Training School Centennial Fair Excites Interest

Reaches Culmination In Program Presented In Chapel

Cookies made from cotton seed flour and served to visitors of the cotton exhibit were only one surprise included in the Demonstration School Centennial Fair of Texas products. The fair, opening Friday afternoon, closed Saturday at noon with a program given in the Administration auditorium.

Each exhibit, representing the culmination of a unit of study, was placed in charge of a grade under the supervision of the teacher. The materials used were brought from home or constructed as a part of the classroom work. A picture show and fortune telling booth were included in the fair.

The chapel program, under the direction of Miss Ada V. Clark, included musical numbers, dances, and dialogues pertaining to Texas. Pets, from white mice to parrots, were brought and exhibited by the members of the first grade. A food exhibit, supplemented by posters, was arranged by the second grade.

A locomotive, coal car, and covered wagon were shown by the third grade. These vehicles were constructed of a barrel and boards, and were large enough for the pupils to ride in.

The intermediate grades were in charge of the mineral, cotton and miscellaneous exhibits. Both raw and finished products were shown. The proceeds of the fair will be used to buy books for the demonstration school library.

English Club To Be Organized Here December 5

Active interest is being shown in the forming of an honor society for students who are majoring in English.

For some time there has been a national honor society called Sigma Tau Delta, meaning Sincerity, Truth and Design. In order to get into this national fraternity our school is organizing an English Club. This club will attempt to meet the requirements set forth for application for membership.

There was a called meeting in assembly Nov. 16, of all English majors who were interested in forming a branch club of Sigma Tau Delta.

The club will meet the first Thursday after Thanksgiving in room 118, at 11 o'clock. All English majors are invited to attend this meeting.

Mrs. Laura Saunders, Miss Ruth Lowes, and Mr. F. E. Savage were complimented with a dinner in Memphis Wednesday evening by Miss Carrie Bell Lee.

The sister of Miss Hester Gates, Mrs. C. W. Foote of Pampa and her small daughter were guests of Miss Gates at Cousins Hall Wednesday evening.

Nostalgic Students Experience Relief As Holidays Approach

It won't be long until the last echo of feet resounds down the halls of W. T. Thanksgiving! The climax gradually approaches. Snatches of excited laughter, bits of conversation, and the clatter of hurrying feet, intermingling with surroundings of hustle and bustle. Students on the verge of nostalgia, are relieved of the "gnawing" in their systems by the whisper that Thanksgiving draws nearer. Those holidays in which we get a glimpse of "home" and a taste of that "good turkey dinner that only Mother prepares."

Tension increases as—
Mid clatter and bustle
Down the hall,
Comes the ring of laughter
And the merry call.
The crisis halts and wavers
At fullest height.
All hearts are bursting
Within tense delight,
For Thanksgiving is creeping
And crawling along.

Pulchritudinous Display Held In Chapel

"You can't go wrong by casting your vote for this beauty."

"Don't let me try to 'sell' you, ladies and gentlemen, just see and believe."

"Those eyes, them hair, that teeth."

"The fourth beauty, fellow voters, preceded only by Eve, Cleopatra, and Helen of Troy."

Miss Reba Poole was introduced by G. L. Stanley in assembly Tuesday; Miss Robbie Foster by R. M. Thompson; Miss Adella Beavers by "Bugs" Terry; Miss Fern Knutson by Chris Wooten; Miss June Day by Bill Blaine; Miss Zua Gae Warner by Ogden Stroud; Miss Virginia Hohlaus by Winfred Lewis.

The polls opened this morning at 9 o'clock to receive votes for queen and her four attendants. Each student must present his blanket tax as a voting receipt. Polls will close at 4 o'clock.

Seniors Vote To Bar Freshmen In Popularity Polls

At a meeting of the senior class Thursday morning, R. M. Thompson, a student councillor and member of the class brought up the question of prohibiting freshmen candidates in the college popularity contests.

"Members of the freshman class have suggested this action themselves, expressing their belief in the inappropriateness of freshmen taking these positions of honor," Thompson said.

"Whatever action is taken will not remove the candidates from queen from the present race. It will, however, apply to the contest for most versatile and most popular young man this year."

