Condron Discusses Peace Prospects Before Y.W.C.A.

Individuals Cannot Duel Legally, Although Nations Can

"New World Order" was the topic of Prof. S. H. Condron's speech in his talk to the Y. W. C. A. Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Condron pointed out that prospects for peace today are not so bright, and we, as individuals, must use our heads. We must broaden our minds, read news, and avoid prejudices.

A person's own judgment is worth more than the swaying throngs about him, for they do not rely on their own opinions. An individual's own influence in his community will aid to build unity and peace.

The professor stated that dueling between individuals no longer legally exists, but we still allow it between nations.

Education and the church are both great factors in keeping world peace.

Mr. Condron quoted Christ as saying, "Blessed are the Peace Makers."

He also said that distrust and fear possesses the world today, but it clamors for security.

"The Church at one time preached a crusade of war to possess the Holy Land. Today it must preach a crusade of peace to find peace."

"Create a love and respect for people of all lands," said Mr. Condron, "and you will usher in a New Era of Good Will."

College Infirmary Formerly Used For Carriage Barn, Stable

The college infirmary, our house of quiet, has resounded in the past with the clatter of horses' hoofs and rumble of a carriage, the harmonious tinkle of piano keys, and the hum and buzz of electric saws.

This house was built in 1910 on the northeast corner of the grounds now occupied by the President's home. At that time it was used by R. B. Cousins, our first president, as a stable and house for his carriage.

After the Administration Building burned in 1914, the barn was moved north of the place now occupied by the power house. Here it was used for classrooms by the music and manual training departments.

When speaking of this, Travis Shaw said, "It was often very amusing to hear the high C's of vocal and piano students in conflict with the basso profundo tones

Curriculum Will Include Pre-Law and Pre-Med Work

Changes in the curriculum of W. T. as provided for by the Board of Regents of the State Teachers Colleges of Texas, will include the giving of pre-law and pre-medical work, and the granting of degrees of Bachelor of Business Administration.

The pre-professional work will cover two years, and no Education courses will be required. Also students taking a B. B. A. degree will not be required to take Education, provided they are not preparing to teach.

Dr. J. A. Hill said that the present program does not include the addition of new departments in the course of study, but rather a rearrangement of courses already existing.

The changes in curriculum will be given in the forthcoming college catalogue.

Dr. Cook Passes Buck To Right Person

During the Thanksgiving holidays Dr. Harris M. Cook and Mr. C. H. Dillehay of Hereford, went to San Antonio to a teachers' meeting.

About a week after they had returned, Dr. Cook received a large insured package by express. Imagine his chagrin when after paying it out and opening it, he found that it was only a pair of dirty socks that Mr. Dillehay had failed to pack when they left San Antonio.

After carefully rewrapping the package, he insured it and expressed it on to Mr. Dillehay.

"Measured by any standards of human values, by their contribution to human happiness, by the promotion of sound character and personality, by the enhancement of social relations, even economical use of time, money, and material resources the standards of taste in an individual or community are of profound importance. Society has suffered for the neglect of development of matters of taste as is evidenced by too obvious results."

Co-Eds Learn Ten Commandments of Proper Dress

We have heard and read the Ten Commandments in the Bible, but who ever heard of the ten commandments of dress?

The co-eds belonging to the W. A. A. were well informed as to what the commandments were when Miss Orpa Dennis of the home economics department, talked to them on "What the Well Dressed College Girl Wears."

It has been a difficult problem for the small town high school graduate to dress appropriately for all occasions when she first enters an institution of higher learning. The small town does not offer the opportunities essential for the girl to learn these things properly without being misled to some extent.

Any girl can be the best dressed on W. T. campus, if she will let the following ten commandments guide her:

1. Thou shalt not follow fads and follies regardless of thine own individuality and type.
2. Thou shalt not clothe thyself in simplicity.
3. Honor thy body and keep it clean.
4. Thou shalt dress appropriately to the occasion of thine own purse.
5. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbors clothes or accessories.
6. Thou shalt zealously study thy type, coloring, temperament, and physique.
7. Thou shalt dress in harmony with thy type.
8. Thou shalt learn the principles of balance, proportion, dominant interest, and their application.
9. Thou shalt see thyself as others see thee and endeavor to correct thy mistakes.
10. Thou shalt persist in determination to make the very best of what God has given thee.

Survey Reveals Many Bottle Babies In W. T.

