Elimination Contests In T. I. P. A. Work Are Held; Winning Papers Are Sent To Officials

W. T. Students Enter All Writing Contests Given;
The Prairie is Entered in Newspaper Contest;
Winners To Be Announced at Convention.

Contest material for the Texas Intercollegiate Press Association contests was mailed to the vice-president of the organization last Thursday. W. T. is well represented in the contests this year, having an entry in every type of contest except the annual and literary magazine.

Announcement of winners in the various contests was made public Wednesday when the local judges returned the papers with their decisions. Due to the number of people who were contestants this year much enthusiasm had been manifested over the outcome of the contests.

In the one-act play contest Dorothy Thomas, a senior, took first place with "A Crook's Wife." Mrs. Irby Carruth, judge of the plays, reports that she was pleased with the plot, acting possibilities, and general methods of procedure in this play. Second place was given to Zella Mae Walser and third place to Anne Ruth Snow.

Twenty-two poems were submitted in the poetry contest. Mrs. Grace Parkinson Wood won first place with "The Wall," a modernistic poem of eight lines. Mr. J. L. Burke won second place and Katherine Malone third place. Miss Mattie Swayne was judge of this contest.

Gene Elio's "Reveries of Hawaii" which appeared in a recent issue of The Prairie, won first place in the familiar essay contest. Miss Mary Morgan Brown, judge, was quite favorable in her comment on this piece of work and praised particularly the atmosphere created by the essay. Estelle Harris won second place with "On Meeting an Eight O'clock Class," which is also familiar to readers of this paper. No final decision was made concerning third place. Twenty-four essays were entered in the contest.

Lulu Mae Irons submitted the only humorous short story in the contest. "California Bound," the story, was read and criticized by Dr. George Mullins.

Three serious short stories were submitted. Jack Williamson, who is fast becoming known as a writer in W. T., won first place with another of his pseudo-scientific stories, "The Purple Crystal." Second place was given to Maymie Daniel and third place to Opal Coley.

First, second, and third place in the editorials were won by Anna Throckmorton. The editorial winning first place was "Treasures of the Gypsy Band" which recently appeared in The Prairie.

The feature story on Jocko, Miss Richardson's well known pet monkey, received first place in the contests. This was written by Lulu Mae Irons. Second and third places were won by Anna Throckmorton. Edward Gerald, editor of the Canyon News, acted as judge in the editorial, news stories, and feature stories contests.

The news story on the dedication of the Education Building won first place. This was written by Anna Throckmorton. Miss Throckmorton also won second place. Online Clinkscals won third place with her story of the Phidias Art Club recently brought to the college.

In the formal essay contest first, second, and third places were given to Anna Throckmorton. The first place was "Hamlet in His Loneliness." These essays were judged by Miss Jewell Cowan and Mrs. Tommie Montfort. Eight entries were made.

Four consecutive issues of The Prairie were also entered in the newspaper contest.

Vincent W. Miller, vice-president of the state organization, will send the material from the seventeen member colleges to the various judges which were recently selected. Announcements of the winning papers will be made at the annual convention which will be held in Abilene April 26 and 27. Only first place papers are sent entered in the state contest.

Leta Cayton, Ben Porter, Jeff Fowler, Jessie Bumpass, Howard Golden and Nell Galloway were among the ex-students seen on the campus last week end.

Due to ill health Hazelle Cantrell, a senior, was forced to withdraw from school last week.

Louise Walker of the class of '26, visited in the college last Saturday.

M. E. LEAGUE WORK BEGINS LAST EVENING

SUPPER, CLASSES, AND ASSEMBLY WORK PROMISES SEMBLY WORK PROMISE TO BE OF MUCH VALUE TO ALL.

The Epworth League Efficiency Institute, which is being sponsored by the local Epworth League of the Methodist Church, opened last evening at five thirty o'clock. Practically one hundred students were in attendance last evening for the class and assembly work and an increase is expected from time to time.

The supper yesterday evening was prepared by the local League. Different organizations will prepare supper each evening. Judging from the social nature of last night's supper, serving as a time for getting acquainted, the first part of the program each evening promises to be important in social training.

