Historical Society Launches Museum Unit Campaign

West Texas Has Oldest Origins

But Tech Professor Says Plainsman Much Too Modest About History

Inspiration drawn from events as old as the Coronado expedition into the Southwest in 1540 and as recent as a magnificent gift on Friday caused Panhandle-Plains Historical Society members to accelerate all their plans at the 19th annual sessions in Canyon.

Coronado came to West Texas in 1540 on a fortune-seeking journey that now promises—400 years later—to arouse a new "consciousness" in plains people who admit an inferiority complex in matters historical.

Erection of a "Plymouth Rock of the Southwest" at a point where Coronado passed from Mexico into the United States will be made soon to show that West Texas has a history to commemorate.

Much enlightenment was given Panhandle-Plains Historical Society members at the annual meeting here Friday, in which the Southwest was described as owning the distinction of having cradled early Spanish culture. Dr. W. C. Holden, head of the department of history at Texas Technological college, Lubbock, reiterated many times that West Texans unjustifiably have an "historical inferiority complex."

Will Erect Monument
Clinton P. Anderson of Albuquerque, executive director of the Coronado Centennial Commission, told of plans to build the international monument in a place so desolate that distant towns appear only as two puffs of smoke, which 400 years earlier might have been Indian campfires.

To Coronado's expedition south-westerners now refer in the commemoration of an event dated several hundred years before the New Englanders' occupation of the Atlantic seaboard.

In words expressing sharp criticism and some sarcasm, Prof. Holden told how downstate Texas received five-sixths of the Centennial celebration funds in 1936, "because the southern part of the state is in an historical halo."

"No History" Idea Is Hit

The Centennial board of directors said we had no history to commemorate, and that erroneous statement represents the public opinion of the state," Dr. Holden said, adding: "Too many of us have an historical inferiority complex. Actually, more persons were killed pushing the frontier to the New Mexico line than were killed on both sides of the Texas revolution. Also the enemy was more deadly in West Texas," he added in support of a theory that courage of early West Texans equalled that of the defenders of the Alamo.

He raised as an objective the writing and publicizing of West Texas' historical background. "Two other riders rode as did Paul Revere, he said, but Revere had Longfellow on his side."

A Collection of Gentlemen

Mr. Anderson told a story of South American gold and rumors of West Texas gold. His picture of Coronado was that of a young man of good family and fine courage. The men on the Coronado expedition were described as "the greatest collection of gentlemen—as far as family background is concerned—ever assembled for a conquest."

Dr. Anderson had an audience of nearly 200 Society members and guests Friday evening at Cousins Hall.

Judge James D. Hamlin, Society president from Farwell, was toastmaster. Mrs. John Josey of Amarillo played a Spanish melody as a violin solo, accompanied by John Josey. Don Hawkins of Panhandle, a student, gave an interpretation of "Schubert's Serenade" in Spanish. His accompanist was Marion Miller of Claude. These soloists were in Spanish costumes consistent with the Coronado theme carried out at the banquet.

Two charter members of the Society, Judge L. Gough of Amarillo and James E. Southwood of Panhandle, were among the old timers introduced.

George W. Smith, Jr., is associated with the Farm Security administration at Portales, N. M.

IRISH CONFETTI Brick Blitzkreig

Fast progress in the campaign for 250,000 "common brick" to construct another museum unit here was reported today.

Leaders in many Panhandle cities are volunteering to solicit bricks.

SO THEY SAY— Coronado Notes

"Just where Coronado came across the plains is yet a question, although many "fool-proof" claims have been advanced. We are sure that he did cross the high plains somewhere between Big Spring and the Cimarron River,"—Holden.

"Your P.-P. H. S. museum can claim to be the foster parent of the West Texas museum at Lubbock, having served as an example,"—Holden.

"Even the field classes of the University of Texas archaeology department have to come to West Texas. . . . For at least 20 years eastern institutions have been removing important specimens,"—Holden.

"We ought to begin to build our own institutions, and it is time to develop a sectional solidarity, because only through united effort will our demands be made known."—Dr. J. A. Hill, commenting on the way in which West Texas has contributed to building of other sections.

"We are celebrating a thing which we can capitalize on, and the Canyon and Lubbock museums should be finished by capitalizing on the Coronado theme,"—Holden.

"The Grand Canyon was discovered by Coronado, and we believe he should have some credit for this,"—Anderson.