Following a group discussion, a vote was taken. The majority favored excluding the freshmen from such activity.

"Other classes have been asked to vote on the same question and the general response will govern the action of the student council," Thompson concluded.

Myles McGehee, chairman of the entertainment committee announced a class social at Randall Hall Saturday evening.

Numerous WPA Projects Now In Progress

Construction Begins On Rock Wall Around Buffalo Field

Construction of an eight foot rock wall around the football field was begun Thursday. The wall is to be of native rock found west of Canyon. It will inclose three sides of the field, leaving the cyclone fence at the north side.

New gates will be built at the entrance to the stadium, but the main gate will still be known as the gate given by the class of 1929.

The rear of the stadium will be walled up for future use as dressing rooms. This will add to the comfort of the fans as it will prevent the cold wind from coming through the cracks in the seats.

Work has started for the completion of Buffalo Courts, which will consist of building four more rooms, completing the recreation hall, and preparing the landscape. An asphalt topped caliche road will be built in front of the courts.

The home economics practice house contract will be let Dec. 12. The structure will be immediately north of Cousins hall across the street. It will be two stories high and house six girls and a teacher.

The six girls will live in the practice house for a semester at a time.

Between the field house and Burton Gymnasium, a college laundry house and store room will be built.

The structure will be about 60x20 feet in size. The college laundry is now housed in the power house.

Just north of the field house will be built a five place garage for the college. The garage will have a room for washing the college equipment.

As soon as the eight-foot wall around the football field is built, a three foot rock wall will be built around the children's play ground, between the college football field and the education building. This space will be equipped with various play ground equipment.

A three-foot rock wall with a cyclone fence on top is to inclose the power house and water well.

More Tennis Courts
Three more tennis courts are to be constructed, making a total of six concrete courts on the campus. A rock wall will be built around the courts, to be used as backstops for a wind break.

Plans are being made for lighting the tennis courts. One of the purposes of this is to give an outdoor recreation center in the summer.

Perhaps one of the most unusual hobbies of any student in school here now is that of Claude Farley, of Estelline.

He is a member of the United Amateur Press Association of America. Mr. Farley joined the Association in 1932 and has been publicly agent of the Association for the last three years. As a member of the Association, he is required to publish an amateur publication without any assistance. Since he has been a member, he has published nine issues of his paper which is called "The Texan."

He is publishing an issue now and is doing the printing in the college printing shop where he is enrolled for a course in printing. He tries to publish one issue during each three months making a total of four publications a year. His publication is one of three hundred amateur newspapers in the United States. There are approximately five hundred members in the Association.

The members of the Association hold an annual convention in some large city of the United States. Mr. Farley says that so far he has been unable to attend one of these conventions because of the fact that they were held too far away.

He is working with other members in this section of the country in trying to get the convention in Oklahoma City in 1937.

During the last three years, conventions of the association have been held in New York City, San Francisco, and Portland, Ore.

Miss Frances Usery and Coy Palmer were dinner guests at Cousins Hall Wednesday evening. Mr. Palmer sang several selections, accompanied by Miss Usery at the piano.

Miss Nell Rhodes of Amarillo, was the guest of Miss Grace McAfee at Cousins Hall last week.

Art Students Will Have Work Shown at TSTA Meeting

Construction Begins On Rock Wall Around Buffalo Field

Work done by art students of W. T. will be shown at the State Teachers meeting in San Antonio. Miss Isabel Robinson, head of the art department, was invited by Miss Allene Wrather, who is in charge of the exhibits, to hang work by her students this year.

The exhibit will consist of designing, contour drawing; pen and ink, pencil, and brush and ink sketches; wash drawings of landscapes done in brown ink; crayon drawing, and batik compositions in black and white.

Representative design units will be featured, the freshman art classes showing striped rug designs and the sophomore classes cut paper and textile designs in color.

The advanced classes will feature drawings from life. Etchings, costume designs, and water color sketches will be included in the exhibit. As these courses are not being taught this semester the work will of necessity be taken from last year's classes.

This is the first year W. T. has had an exhibit at the annual T. S. T. A. convention.