Classes began at 6:15. The class in administration is quite popular. Those taking it speak highly of Mr. Shewbert's ability in teaching it. The class continues through two periods.

The first department began its work with Miss Mattie Mae Swisher. They are studying "Training the Devotional Life." The second period work is taught by Miss Angie Debo.

"Whither Bound in Missions" is a vitally interesting text for the missionary classes. This is being taught by Miss M. Moss Richardson during the first period.

The Rev. C. E. Jameson teaches the work of the second class period in the second department.

Classes in social service are being taught by Mrs. A. A. Grusenford and Mrs. C. E. Jameson. "The Young Christian in His Community" is the text for both classes.

The fourth department work, recreation and culture, is a laboratory course. Miss Ruth Lowes and Mrs. Geraldine Green are in charge of this course.

From 7:00 to 7:30 each evening a general assembly will be held. Last night Mrs. Elizabeth Fry Page gave an address explaining the meaning of Holy Week. The history of the observance of Holy Week was recounted in an interesting way. This evening at the general assembly hour Mr. Joe Strouthers of Amarillo will be presented in an organ recital.

Flora and Jess Dorris spent the holidays in their home in Clovis.

Misses Mattie Swayne and Ruth Lowes spent the holidays visiting in Miss Swayne's home in Grow.

PUPPET SHOW PLEASES W. T. AUDIENCE WED.

TONY SARG MARIONETTES
GIVE TWO PERFORMANCES
THAT PROVE COLORFUL AND ARTISTIC TO FULL HOUSES.

Wednesday evening, March 19, at 8:00 o'clock in the college auditorium, Tony Sarg's Marionettes played "The Adventures of Christopher Columbus" to a full house.

This lyceum number was of special interest to the student body because of its antique nature and the skill with which the little puppets were manipulated. Some of the amusing incidents in the performance were written by Mr. Sarg himself, and displayed the comical possibilities of these "little Marys."

Antonio, Columbus' ludicrous red headed servant, the pack donkeys, the lonesome cat, and the chattering monkeys of the West Indies, who could dance as well as talk English, moved with deceiving naturalness and ease as did, too, the more important characters of the story.

Emotions ranging from the most violent grief as shown by Antonio's wife on taking leave of her husband at the wharf to the forceful gestures of the orator and even of fear and nonchalance strengthened the appeal of the little actors and lent an air of reality to the story.

The lighting effects were beautiful and well handled. The scene at the bottom of the sea where porpoises swam in a greenish white light among the sea weeds and promptly disposed of the mutinous sailor who had been thrown overboard by Antonio, and the scene on the island in which a violent storm raged were most

Student Group Is In Select Party on Carlsbad Tour

During the recent between term holidays a group of W. T. students with Mrs. Ben Louder as chaperon formed a part of a private party of Mr. Thomas Boles, superintendent of the Carlsbad Caverns, which made the Amelia Earhart tour into the lower Carlsbad Cavern, March 17.

Jim White, discoverer and explorer of the caverns, led the party down steep ladders and through narrow winding tunnels until the enormous chambers of the Lower Cavern were reached. The way was lighted by only two gasoline lanterns which were carried by the guides.

Here and there could be seen the string laid by White in his original explorations. The members of the party agreed that the formations in the lower cavern were far more wonderful than in any other part of the cave.

Many improvements are in progress in the upper cavern for the benefit of sightseers. The natural stored by replacing the stairs with easy winding trails. The recently installed lighting system gives the effect of bright moonlight.

The party was fortunate in being visitors on the same day that F. L. Conner, auditor of the National Parks in the United States, was making his semi-annual inspection. An added zest was given to the trip through close association with the personality of Superintendent Boles.

The students composing the party, Thelma Cook and Doris Louder.

Three Buffaloes to Enter Professional Baseball This Year

Three members of the 1928 West Texas Teachers baseball team are scheduled to report at league camps early in April for training. Bert Wells, left hander, Jim Strain, pitcher, and R. F. Newman, first baseman, of last year's College squad are to be given tryouts with professional clubs.