According to a partial survey made recently there seems to be more W. T. students who were bottle babies than otherwise.

The survey showed three bottle babies to one otherwise.

Only one student refused to admit which method he used.

In answer to the question: "Are you a bottle baby?" the results were that one out of every twenty would confess.

The most alarming fact found was that 60% of our college students know and sing, "The music goes round and round."

New Math Course to Be Offered In Second Semester

A course in solid geometry, Math. 131, carrying college credit is being offered next semester, at 11:00 o'clock, MWF. This course did not appear on the schedule at the opening of school last September, and is being offered now to meet the needs of certain students who have asked for the course at this time.

All students who have not had solid geometry in high school, and who are planning to teach mathematics or engage in any type of engineering, should take this course now while it is being offered, according to Mr. Murray. The only prerequisite is high school plane geometry.

The government will send you a bulletin telling you how to do most everything but keep a dumb person from talking.

Team Plays At Commerce, Nacogdoches, And Huntsville

Freshman Cagers Will Play Badgers Thursday Evening

An enthusiastic freshman cage team will travel to Amarillo Thursday night, to contest the Badgers of Amarillo Junior College intending to bring home their fourth straight victory.

Although no information regarding the comparative strength of the two teams is available, since this is the Badgers' opening tilt, Coach Bob Cox is anticipating an arduous scuffle when his team contends with the more experienced opponents. Despite the fact that the Badgers represent one of the ranking junior colleges in the state, the freshmen are given an equal chance to pluck their fourth straight victory out of the knapsack.

It will be remembered that the Badgers last year, spilled the freshman team in two consecutive games, both by a four point margin, and the Cox men are over anxious to avenge the defeat for their hapless upperclassmen. It is expected that many loyal Frosh supporters will be on hand to witness this grudge classic.

Is There a Hypnotist In The Crowd?

Delving into the occult and mystic secrets of hypnotism, Joyce Gilbert, student of W. T., occasionally entertains at parties by actually hypnotizing one of the members and having the person do some fantastic stunt while under the spell.

Miss Gilbert learned the art of hypnotism from an old lady and after studying it for a while was able to successfully hypnotize people.

The method used by Miss Gilbert is not the common method of using the eyes, but that of concentration on a subject for her patient to perform and by softly rubbing the person's neck with her hands. The person is usually seated with his back toward her. It takes from three to five minutes to hypnotize the average person.

The most difficult part of the act is bringing the person out of the spell. This is usually done by slapping the person or by shaking him.

"The Elijah" Will Be Presented In Commencement

Miss Oscie Sanders Discusses Personalities, Traits In Assembly

The assembly Saturday morning was in charge of Miss Oscie Sanders, instructor of Bible classes in W. T.

Miss Sanders talked on the personalities and characteristics of people. She used a poem to illustrate the different types and traits. She used the porcupine as antagonistic traits in personality, the mocking-bird as imitators, the lightning bug as an exaggerated sense of over-importance, and the angle-worm as resentment at being used as a means to an end, except when, the end is a worthy one.

The poem she used follows:

Sis porcupine wid her bristles all set,
For de friendly hug am awaitin' yet,
An' she can't understand, as she puckers her mug
De absence of de kiss and de friendly hug.
An' she ain't by herself in dat, in dat.

Will Play St. Mary's University Here Friday

With the well-known three-way point, big six, playing a very prominent part in Coach Al Baggett's basketball through the Lone Star Conference, the West Texas State Teachers lost three games and won one game by a margin of six points.

Losing their first start in a trial run through the Lone Star Conference, the W. T. squad was a victim of Father Time. With but two seconds to go, "Butch" Clark, hustling guard, fouled an East Texas player. This man missed his gratis shot, but Conner, elongated center, jumped high enough to reach ten feet five inches with his elbow, and made the tip-in shot to put the Maroon and Whites in the red by a count of 33 to 31.

The W. T. second go was marked by close refereeing and high scoring by both teams. East Texas won this one by a score of 44 to 38. The score does not indicate the intensity of the battle. Both Coaches, Al Baggett and "Red" Petty of the Lions gave good examples of the jitters.

From Commerce the thin-clads of West Texas moved to Nacogdoches to battle the Stephen F. Austin basketballers. Stephen F. Austin put up a first-half rally and held the Bufs to a count of 30 to 24 for their third loss in as many nights.

