At 1:00 all preliminaries in all literary events begin. Rural declamations, both junior and senior, declamations for city school, debates, extemporaneous speeches, music memory, typewriting, the "Three-R" contest for rural schools, home economics contest, and the art contest include the events to be held Friday afternoon.

Tennis at Amarillo
The tennis tournament also begins at 1:00. Both boys and girls will play this year on the concrete courts in Amarillo. The Municipal courts at Elwood Park and courts of the Amarillo Tennis Club will be used. Tennis players need not come to Canyon for registration, since registration cards may be filled out in Amarillo. Boys and girls will meet at the Senior High School building in Amarillo, promptly at 1:00 to draw for places.

Other events coming Friday afternoon are volleyball for girls, preliminaries in track and field events and semi-finals in all divisions of declamations and extemporaneous speech. Girls may swim in the college pool from 4:00 to 5:30 p. m. This is not a contest. Boys may swim from 5:30 to 6:00 p. m.

Declamation Finals
At eight o'clock in the evening, the finals in all divisions of declamations will be held in the college auditorium of the administration building. At 8:30, finals in extemporaneous speech will be held in the auditorium of the Education building.

From 4:00 to 5:00 p. m. girls may swim in the college pool and boys may swim from 5:00 to 6:00 p. m. At 8:00 finals in boys' debates will be held in the auditorium of Education building, and at 9:30 cups and medals will be awarded and announcements concerning the State Meet will be made.

Buffalo Football Schedule for 1932 Is Taking Form

To date, the big Buffalo mentor has practically completed the football schedule for the fall season of 1932. So far, one main opponent, the Texas Technological College Matadors, have been unable to get an open date at the same time the Thundering Herd has one, and from these prospects it looks as if there will be no football game between the West Texas Buffaloes and the Matadors this year.

But that isn't all of the situation. Coach Sam D., is trying to make arrangements for a spring game with the Lubbock team, and the plan may go through; however, there isn't anything certain at this time.

Some of the teams that have already been scheduled are: the McMurry Indians and the Christian College Wildcats of Abilene; Daniel Baker Hill Billies of Brownwood; the New Mexico Military Institute of Roswell, New Mexico; and the Central State Teachers of Edmond, Oklahoma. Several others will be scheduled, but just who they will be isn't certain as yet.

Charles Kiker, also a W. T. ex., is now teaching in Abernathy.

TYPE-HIGH TODAY

Type-High will hold its regular meeting this afternoon at 4:30 in room 116. All members and all students interested in working on The Prairie are urged to be present.

TRACK, TENNIS COMPETITION IS DISCONTINUED

LACK OF FUNDS TO PROHIBIT
ALL SPRING SPORTS
THIS YEAR.

Many of the students of the College has been wondering just why the athletic department of the college is not putting out teams in track and tennis this spring. When Coach Burton was asked the reason by a reporter he merely replied, "Because we do not have the necessary funds to carry on these activities." The big coach also stated that he was really in favor of these activities, but due to the fact that the athletic department receives so little of the "blanket tax" money and also due to a shortage in attendance at basketball and football games, it was utterly impossible to finance any more intercollegiate track and tennis teams this year.

Coach Burton also pointed out the fact that on the price of the blanket tax the students of the college were allowed to see six football games during the fall quarter while they were given two lycum numbers. The contrast here is that the lycum committee receives the same amount of the "blanket tax" money as does the athletics department.

The dropping of track and tennis competition this year means, of course, that there will be no Great Plains Track Meet, which has hitherto been the bright spot of spring sports here.

Lomax Sings Songs of Cowpuncher in Chapel; Makes Hit

John A. Lomax, noted collector of cowboy songs and ballads, entertained the students in assembly Saturday morning with a varied program. As an introduction, he gave something of the background of the cowboy ballad, and he also gave some of the eccentricities of the much gloried cowboy.

It seems that a vaquero could sing of Heaven one minute in awed tones and that the next breath would bring a rollicking ballad of the hardships of the trail. Mr. Lomax says that all of their songs are divided into groups by their content. He read several illustrative stanzas from each group.

Although he pleaded a weak voice, Mr. Lomax certainly held the interest of his audience when he sang several of the best known songs. The well known song, "The Old Chisholm Trail," resounded the rafters when Mr. Lomax sang the verses and the students joined in on the refrain, "come ki-yi-yip-py-yip-py-ya, come ki-yi-yip-py-yip-py-ya."

In the last few minutes Mr. Lomax read three representative ballads: one of a "green-horn" who turned out to be a "thorough-bred," another of the dying prayer of a cowboy, and the last was the crooning of night-herder to the doggies. Mr. Lomax imitated their croon to the wonderment of all the students. The croon was so strange that it was almost uncanny. From the comments of the students one would gather that Mr. Lomax's program was one of the best that has been given in chapel this year.