Wells goes to San Angelo, in the West Texas League, about April 1. Strain and Newman will report to the Terre Haute, Ind., club in the "Three Eye" league about the same time.

Baseball has been discontinued as a major college sport by most schools in the T. I. A. A.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd J. Jordan announce the arrival of a seven and one-half pound girl, Bobbie Joe, in their home February 25. Mrs. Jordan was formerly Lucille Taylor. She was in school here in 1925-'26.

ONE-ACT PLAY CONTEST TO BE HERE MARCH 29

SIXTEEN PANHANDLE SCHOOLS ARE ENTERED.

Finals To Be Held Saturday Night,
March 30, at Education Building Auditorium.

Sixteen schools of the Panhandle region will send one-act play casts to Canyon March 29-30 to compete in the District One Inter-scholastic League contest, according to W. E. Lockhart, league director.

Auditoriums of the Canyon High School, Administration and Education buildings at the College will be utilized by the contest directors to facilitate presentation of the plays. Judges for preliminary contests will be furnished from the faculty of the department of Speech at the College. Judges for the finals of the contest likely will come from little theatres over the Panhandle section.

Directors of little theatres in Amarillo and Hereford probably will be invited as judges during some phase of the contest, Mr. Lockhart said.

The two casts surviving the preliminaries will be presented Saturday night in the Education building. (Continued on last page.)

Many Students and Instructors Go As Judges to Schools

Many groups of students and faculty members are being sent out to adjoining towns and counties to act as judges in county and school meets and decide the winners who will represent their respective schools in the Inter-scholastic League meet to be held here in April.

The following groups have been sent out this week: C. Wesley Batchelder, Wayne Eubanks, and J. D. Gamble judged at a meet in Motley county; Leo Forrest, Montie Draper and Agnes Moore went to Claude to judge a rural school meet. T. M. Moore headed a group to decide a Wheeler School Fair; and Miss Novella Goodman was in charge of a team to Dimmitt. More teams will be sent out this week.

Buffalo Track Men To Miss Bagwell

Track prospects this season for the West Texas State Teachers College Buffaloes received a severe setback when it was announced that Bud Bagwell would not return to school this spring. Bagwell was captain-elect.

Bagwell's loss will weaken the team considerably. The Claude star holds the T. I. A. A. record in the half mile and is one of the greatest distance men ever to appear in a Buffalo track uniform. He won the half mile in the Olympic tryouts in Dallas last summer to be eliminated in the final trials at Boston later.

The thin clad warriors have settled down to the serious business of training for the track meet.

Their first meet is a dual affair with Texas Tech at Lubbock, April 6. The Buffs will likely send a team to the S. M. U. relays.

Historical Museum Here Has Relics Representative Of Many Life Phases

BY ELMA CUMMINGS
Many interesting phases of history are represented in the material collected by the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society, the most interesting of which material is on exhibit in Room 17 of the College building.

When one has only a short while to visit the museum he should have one of these phases in mind and study that phase only. Because the one who tries to see everything exhibited in an hour, or in two hours, will only have a conglomerated idea of the whole, when he leaves.

One of the most interesting parts of the museum is that which consists of Indian relics.

There are three collections which are important especially for the material which they contain dealing with Indian life. First, there is the collection from W. G. Baxter of Dimmitt which was acquired by the Society in May, 1928. Second, the collection of E. Dowden, deceased, of Plainview, which was deposited here in March, 1927. And third, we have Col. Goodnight's collection, the greater part

W. T. Dean Receives Word of Death of Charles McMurtry

News of the death of Dr. Charles A. McMurtry of George Peabody College for Teachers reached Dr. R. P. Jarrett by telegram Sunday morning. Dr. Bruce R. Payne, President of the Peabody institution wired Dr. Jarrett of the passing of one of the outstanding men in the educational life of the nation.

Dr. McMurtry was nationally and internationally known in education. He was the author of many books and articles. One of his chief contributions to education was the "Type Study" or "large unit of study" idea which helped to invigorate the elementary school curriculum.