College Queen Election Is In Progress Today

Election of the College Queen was postponed from Thursday, the date previously set, to today. Chief among the reasons for this change was the fact that enrollment for the second nine weeks has not been completed and all the students did not have their student activity ticket which must be presented in order to vote.

Below is a sample ballot with instructions for voting in this election. This ballot was offered by Prof. S. H. Condon, head of the government department. The election is under the supervision of the government department.

Sample Ballot
Vote for five. Place an "X" before the name of your choice for queen. Draw a line through the names of the two candidates whom you do not wish to be attendants upon the queen in the coronation.

Intermission was announced and the musicians were putting up their instruments. The five couples of loyal seniors, who had turned out for the Senior college dance were plotting for future action when one suggested to crash the freshman dance at Cousins Hall, for two or three dances.

It was unanimously agreed upon and the five couples trooped merrily over to the hall where they boldly marched in and after taking off their coats started to the dance floor but—wait a minute, seniors, you don't belong over here. Scram!

Imagine the feeling of such dignified seniors after being spoken to in such manner before a bunch of little freshmen, so they left lamenting loudly the injustice of the situation.

SAUNDERS, LOWES VISIT MEMPHIS EXTENSION CLASS
Mrs. Laura Saunders and Miss Ruth Lowes, teachers in W. T. training school, accompanied Prof. F. E. Savage to Memphis last week to meet an extension class in education.

Mrs. Saunders, who teaches the third grade, explained to the class about the project in transportation which she is now using.

Miss Lowes, first grade teacher, described the children's pet project now being used in her classroom.

College Band Goes To Alpine Friday

The College Band traveled to Alpine with the football team Friday to root and play the team to victory.

The band left Friday morning and returned Sunday afternoon after playing several concerts along the route.

The band played concerts at Brownfield and Pecos and marched at Alpine. Also a broadcast was given over station KIUN at Pecos.

During the half at the game the band entertained the crowd by forming the letters W. T. and playing before the governor and a large crowd composed of ex-students. When not playing, the band demonstrated their ability as being able to do a little yelling.

The band was entertained royally at all stops and especially enjoyed a dance at Ft. Stockton Saturday night.

Murry, Waggoner Complete Pass For Score As Allred Watches

Bidding the '35 season farewell, the Buffaloes overcame a mountain of opposition Saturday afternoon in Alpine and won their sugar game from the Loboes 7 to 6 as Gov. James V. Allred and 6,000 mad fans saw a battling herd of Buffaloes come from behind in the last stanza to make the Loboes' homecoming a sad one.

The Buffs had trouble getting their eye on the ball during the first half, and the Loboes drove at random through the Buffs middle section to score. They continued their daring exploits, but folded up several times on the ten yard stripe, and their scoring machine jammed as the Buffs put up a great exhibition of defensive work.

A boy named Pierce made the afternoon a busy one for the Teachers as he pounded hard at the Buffalo forward wall, but a hustling bunch of Buffs made the score more than even as they marched to glory in the last quarter.

Receiving the ball near mid-field, the Buffs took the ball straight into scoring territory without faltering. Here Floyd Murry heaved a long pass, and Toby Waggoner leaped high into the air and pulled the pellet into his mid-section as he stumbled over the line making the score even.

Lwood Dow continued his taking ways as he calmly booted the ball between the uprigths from placement to make the Buffs' visit to the Big Bend Country a fruitful one.

Cornelia Otis Skinner To Present "Times Square" Here December 5

A new character sketch, "Times Square," will be an outstanding feature by Miss Cornelia Otis Skinner, internationally known actress, when she appears here on Dec. 5, as the second lyric number of the year.

In "Times Square," Miss Skinner will bring to life eight other women—an Italian gum-seller, a chorus girl, a society woman on way to theater, an office girl, a southern girl in New York, a wife with an ailing husband, a tough girl with a sailor, and a dope fiend. There is no trickery in the feat, but there is a great deal of magic—the kind of magic which produces that rarest of rarities—creative acting.