"The finest professional talent in the nation is being utilized in producing the Coronado entradas which will be presented in cities over the Southwest,"—Anderson.

Fifty Indian Water Colors In Museum Art Room

Fifty reproductions of water color paintings by Indian artists of the New Mexican pueblos of San Ildefonso and Sia are being exhibited in the Mary E. Hudspeth art room of the Panhandle-Plains Museum.

These Indian paintings are rich in expression of Indian philosophy of life, customs, ritual ceremonies, and symbolism.

Judge Hamlin Is Re-Elected Again

Pioneer Farwell Jurist to Send Fine Personal Collection to Campus

Unique as the Hamlin collection to be placed in the new main unit of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society museum is the plan by which the addition is to be made possible.

Announcement of plans to complete the main unit and organization of a "common brick committee" followed the revelation that Judge James D. Hamlin of Farwell, president of the Society, is giving his valuable art and period furniture collection to the organization's museum on the West Texas State College campus.

Delivery of the magnificent gift will be delayed until construction of the main unit is completed. There is no space for the collection in the present structure.

Election of Judge Hamlin as president of the Society for the third successive term came at a business session Friday afternoon. He accepted the office reluctantly, and expressed a feeling of gratitude toward the membership.

Praises West Texas State

"I never cease to think with appreciation of the services of West Texas State College in initiating and nurturing the Society," Judge Hamlin added.

Other officers selected were: Vice president, W. T. Coble of Amarillo; second vice-president, Dr. J. A. Hill; secretary, Dr. L. F. Sheffy; treasurer, Prof. W. L. Vaughan; and director, C. P. Buckler of Pampa.

John McCarty, associate publisher of the Amarillo News who was appointed chairman of the "common brick committee," said Friday night:

"We are beginning the main building of the museum tonight, and will continue until it is finished.

Donations Are Heard

He displayed five bricks which he had collected, and heard volunteers for seven thousand before the meeting ended. Requirements will be 250,000 common bricks, Editor McCarty said. Other materials will be obtained similarly. "Gold bricks," which include cost of putting them into the structure, may be given on the basis of three for $1. Common brick will be 15 cents each.

Council Will Create Fund

Pan-American Club Thought To Be Only One of Its Kind

By CAROLLEE PAYNE

West Texas State has another "first."

It is the Pan-American council organized May 8, and is thought to be the only one of its kind on an American college campus.

The main objective of the organization is to raise a scholarship fund to attract students from Mexico and Latin American countries. The council will attempt to benefit W. T. students by broadening contacts with foreign students and by improving student foreign relations by respect and interest. Foreign travelers will also be contacted by the council to attract them to the campus.

The council is not to be organized as a club. It will work through representatives of campus clubs and a committee with Hollis Bledsoe as the chairman. Other members of the committee are Lucille Balderson, Charlie Hutchison, L. W. Davison, Sam Jolly, and Neville Bremer. Everyone who is willing to work with the council is invited to do so.

Plans are being made to raise funds for four scholarships to be made effective next year. Ardis Patman, who will study at the National University in Mexico City, will assist the council.

STUDENTS IN HOSPITAL

Students receiving hospitalization this week were Fran Schubert, Berry McCarter, Roy McNett, Judson Tibbetts, and E. C. Carver.

May Bell Veatch, '35, will teach in the Borger schools next year.

Short Course Of Interest to 800

General Session Opens At 10:30 Wednesday—A. & M. Prof. To Speak

The main address will be given by Miss Helen Swift, sociologist of Texas A. & M. College. Mrs. Curtis Roach, District 1 vice-chairman, will preside. The course is sponsored by the home economics department.

At 1:30 p. m., Mrs. C. A. Coffee, District 2 vice-chairman, will preside and Miss Elizabeth Brooks of Swisher County will lead the group singing. Entertainment will include tumbling by a physical education group and a play, "Blue Beads," by the speech department.

Jarretts Attend Reunion In Acton Community

Dr. R. P. Jarrett, dean of the college, accompanied by Mrs. Jarrett and her father, A. J. Howard, attended a community reunion at Acton on May 4 and 5.

This is the community in which Dr. and Mrs. Jarrett lived for many years. Persons from several states including New Mexico, Oklahoma, Louisiana, and Texas, attended.

Dean Storey, '38, is a vocational agriculture instructor at Cliff, N. M.

