Dr. and Mrs. Hill Return From Visit

Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Hill returned Wednesday evening from Childress county where, with Miss Novella Goodman, assistant professor of primary education, they visited schools of that county.

Dr. Hill spoke at many schools and gatherings during the two days, including the Childress County Teachers' Association, Childress high school, Rotary club, and Carey and Kirkland schools. At the high school the chairman of the program was Cagle Teague, W. T. alumnus who is vocational agriculture teacher and sponsor of the senior class. At the Rotary club the program chairman was Boone McClure, another W. T. ex-student.

A dinner given by a group of ex-students included the following among those present: Frank B. Hill, Myrabel Shaw, Faye Maxwell, Henry M. Baker, Chas. E. Damron, D. D. Fletcher, C. Boone McClure, Mrs. Hugh Donnelly, Irma Gentry and Cagle Teague. Supt. A. W. Adams of the Childress schools was a guest. Frank B. Hill and Henry Baker are ward school principals.

FATHER OF MISS CHARLTON DIED LAST NIGHT

F. T. Charlton, father of Miss Agnes Charlton who is professor of modern languages, died at eleven o'clock last night at a local hospital following an illness of several days. Mr. Charlton, retired Presbyterian minister, was stricken with pneumonia.

Announcement had not been made this morning concerning funeral arrangements.

Some people may be wondering why W. T. is participating in the mother-in-law celebration in Amarillo. If graduates are correctly called sons and daughters, W. T. is quite a mother-in-law herself.

Just how does the Pep Squad plan to entertain their crowd tomorrow night after all the basketball players tire out? Thirty-five cents is a rather high price for five or ten minutes of entertainment. But maybe we don't know the half of it.

Persons who are beginning to tire of this snow and slush should find comfort in the fact that no dust is going to slip from beneath it.

It's a funny thing about uniforms. None of the male students here got very excited over high school girls in a band uniform.

Aldersgate Mission Will Be Held Here

Dr. J. T. Carlyon of the Southern Methodist University faculty will be guest speaker and student counselor at an Aldersgate Christian mission for Methodist students here from Feb. 28 to March 1, Miss Ocie Sanders of the Bible department has announced.

The Aldersgate missions are units in the Methodist-wide Aldersgate Commemoration sponsored by the college of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church to celebrate the bi-centenary of the evangelical conversion of John Wesley, founder of the Methodist Church. This took place in 1738 at a religious meeting in Aldersgate Chapel in London.

Dr. Carlyon is a well-known figure in the field of religious education. He was graduated from Missouri Wesleyan College, and took higher academic degrees in theology from Boston University, Harvard, and the University of Chicago. He is a frequent contributor to the church press including the Methodist Review, Church School Journal, and the Christian Advocate.

The series of missions to students in Southern colleges are expected to reach approximately 80,000 young Methodists enrolled in church-related and tax supported institutions of learning. In addresses, forum discussions, and personal interviews an effort will be made to impress students with the importance of a personal experience of religion that will result in Christian social action on the campus and in the world.

The board of Christian education with headquarters in Nashville, Tenn. is directing the student participation in the Aldersgate Commemoration in co-operation with Bishop A. Frank Smith of Houston who is director of the movement.

Journalists Speak to Tumbleweed Staff

Beginning a series of informative talks, three members of the Prairie staff spoke to training school journalists last week.

Dids Meek, Prairie news editor, discussed the subject of "Simple News Stories" Monday. Ben Ezzell, business manager explained the various types of leads in news stories Wednesday afternoon. Jack Taylor spoke on the "Types of School News," Friday.

Olin E. Hinkle, Prairie sponsor, Glyndon Riley, sports editor, Mrs. Olin E. Hinkle, and Mary Kate Brotherton are scheduled to speak to the group who are taking a short course in journalism.

W. T. Calves Win Over Springlake

Paced by their lanky tip-off man, Captain Douglas Groom, the W. T. high school Calves eked out a slim 28-27 victory over a fighting quintet of Springlake Wolverines Tuesday in the Education Building Gym.

The Canyon cagers had the long end of a 14-11 count at the intermission, but the tall visitors found the basket in the last round to come up within one point of the Calves as the final gong sounded.