The sketches which Miss Skinner will present here will range from bitterly ironic tragedy to hilarious comedy. Into their making will go the results of sympathetic observation, a fine feeling for the dramatic and an exquisite sense of humor. It is this well developed ability to see and portray comedy that is her greatest gift.

Miss Skinner modestly calls her impersonations "character sketches" but they are much more than the outlines this title implies. Somehow, she manages to place her people in the midst of their own lives and cause them to reveal not only their characteristics but also the events and contacts with other persons which have made them what they are.

She is a theater unto herself, a single embodiment of all the virtues and none of the faults that go to make up the highest concept of the theater whose noblest traditions have survived the age—the "holding of a mirror up to nature"—to reflect the mental, spiritual and physical turmoil of life in the actual living. She has made her place and should continue to occupy it to the continued glory of the theater.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF EDUCATION?

"There has not been the slightest evidence of government interference or desire to control the individual institutions. . . . This statement came from Harold C. Jacquith, president of Illinois College, Jacksonville, Ill., as he referred to the educational program of the National Youth Administration and refutes a popular charge against the NYA.

Hundreds of students, unable to finish their education without governmental aid, are in school today. Figures show that 109,001 students in 1,602 colleges and universities, receive aid from NYA. This same number of students would have otherwise been added to the ranks of the unemployed.

Suspensions arise when aid comes to give the young people the things denied them. Suppose these self-appointed judges take into consideration a few facts and analyze them.

The American government is trying to educate its people and bring them from under the depressions of ignorance, for a country cannot survive in total darkness without a light for a guide. That light will always be education.

Why not look up the program of the NYA and see whether it is carrying it out. We aren't getting so narrow-minded in this day of depression as to suspect the support of a guiding hand, are we?

The NYA is an aid and not a control. The United States Government, even with its aids, has not stepped in and told us what to do. It has no control over our schools; such as is true in foreign countries. It has not poked a finger in our faces and said that we must teach "such and such a thing" in our schools.

In Germany military training is compulsory. How long would American citizens endure that? This is a government for and by the people. Why not give it strength of encouragement on the problems it strives to work out, instead of accusing its administration of trying to gain control over us and our institutions?

Examinations were like the judgment—many were weighed in the balance and found wanting.

SILENCE IS GOLDEN

Perhaps most of you, (we won't say all) have tried to study in the library on the second floor of the Administration Building. Please notice the word "tried" in the foregoing sentence. Those of you who have "tried" know what a futile effort it was.

In spite of the signs posted at the door and at various places around the library, students who visit the library do not observe the rights of others by being quiet. They must make dates (or fill them there) discuss their favorite faculty members (if any) and do a hundred and one other things that will prevent those around them from concentrating on their work.

As if the noise in the library were not enough, other students must congregate in the hall outside the door and chat with friends they have not seen since morning or the night before.

A library is supposed to be a place of quiet where the elusive goddess of learning may be pursued without interruption from other mortals. Instead, ours is a meeting place for students who do not like to stand in the halls to do their "courting."

Something should be done about this.

Definition of a gentleman: A boy who says he likes a subject because she's taking it.

ONLY THE GODS CAN SERVE

When a man steps forth from the college he is tested once for all. It takes but a year or two to prove his mettle. If he has the intestinal fortitude to meet and overcome adversity and to serve humanity, in that which is good, he then receives his reward for higher education.

Those who have nothing can give nothing. Part of the duty of higher education is to build up ideals of noble actions. You can earn your board and lodging without the formality of culture.

In the services rendered to humanity man must strive to give his best, to fulfill his purposes on earth, and duty to humanity, and to hope for no reward. If he hopes for a reward it shows that to himself his service is really given.

Rabbi Voorsanger tells us, that in the ancient lore of the Hebrews, is written, "Serve the Lord, not as slaves hoping for reward, but as gods who will take no reward."

Blessings usually come in their work clothes.

IT IS TIME TO SOW

In keeping with a custom established by our forefathers, our nation pauses on the last Thursday in November each year to observe a day of thanksgiving.

There has never been an age in the history of our nation when there was so much for which to be thankful; never a time when life was so full of comforts and luxuries to add to our individual happiness and our national prosperity. We are reaping where others have sown. It is fitting that we should possess a deep sense of appreciation and gratitude for our rich heritage.