Instructor

Howard Graham, above, will be a member of the summer school speech faculty. He is professor of speech at Amarillo Junior college.

Voters' Program Honors Seventy

Frank Day Would Abolish Bandwagon Politics of Nation

Seventy new voters, most of them W. T. students, took an oath of American citizenship Thursday evening in a program designed to stress the urgency of a fuller participation in democratic government by the people.

Voting, serving on juries, bearing of arms in national emergencies and taking an intelligent interest in public affairs were stressed as opportunities and responsibilities of the good citizen.

Judge Frank Day of Plainview, the main speaker, declared the ballot is the greatest gift within the power of a democratic government. But intelligent voting, he said, must be devoid of ignorance, prejudice, "bandwagon" politics, and selfish interest.

"Be the master of your thoughts and convictions when you vote," he told the young men and women who will cast their ballots for the first time this year.

Ulane Zeek of Lamesa and Neville Bremer of Amarillo, both students, spoke briefly for the new voters, accepting the responsibilities of citizenship but expressing impatience with some phases of politics and voting they had observed. Miss Zeek pledged the group to vote in every election and to try to keep the nation at peace. Bremer said the new voters are eager, optimistic, and not afraid of new ideas.

Prof. S. H. Condrone presided, Clyde W. Warwick talked about the mechanics of voting, and Dr. J. A. Hill presented certificates of citizenship after administering the oath. Judge E. C. Nelson of Amarillo spoke briefly.

Profs, Students Join In Frolic

Water Games, Dancing Ballgames Scheduled—Buses Leave Early

Classes are to be dismissed at 3:30 today, it was announced by President J. A. Hill. They are to be dismissed in order that every college student will have a chance to attend the all-college picnic at Buffalo lake.

Plans have been completed and transportation to the lake is to be furnished for everyone. The picnic will begin promptly at four o'clock. Anyone who can furnish a car is asked to do so.

Every student, faculty member, and college employee is being urged to be at the lake for the picnic. This is the first college-wide affair of the year and all conventionality is to be dropped in favor of a good time for the whole student body.

Each person is to be responsible for his own food. Halls and boarding houses are preparing sack lunches. There will be picnic unit facilities for groups.

Contest may be entered by any person by contacting the contest director.

Students may go swimming and boat riding at any time, but swimming suits must be furnished. All equipment for contests is furnished by the Buffalo lake management. Speedboats may be rented at 25 cents and sailboats at 50 cents per ride. Row boats and motor boats may be rented at half price.

NYA Employs 148 Students—Report Issued

A statement issued by the National Youth Administration committee shows that 148 college students have earned a part of their expenses this year by NYA work. The average number employed at any one time has been 115. The total amount of money paid to NYA students by the close of the present school term will have been $12,690.

On the basis of present indications, the committee feels confident that the NYA service will be maintained next year. Students now in school who desire to apply for NYA aid next year may obtain blanks in office 102. An application one year has no validity for any other year, because of the fact that the financial status of an applicant often changes from year to year.

It is very doubtful that the committee will approve the application of any student who does not maintain the required grade standard during the spring semester. The committee will also take into consideration reports of NYA supervisors relative to the satisfaction given by NYA workers in the jobs assigned to them.

In general, students should be able to finance themselves without NYA aid in their senior year, inasmuch as they will presumably be shortly on an earning basis, and therefore, in position to borrow privately or from college loan funds. Students in the lower classes, however, are at a disadvantage from the standpoint of borrowing for their school expenses. It is regarded as appropriate, therefore, that NYA funds should be made available largely to students below senior rank.

The committee believes that in many respects the NYA students this year have made the best record, both as students and as workers of any group the school has had. The state administrator, J. C. Kellam, has made favorable comment on the conduct of NYA service at West Texas State. The NYA committee has expressed its appreciation for the help and cooperation of both students and faculty in carrying out the year's work.

Endeavor's Big Annual Retreat Is Saturday, Sunday

The annual retreat of the Christian Endeavor of the First Presbyterian church will be held next Saturday and Sunday at Ceta canyon.

Transportation will be provided Saturday afternoon. Each person attending will pay 60 cents. Arrangements are being made by Bob Patterson, president, and Allie Mae McDonald, vice-president.

All Presbyterian students are being urged to attend this final meeting of the year for the Endeavor.

