to him at crucial times were the spirits of departed acts (the source of unity in the play) whose presence gave him support and encouragement. Will Shakespeare looked in on the scene at the time Carleton experienced his greatest fear—the advent of the Warner Brother's Vit-

COLLEGIATE CHATTER

By Buzzy Stapleton

Pi Omega has at last announced the date for the W. T. Sadie Hawkins week—Feb. 27 to March 4. A final feature of the week will be a girl's tag dance at Cousins Hall from 8 to 11 o'clock Saturday, March 4. Nearly every exchange paper which comes into the Prairie office has something to say about this idea, and many publications predict that it will become a national holiday as far as the colleges are concerned. My compliments to Pi Omega for getting the idea started.

You girls write home for that extra expense money for you are going to need it.

Most W. T. eds view the week favorably. They particularly like the girls tag and girls pay idea, but complications are likely to develop if some co-ed tries to carry the thing too far and endeavor to do the leading on the dance floor.

Three cheers for the ballgame-going students of W. T. You cheered at the ballgame last week (some) and so I am cheering you. Do as much better the next time and we will have some of that real old school spirit that we hear so much about. There is still one thing that should be eliminated and that is this habit of leaving before the game is over. This is a poor way in which to show the boys that we really appreciate what they are doing out there.

I am lead to think that Luke Penick has a fear of those big fists of his firmly implanted in Bill Klein and Sonny Vernon. Last week these two young men related to me a choice bit of gossip on the said Mr. Penick and I promised to insert it in the column. Just before time for the paper to go to press Monday night the two relators of the news came rushing up to my room and started begging me not to say a word about it. I found out later that Luke had threatened them with their lives for it.

year; the first graduating class, of which Miss Tennessee Malone, present librarian was a member, in 1919; the completion of Cousins Hall, first dormitory for girls on a state college campus, in 1920; buying of Randall Hall in 1923; the acquiring of the T-Anchor Farm in 1927; and the completion of the Education Building in 1928.

Later Progress Reviewed

Later progress included first graduate work offered in 1931; the building of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society Museum on the campus in 1933, the erection of Stafford Hall, Buffalo Courts, the Phebe K. Warner Home Management House in later years, and finally the largest freshman enrollment and the creation of a new student constitution this term.

Otto Mangold and Austin Wiggins, W. T. athletes, gave a humorous skit portraying themselves as returning graduates several years from now.

In brief talk, Vincent Lockhart, city editor of the Amarillo Globe and a former student, reviewed life on the campus back when "Hoover was president, Roosevelt was on deck, and prosperity was just around the corner. "That year," he recalled, "technocracy was in full bloom, and Dr. Frances Townsend was an obscure California physician. That year the Amarillo Daily News ran a series of articles 'Wasn't the Depression Terrible', and featured news briefs called 'Depression's Bright Spots.' Melodies most frequently heard in the corridors were 'You'll Be Mine in Apple-Blossom Time,' and the 'Pagan Love Song.'"

In conclusion, he paid tribute to West Texas State, and declared, "I look upon the University of Missouri as the school where I got my degree and West Texas as my Alma Mater."

Bufs Smother McMurry After Close First Period

Two peppery teams fought on even footing for one quarter in a harum-scarum scramble before the West Texas Buffs could settle down in the second half to soundly spank the accurate McMurry Indians from down Abilene way 65-34, Wednesday night in Burton gym.

With the score tied six times in the first quarter the play got exciting, and sometimes rough, as one team then the other pounded their way down court to score in time about fashion. Seldom was more than one crack at the basket needed to tally as both teams played inspired ball.

Bufs Strengthen Defense

Paced by West Texas State's medium sized guards, Ernie Schur and Joe Hayes, the Buffs after the stormy first session suddenly encountered smooth sailing and romped at will the second half. Defense that had been nothing but a slam bang offense in the first few minutes of the game suddenly settled in an even groove and the Indians finding themselves swarmed, had to be content with futile "pot shots" at the basket, that the taller Buffs got off the backboard. McCasland, Indian center, who rang up 11 points in the first 13 minutes of play got only three points from then on. Even when he tried to shoot from midcourt he found it hard to ward off the darting guards.

Hayes with 19 points and Schur with 12 led in scoring for the Buffs. They made most of their points on fast breaks to the goal coming under for perfect criss. The entire Buff team kept on their respective toes throughout the game and capitalized on several of McMurry's wild heaves, converting them into points that accumulated rapidly on the scoreboard.

When Dalhart School warded off the last minute rally of the Canyon High Eagles to win over the fine charges of Coach Brotherton, fans was placed on one of the most exciting District cage races in recent years. Starting with the nerve chilling Canyon-Lazbuddy game, the meet was featured by several one point wins. Canyon without a doubt was the scrappiest and the cleanest fighting bunch—Dalhart gets the bouquet for coolness under fire.