Thanksgiving Day offers the opportunity to display the same spirit of gratitude which prompted the Pilgrims so many years ago to lift up their voices in Thanksgiving. And it is time for us to sow that others may reap.

WHY?

One often wonders if it would be possible for a class or even one pupil to take an assignment without asking why the teacher assigned such a "miserably long lesson."

Being able to do a thing when one is told to do it, is one of the greatest accomplishments of life. Millions strive for, but millions never attain the ability to do this.

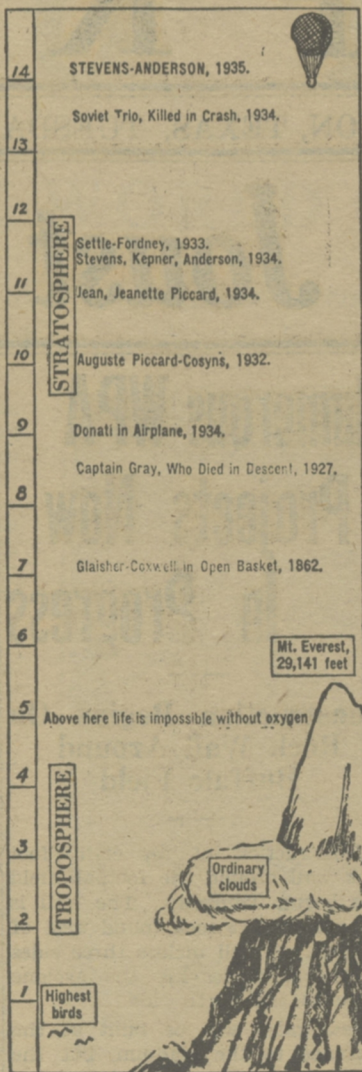

The "horrid" teacher doesn't plan the lesson as a special hardship for the class; she is merely following a set form that has been given to her by someone else. Remember, you are going to be a teacher soon. Do the thing—then ask why if you wish. But if you must ask "why," ask yourself in private and never let anyone know that you must have a reason for everything.

A reporter's life is like a book—one story after another.

Stratoflyers Attain New Heights

Soaring in the rarefied atmosphere to heights never before attained by man, Captains Orvil A. Anderson, left, and A. W. Stevens set a new stratosphere mark of 74,187 feet, more than 14 miles. The Explorer II is pictured at left floating upward after the takeoff in the South Dakota Black Hills. The chart at right reveals previous air records.

When all the students in a college are put together, it is likely that college is the only place they would be welcome.

BEGINNINGS

This is a new nine weeks. Within it lie beginnings. Within it lies the fulfillment of hopes and ambitions—and failures, too.

Hope is strong now, and the student should reach out and grasp things that he wants. But the grasping is not enough. His hold must be firm—all of which means that if a student wants to accomplish something definite, he should begin now, and stay with it, otherwise everything in college is useless. This is not advice, but caution.

If we could see ourselves as others see us, the suicide rate would probably increase.

Rotary Club Hears Program Regarding Life of Will Rogers

Seven students from the Demonstration High School gave an interesting program Tuesday on the life and work of the late Will Rogers. Jesse Barker, chairman of the Resolutions Committee, was in charge of the program.

Bill Norman introduced the six who had part on the program. Owen Harvey, Neva Cleveland, Bonne Rhea Whittenburg, Edgbert Neeley, Pearl Mayben, and Edward Lyon.

Owen Harvey sang songs which Will Rogers loved, and discussed his early experiences in the Panhandle, in South America, and his marriage.

Neva Cleveland talked of his private life, his modesty, his charity.

Bonne Rhea Whittenburg read a poem in his memory.

Edgbert Neeley discussed his humor and incidents when this humor was so forcefully used.

Pearl Mayben told of his life as an actor, starting in the circus and ending as a great movie star.

Edward Lyon read a number of statements made at the time of his untimely death, including those of President Roosevelt, Herbert Hoover, Prince of Wales, Fred Stone, Irving Cobb and W. H. Fuqua.