The senior piano recital of La Nelle Scheihagan of Hereford has been set for May 21 in the main auditorium. Her senior voice recital—she has a double major—was given several weeks ago.

Nell Cook, '39, will teach in the Goldston School in Clarendon, next year. She is a primary education major.

Turner Selected Student of Week

A broad-shouldered heavy weight wrestler was interviewed on the student broadcast last night from the campus studio of KGNC and was designated "Student of the Week." It was next year's president of the Students' association, Garland Turner.

Turner is a sophomore from Donie and is majoring in agriculture. He plans to get his degree and then work toward a Smith-Hughes certificate in some agricultural college. His grade points average 3.5.

Every phase of student activities has his interest. Last month he won top honors in intramural wrestling. He represented the sophomore class in the student senate and is a member of the T Anchor club, the Aggie club, and the Y. M. C. A. His favorite hobby is reading, and he says that answering letters is the most annoying thing he has to do.

K. E. Livingston, Portales Junior high principal, was on the campus Saturday doing work on his master's thesis. Ione Potter and Mary McCaslin, also of Portales public schools, were here at the same time.

New Shelf Believed More Accessible—Presentation Today

Addition of a fiction book shelf to the college library as a gift of Delta Zeta Chi, social club for girls, was revealed yesterday. Presentation is scheduled to be made to Miss Tennessee Malone, librarian, today.

Forty books constitute the original collection to which members of the organization will add at least two each month. Books will be available to students on a regular three-day loan basis.

The collection will include books of particular interest to students. Dr. Mattie Swayne and Miss Malone will guide the selection of books to be added.

"The club believes that students will find this shelf more accessible than the fiction books in the rental collection," Cleo Bourland, vice-president of Delta Zeta Chi, said.

The rental fiction shelf was started by the faculty several years ago, and money from rental fees collected has been used to purchase new books. It has grown to be a rather large collection.

Bertha Hicks, '25, is Mrs. F. M. Sawyer of Big Lake, Texas. She has twin daughters sixteen months of age. Mrs. Shawver formerly taught at San Angelo.

"Function of a state college or university should be to better the lot of the people within the state, for, after all, it is supported by all and should perform a universal service."—Homer Price Rainey, University of Texas.

Calf Trails—The Beaten Path

Sam Walter Foss, in one of his inimitable poems, tells the story of a calf that wandered home one night, leaving—

"... a trail all bent askew,
A crooked trail as all calves do."
Next day the trail he left was taken up by a dog, then by a herd of sheep, and as the years went by, the trail became a foot-path, then a winding village lane, and finally a crowded city street—
"Each day a hundred thousand rout
Followed this zig-zag calf about
And o'er his crooked journey went
The traffic of a continent.
A hundred thousand men were led
By one calf near three centuries dead."
The author closes with the remark that—
"Men are prone to go it blind
Along the calf paths of the mind."

In inspecting a few of the more obvious traits of our current society, it is somewhat disheartening to discover that the calf-path tendency is not a rare and obscure phenomenon, but rather a highly respectable and almost universal trait. Since this is election year, our current political terminology will offer a timely example of the point under consideration.

We are being told constantly that we must preserve and protect our democracy; but no one tells us what democracy is. True, we are told that democracy is "government by the people," and that it protects liberty; but who are "the people," and what is liberty? If government by "the people" means government by the vote of the majority of the qualified voters, then we are speaking in airy terms, for a tiny percentage of the total of voters actually goes to the polls on election day.

If "government by the people" means responsibility of elected officials to the people, how are we to explain the enormous influence of organized minorities? Who, indeed, are "the people," and what is "liberty?"

Does "liberty" mean the right of the Communist to advocate overthrow of the present economic system, or does it mean merely the right to advocate the maintenance of the status quo? What about protecting our young people from the influence of "foreignisms?" (Huey Long once said that if we ever have a dictatorship in America, we won't call it fascism, we'll call it anti-fascism.)

Again, we are told that we must keep America out of war—but too infrequently do we study carefully the plans that are advanced to attain that end. We are confronted with a multitude of problems that must be solved if civilization as we know it is to survive, and yet, with our love for the beaten path, we try to solve them by the recitation of a few magic phrases.

The men who continued to follow the meandering trail of the primeval calf undoubtedly met inconvenience in doing so. If we in America do not devise some method of getting away from the calf-trails of the mind, there is a strong probability that greater ills than inconvenience shall befall us.