Several members of the faculty of the college have known and admired Dr. McMurtry. Dr. Jarrett, Dr. Barnett, Mr. Savage, Miss Hibbetts, and Mr. and Mrs. Harris M. Cook have had work with Dr. McMurtry while in Peabody.

In speaking of Dr. McMurtry yesterday morning, Mr. Cook said: "He was one of the finest characters I have known."

C. E. Strain and children, Ruth, Charles and Martha, and John S. Humphreys furnished the program Tuesday for the Lion's Club.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Wesley Batchelder and daughter and Miss Margaret Clyde visited in New Mexico during the holidays.

"Treasure Island," written by Robert Louis Stevenson, has been dramatized into three live acts by C. W. Batchelder. Editor-Elect For Le Mirage Makes Trip to Ft. Worth

Miss Minerva Bookout, editor elect of Le Mirage, returned yesterday morning from Ft. Worth where she visited the plant of Southwestern Engraving Company with regard to her work for the coming year.

It has been the custom for the past several years for the editor-elect to make this trip to Fort Worth at some time during the spring quarter. Miss Strain, who made the trip last year, reports that she gained much material value from the inspection of the plant. Miss Bookout says that the actual work on the yearbook for 1930 is already under way and definite plans for the theme have already been mapped out.

Miss Bookout returned by way of Sherman and visited with relatives there over the week end.

Mrs. Eva Grimstead and daughter, Charles Evelyn, of Rochester visited their daughter and sister, Ruth Grimstead, during the holidays. They were accompanied by Ala Pierce.

Mr. W. Don Ham, of the class of '27, has been elected to the position of algebra-history teacher in the high school of his home town, Mt. Vernon, Texas.

Ann Ruth Snow spent the vacation in Amarillo as the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Bryant Jobe.

Margaret Glass spent the week end in McLean at her home.

Preparations are practically complete for the annual meeting of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society which will be held March 29 at the College. An unusually fine program has been worked out with Dr. W. P. Webb of the University of Texas as the principal speaker at both the afternoon and evening sessions. Dr. Webb's afternoon paper will be "The Great Plains in the Civil War" and at the banquet he will discuss informally "The Search for Water on the Plains." Dr. Webb is Texas' authority on history of this section of the state.

Other features of the business session will be a discussion of the building plans of the society which were begun last year. H. E. Hoover is chairman of the committee in charge of this project.

The business session will close in time for all visitors to visit the museum of the society. The museum now contains 3,100 different articles exclusive of books, manuscripts and pictures. Although the quarters are so crowded that it is impossible for much of the material to be shown at one time, this visit is planned to give the visitors an opportunity to see the possibilities of the society whenever a building is provided to house it.

An exhibit of the paintings of Harold Bugbee of Clarendon will be a special feature of the meeting. Bugbee is a young artist, son of one of the early pioneers of the Panhandle, and thoroughly acquainted with every subject connected with the life of the far west. Among the pictures that will be on display are his very recent paintings of Colonel C. C. Goodnight, "The Chuck Wagon," and "The Successful Shot." These paintings are now on display in the offices of the Dean of Women, and townspeople and visitors are invited to see them whether they attend the meetings of the Historical Society or not.

Authorities are agreed that Bugbee is an artist who will become increasingly well known. He interprets a little known region to people all over the United States.

The usual banquet of the society will take place at Cousins Hall at six o'clock. Reservations for plates must be made by March 26. Indications are that there will be more people who want tickets than there is seating space, so those who buy first will be given preference. Checks should be sent to the secretary at Canyon.

L. F. Sheffy will give the welcome address and Horace Russell of Amarillo will respond. Old-timers who are present will be introduced by Judge L. Gough of Amarillo. R. B. Smith of Crosbyton is bringing a special number, the nature of which has not been divulged. Those who have known of the Crosbyton Smiths for many years are confident that the surprise will be a great addition to the program.

A great number of people from the entire Panhandle region will be on hand for the meeting. T. D. Hobart of Pampa, president of the society will preside at the business meeting. J. Evetts Haley, field secretary of the organization is now back from Mexico and his experiences there and in connection with his work will add zest to the meeting.