"Camels never get on your Nerves"

STEADY SMOKERS SAY

WILLIE HOPPE, champion of champions, and most famous personality of the billiard world! Mr. Hoppe has learned that a mild cigarette affords more pleasure... and that mildness is essential to one who prizes healthy nerves. He says: "Championship billiards call for healthy nerves. It was a happy day for me when I turned to Camels. I found I could smoke all I wish and never have 'edgy' nerves. I have smoked Camels for a long time, and I want to compliment Camels on their mildness. It must take more expensive tobaccos to give that special Camel flavor I like so much—always cool and good." You, too, will find a new delight once you turn to Camels. They never get on your nerves... never tire your taste.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS!

● Camels are made from finer,
 MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS
 ...Turkish and Domestic... than any other popular brand.

YOU'LL LIKE THEIR MILDNESS TOO

It has been found again and again that Camels do not jangle the nerves...and athletes who smoke Camels steadily say: "Camels do not get your wind." Make Camels your cigarette! Keep fit. Smoke more—and enjoy smoking more!

AMARILLOANS LOSE TO CALVES 34-6

The W. T. Calves began their 1935-'36 basketball campaign last Wednesday afternoon on their home floor by trouncing the less experienced and smaller black-and-gold-clad boys from Central Junior High, Amarillo, by the overwhelming margin of 34 to 6.

The Canyon boys jumped into the lead early in the initial quarter and held a large majority throughout the game.

Coch York let his second team play during the third quarter, with a mixed squad finishing the battle. Because it was the first game for either team, it was marred by fumbles, bad passes, and bad shots.

John McNeil, Cal center led the scoring parade with 16 counters; Nix, Amarillo guard, accounted for four of their six points.

SPEECH STUDENTS PRESENT MEMORIAL PROGRAM

Seven members of the public speaking class were luncheon guests of the Rotary Club Tuesday. Immediately following the turkey dinner, the guests presented a Will Rogers Memorial Program, with Billy Norman officiating as chairman.

Owen Harvey, dressed as a cowboy, told of Will Rogers' days on the plains and sang two of his favorite songs. Anita Cleland discussed Rogers' private life. Bonnie Rhea Whittenburg, then gave, as a musical reading, a poem to Rogers which was written by Egbert Neelley. She was accompanied at the piano by Owen Harvey. Pearl Mayben told Rogers' experiences as an actor; and Edward Line discussed other phases of the humorist's life.

All the students participating in the program appreciated the hospitality and courtesies shown them by the Rotarians.

TO WILL ROGERS

There was only one Will, a real Cherokee
Loved by all the people, on the land and the sea.
With a voice untrained
And a manner untrained,
Was our own Will Rogers, marvel of a century.

A product of the West, a plainsman true,
A red-blooded boy, and a cowpuncher, too.
With personality astounding
And humor abounding
Was the country's Will Rogers, marvel of a century.

He loved adventure, and sought it far away;
But settled as an actor, an actor did he stay.
With simplicity enshrouded
And character unclouded,
Was the world's Will Rogers, marvel of a century.
—Egbert Neelley.

FRESHMEN HAVE LEAST NUMBER OF FAILURES

The Freshmen Class reports the least number of failures of any of the classes for the first half of the semester. Only four freshmen made an "E" or "F." The sophomores had six failures, while the junior and senior classes had seven each.

The rites were read by the Rev. Mr. R. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the First Christian Church. Mr. and Mrs. Byrd left Sunday for Electra, where they will make their home.

THINK IT OVER

A certain item in the newspaper captured my eye yesterday. It was a quotation from a famous architect: "It is the first rule of architecture never to construct ornament, but always to ornament construction." A world of meaning is contained in this simple statement.

Are we coming to school to gain the glory of good grades and to participate in the social life to be found here? Most of us are. Perhaps some of you come to gain the knowledge that is accessible in the institution. Hall to the fellow that does! He comes for a serious purpose and "ornaments" this purpose with good grades and social life. He is constructing a life of usefulness and success. He happily possesses the ability of weighing values.