Now the calf-paths that guide our thoughts in political affairs are old and are supported by well-established precedent, but perhaps we can begin to depart from them a little if we follow the course advocated by some of our leaders:

First, begin teaching people to think rather than to memorize.

Second, develop a respect for leaders.

Third, put some qualification on the right to vote.

The first two of the above suggestions are platitudes and will meet with no disapproval until specific measures for carrying them out are suggested. The third suggestion is more controversial and will be immediately challenged by all who love the dearest of all calf-paths, the idea of universal suffrage.

In scoring an intelligence test which was recently given to the voters in a municipal election, it was found that a number of the voters could find no fallacy in the following sentences:

1. A man said: "I know a road from my house to the city which is downhill all the way to the city and downhill all the way back home."

2. "Yesterday the police found the body of a girl cut into eighteen pieces. They believed she killed herself."

Voters who cannot see the absurdity of such assertions are not likely to make a worthwhile contribution toward solving the complex social and economical problems of our society.—Hollis Bledsoe.

Why An Historical Society?

What is an historical society good for? That's a foolish, and yet a typical student question. We happened to be one who found a tremendously satisfying answer at the P.-P. H. S. meeting Friday.

You may have pictured a group discontented with living in the present, reminiscing about an uninteresting past. Not so these enthusiasts, who seem devoted to a plan of preserving an interesting history.

This particular group is keeping a civilization that the early cowboy and pioneer knew from becoming lost to us. How much interest will a person in the future take in the display which pictures a life, known today, but unfamiliar to them? That's easy. What happens when we find a weapon attributed to Coronado?

This is the life of the historical society member. He has an unselfish attitude toward keeping alive a culture which will some day be the talk of the section. If today we cherish a Louis XIV chair, think of the interest years from now in a JA ranch rocker.

And now, after many visits to the local museum, we can see the significance of packing away the chuck wagon and spurs of the early cowboy, along with flint collections of the early Indians.

Who are the members of the society? They certainly can't be classified easily. For the most part, they are old-timers. But more, they are bankers, pioneers, professors, preachers—all bound in a common interest.

The museum is the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society to a person to whom time becomes visible while he is on a visit there.

A typical interpretation is one that colleges are merely scrambling for a good museum as they would a winning football team. It is in the vision of the individual Society members that causes a smile to appear when such an unintelligent comment is made.

The Prairie will post soon a reward of $1 for the arrest and trial of the Carnegie Foundation for Peace president on a charge of spreading pro-Allied propaganda.

Blitzkrieg Eyes

By MEDITH BUGENTAL

Texas women get their man! As a result, Charles Boyer was a victim of the first "autograph holdup" ever reported in Hollywood.

Two girls driving a car with Texas license plates crowded Boyer's car to the curb while he was on his way to Warner's one morning. They demanded his autograph, then on departing, one of them snatched a quick kiss.

Said Boyer: "Very charming experience."

READY, AIM, FIRE

A girl with "blitzkrieg" eyes has been assigned to the picture "No Exit." She's Fay McKenzie, the current "Miss Hollywood," and she'll do a glamor bit for the film.

She's supposed to be able to knock a whole row of men for a loop with one glance of her limpid "weapons."

DRAMA CLASS SPECIAL

Lionel Barrymore, dean of the screen's character actors, recently stated "The motion picture stars of the future will come from the high schools, colleges, and Little Theaters. The people in every town should make it their business to help aspiring youngsters."

BALLY THING, EH WOT?

"French Without Tears," the Paramount British-made film, had its funniest scene cut because English and American senses of humor don't converge.

The scene: an actor falls off a horse into a creek and disappears beneath the water while the scoring orchestra brays "Britannia Rules the Waves." At a recent American preview, the audience didn't get the point. They didn't recognize the music.

PINK LEMONADE AND PEANUTS

For the first time in the history of television, a complete circus made its debut via radio. NBC did the televising, the combined Ringling Bros. & Barnum and Bailey Circus was the subject, and the William Morris Agency acted as middle-man.

NIGGER HEAVEN

Brown University bought out the entire balcony of a Providence, R. I. theater to hear Jimmy Dorsey in person, and to break all one-day records for the theater.