Officers will be chosen to carry on the work for the following year.

T. D. Hobart, and other officers want it understood that all persons who are interested in the history of development of the Great Plains region are invited to attend the business meeting and banquet of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society and to become members.

Olympic Theatre Will Be Scene of Style Show Thurs.

Merchants of Canyon will present their annual style show at the Olympic Theatre Thursday evening beginning at eight o'clock.

Practically all of those who model in the style show are students of the college. For some years it has been the custom of the merchants to model the latest and most charming styles of the season in order that citizens of the city and students of the college will benefit therefrom.

Side Lights

Old Tack is stirring up quite a furore over the opera which was presented in Amarillo last week.
His criticisms sound plumb logical and sensible, too. Of course we don't know enough about it to have an opinion. However unsound his arguments may be, they still stand unrefuted.

The magnificence of the production and the sheer artistry of the mounting and sets so carried us away that we never even thought of being in a critical mood. Besides that we couldn't understand a word, so what the heck?

Mr. Myers of the Amarillo College of Music is doing this section
a real service in his efforts to present the best of entertainment to his patrons. On April 11 he will have the New York Guild in a production of "The Doctor's Dilemma," by Shaw. This will be one of the greatest opportunities ever afforded a Panhandle audience to see something of real merit in legitimate drama. We feel certain that this play will not be cut.

Tony Sarg's Marionettes were among the most novel and entertaining lyceums we've ever seen.
Attractions of this kind make students feel that the blanket tax is an investment rather than a donation to something or other.

And now, dear friends of radio-land, we have the next installment of "My Love Affairs in a Nutshell."

My next shining example of folly was in falling headlong and shamefully in love with Lenora.
It was not a regrettable affair,
however, for really, she was a very lovable girl.

I was spending a few months in the sandhills of nowhere in quest of fame and fortune. One twelfth of a year had passed; not once had I gazed upon the face of a beautiful woman; and from all appearances, I was not apt to so long as I remained in this surrounding of hills and bushes. But lo! one fair summer day there returneth to our village the favorite daughter of our most up-righteous citizen. Ah, mark off the days of boredom and lonesome solitude, for they were no more.

Lenora had been everywhere.
She knew everything, and, in her own eyes and in mine, she had no faults. As an added attraction, her father was the sole owner of a nifty herd of four footed beasties and a fat bankroll. Needless to say, this did not influence my actions in the least, still it is so much easier to love a girl with such a future. Too, I was ripe for love.

I wooed her with all the passion of a great lover, bestowing with wild abandon all the little attentions and courtesies so dear to the heart (and head) of a woman upon her. Her response was slow and difficult to detect, but not for long could she resist my superb courting. With glee, I broke down her defense; with pleasure I made myself a necessity to her; and within a fortnight she lay unresistingly in my arms, a vision of loveliness. She was such a tender slip of a girl—lips red like the strawberry glistening with an early morning dew, body slender as that of a wood nymph, so soft and warm that to touch was to desire. A thing is beautiful first of all because it is desired, Lenora was the most beautiful thing on earth.

In my opinion the greatest consolation for regret is knowing that only due to one's folly has one reason to regret. Lenora was lost to me. Intuition, that indefinable something whispers with an assurance that I do not feel,
"lucky devil, forget not your single independence." Nevertheless, moments of solitude have brought pangs of regret causing my 'single independence' to lose its popularity. Consoling it is, though, saying "She was mine had I wished."

Yes, I won Lenora's love. At least she loved as much as any modern girl is capable of loving. I admit, that is nothing to brag about. Also I admit that I am no braggart. So I do not hesitate in admitting her love for me. Did I love her? Not a question of doubt entered my mind in that hour during which my enthusiastic declaration of worshipful love echoed and re-echoed among those wind swept hills. Where breathes the man with heart so empty and purse so full that he has no love
for a seemingly perfect maiden with a Rolls-Royce? Ah, yes, I was honest in my declaration!

Why am I doomed, or bound, always to have my affairs to come to an untimely end? There was I, happiness at the tip of my fingers, and, due to my blooming idiotcy and unnatural abhorrence of minor physical defects, I let it go untouched.