A certain boy once went to a prominent university. His parents had sacrificed their very life for this son of theirs. They never grew weary of contributing to his progress. Now, this boy settled down and studied diligently. He learned how to construct the ten-story building, the bridge across the river, and the underground tunnel. He received an "A" in

Valiant War on Tree Scourges Marks Progress in 60 Years of Forestry

NINETEEN THIRTY-SIX marks the 60th anniversary of the first step toward forestry in the United States.

In 1876, after a careful study of the nation's timber, Franklin B. Hough, Uncle Sam's first "forest agent," raised his voice in warning that America's store of trees was slowly but surely dwindling.

People thought him a crank. Most Americans then thought our forests imperishable. Indeed, farmers and home-builders welcomed forest fires which saved them the trouble of clearing timberland.

Nevertheless, Hough's warning had its effect. Seeds of a future tree conservation campaign were sown in the minds of the public.

Far-sighted though he was, Pioneer Hough could never have imagined the splendid progress in tree conservation that was to be achieved in the next half century.

Since Congress appropriated $2000 to finance Hough's forest inventory, there have been 10 significant milestones on the road to an intelligent, economical forest policy. In 1886, the Division of Forestry was created. President Harrison established the Yellowstone Park timberland preserve in 1891. In 1897, the present National Forest Act was passed. The Bureau of Forestry, established in 1901, became the Forest Service in 1905.

Four successive measures—the Weeks law, 1911; the Clarke-McNary bill, 1924; the McNary-Woodruff act, 1928; and the McSweeney-McNary act, 1928—all strengthened the nation's forest policy.

In 1933, the president sent his forest work relief message to Congress; and in 1933, the first CCC corps camp was established.

In his most optimistic moments, Hough could never have foreseen the measures under way today to protect U. S. timber stands. He could never have envisioned a forest army known as the Civilian Conservation Corps putting in 1,841,000 man days quelling forest fires; nor the 33,459 miles of telephone lines threading forest areas to convey fire warnings; to say nothing of lookout towers, airplane blaze "spotters," radioed alarms, etc. He could hardly have foretold that an unrelenting war would be waged against the 2000 known kinds of insects which annually kill millions of trees.

The first "forest agent," appointed nearly 60 years ago, would have been delighted to watch CCC lads fight forest fires, deadly menace to the nation's trees.

And while they are fighting forest scourges, the corps and other agencies are busy replanting thousands of trees each year, in an attempt to stem the tide of deforestation.

TRULY, as Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree Association, has said, "forestry has come far since 1876."

To commemorate the 60th anniversary of the first step in forestry, Mr. Pack has announced printing of the 43rd edition of his Forest Primer, which, when distributed, will make a total of 4,300,000 copies provided for schools and other education use.

Some of the forestry facts pointed out in the Primer are: North America, with one-twelfth of the world's people uses about one-half of all timber consumed in the world. Each year about 400,000,000 trees are felled to provide telegraph and telephone poles, fence posts, railroad ties, newsprint, etc.

Forest fires during 1934 cost the United States $124,000 a day, nearly 42,000,000 acres having been swept by flames during that year.

In short, the Primer brings renewed emphasis to the warning which Franklin B. Hough uttered nearly 60 years ago.

"Inter Nos," the Latin Club, met last Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Elizabeth Fry Page, at the Little House of Fellowship.

The theme of the program was Roman mythology. Short sketches of Apollo, Venus, Mars, Juno, and Mercury were given by club members, after which a contest for recognizing various gods and goddesses from their pictures was held. Berry McCarter won the prize in the contest.

Music for the evening was furnished by an octet composed of Mildred Merchant, Virginia Vaughan, Christine Jarrett, Sybil Smith, Lynna Lee Lockhart, Ida Martha Plerle, Dick Smith, and Berry McCarter. They sang several Latin songs.

Evangeline Baker, president of the club, gave as a musical reading a farewell tribute to Mrs. Page in the form of a Latin poem written by Shirley Ann Oliver and Nell Stevenson. She was accompanied at the piano by Nell Stevenson.

Following the program, a book, "The Life of Will Rogers," was presented to Mrs. Page as a parting gift.

Following the meeting, tea was served by Mildred Merchant, Coystal Tabor, and Shirley Ann Oliver.