Public Speaking Students to Give Recital Thursday

Public speaking students will give a short recital immediately after the regular meeting of the Dramatics Club Thursday afternoon in the Educational Auditorium. The recital will begin at 4:30, and all who are interested are invited to attend.

The program will consist of a variety of numbers, including "The Kitten and the Mastiff," by Juliet W. Tompkins, given by Eulalia Burrus; J. D. Dodge's "The Little God and Dicky," by Elizabeth McKenzie; Fannie Kilbourne's "A Corner on William," by Alene McCollum; and Edna St. Vincent Millay's "The Harp-Weaver," by Mary Jo Chamberlain.

CONDON TO TALK

Professor S. H. Condon has been invited to deliver the Commencement address at Ashtola, April 14. He has signified his intention to accept.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Andrews, summer of 1930 and '31, will be in school in W. T. this summer. Mr. Andrews is principal at Abernathy and will complete requirements for his degree this summer.

Mary Jo Gates is Elected President College Y.W.C.A.

Mary Jo Gates of O'Donnell, at present a sophomore in the college, has been elected president of the Young Women's Christian Association. Miss Gates has been prominent in Y. W. work for the past two years. She is also prominent in dramatic work.

Other officers elected to carry on the work of the organization next year were Dorothy Cash, sophomore of Canyon, vice president; Dorothy Harris, junior of Canyon, treasurer; and Ruth Enoch, freshman from Floydada, secretary. These officers will assume their duties at the beginning of the fall term 1932.

LECTURE BY C. DOUGLAS BOOTH WELL RECEIVED

SUBJECT OF ENGLISHMAN IS
"BRITISH FOREIGN POLICY."

Brought here by the International Relations Club, C. Douglas Booth, traveler, lecturer, authority on Balkan affairs, lectured here Tuesday night on the British foreign policy.

"The foreign policy of a state depends upon geographical conditions of the country, and the economic self interest of a state," Mr. Booth explained and continued that the world has become a unitary system as a result of the post-war situation. The United States has become a member of the unitary system and has surpassed all other nations in material wealth.

Britain Not Unified
It is difficult for Great Britain to have a foreign policy because her many scattered dominions have equally scattered interests at stake. Each member of the commonwealth is on an equal basis and is not subordinate to any other member of the Commonwealth. Each unit has a separate vote in the League of Nations, and on no occasion have all of the dominions.

All-High School Party in Training School is Success

The first annual all-High School party, Monday evening, April 4, was a huge success, according to the students and their parents, for whom the party was given. The games, which took place in the gym were directed by Dan Aynesworth, assisted by John Horton. The entire group entered into the spirit of the games from the suitcase races and potato relays, to the exciting game of volleyball, in which both students and teachers played.

Following the games, the crowd went to the auditorium, where a unique and entertaining program was given. Nancy Graham acted as chairman. The program included: two songs by Carl Neighbors and Bomar Brown; a rainbow dance by Edith Pierce, Lucy Jo Louder, Marion Hill, Frances Alice Clark, and Mattie Pearl Whittenburg, accompanied by Margaret Seay at the piano; Prince Romar, (alias Tommy Service) the mystic crystal gazer, who answered random questions from his audience with amazing perception; songs by Edith Pierce with ukulele accompaniment; a costume song by Lucy Jo Louder and Johnnie Horton; a solo tap dance by Frances Alice Clark; "Who's This One?" a feature by two of the high school wits, Dan Aynesworth and Quentin Ward; and a modern dialectic version of "Anthony and Cleopatra," by Tommy Service.

COMING EVENTS

Tuesday, April 12—Members of the International Relations Club who made the trip last week to Albuquerque will make reports at the regular meeting of the club at 7:15 p. m. at the Little House of Fellowship. All who are interested are urged to attend.

Wednesday, April 13—Scribblers Club will meet at 7:30 at the Kerr house.

PROSPECTS HIGH SCHOOL TRACK MEET ARE GOOD

MANY HIGH SCHOOL STARS TO APPEAR AT DISTRICT
MEET HERE.

One of the main features of the Annual District One Interscholastic League meet that is to be held here on Friday and Saturday, April 22, 23, will be the track and field events. These events will be held on Buffalo Field, under the direction of Coach S. D. Burton of the West Texas State Teachers College, and his able assistants. The preliminaries in these events will begin at four p. m. on the first day of the meet. On the second day, Saturday, the preliminaries will continue right on into the quarter finals and semi-finals, and finals of each event.

There will be many attractive features of the meet this year. Undoubtedly the main attraction will be the 440-yard run. The lad who won this event last year and later placed third in state competition will be back and will do his very best to retain first place in the event. News from many of the other county meets over the district is coming in that they also are discovering fleet-footed racers who are likely to make the competition keen. Another bit of interesting news comes from up in Lipscomb county, where a lad from Booker won the javelin throw in the county meet with a heave of 160 feet.

Another feature of the track and field events this spring will be the rural pentathlon. This is a contest composed of the five most popular events and is open to rural school athletes only.