On Jan. 11 the Bufs arrived in Huntsville, and immediately proceeded to General Sam Houston's home. Upon the threshold of his house the entire W. T. squad pledged themselves to show General Houston that they were good Texans, and that they would win a game in the spirit of 1836. That night, playing against Sam Houston Bearcats, Coach Baggett's boys played in a game where both sides were rougher than tough. When the melee was over the Bufs had won by a count of 27 to 21.

George Ray Colvin, guard and center of W. T. squad was high point man for all but one game. Captain Boedeker appeared to be the hero in the other game. The entire trip was marked by the inability of any of the Maroon and White forwards to hit the loop.

On Jan. 13, the Buffaloes will play their thirteenth game of the year against Coach Medley's McMurry Indians of Abilene. Coach Baggett has promised his fans and loyal followers another victory in this contest before they embark for home, where they will take on the fast dribbling and sharp shooting charges of Frank Bridges of St. Mary's University at Canyon, Jan. 17, and 18.

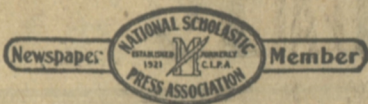

NOTICE, PING-PONGERS

All those interested in competing in the ping-pong tournament sponsored by the college are asked to turn in their names to the main office of Physical Education before 3:30 this afternoon in order to be eligible for the drawings.

De mockin' bird sings in de live-oak tree,
A serenade and a jubilee.
He takes off de robin de crow an' de jay.
He ain't make a name no udder way,
An' he ain't by hisself in dat, in dat.

De lightnin' bug am a gay young spark,
But he never yit put out de dark.
He makes his way in a zigzag flight an' he's muddin'!
Sho he's de source of light,
An' he ain't by hisself in dat, in dat.
I ain't min' de line an' I ain't min' de hook,
Said de anglin' worm wid a knowin' look,
But I sho' do wiggle again my fate,
For it breaks me all up to be used for bait,
An' he ain't by hisself in dat, in dat.

HOW WILL YOU VOTE?

In the January issue of The National Student Mirror, Ruth Sarles states that, ten million new American voters come of age every four years.

Just what will be their outlook upon war or maintenance of world peace? How will they vote?

A large per cent of this group of voters are college students and each year this percentage increases. Are the colleges and schools putting forth any effort to teach their young men and women the disastrous effects of war and the desirability of universal peace?

As the new generation comes on after a war, they having had no part in a war forget its effects and if no forces are used to prevent it, they plunge on blindly into war not realizing what the outcome will be. It is up to the youth of the nation to choose between war or peace. How will YOU vote?

ARE YOU READY?

With final examinations rapidly approaching, much remains for most of us to do by way of preparation.

This bit of advice is not intended for the student who has attended classes conscientiously and worked diligently to get everything of importance that the instructor has stressed into readable notes.

A common practice of students in regard to the "judgment day" is to drift aimlessly along until the last week. Then, suddenly, they realize that exams are almost upon them and become alarmed at their unprepared state. In panic, they sit up late at nights and try to "cram" in a short time what they should have been learning throughout the semester.

If they have a retentive mind, they can remember enough from their "cramming" to pass the course. With the beginning of a new term, resolutions are made and broken in regard to studying more as the term progresses. At the end of the semester they are in exactly the same predicament as they were before.

A GENTLE REMINDER

Two or three weeks before the Christmas holidays, Marvin Callihan, the business manager of Le Mirage, announced through The Prairie and in assembly that nominations for the most popular boy and the most versatile boy in W. T. might be submitted in the form of a petition with twenty-five undersigned names.

It is now almost two weeks after the holidays and still no names of prospective candidates have been turned in. Evidently, there is an unusual amount of interest in this election.

Occurrences like this make the disgruntled student of W. T. gripe. "They haven't got any school spirit!" In the first place, who are "they"? Everyone blames everyone else for the lack of this mythical thing called "school spirit" which is manifested in every enterprise attempted on the campus.

Instead of helping get things done, it is far easier to stand back and wait until the undertaking fails for lack of co-operation among those affected and then yell, "Yeah, no school spirit."

If a person hears a thing enough times, he will finally come to believe it.

CAMPUS POLITICS

As education advances and the colleges, universities and schools are crowded with young men and women, the youth of the nation becomes more and more a problem and menace to the old political parties and government. Seeing the possibilities in these new voters, who have not as yet pledged themselves strongly to any party, the political machinery has extended itself to the campus of almost every college in the United States.