FARMERS MAKE FIELD TRIP

Under the direction of their practice teacher, Mr. William Spauld, the members of the agriculture class have recently made three field trips. The first was to the Coleman farm east of town, where the class obtained information on operating a poultry farm.

The second trip took the group to the football field, where they learned the use of a farm level.

The last trip of the series was made last Wednesday, when the class paid a visit to the College Farm.

READ 'EM AND WEEP

By Wayward Willie

Boy, oh boy, did those editorials get this column told? Anyhow you know now who writes it, but don't you come around to me with blood in your eyes, please.

"Windy" Lewis ought to take some notes on the new yells the Freshmen gave us, so some of us can tell we are out of High School.

Here's a good one: Effyie Whitsett says she can't date boys who have already seen the show, as she wants to go.

Edrie Underwood had quite a large audience recently over at Randall Hall during her short debut in the burlesque show.

Ramey wants to know if courting in the telephone booth over at the Buffalo isn't a bit boring? Or should I say tiring?

Speaking of telephones—one person has said, there are three ways of communication—telephone, telegraph, and "tella woman."

Myles McGehee is said to have been the goat for writing this column, but Tittle, he is not the one.

For a Coca Cola, I won't tell the names of those girls who were over at the Nat one Saturday night recently.

There seems to be one girl on third floor over at Cousins Hall who is always having a fainting spell.

This freshmen, Shell, can't keep quiet about exams. Wish someone would teach her how to be still and how to jump fences.

If the freshmen class can stick together, they will get their beauty queen, however, my choice is still Adella Beavers.

Judging from student criticism, I could write an editorial on how coaches use football material until the last game, and then puts the second best off the team.

I am sorry Franky Dodson is so angry because her name was not among the best dancers, but Frankie, when that was printed, all the returns were not in.

I am starting something new in this column. How would you like to ask some questions? Write one or many, sign your name to them,

RICHARDSON ADDRESSES CHURCH COUNCIL

Miss Mary Moss Richardson, professor of English, addressed the church council of the Presbyterian church in Amarillo, Wednesday. Miss Richardson's talk on the story of Browning's noted literary work, "Pippa Passes" was the feature of the all day Thanksgiving meeting.

An ex-student, Miss Lynette Cook, now teaching at Highland Park, was a luncheon guest at Cousins Hall Saturday.

Station F-A-R-M

Working in the dairy will soon be a pleasure for most of the boys. The new Frigidaire will be a big asset to the dairy as well as a source of economy which has caused so much worry around the institution.

Believe it or not, the sign of "Beat St. Benedict" is finally gone from the famous Taxi of the T-Anchor. We give this credit to Wilbur X. Spough, Esq., Jr.

We're all still in an argument as to who will be the beauty queen. Maybe they will still come around to our way of thinking. Here's hopin'.

Turn back the clock! Here's a prediction. In the near future the College Farm boys will be stepping out with "clothes you like to wear." The prospects for a cleaning plant, which will cut the price of cleaning and pressing in half, is going to be installed.

And then we hear that Rice and Denton become a little embarrassed at times. We wonder what is the reason?

Yes, plans for the big intrafarm football game are still under consideration and — etc. (fill in at your leisure).

The present creed of some of the Rock House boys, especially Doc Meyer's and "Two-Bit" Letner can be exceedingly well expressed in: "Kissing may be dangerous, but so far no one can accuse them of being cowards."

Hot cha cha! Just three more days until Thanksgiving. That means only three more mornings of gravy and a few other various rations.

The last two weeks we have received such classified ads as:

Wanted: Somebody, somewhere to donate a community cake for the Farm crew.

Might consider: A date to secretary to Dean. Al Steed.

Would like to buy: A ring that looks like a diamond. (The ring doesn't matter if there's honest affection behind it.) Clyde Andrews.

Needed badly: A loud speaker. (Case of weak voice.) Spec Thompson.

Wanted: At least one nearly sensible slime at North House.

Must have at once: A grade above a D. Everybody. Don't forget the election today. And you slime had better reconsider.

Consistent advertising is the merchant's pledge of quality; it is visible proof that he has faith enough in his goods to back them with his name.—Stolen.