Lenora and I were inspecting
the new home that was to be ours
on the date of our marriage. It was the perfect love nest, ideal in every respect. (My father-in-law to be was living up to my anticipations). We were conversing widely on the joys and the happiness that were to be ours, when in a matter of fact way, Lenora said, "Ted, (she always called me Ted) we have never discussed the physical side of life nor any trivial physical defects that might possibly mar our happiness. Now I have something that I want to tell you about."

I interrupted her, little realizing that the end was so near. "Yes, dearest, (I always called her that) as usual, you are right. I shall tell you of myself." And I proceeded to give her the minutest
description of myself concluding with the assertion that I had never heard myself snore.

"That all sounds very well," she said, "and I find nothing that could make our married life other than it should be. So, now you shall hear of myself. First of all,
I must tell you. I have fallen arches—"

A cry of anguish broke from my suddenly parched lips. Gropingly
I staggered to the door and ran blindly down the street with never a backward glance. After hurriedly packing my suitcase I cranked up the old flivver, set my eyes on the eastern horizon, and turned neither to the right nor to the left.

Not even once have I again
seen Lenora.

WINDS OF MARCH

By J. L. Burke

The winds of March go blowing by,
Blowing, flowing, always going,
Whisking clouds against the sky,
Passing spires with howling cry,
Howling, sighing, ever crying.
A fickle bolsterer on his spree,
He chases hats with mocking glee,
And drives prim skirts about the knee.
Circling, sucking, sudden driving,
He flaps the curtains, slams the door,
Breaks rare vases on the floor—
A high March wind—nothing more.

Atwater Kent Plans Contest For Singers

College students throughout the country, particularly those who intend to adopt music as a career,
will be interested in the announcement of the Atwater Kent Foundation plans for a 1929 nation-wide audition to select the ten best young singers in the country for vocal training at a recognized school of music. Significant in the 1929 plans, as compared with the 1927 and 1928 programs of the same kind carried on by the Atwater Kent Foundation, is the fact that all of the ten finalists will receive at least a year's training under recognized masters or in well known schools in addition to being given larger monetary benefits.

Outstanding also is the fact that the ten finalists are selected partly by popular vote of radio listeners
—the vote counting 60% of the final result in the local, state and district auditions by means of which these finalists for national honors are chosen. The cash benefits have been increased from an aggregate of $17,500 given the preceding years, to $25,000.

"It seems to me," said A. Atwater Kent, president of the Foundation, in the announcement,
"that after devoting nearly a year to preliminary contests, in which 50,000 or 60,000 voices are tried out, we should make certain that all ten of the finalists be assured of further vocal instruction and the means with which to pursue
it. For that reason we have added $7,500 in cash prizes and two years
in tuition to the former awards.
We have received innumerable assurances from all sections of the country that the radio audition is worthwhile, and I am, therefore, delighted to take advantage of the opportunity to hold another one
this year."

The awards this year will be as follows:

Winners of first place (one boy and one girl) $5,000 each and two years' tuition in an American conservatory.

Winners of second place, $3,000
each and one year's tuition.

Winners of third place, $2,000
each and one year's tuition.

Winners of fourth place, $1,500
each and one year's tuition.

Winners of fifth place, $1,000
each and one year's tuition.

During the summer and early fall local contests will be held in the cities and towns of every state,

open to amateur singers from 18
to 25. State auditions will follow and will be broadcast from a central point in each state. Two winners, one boy and one girl, will be selected to represent each state in district contests, of which there will be five, held at central points
in the East, Middle West, Southwest, Southeast, and Far West.
The ten finalists (one boy and one girl from each district) will be put on the air over a coast to coast network in December, for final rating by a board of musicians of national standing. All expenses of contestants to the district and final auditions will be paid by the Foundation.

CANYON WILL HAVE CLEANUP DAY SOON

April 11 has been designated as cleanup day of the city of Canyon. The city federation of women's clubs, headed by Mrs. John S. Humphreys will have charge of the day's work.