Have you noticed the conservatism displayed by Official J. A. Bronson as he goes his easy way referring the Buff basketball game? His whistle is as regular as the dust storms in the Panhandle. Anything that scents the least bit of unfair or rough play is called by this eagle-eyed Ft. Hays, Kansas, boy. But his technique for officiating at the District tournament here was somewhat different. Physical contact to a much greater degree could be indulged in with no greater penalty than a jump ball.

This brings up the point about intersectional games. Basketball in the South, Midwest and West lacks the physical contact of Eastern and Northern games. The difference is the officiating. Southern teams often go haywire on intersectional trips and make poor showings against mediocre teams. They say the liberalness of the Northern referees confuses them.

Bob Wattle of Southwestern University sums up referees thus. "There are two kinds of referees. One is the whistle blower who never lets anything resembling a foul get past him. He keeps the game slow, the players jumpy. The other type is the liberal who allows a player to machine gun an opponent in full view of the crowd".

There is one fault to be found with the official reluctant to blow the whistle. Sometimes he lets a game get away from him, and when its gone, its gone. Wattle also expresses the opinion that if basketball players were let alone for the full 40 minutes every combatant would require either crutches or a stretcher.

Buffaloes in Series With East Texas Lions Tonight

In turning southward toward East Texas State College of Commerce for games Feb 20-21, the Buffaloes of West Texas State College will carry a record of 22 victories and six losses.

From the spring-board of a 65-34 triumph over the McMurry Indians of Abilene here last Wednesday, the locals will attempt to hold the margin of superiority they showed over the East Texans at the Oklahoma City tournament in December. The Buffs won a torrid battle with the Lions then, 58 to 51.

Since that time the boys from the piney woods have come forward as leaders in the Lone Star conference, while the West Texans have won most of their games but included some very erratic play. Heralded as the "world's tallest team", they have shown some faltering tall men but some exceptionally brilliant guards of normal stature. Joe Hayes and Earnest Schur are two of the speediest guards in the state, and their sharp-shooting in recent games have carried off all the Buff high scoring honors. Hayes one-handed his way to 19 points against McMurry, and Schur broke away for half a dozen crisp shots with Indians at his heels. McMurry was no setup, the visitors tying the score six times in the first half.

Mexico, was imported for the express purpose of giving West Texas's sensational boxer, Jay Pietzsch, a good whaling. (But he got whaled). There are rumors circulating that this same Owens is the Kansas State Amateur champion. If so, this makes Jay (unofficially of course) Kansas and Texas heavyweight champ for he won the Texas

Bufs Smother East Texas

West Texas Buffaloes made it two in a row over the East Texas Lions at Commerce last night 45-35. The Buffs had formerly beaten the Lions by a one point margin in the Oklahoma City All-College tournament. Another win tonight will clinch a place for the Buffs in the National Intercollegiate tournament.

Yearlings Romp to Another Lopsided Win Over Portales

A substitute guard, Roy Lee Jones, turned on the steam in the first quarter to give the West Texas Freshmen cagers a lead they never relinquished as they went ahead to rout a fleet Eastern New Mexico College Greyhounds 56-32 in Portales, last Tuesday.

Brookfield, Halbert and Jones carted away most of the glory for the local crew but it was Henson, Portales forward, who distinguished himself by the most brilliant performance of the night. This lean six-footer handled the ball dexterously and seemed to be all over the court. Besides his fine defensive play he accumulated 15 points to lead the scoring parade for both teams.

The Greyhounds presented a team of uniform size, all of them scaling around six feet, who were not too big for the fast break Guards Stockman, Primrose, Jones were kept busy the forty minutes of playing time covering the fast New Mexico forwards and succeeded in bottling up all but the clever Henson. At times the play got speedy and rough but a minimum of fouls were called on both teams. Covington of the Portales team had to leave the game via personal route.

Vaughn And Thomas Lose in Second Round at Fort Worth

Dewey Vaughn, heavyweight, and Steve Thomas, lightweight, West Texas State's contribution to the championship boxing finals held in Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum, Ft. Worth, were both defeated in first and second round fights, Friday and Saturday. Vaughn, for the second straight time lost to Bob Owens of Conchas Dam, New Mexico by decision. Owens holds a previous win over Vaughn by virtue of a decision in the Amarillo Golden Glove tournament.

Owens, who was dubbed the most colorful fighter of the tourney by Fort Worth sport writers, and Vaughn were the first heavyweights to appear on the program. They fought furiously through the first round with honors about even, Vaughn scoring on body punches and Owen connecting with lefts and rights to the head. Vaughn brought blood in the second round but Owens retaliated with short rights. Owens floored Vaughn once in the third and then went on to take the decision.

Thomas put Canyon into the win column by a smashing victory over Fletcher Walker, of Wichita Falls, in the first round. Thomas rocked Walker all over the ring to take a clean decision. In the second round of the tournament he defaulted to Delmar Koch, Borger sensation. Thomas was confined to his room with a bad cold and after a doctor's examination, he was declared unable to participate in the fight.