Captain Groom hit 7 field goals and 3 gratis tosses to steal the scoring show with 17 markers. Trull, Springlake forward, led the visitors' offensive attack with 8 points.

The subject posed for discussion is: "The anti-fascist struggle in Spain today, and its relation to the general welfare of the American citizen of tomorrow." This statement is not to be construed as restricting the student in the selection of a title for the work he submits.

Manuscripts should reach Ellen Kinkead, 3354 Clay Street, San Francisco, before July 4, 1938. Announcement of awards will be forthcoming on Armistice Day, 1938.

Rules regarding the contest and suggested readings are posted on the bulletin board of the publications office.

Phillips To Open Summer Camp

Frank R. Phillips, head of the department of agriculture, is outlining activities and plans for The Western Life Boys' Camp, which he will inaugurate next summer.

The camp is located on State Highway 65 in the Santa Fe National Forest area, three miles above the Forest Ranger station in Galinas Canyon. It is twenty miles northwest of Las Vegas, New Mexico.

Counselors for the camp have not been named yet, but Mr. Phillips has specified that these men must be college graduates and have done some outstanding work in their chosen field.

Mrs. Frank R. Phillips will be camp mother and dietitian.

Carroll Killbrev, former student and art teacher in the Pampa schools and former director of the Palo Duro Art Colony, will conduct art classes for those interested in art. He is also designing the cover for the catalog describing the camp which Mr. Phillips is preparing.

CLAUDE GIRL MAY GET TRIP TO WASHINGTON, D. C.

Janell Best, student in the Claude High School, has been certified as a candidate for the Ruth Bryan Owen Plan Pilgrimage to Washington, D. C., which is sponsored by the Nation Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Her name was drawn here Saturday by Dr. J. A. Hill from a list submitted by high schools of this section. She will receive a free trip to Washington, D. C.

Voters League Leaders Chosen

Bill Cone, chairman, and Joe McNeill, Claude Farley, and O. J. Richardson have been selected as campus leaders of the First Voters' League of Texas, according to Dr. Harris M. Cook, faculty member in touch with the state organization.

A letter from the state office gave Dr. Cook the responsibility of choosing student sponsors of the organization, whose purpose is to create a greater interest in voting among all first voters. Prof. S. H. Condron of the department of government helped Dr. Cook make his choices, which, they announce, are on a basis of campus leadership and knowledge of government.

The organization stresses its non-partisanship, is simply trying to work up a greater enthusiasm among student first voters to exercise their right of citizenship.

Joints Creak As Intellectuals Prepare For Tilt Against Big Business Men Tomorrow

By Fred Hart

Stiff joints creaked, long dormant muscles swelled, and sweat poured from usually dignified brows today as the Brain Trusters, the College faculty in everyday life, closed their final training season before meeting the Big Business men from Amarillo in a grudge cage battle in historic Burton gymnasium tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock.

Coach D. A. Shirley's charges showed exceptional form and were in high spirits despite the fact that Miss Florence McMurtry, who was slated to umpire the fracas, will be unable to participate because of a broken arm thus depriving the intellectuals of many favorable decisions. Trainer R. P. Jarrett, checked all aspirants for physical condition before they were permitted to take the floor for practice.

Several starting combinations were tried, but because of the severity of the class, all cagers are expected to have a chance at some time during the fray. Among the surprises of the practice session, was the superior play of office brothers, Olin (Flash) Hinkle and Fred (Frony) Fronabarger. Their endurance and accuracy will likely give the starting nod for the forward posts.

Grid Togs for Lassers
Preparing for the worst, long

Pi Omega presented a Founders' Day program Thursday morning in assembly, celebrating W. T.'s 28th birthday. Mogie Routh, Amarillo, read the history of the college, while campus organizations enacted short skits.

At the time of the establishment of the college twenty-eight years ago, there were only three such colleges in existence in the entire state of Texas. Those were Sam Houston State Teachers' College at Huntsville, North Texas State Teachers' College at Denton, and Southwest Texas State Teachers' College at San Marcos.

Dr. R. B. Cousins was named president of the college. The curriculum was limited, requiring only fifteen teachers.

Only four years later the entire college plant was wiped out by fire on March 25, 1914.