This will be followed by a city beautification campaign which will last the entire summer. Mrs. A.
W. Sternberg is chairman of the committee which will have charge of the summer's work. The city commission will co-operate with the clubs and substantial prizes will be offered in the fall.

The TumbleweedGROUP VISITS METHODIST ENCAMPMENT GROUND

The vacation between quarters proved a joyful time for Miss Angie Debo, Mildred Wheat, and Rosemary Lewis, who spent three days in the Methodist Encampment grounds. They left Saturday and returned Tuesday evening.

While making explorations the party discovered a narrow ravine which they named Girl Reserve Ravine as all present are officials in the local Girl Reserve organization.

The Girl Reserves expect to make a trip to these canyons later in the spring. At this time they will be shown some of the discoveries made by their officials. Visitors to the encampment hereafter will see immense triangles inscribed about the letters G. R.

THIRD GRADE WORK

Last quarter while the wind was raging the third grade composed the following poem during their language period.

The March Wind

The March wind sometimes seems to sigh

And send the dust right through the sky.

It turns the windmills round and round

And piles the dust upon the ground.

O wind, that sometimes seems to sigh

O wind, that piles the dust so high!

You wind that blows so hard in spring

And makes the hills with echoes ring

Take my kite o'er field and tree

And bring it safely back to me.

O wind, that blows so hard and cold

O wind, that is so strong and bold.

O wind, that blows the leaves away

Why do you make them go and stay?

Why do you blow so hard all day?

And keep the children in from play?

O wind, that sometimes sigh

O wind, that piles the dust so high.

The third grade now has an electric stove in its room. They recently baked potatoes for their lunch.

Two little jack rabbits, Tippy and Jack, have recently joined the members of the third grade room.

JUST

By Katherine Malone
Just a quiver of the branches,
Just two shadows there tonight,
Just a nightingale's soft music,
Just a moonbeam's silvery light,
Just the silence of an evening,
Just a moment's heavenly bliss,
Just the mystery of summer—
It was just a lover's kiss.

Cousins Plan Work For This Quarter

"More members present; better programs presented; new members accepted; and dead members revived!" such in short are the objectives for the Cousins Literary Society during the Spring quarter as outlined by President Lewis Hill at the regular meeting of the Society Thursday evening.

Mr. Hill stated that success for the quarter will be determined by the kind of programs which are presented. The entire meeting dealt primarily with the plan of program arrangement for the quarter.

And in regard to programs the outlook for the term is good. Guy Tabor is chairman of the program committee, assisted by Edwin Boedeker and Newton Crain. This committee with the help of each member of the society, will arrange the program for each meeting. Each program will be completed in time to be published in The Prairie and to be placed on the bulletin board preceding the meeting.

Mr. Tabor showed his ingenuity at managing the business of arranging programs by giving each member present a card on which to answer the following statements: First, The kind of programs I would like; second, What I can do; third, Others I know who can do something.

Dorm DopeCOUSINS HALL

Jeanne Price of Amarillo has enrolled in W. T. as a freshman. She is given a hearty welcome into Cousins Hall.

The wedding ceremony was performed at the home of the sister of the groom in Amarillo. The young couple expect to make their home on a ranch near Vega where Mr. Dodson has been living.

Mrs. Dodson was a sophomore in school here last quarter. She has done all of her college work here. Mr. Dodson is a graduate of A. & M. College. He graduated from this institution with high honors.

MISS EDNA GRAHAM ENTERTAINS

On two occasions this week Miss Edna Graham has opened her home for the entertainment of her friends. Friday evening sixteen guests enjoyed a delightful bridge dinner. Pink roses and white hyacinths were used at all the tables, and the rose and white colors were also observed in the tully cards.

On Monday afternoon twenty-four of the married ladies of the town and faculty members were entertained at bridge. The rose and white colors were used on this occasion. Also a delightful salad course was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Ebb Perkins announce the arrival of a son, Theodore Eugene. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Perkins is in Channing where he is engaged in the garage business. Mrs. Perkins will be remembered as Alma Allman who last attended school here in the summer of '27.