"FOUR HORSEMEN" RIDE AGAIN

Mrs. Bonnie Skiles Rockne, widow of Knute Rockne, is cooperating with Warner Brothers in the filming of the life of the famous Notre Dame football coach. Pat O'Brien stars.

BIOGRAPHY BET

Since so many biographical films are being made at present, our wagger is the news of a not-too-distant filming of Will Rogers' life, and who could play the lead better than James Stewart?

FLYNN AND PRINCETON

The In and Out Club, Princeton literary society, has announced its researches reveal "the typical undergraduate was nothing but an absolute prototype of Errol Flynn, minus the mustache and plus a crew haircut."

A composite picture was made from 12 photographs selected from an assortment of 2100, and the resulting resemblance was declared no less than remarkable.

GUESSING GAME (for students only)

Can you tell the correct screen name of the unusual real-life names listed below? The nearest correct solution, sent to Box 331, Canyon, will merit two free passes to the Olympic Theater.

Here they are: (1) Benny Kubelsky, (2) Etienne de Bujac, (3) Lily Chauchoin, (4) Archibald Leach, (5) Arlington Spangler Brugh, (6) Muni Weisenfreund, (7) Queenie Thompson, (8) Claude Duckenfield, (9) Billie Cassin, (10) Emanuel Goldenburg. Don't despair—it's difficult.

KANSAS

On the University Daily Kansan, we read: "Color blindness is a common ailment, but not so well known is the fact that some persons are deaf to certain syllables. Working from this theory, the School of Education is giving an ear test to all students enrolled in the Reading Improvement course."

This new type of course being given at the University of Kansas is very helpful to students. There is no credit given, but it is presented for those students who wish to improve their reading. A series of standard tests, one of which is the ear test, is given to each student at the beginning of the semester, and the results show whether an ear and eye specialist should be consulted. "One machine tests the eyes for astigmatism and coordination, and another takes a moving picture of the eyes during the process of reading."

Summer Speech Students to Mix Play and Work

Extra-curricular and recreational activities will be an important part of the summer speech arts program, according to Dr. Baxter M. Geeting.

These activities will include radio broadcasts, miscellaneous programs, and dramatic productions. Voice recordings of students will be made. Another feature will be a speech clinic, with demonstrations of modern methods of treating minor speech defects. Original writing for radio and stage will be encouraged. Public forums and debates, monodramas, dance dramas, and other modern forms of expression will be offered.

One full-length and several one-act dramas will be presented during the summer. Acting in the major production will be Frederick H. "THERE AIN'T NO FLIES ON ME . . ."

West Texas prospects for becoming one of the "greats" in the basketball world are increasing daily. There are at least six potential candidates coming to W. T. next fall that are whizzes in the cage art. . . . Coach Baggett says, "We have seen six boys of Texas and surrounding states who have indicated they will be here next fall. They range from six feet four to six feet nine, with an average of 6½ feet." . . . Can any school equal that?

The recreational program for the summer school will extend further than ever . . . on Wednesday and Friday nights, games and other forms of recreation will be directed under the lights of Buffalo field . . . emphasis will be placed on swimming.

Postponement of West Texas State's first annual basketball clinic has been announced by Athletic Director Al Baggett. "Because of several conflicts, we have postponed this clinic for a short time," said Mr. Baggett.

FIGHT CZAR DIES

The little man with the big cigar and bigger brain will be at the ring-side no more. . . . For Joe Jacobs, possibly the shrewdest fight manager in the game, has been counted out by death. . . . Jacobs managed more champions than any other man. . . . First it was Mike McGigue, former light heavyweight king; then Andre Routis, one-time head-of the featherweight division; next, bouncing Joe Dundee, former holder of the welterweight title, and big Max Schmeling. . . . His last miracle of managing came when he brought punch-drunk Tony Galento from the bottom to the top and close to the title.

WHAT'S THIS?

Flagstaff State, at Flagstaff, Ariz., has been about everything but a recreation resort. . . . First it held the title of being the state penitentiary or what we commonly call the "pie-house." . . . Next, it was changed to an insane asylum. . . . Last, but not least, it became a college. . . . What next?

As far as The Toreador, Texas Tech's student newspaper, is concerned, intramurals are the major and only sports. It seems that news releases from the sports department were all going down to the Lubbock Journal, the city paper, before the sports department of The Toreador was able to get them. Now the Toreador refuses to print major sports in the student newspaper. . . . Some fun, eh?