Classes in Shacks

From the summer session of 1914 until April 26, 1916, classes were conducted in shacks, frame structures consisting of long halls with rooms on either side. In spite of these unfavorable conditions the plant continued to grow, and the curriculum was enlarged from a one-year to a two-year college course. In 1916 the present Administration Building was constructed. Until recent years it was the largest building of its kind in Texas.

In 1917 when the United States entered the World War, and there was established here a military training camp. Randall Hall, which was then a private boarding house called Huntleigh Hall, was converted into barracks in which soldiers lived.

Hill Becomes President

Dr. J. A. Hill, who was head of the history department, was made president on September 1, 1918. During the first year of his presidency the plant was changed from a junior to a senior college, and in 1919 the first bachelor degrees were granted. This first graduating class was composed of Miss Tennessee Malone, who since 1920 has been college librarian, Esther W. Mayfield, and Edith Eakman.

Due to a growing demand for better housing facilities, Cousins Hall, which was the first dormitory of any kind built on a Texas State Teachers' College campus, was erected during the school year of 1919 and 1920. The hall was named (Continued on page 3)

Rattlers and Buffs Play Opener Tonight

Because of schedule changes, the West Texas Buffaloes open their series against the St. Mary's University Rattlers tonight in the Saints new gymnasium in San Antonio.

The Buffs were slated to play the first of the two-game series last night, but word of the change from Frank Bridges, Rattler coach, reached Coach Al Baggett before the team left Sunday. The last of the series will be played tomorrow night, and the Buffs will return home Thursday.

Leon Lassers, likely starting center, has announced intentions of wearing a football uniform. Coach Shirley has not selected uniforms for his guards and forwards.

The Brainster roster includes Jumpin' Joe Duffol; Methodical C. A. Murray; Bulldog Jones, infant psychologist; Microscopic Mar-

First Band Clinic Ends With Concert By 90-Piece Bands

To end a three-day band clinic held here last week-end, Victor Grabel, visiting conductor, led two ninety-piece bands in concert Saturday night closing the first annual W. T. Clinic. At the Saturday morning assembly period, the director of the Chicago Concert Band directed a 100-piece band.

The two bands, made up of members from fourteen Panhandle towns, were divided into two groups, the Class A schools forming the red band and the Class B schools forming the blue band.

Registration was held Thursday afternoon, and the initial practice was held that night. Practice sessions were held all day Friday and Saturday morning.

Presented In Assembly

Mr. Grabel directed the red band in two numbers in assembly, "Washington Post March" by Sousa, and "Beatrice and Benedict," an overture. Glen Smith from Hereford played a cornet solo. Following the concert, "The Place of Music in the School Curriculum" was discussed by Mr. Grabel. According to him, there are 25,000 bands in the American public schools which means that more than one million students are studying band.

He cited that Napoleon once remarked that music was not only the most liberal of the liberal arts, but it was also the finest of all fine arts.

Music Is Science

"Music is not only an art, it is a science," pointed out Mr. Grabel. Explaining that bands make for fine citizenship through the members' learning of co-ordination and co-operation principles, the noted conductor showed how the appreciation of music was a "source of rich enjoyment within the person lasting through life."

Saturday afternoon the clinic met in the auditorium for demonstration (Continued on page 3)

Johnston Will Read Paper at Meeting

Prof. C. Stuart Johnston, head of the department of archaeology and paleontology at West Texas State College, has been asked to read a paper at the July meeting of the American Society of Mammalogists.

Prof. Johnston will attend the meeting, which will be held at the University of California.

His paper will be on "The Middle Pliocene Mastodontidae of Texas." He is a prolific writer on Panhandle subjects and is achieving wide recognition for his work in this section. He and Mrs. Johnston, who also is a paleontologist, are supervising numerous WPA scientific projects in the Panhandle.

Finds resulting from the excavations are being displayed and stored at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society museum, which now has exhibits which are unsurpassed anywhere, relating to ancient life in this section.

ton, and Carbonated Mortimer Whitworth.