I. R. C. Members Return From Trip to Albuquerque

S. H. Condon, sponsor of the International Relations club of this college, accompanied by Scott Laycock, Bruce Cleland, Luther Tampe, and Bill Brian returned Saturday after attending a meeting of International Relations Clubs at Albuquerque, New Mexico, with the University of New Mexico, as host.

The representatives were impressed with the splendid show of hospitality and cooperation of the faculty and student body of the University, and they report both a profitable and enjoyable trip.

Outstanding issues concerning foreign relations were discussed in the meetings including the United States relation to the World Court and League, the necessity of a new policy in America, disarmament, and the foreign debt question. Principal speakers at the conference were Dr. C. Douglas Booth of the Royal Institute of International Affairs at Columbia University; Dr. Cherrington of the University of Denver and Director of Social Science Foundation; Miss Ursula P. Hubbard, secretary to the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace; and President Zimmerman of the University of New Mexico, who has just returned from Europe where he has been studying the foreign situation.

A. S. White of New Mexico was in charge of the general plan of the conference. Helen Compton, formerly a student in this college, now attending the University of New Mexico is secretary of the International Relations Club at that university. Social functions and sight-seeing tours were interspersed with the business sessions.

Unusual Collection of Zoological Specimens Given

D. R. Gwin, collector of zoological materials has given L. S. Baker a group of specimens for laboratory study. The best of this group is a stone crab; barnacles, skate, stingaree, ray fish, ribbon fish, and abalone.

Mr. Gwin travels about in a truck with his specimens. He desired to sell these materials to Mr. Baker, but the department's finances were not adequate; so Mr. Gwin generously donated them. They are to be seen in the display cases in the hall just outside the biology laboratory.

Miss Winnie D. Ellis of Mesquite writes that she will be delighted to be in Canyon again this summer, and that several others from her country are coming. She writes: "I sing the praises of W. T. to everyone who talks college with me; so I hope that Dallas County will have a large representation."

Panhandle-Plains Historical Society Banquet Is Climax of Annual Meet Held Here Friday Afternoon, Night

ELECTION ANNOUNCEMENT

Announcement has been made concerning the nominations for the editor and business manager of Le Mirage and The Prairie for the coming year. Election will be held by secret ballot in the hall, all day April 21 in the order of a regular primary election. Polls will be open from eight until five o'clock, and all persons who vote must have a blanket tax.

Those who are eligible for election are, for editor of Le Mirage, Farris Sears and Martha Nell Lang; for editor of The Prairie, Dee C. Blythe, Theodore Eugene Elio, and Dorothy Chapman Martin; for business manager of Le Mirage, Robert Rowan, Jr., and Leon Landon; for business manager of The Prairie Winston Wofford.

John A. Lomax, Authority on Cowboy Lore, Is Big Attraction

T. D. Hobart of Pampa was elected president of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society here Friday in its annual meeting which was climaxed by a banquet at Cousins Hall in the evening. H. E. Hoover of Canadian was re-elected first vice president; Dr. J. A. Hill, second vice president; L. F. Sheffy of Canyon, secretary; and W. L. Vaughn, Canyon, treasurer.

These officers were elected at the business session held at 2:30 p. m., and at that time a report was made on the progress of the campaign to raise $25,000 to match a similar sum appropriated by the State Legislature to build a museum here. According to this report, the campaign is progressing nicely, all but $6,000 being pledged or paid. Another feature of this meeting was an address by Floyd Studer of Amarillo on "The Pageantry of the Plains."

Banquet Is Highlight

The activities of the afternoon, which consisted, besides the business session, of a trip through the museum and other diversions, culminated in the banquet at 6:30 o'clock. With J. O. Guleke of Amarillo playing to perfection the role of the genial toastmaster, a spirit of conviviality was created by the introduction of all present and an address of welcome by President J. A. Hill. Next Mrs. Daisy Curry struck the keynote of the occasion by reading a paper, "Pioneer Women of the Plains," in which she recounted many instances in early Texas history where women proved their right to share the title of "pioneer."

Continuing the program, a violin solo by Herschel Coffee was followed by an address, "Our Debt to the Pioneers," by Clint C. Small of Amarillo, who made striking estimates of the contributions of West Texas to the State of Texas and to the whole nation. His talk was followed by two vocal solos, "Home on the Range," and "The Old Chisholm Trail," by Bill Dawes, Endee, New Mexico.

Lomax Makes Hit

Then came the treat of the evening—John A. Lomax's talk on cowboy lore, plentifully punctuated with appropriate cowboy songs, read by Mr. Lomax, whose home is in Dallas, from two volumes of the collection he has made. He had a song for every mood, from rollicking good humor to heart-touching pathos, and his hearers ran the gamut of emotions. The evening's entertainment was closed with moving pictures taken at (Continued on last page.)

OLD TIMERS

It was our privilege to attend the annual banquet of the Panhandle Plains Historical Society last Friday night, and it was an occasion we shall not soon forget. It was the first of these banquets we had ever attended, but as far as we are concerned it was the highlight of the year—in more ways than one.