Good Prospects for League Meet Here

Indications are that more than 1100 students will be here April 19 and 20 for District One Interscholastic League contests, according to W. E. Lockhart, director-general.

One thousand students were entered last year, and on the basis of general growth the league has experienced the last few years, attendance should increase by more than 100, it was believed.

All phases of Interscholastic League work will be conducted here during the two days. Main events of the track and field meet, always a big drawing card, will be held in Buffalo Park, Saturday afternoon, April 20.

With the added room made available by the new Education building, officials in charge are enthusiastic over consequent facilitation of forensic and literary contests.

rough and unpolished, whereas those of the Aztecs are polished and in many instances highly decorated.

Two other important items in the Baxter collection should be noted in connection with the pottery exhibit.

There is a stone square, which Mr. Baxter believes was used by the Indians in fashioning lines on the articles of pottery such as he has collected, and on other paintings. This is the only implement of this kind known to have been collected in the Southwest. It was found in Northwest New Mexico on the San Juan River.

Then there is the rock which was used by the Indians for paint. It was used for painting the bodies of the Indians, and for painting rocks, and perhaps articles of pottery. It was found in San Saba County, Texas, on the San Saba River, but is not a native to that region.

In a general way this is a review of the Indian relics of the Baxter collection. By seeing the articles themselves, and studying the description of them, one can get a clearer view of the work of the early Indians, which was really artistic.

In the Dowden collection there is shown a different type of art. That such as was produced in Quanah Parker's time. A brief description of that material shall be given in next week's issue of The Prairie.

Former Student's School House Burns

Mrs. Katy V. Conaster's school building near Spur burned recently. Only a few books were saved. In her efforts to save the building Mrs. Conaster lost her wraps, books, teaching equipment, and much of her own work done while in college.

It seems the irony of fate that she had just completed a week of teaching fire prevention and had that morning put on display a number of fire prevention posters. The school is continuing its work in a three room dwelling located near the building which burned.

striking in this respect. Remarkable grace characterized the dances of the sailors, of the monkeys and the wierd but rhythmic dance of the Indians. A touch of modern humor entered when Antonio replied to Columbus' fervent statement "You have saved my life, Antonio," with "Oh, that's all right, master. I enjoyed it," and a real admiration for Columbus was strengthened by his noble and determined personality as it was exemplified by his bearing and actions.

By way of introduction to W. T.'s first opportunity to witness the world famous Sarg Marionettes the "Spanish Fiesta" was given to a large audience of children and adults of the college as well as citizens of Canyon.

"George," the greedy human marionette who eats and drinks but in the words of his performance master, "not very well"; first appeared on the scene and delighted the children with his whimsical caprices. In the little sketch of "Red Riding Hood" which followed, the well known little heroine proved to be quite frisky. The scene in which the woodcutter was making use of his ax in his native wood was quite realistic. The agonizing groan of the wolf which came as a result of the shot he received was truly pitiful.

Following this numerous skits delighted the audience. The dancers were remarkable for their rhythm and their gorgeous costumes. Jack and his dog, Fido, held center stage for some time. Fido responded to Jack's every emotion with his true to life wagging of his tail. Rastus as well as all others of his race failed in their attempts to ride the famous "Dynamite" for "one consecutive minute."

The tiny players were most gracious in their response to the numerous curtain calls which they received for almost every act which was given. The introducer, who became quite well known before the program was brought to a close, was apparently sincere in his oft repeated remark, "I hope you like it."

A brilliant little performance it was in many respects. The almost human dolls will long be remembered in W. T.

State School Man Spends Monday Visiting Schools

S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of public instruction, spent March 18 in the city visiting the schools. He spent some while conferring with President J. A. Hill and inspecting the work of W. T. Webb and Supt. Jim Webb and Judge B. F. Fronabarger.

Mr. Marrs is highly enthusiastic over the condition of the public schools of Texas. He states that with money now available, the state apportionment for the coming two years will not be less than $16 per capita unless the legislature limits it to $15 as was the case for the past two years.

If we could see ourselves as others see us we couldn't believe our eyes.