In the January issue of The Student Mirror, Raymond A. Kent in his story, "An Open Season For Youth," states that there is scarcely a college or university campus of any size in this country upon which one or more attempts have not been made to capture at least some of the students for pacifism, for militarism, for socialism, for rugged individualism, for nationalism, or to place youth in some other yard with a high fence around it.

In this confusion of parties and movements, will it not endanger our youth in his voting intelligently.

YAWNS IN CHAPEL

Groans and moans sound from the lips of students as they file into the auditorium. Sneers of reproach are on their faces as the speaker of the morning makes his appearance.

To the students, the speaker does not heed the rustling of papers, the shuffling of feet and reproachful glances. If he did, in their opinion, he would get stage fright immediately.

Assembly is the only means by which the student body, as a whole, can be brought together for closer contact, but it remains through sympathy, because of the ruling that the students have to sit there.

The students don't see that efforts toward educational trends are challenging them. They take this attitude: "The law can make you do a thing, but it can't make you like it."

Unless the entertainer is a person who can handle his audience well, he is at a loss; but are there reasons for this? Sometimes there are.

Students who have never made the attempt, how do you suppose it would affect you to address a restless audience?

The shifting bodies and nodding heads would probably make you sea-sick, and the gaping mouths would make you dizzy for fear you would fall into them.

If you were a special guest at the White House, and they served spinach, you might not eat it, but you wouldn't turn up your nose at it, would you? Our guests may be speakers—speakers who are not so good sometimes, but sneering won't make them better, and it isn't likely that it will improve your rating. The "sneerer" can be worse than the "sneerer."

The humble artichoke crashed the limelight when it was banned in New York by Mayor LaGuardia, so it is fitting to present the Artichoke King of America, Dante Dianda. Song of the Shears

Well, folks, here we are with something different this week. So far, this year, no one has taken the trouble to write an exchange column. Whether or not you will read the column, or, whether or not you will like it after you have read it, remains to be seen.

Perhaps you have already heard this one, but it is too good a chance for self-justification to pass it up. It comes from the "Vocational News."

"When a plumber makes a mistake, he charges double for it. When a lawyer makes a mistake, it is just what he wanted, because he has a chance to try the case all over again. When the doctor makes a mistake, he buries it. When a judge makes a mistake, it becomes the law of the land. And when a preacher makes a mistake, nobody knows the difference. But when the printer makes a mistake—GOOD NIGHT!"

The Mustang prints a pretty good one in our opinion:

"A guest at a banquet took pains to make himself agreeable to a Chinese sitting next to him. Somewhat at a loss for small talk, he ventured after the first course, 'Likee soupee?'"

There was no reply except for a general beam. After the next course he followed his first opening with "Likee fisher?"

This evoked a still more general beam. Later in the evening the visitor from the Far East responded to a toast in perfect English.

On resuming his seat he asked his discomfited neighbor, "Likee speecher?"

From Denton, comes the news that N. T. S. T. C. is to open a new, modern, three-story dormitory for women at the beginning of the second semester, Jan. 27. The building, Marquis Hall, is a memorial to the late president of the college there, Dr. E. L. Marquis.

Try Your Guesser

Father an ex-student, generous with grins, car a relic, a job which takes him to the halls and town daily, nice kid.

Gangsters moll (?), boyish bob, brother recently heard over radio, in tight before the footlights, city gal.

Stayed in teacher's home during last summer school, best man at summer ex-student wedding, throw-back on athletic world because he has brains, leaps from student to teacher.

Intellectual, works in office, plays horn, many times class secretary, upperclassman, Irish blue eyes.

Goes to shows with his apron on, of this fair town, Amarillo friends, devilish dark eyes, kinky hair, knows a string of big words.

Philosopher, rancid jokes, agonizing individual grading system. What kind of dreams does he have in assembly? Lovable character, linguist (even Chinese).

She Turned New Leaves for 1936

Harriette Bibbins, of Imperial Valley, Calif., decided to turn over more than one new leaf for the new year, but they were lettuce leaves, from which she made herself this novel costume. She is shown above in a field near her home, where she picked the lettuce from the new winter crop.

Buffaloes Lose Three Games In East Texas

After a successful invasion of the Middle West, where they played a big part in the Winfield, Kansas, Invitation meet, the Buffaloes took to the highway on an extended trip into Eastern Texas.