Not having been present at one of the annual feasts before, we had no shibboleth by which to judge the program. But we have since been informed that the program was without doubt better than those of preceding years, and we have no reason to doubt it. In fact, if it were any better we would suggest that it be commercialized. We can say without the slightest twinge of conscience that we enjoyed every moment of it. It not only fitted perfectly but even accentuated the atmosphere created by the presence of real, honest-to-goodness pioneers. We could write columns about how interesting and well balanced the whole thing was, but perhaps it will suffice to say here that we hope to be present at next year's feast.

But the evening's entertainment was by no means the most interesting thing to us. Almost invariably any organization may be judged by its personnel, and such is, indeed, the case with the Historical Society. In fact, we were very much intrigued by those present. Almost every type of which this part of the country can boast was represented, with the "old timers," of course, predominating. There is something about these people that is extremely fascinating. One's first impression of them is that they are real folks, an impression that grows rather than diminishes in intensity. They are hearty in everything they do, they look one straight in the eye, and they shake one's hand as if they meant it. They have acquired few of the shams and little of the sophistication that is the bane of present-day civilization, and yet their very bluntness has in it the essentials of grace and charm.

They are a simple folk, but it is not the simplicity of childhood. They have led strenuous lives, and some of them have gone through enough to embitter the most resolute. But they seem to have been mellowed rather than hardened by what they have been through, and today their eyes are turned half-longingly toward yesterday. It is almost impossible when one sees them and talks to them to believe that they are anything but good, and one wonders if they have been made noble by hardship or whether only the good have survived. We repeat, they are a most interesting type, one that is rapidly disappearing from the face of the earth. They compose the only group that can be called a type that this region has produced. True, we have other types today, but they are characteristically American rather than distinctly western. In other words, we are rapidly losing our identity as westerners and as Texans and are becoming more and more just citizens of that great whole that is the United States.

But this region has produced at least one great type that will be immortal in history—the pioneer. He is the salt of the earth.

SENIOR SCOUTING

By Mary Orton.

A thing new in the history of the Southwest is being introduced to the girls of West Texas. A senior scout troop open to anyone who is interested in the work, is being organized in a southern college.

The purpose of the organization is to teach girls what scouting is and how to organize troops. They will be taught the arts and pleasures of scouting and the tricks of becoming successful leaders of small girls. Students will put their knowledge to practice by assisting the local troops in their meetings and activities.

A leader's organization has vast possibilities, especially in a teacher's college. In the Cactus Region people are needed in almost every community to start troops. Even the larger towns have few organizations for girls. Scouting is new in this region, mainly because young people going into the community do not understand the principles sufficiently to organize troops. These girls who get together and study scouting from the standpoint of leaders will have the opportunity and privilege of advancing the Girl Scout movement in the West.

Moreover, this program does not stand in the way of school work. As planned, it is almost wholly recreational, the meetings being held out-of-doors at a time which the girls already spend in recreation. All work will be done on picnics, hikes, and outdoor assemblies rather than in the classroom. The whole program is planned for the enjoyment of the girls, as well as for any information given.

Snodgrass Sisters Go Over Big in Recital Tuesday

The Misses Snodgrass gave a very delightful joint song recital Tuesday afternoon, April 5, in the Education Auditorium.

Miss Frances Snodgrass wore a beautiful dress of black skirt with a blue blouse. Miss Florence Snodgrass wore a similar dress, with a coral blouse, which blended perfectly with her sister's dress. These costumes added greatly to the beauty of the recital.

Both girls showed good training and confidence. Their poise and personality won their audience, and the program was a well selected one.

Local Chamber of Commerce in Broadcast

The Chamber of Commerce of Canyon presented a half hour program over radio station KGRS in Amarillo Sunday afternoon from 3 to 3:30.

This program was complimentary to the regular Tuesday evening broadcast over WDAG.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Huber presented several numbers as well as Oscar Croson and several others.

Miss Ellis has been taking correspondence work in history during the year.

Remember the Alumni Banquet June the first.

THE CROW'S NEST

By Gus

It has previously been our intention not to repeat names in this column, but we have come to the conclusion that it will be necessary to make some repetitions from time to time. We trust that our readers will understand the situation in which we are now placed and will not feel that we are playing any favorites in this connection.

LOUISE JACOBSEN has recently learned just what text book the class in Education 262 is using. . . . We wonder just how much LEX BAKER had to pay the editor of the student directory to get his name in that edition repeated. . . . FRANCES USERY is one of the best dancers attending W. T.

We have often heard about there being only a barbed wire fence between West Texas and the north pole. It is our belief that some of the wires on the fence have recently been blown down. . . . Some people think that matrimony is a remedy, others believe that it is a cure, and still others believe that it is an affliction.