Sheffy told of the arrival of three diorama cases from the Coronado Cuarto Centennial murals to be started by Harold Bugbee and Ben Mead soon. Mr. William F. Read of the University of Chicago is to continue the work of the late C. Stuart Johnston, whose death last summer was called a great loss to the Society. Another loss was the transfer of Bustaf T. Sundstrom, museum preparator, to a government position in Kentucky. Museum Grows Rapidly

Thousands of new specimens now being received from three scientific projects were described by Floyd V. Studer of Amarillo, the Society's curator. He estimated that unmounted bird and mammal specimens would fill 18 cases. In one archaeological site, he revealed, forty-one rooms have been unearthed. He fixed the time of occupation as early as 1250 A. D., but said some ruins were much older.

Potentially, the project sites and Palo Duro State Park are of National Monument importance, according to authorities quoted by Mr. Studer.

Treasurer W. L. Vaughan showed that receipts were chiefly from Society memberships and that funds were low. The Society has operated the museum and all activities for seven years without State appropriations.

Last year more than 35,000 persons registered at the museum.

Laura Mae Gibson, with Dick Smith as her escort, went to Plainview last Tuesday as a princess in the Panhandle-Plains Dairy Show. She represented Hutchinson county. The princess from Bovina was crowned as queen at a special pageant at the close of the show. All princesses and escorts were entertained with a dance following the pageant.

West Texas State's elegant outdoor swimming pool was formally opened Saturday for the summer season.

During the remainder of this term its public schedule will be as follows:

Week-days—Open to everyone From 4 to 6 p. m.

Sundays—Open to everyone from 3 to 5 p. m.

Swimming and recreation classes will have other hours. Health certificates are required.

Graham Added To Summer Session Speech Faculty

Here for the summer session in the speech department will be Howard Graham, who heads the same work in Amarillo Junior college.

Mr. Graham took the B. A. degree at Kansas State Teachers college in 1934 and the M. A. degree at Northwestern University in 1939. He has had much experience as an actor, including road tours with the Gibson Players out of Kansas City and with the Waddell Players out of Topeka, Kans.; summer theater work in Glencoe, N. Y., and Oconomowoc, Wis., the Little Theater of Morenci, Mich., and Suburban theater of Ravinia Park, Chicago; and as a member of the executive board and director of the Allied theater, a professional producing group in New York.

He held a teaching fellowship at Northwestern, where he was an actor in the University Theater and director in the Studio theater. In Amarillo he has directed many plays and has been a designer of sets for the Symphony orchestra.

Reviewers have praised his professional facility and, especially, his comedy roles.

Softball Contest Holds Interest

Firecrackers Beat Wildcats In Final—Track Meet Scheduled for Wednesday

By DELBERT McGUIRE

Softball games are the order of the day with intramural teams this week as the tournament to decide the winner of this sport is played. Semi-finals played Friday afternoon left the Hancock Firecrackers and the Wildcats in control.

The Firecrackers defeated the Bachelors, 11-7, in the semi-final tilt and moved up to the final bracket with the Wildcats, who won on a forfeit from the T-Anchor Aggies. The final game will be played early this week.

Teams entering in the softball contest were: Bachelors, Bullshooters, Termites, T-Anchor Aggies, Stafford Hall, N. Y. A. Terrapin, Firecrackers and the Wildcats.

On Wednesday at 3:30 p. m., the intramural meet will be held at the circular track at Buffalo stadium. Director Mitchell Jones has announced that this will be the last contest held during the intramural season. The Termites led the field in points won, although the Firecrackers are close behind. As this track meet is the last chance for the second-place teams to overtake the winner for intramural honors this year, a fast, closely contested meet is promised.

Neville Bremer has been offered a teaching position in the Floydada public schools, the Bureau of Public Service announced last week. If Mr. Bremer accepts he will teach social sciences.

Three diorama cases have been received from Washington for the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society Museum. These cases were made up and sent to the Coronado headquarters at Albuquerque for display for several days before being brought here. The largest case was kept there for a few more days.

Three more cases are being built for the Museum under the appropriation for the Coronado celebrations.

Two Coronado murals will be started this week for the museum. One is being painted by Ben Mead of Amarillo and one by Harold Bugbee of Clarendon. Each of these Panhandle artists now has a mural hanging in the museum, painted under the direction of the Historical Society.