As this goes to press the Buffaloes have lost three games on this tour. They fell before the East Texas Teachers in a hard-fought game, losing 33 to 31. The last point was scored in the last two seconds of play. Big "Red" Walling took the place of Captain Willie Boedeker, who had fouled out, and did an excellent job of floor guarding, and maneuvering.

The East Texas Teachers repeated again the following night, and this time the score was 44 to 38. Colvin paced the scorers with 14 markers to his credit.

Traveling to Nacogdoches the following day, the Buffaloes again ran into a mountain of opposition, and found the tall athletes that represent Stephen F. Austin too much for them to handle, and suffered the sting of defeat by a score of 30 to 24. Colvin and Boedeker played a good game for the Buffs.

If motor buses are built much longer they'll have to start hinging them in the middle so they can turn corners.

Oklahoma City University will bring a group of veteran goal slingers to Canyon. They were one of the best basketball teams in their league last year, and they have several additions that should make them sensational.

If the Rams from Ft. Worth bring as unorthodox a basketball team as they did a football team, the fans will be assured of a real treat—I am wondering what style of offense they will use. Now, don't misunderstand me to say that T. W. C. did not have a good football team, because they did. They had a hard running bunch, and were plenty clever—but I do say they played funny.

There is some torrid competition in the intramural league this year. In fact, there is some plenty good teams, with very little difference between them. Among the strongest teams that have appeared so far are the Ex-Eagles, Hill Billies, Jones Boys, Buffalo Courts, and E. B.'s.

The Betas and Jones Boys put on a demonstration of stamina Thursday night as they battled a full game that resulted in a tie. After three extra periods the score was still tied, but in the fourth extra period the Betas took the count by a two point advantage.

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL RESULTS OF THE WEEK

The 1936 intramural campaign is on. The first week's games were not minus the thrills and spills generally present as the nervous teams set out in quest of the gold medal.

Last Monday night Captain Hinger's Buffalo Courts definitely established themselves as favorites of the tournament by soundly trimming the Jones Boys, 29-13.

Tuesday night, the tide turned when an unknown group of Ex-Eagles staged a great defensive battle to upset the defending champions—Lloyd Harris' Hillbillies 13-11. Following this, Moore's Co-op supplanted the highly touted Eligible Bachelors, 14-12.

Wednesday produced another surprise when the Farm B out-classed their Aggie rivals, Farm A, by the score of 19-10.

The Ex-Eagles won another game Thursday by barely nosing out the Wildcats, 14-12. The Jones Boys stayed in the running by squeezing out a victory of 25-23 over the Eligible Bachelors, in four extra periods.

Freshmen Sweep Series From Portales Greyhounds

Shackleford Reminds Us of Joe "College" Fortenberry

Staging another last-half rally, the Yearlings opened their series against the crack shooters of Portales Junior College by winning a thrill-studded game to the jingling tune of 45-36, and climaxed the meet by taking the finale 39-37 in a rough and tumble affair.

In sweeping the double-header, the Yearlings presented a colorful offensive attack coupled with their towering height to keep the New Mexicans on the defensive most of the time.

Going into the opener as underdogs, the Yearlings displayed a grim determination that secured for them a 12-3 lead. But then their offense wavered and awakened to be following 25-19 at mid-time.

After the intermission the Yearling scoring punch was thrown into full blast. "Big Boy" Shackleford brought back sweet memories of Joe Fortenberry as he crammed the basket for 19 points to pace the scorers. A tricky forward from Allison, "Red" Hayes, made 5 field goals and 1 gratis shot to take second scoring honors. The defensive work of L. O. Speer, Yearling guard, was an important factor in the Frosh victory.

Featuring the clever ball-handling of "Red" Hayes and Lloyd Johnson, the Frosh eked out a close triumph of 39-37 in the second game. With five minutes to play, the Freshmen commanded a 37-25 lead, but they were given a scare when Coffman, Portales center, and Reed, Grehound guard, began to pound the basket with much rapidity. The final whistle checked the rally one goal short. Coffman and Reed paced the scoring with 12 points each. Lloyd Johnson with 10 points led the winners. Hanson, a substitute guard for Speer, gave a good account of himself in the closing minutes of play, as he broke through to score the goal that proved to be the margin of victory.