Did you know that MITCHELL JONES had the lowest grade average of any Education teacher teaching last quarter? . . . We went out to the football field the other day and watched the players who are coming out for Spring practice. We don't mind saying that what we saw makes us rather optimistic as to W. T.'s chances in the conference tangle this fall.

WOODROW IRELAND wins off the ball machine in The Buffalo just about as often as he plays it. Some people are born lucky. . . . MARY CLARK is noted for her ability to express herself emphatically, and her expressions are said to be so good that Oscar Croson is about to go to "Seed," and that that seed may be found in the vicinity of Hereford. . . . GRACE MATEER is interested in all kinds of birds, especially in "ROBBINS."

During the past week the school has had the pleasure of having in its midst two distinguished lecturers; namely C. Douglas Booth, and John A. Lomax. It was our privilege to be present at a sort of round table discussion in which Mr. Booth gave us some very interesting information. Gus learned for the first time that nothing is advertised over English radios—the programs are paid for by annual $2.00 tax on each radio set. Did you know that the best of liquor sells for only $3.00 a quart in England; that the condition of the average American man is much better than that of the average English man; that the capitalist has the hardest time of any citizen living in England; that the dole system is nothing more than working men's insurance; that the Russians are allowed to go to any church they want to at any time they want to; that America is ahead of England in so far as modern inventions are concerned? When asked whether the King is human like anybody else, Mr. Booth replied, "Yes, I expect that he is even more human than is your Mr. Hoover." . . . We thoroughly enjoyed the program given by Mr. Lomax. Did you?

It looks like matrimony to us:

1. COMER-SNODGRASS.
2. OWEN-REDFEARN.
3. GOLLEHON-McMANIS.
4. MCCOY-KILLEBREW.
5. MCBRIDE-BOBBITT.

GWENDOLYN BLACK and GLEN BOLAND are said to know just about as much or at least not any less than some of their teachers. . . . "JELLY" BROOKS and MELVIN CAMPBELL held a debate in Bentley's drug store the other night. Well, yes—the argument did become a little heated. . . . What do you think about the statement that "Satisfaction closes the door to all progress?"

MR. DUFLOT says that rationalization is just artistic lying. . . . We have heard a great deal lately about "Floating Power" but we are more concerned at present with the "floating wheat fields."

A few weeks ago we played tennis with a man who had no hands. He strapped his racquet to the remaining portion of one of his arms. It was really remarkable what an excellent game this man played. This just goes to show what a person can accomplish when he desires. . . . Every college should offer a course in the opening and shutting of the mouth at the proper time.

DR. PIERLE says that there is only 20 per cent of Oxygen in Holle (pronounced Hell). We wonder where all the hot air artists go anyway. . . . Someone said "College is just a four years' loaf, made out of the flower of youth and the dough of old age, and only half baked." . . . Do you believe that "The only money a man saves in this life is that which he gives away?"

We wonder how "SPEDY" LONDON'S trip to Alanreed turned out? Gus has had several inquiries

ALL-COLLEGE PARTY

W. A. A. is sponsoring the next All-College party, to be held Friday, April 15, at 8:00 in Cousins Hall.

Dancing and table games are to comprise the evening's entertainment. All students are invited and urged by the sponsors to attend. Admission prices and other details have not been announced at press time.

It will be a "hard time" party, and those who come are advised to dress accordingly.

as to the office hours of instructors ESTES and REDFEARN. They say, "Just any time, preferably during laboratory hours." . . . Did you know that ALVIN MORGAN lives in Oklahoma? At least that is what he told Mr. Sheffy. . . . FRANCES HOLMAN and HELEN JOHNSON spent about half of their time patrolling Fourth Avenue. . . . It is rumored that "SLIM" KENNEDY and HERMAN TROUTMAN make fewer trips to Amarillo now than has been their custom in the past. We wonder just why this is?

Ex-Student Notes

BY L. N. GEORGE

Hugh W. Jones is superintendent of schools on the Oklahoma side of Texhoma and A. F. Griggs is ward principal on the Texas side. Texhoma is a town of 1800 people located on the state line of Oklahoma and Texas, 21 miles northeast of Stratford on the Rock Island. There are 390 pupils in the entire system, 18 teachers, and 30 seniors planning to graduate this spring. The school has put out the champion of the Panhandle football team for the past five years. It is also a strong contender in basketball. A number of the high school graduates will be in W. T. this fall.

J. W. Reid is superintendent at Dumas. Dumas is the county seat of Moore county. This town has built a new court house and a number of business houses and residences in the past year. The school plant cost $150,000. It has 27 rooms, a modern gym, and a beautiful auditorium with a seating capacity of 650. The locker doors and auditorium seats are noiseless. The arrangement of the entire building is just about as near perfect as school architectural knowledge can make one. Mr. Reid is to be congratulated on building what he did with the money he had.

Floyd Burnett is superintendent at Stratford. Stratford is the county seat of Sherman County. This system has 14 teachers and 15 seniors who are planning to graduate this spring. Miss Myrtle Rogers is acting president of the W. T. Ex-student Association in Sherman county.

H. A. Finch is superintendent at Dalhart. This system has 45 teachers, three wards, and a high school. Seventy-two seniors are planning to graduate this fall. After talking with the seniors for a few minutes about their plans for another year, a number gathered around Mr. Troutman and me and kept us busy for over an hour asking questions. A large percent of them will be in W. T. this fall.

Amos Walker is superintendent at Hartley and Clarence Ashby is principal of the high school. Ina Barber, Milcent Griffith, and Lucile McIntosh are the other W. T. exes teaching in Hartley. This is a seven teacher school with four seniors planning to graduate this spring. The entire teaching force was re-elected.

Floyd McNeill is superintendent of Dallam county schools. There are seven schools under his superintendency. Thirty-five W. T. ex-students are now teaching in Dallam county.

Herman Troutman, assisted in talking with teachers and high school seniors, distributing catalogues and explaining costs at Dumas, Texhoma, Stratford, Conlen, Dalhart, Hartley, and Channing during the past week.

One upon a time there was a gink thoughtful of others not to slam the fool out of every door he came in by or went out through, but he died, too.

Rotary Club Hears Talk by Englishman on World Condition

Rotarians were highly entertained April 4 at the luncheon time by a talk by Dr. Charles Douglas Booth of London, England, who spoke on conditions in Europe in a free and frank manner.

Visitors of the club Tuesday were members of the Calves team of W. T. training school, H. T. Stewart of Denton and Leroy White of Amarillo.

The program was in charge of the Resolutions committee, Joe A. Hill, chairman.

Dr. Booth represents the Carnegie Endowment in the interest of international peace. He presented the English side of internationalism.

Dr. Booth stated that before the World War, England had the same policy as Germany—the policy of power, imperialistic in nature and design. To guarantee security, a balance of power was maintained with the second rate powers against the greater powers. England did very well as compared with other nations, and found that several wars were profitable to that empire.

The World War convinced the nation that war did not pay, and now the policy is one of peace among the nations of the world. Dr. Booth praised the first real attempt at world wide peace, started by the first real great internationalist—Woodrow Wilson. It is the germ of international cooperation.

The World Court was started, with no part in the League of Nations, and the United States has become a part of it. This is another step toward world peace.

The speaker stated that following the war a lot of treaties were made in the spirit of conquerors. and now these must be modified. European nations do not trust each other. In spite of the fact that the United States has not joined the League of Nations, its increasing cooperation is strengthening the League. It is recognized that the League cannot prohibit war among the strong nations, but it is assisting in keeping down wars among the lesser nations.

WRANGLERS STAGE ROUND-UP FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Enticing odors of hamburgers sizzling in the skillet, and cocoa bubbling in the can were pleasantly intermingled last Friday afternoon with the shouts and songs of the happy Wranglers at their first round-up this quarter. The scene of this activity was the T-Anchor ranch, a very suitable spot for such an excursion.

After "chuck" provided by Floy Shaw's patrol, had been eaten and various games had been played, the Wranglers held a troop discussion under the direction of Ima Scott. Then the patrols met to discuss patrol business and choose names for each group.

The "Spurs," the "Vaqueros," the "Caballeros," and the "Wolves," now make up the patrols of the Wranglers.

The next round-up will be held Friday afternoon on the banks of the Tierra Blanca (south creek). The Wranglers will meet at the Administration Building at 5:30 and will hike from there to selected site. Each Wrangler will carry her own "chuck." At this meeting a discussion of ways and means of organizing scout troops will be led by Mary Orton, a patrol leader of the "Spurs."

AMERICA AND PEACE IS DISCUSSED BY LEAGUE

Sunday night at the League hour, the young people of the Methodist church discussed the subject of America and World Peace.

Marie Moore gave an introductory talk in which she discussed George Washington's attitude toward war and his efforts toward peace. Perry Williams delivered an oration of World Peace. He presented the idea that people in general are beginning to forsake their old hero-worship of the warrior for an admiration of the statesman who had a world vision of mutual helpfulness.

Eva Pierce gave a reading, "Armistice Day." This was followed by an open discussion led by Victor Dunlap. In seeking to determine what characteristics our natures should possess, such topics as these were discussed: Honorable relations with all countries; helpful attitude toward weaker nations; and a spirit of confidence toward other nations.

The program was concluded by a song, "Peace, Peace," sung by Coy Palmer.

The program for next Sunday night will be on the subject of "The Home." There will be an open forum discussion on the question, "What kind of a Home Would I Like to Have?" All young people are invited to these meetings and intitled to take a part.

The director of the play was one of the class of embryo directors who are doing the work for this quarter. Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Dresbach did an unusually nice piece of work on the play, for aside from directing she also furnished the squawks for the wailing infant which was carried on stage during the latter part of the play.

Faculty Receives Still Another Questionnaire

Another questionnaire was filled out last week by the long-suffering faculty members here. It is one of dozens that have been circulated among state employees this year, this one being sent out by the State Department of Education.

It contained numerous questions on how the teachers spent their time, their rank (degrees), number of students taught, etc.

L. S. Baker Has Twin Troubles—Ask Him About It

L. S. Baker, head of the Biology Department, and his gallant assistant, Herman Troutman, made a short visit recently to Dallas, where they were entertained by Mr. Baker's twin brother. And by the way from what I hear they are really identical twins (what a break for the carnival or movies.)

It was learned that upon their arrival at Dallas they were at once among the very friendliest of people, being spoken to by numbers of people that they had never seen before. And what a good time they had speaking to all of them! Upon entering the Dallas High School, where L. S.'s twin brother is engaged in teaching biology, students rushing to and fro gave L. S. the raspberries, mistaking him for the other Baker. Well, when they arrived at the other twin's office, students came flocking around like bees. Could it be true that the same man was here and there at the same time! According to his assistant, he himself could hardly distinguish them apart, both having the same size feet, the same eyes, and the same jokes. . . . He also states that their hair was combed alike, but that L. S. has two or three more gray hairs than his twin.

Well, anyway, we are glad to have one of the Bakers back. We do not know exactly which one is here, but we hope that it is the right one. . . . I am pretty sure L. S. is here because several times before his trip I noticed one small hole in his left shoe, and it is still there.

Student's Brother Writes About New Mexico Indians

A very interesting letter came to a student of the College, Mrs. Nell Bruton Morgan, the other day from Major Bruton, her brother, an ex-student, who is now home-steading and teaching near Atarque, New Mexico. Mr. Bruton was caught in the snow storm last fall in which so many Navajos were marooned in the mountains. As he was trying to break through the drifts with his truck, a Zuni Indian came along and invited him to his home.

"When we got to his pueblo I learned that he was keeping ten Navajo refugees. He sent them to some other Zunis and told us that we could spend the night with him.

"The house was finished inside almost like any other American home. There was one difference, however, and that was the three-cornered fire-place built in a corner of the house. The wood was stood on end in this fire-place.

Describes Food

"For supper we had meat cut from a beef head baked whole, frijoles, baked homesteader style, coffee made by pouring boiling water over coffee in the strainer, and tortillas. I do not know what the ingredients in the tortillas were except flour, but they mix the dough about twenty-four hours before they cook them to have the best results. They pinch off a piece of dough about the size of a hen's egg and they pat and pull it and stretch it until it is very thin. I do not know what the standard of perfection is, but I think the thinner and tougher they are the better they are considered.

"During the meal we discussed the storm. Lounging Chaves, my host, and his wife had been caught south of Atarque one mile from my homestead. He had taken a truck load of vegetables to trade with the Navajos for pinons. He rounded up a bunch of Navajos and told them if they would help they could break the road and reach his home 37 miles away. Away they started, the men going ahead of the truck and tramping down the forty inch snow. The first night found them in Atarque with a thousand other Navajos. All flour, corn, etc. was gone from the trading post, Chaves went from one Mexican house to another. Here is the speech he made each one:

Appeals to Natives

"I am Lorenzo Chaves, Zuni Indian. I have done you many favors. I need your help now. There are starving people here. If Lorenzo has done you a favor give food until it hurts. If he hasn't, don't give anything."

Sacks and buckets of flour, coffee, sugar, and other food began to appear that had been laid away for winter. They said, "We are ashamed, Lorenzo."

"He and his Indians took the food back to the truck and calling the Navajos together, here is the speech he made them:

Indians Break Trail

"I have here some food. Not much. I want 40 of your strongest men to go with me to break roads. Others can follow." So Lorenzo and the forty men started their march of 27 miles to Ojo Caliente.

After two days they reached Caliente, meeting relief parties coming from Zuni. In a few days the situation was relieved through the leadership of Chaves. (Chaves told me part of this and other people told me part of it.)

"After supper he told me about his boys and girl. One boy and the girl are teaching in an Indian school in California. The other boy is working for the Indian service as a mechanic.

Still Hate Coronado

"He told me about the old Pueblo village explorers who have excavated in recent years. He told me it was the Zuni village that Coronado captured. (They hate Coronado yet.) He said the archeologists found a porcelain pitcher there stamped "Made in China" in Spanish.

"He told me about his trip to Washington in behalf of his tribe, and how a certain discredited former cabinet member had tried to cheat the Indians. The people that dug up the old pueblo invited him to their home in New York. He appeared in native costume and gave several lectures in that city.

"He told me proudly that the Zunis were the oldest farmers in the United States, and we swapped ideas about the different phases of agriculture, government, and how people should get along. He says it doesn't make any difference whether you're Zuni, 'Navy', Mexican, Irish, English, or what—not it's your tongue, heart, and head that counts. Lorenzo is a pretty good Indian."

this at a rate of interest not in excess of the amount of interest on government bonds at that time. The interest collected on the loans made has more than paid the operating expenses of the Farm Board, or over $1,800,000.

There are over ninety different agencies operating in the United States that have received direct assistance from the Federal Government. This number will probably be increased through the re-constructing Finance Corporation, which has been recently organized with two billion dollars to loan to banks, railroads, etc.

Purpose of Visit

The purpose of this visit to Texas is to assist in developing a larger interest in dairy and poultry production and the marketing of these products. In this work we are merely helping to put over the program which has been developed by the A. & M. and other agencies in the State.

We intend to build this business on high quality of the products. Cooperative creameries are striving for ninety-three per cent butter. To make a success, Mr. Schilling told a group of boys, is to always be on time, and do just a little better than the other fellow. In that way you can always hold a job.

"MATTHIAS AT THE DOOR" BY ROBINSON, IS IN LIBRARY

One should not be too sure of one's own rightness of principle to the exclusion of everyone and everything, says Mr. Robinson in this long narrative poem. His story of the lives of three men and one woman and the fates that they meet makes a series of portraits not soon to be forgotten. The poem is well planned, for the plot moves smoothly and inevitably. The poet's ethical ideas are presented as a vision but expressed in a profusion of epigrammatical phrases which one is tempted to remember for future use. This and the beauty and vividness of phrasing mark Mr. Robinson as an outstanding poet. William Lyon Phelps has said, "Matthias at the Door" is one of Mr. Robinson's notable works. Its dignity and austerity, its severe beauty in construction and style, its shrewd and profound analysis of human nature, its smoldering passion reveal the foremost living American poet in the plenitude of his powers. All who found deep satisfaction in Tristram will welcome Matthias at the Door. Those who do not know Mr. Robinson's poetical contributions to American literature will do well to read this poem."

Lecture by C.

ions voted alike on the same question. So free have the dominions become that by the recent act of Westminster any dominion may change its own laws without consulting the Parliament of England.

Mr. Booth on various ideas expressed a subtle humor which held his audience in expectancy. In speaking of the difficulty Great Britain would experience if she were to endeavor to go to war, he stated that on a recent occasion Canada had refused to send troops when it seemed that Canada's interests were not being violated. He went on to say that if Canada should ever decide to withdraw from England's control that more than likely she would appeal to the Monroe Doctrine. This would be a huge joke to him, for all these years America has held Europe off on her own account, but now she would have to protect someone else.

Canada Balks

There have been two treaties which were not ratified by Great Britain because one or two dominions refused to agree to them. These treaties were the Treaty of Locarno and the Kelley-Ryan Pact.

Despite this seeming discordance, there has been and is a definite policy in the British Foreign Office. Prior to the war the policy was always one of might, but the casual obliteration of 950,000 men taught a tremendous lesson. The balance of power became the paramount idea in the immediate hysteria following the war. Now Great Britain is using the World Court and the League of Nations to bring about her desires.

Britain Losing Out

Before the war Great Britain was very wealthy, that is, the government and most of the money which was privately owned was in the hands of the landed aristocracy. Since the war the government is very poor and the landed aristocracy is having to seek about earning its own living, but the important fact is that the poor classes are in a much better state. The situation of the intense poverty is in a large measure relieved in the matter of power—that has been transferred to the masses out of the hands of the aristocracy.

There were several mistakes made immediately following the war and the first was the imposing of the entire blame of the war on Germany. According to Mr. Booth the popular idea that the war was Germany's pet idea is false. He claims that at least fifty percent of the blame should be laid at the doors of the Allies.

War Treaty No Good

The treaties which were made after the war were loosely constructed and not based on geographical or economic basis.

Here Mr. Booth paid a tribute to Wilson by saying that had America and Europe paid more attention to Wilson the world as a whole would be in better condition today.

The French policy toward Germany became rigid as soon as England advanced her idea of becoming more lenient toward Germany. Constantly one country or another has blocked any revision of the treaties. When Austria tried to make a customs treaty with Germany in 1926, France refused to permit it on the grounds that Germany was looking toward another war. Such friction naturally tends toward little progress.

Relations With Russia

Great Britain's relations with Russia were resumed shortly after the war but were broken off because of a letter which was published. This letter was later proved as false and once again Great Britain is sending ministers to Russia on the agreement that there shall be no spread of Bolshevik propaganda in any portion of the dominions. This agreement has not been adhered to very closely for there has been a good deal of propaganda in India and the result is unrest. Mr. Booth informed his audience that because of Mr. Ghandi's peaceable methods and the fact that sometimes he displeased his followers and caused the British officials to arrest him several times in order to bring back his waning popularity.

Mr. Booth went on to say that the United States had been a real friend in need when she loaned several million dollars on a strictly business basis with no political strings attached during the recent slump of the gold standard in Great Britain.

Immediately following Mr. Booth's talk he gave the opportunity of asking questions to any of his audience who so desired. Several availed themselves of the privilege.