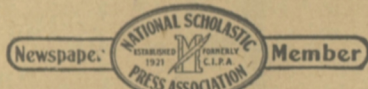

Friends, laughs, and countrymen, especially the wives of players, will form a cheering section under the capable direction of Rotund Pierle and Lawyer Condron. Prexy J. A. Hill will preside over one end of the court and News-hound Wes Izzard the other. Kernel E. Rasmus Tack was originally slated to assist in calling the game, but it snowed last week and he and the weatherman have gone on a toot. Trav Shaw will represent the locals and D. N. Bartlett will look after the visitors' interests in keeping the scorebook. Hellen Hickman of throat swabbing fame will watch the time, assisted by Mine Host Baity from Amarillo.

Green Is Commentator

Fulfilling their pledge to bring to the campus the best available material, the Pep Squad, sponsor of the event, has secured the service of a world famous commentator. Dean C. Green, who has kindly consented to refrain from conferring with Dean C. during the game, has been selected. Galloping Rex Gallop will attempt to control the static station.

Admission prices have been set at 35 cents for the public and 25 cents for students. Proceeds will go to the Pep Squad to pay for uniforms. The game will open at 7:30 o'clock.

PITY THE POOR LEPER?

A Louisville, Kentucky, woman who died recently left the bulk of her $7,000 estate to be donated to a leper colony, with this observation: "I often wondered why people don't help the most helpless—the lepers."

A worthy purpose, but one which overlooks the fact that leprosy is an isolated and comparatively rare disease, while another which is equally repellant and infinitely more dangerous is now sweeping the civilized world, striking one in every ten adults in the United States alone!

You would shudder in horror if a leper resided in your own neighborhood. Can you feel more at ease when one in ten of your neighbors may be a victim of Syphilis?

Leprosy is a rare disease. Syphilis is your own Public Enemy Number One!—B. E.

LITTLE MAN MAY TOOT BIG HORN

A miniature Napoleon, in the uniform of a well-known Panhandle high school band, paused briefly the other day before the water cooler in the lower hall of the administration building, his chin barely reaching the edge of the fountain, then turned disgustedly away as if realizing the utter futility of trying to get a drink from that source.

There's a lesson in that for the Panhandle band leaders. These youngsters, making up the junior bands of to-day, will be the band members of tomorrow . . . and if the present trend of early training is continued, the Panhandle may boast of the finest school bands in the nation.—B. E.

A REPLY TO "WINTER" BY BETH MIESSE

"Now all is desolate, bleak, and drear,
But through the drabness canst thou not hear,
And know in thy heart the voice of God,
Is giving thee lessons with snow clad sod?
Consider the fields how they lie in rest—
They are not dead for this is the test,
For all that is good to take its place
To watch and wait for Spring's first grace.
Consider the soil for it's not idling,
But lies ready, waiting the first chance to bring
Flowers and grass and food from God.
This is the lesson of yonder—"barren sod."

RHAPSODY

The flicker of a lamp in the misty darkness,
The last dim shaft of light from a waning moon;
The momentary flare of the dying torchlight,
And the last long note of a love song comes too soon!

The throaty scented sigh of a dying princess,
The maddening sparkle of a coveted sapphire;
The farewell tint of clouds in the fading sunset,
The glowing coals of yesterevening's fire.

Two lips, at first that knew not how to kiss;
Mine, mine were the lips that night that taught them how;
Mine were the arms that taught you love's surrender;
Mine the heart that made yours beat—but now—

The flicker of a lamp in the misty darkness
The last dim shaft of light from the waning moon;
The momentary flare of the dying torchlight,
And the last long note of a love song comes too soon—
(A wisp of smoke drifts after the dying torchlight)
And the last, long wall of a love song comes too soon!

—Houston Bright.

APOLOGY

If I should die tonight and go to God,
All empty handed as I am, I know
That He would be surprised and grieved
His clod Had grown no rose—and yet, I grow.
A perfect flower requires some time; could I,
Forever broken, stirred, and turned by cares
The world imposes, wrung forever dry
Of inspiration by my duties—dares
A soul to blame me?—blossom forth?
And yet
I could have broke those ties and stilled these hands
That bound and shattered. Yes, I could forget
The love that forged these bonds with silken strands
On silken strands, until the silk were steel.
But God would still condemn. So this thin moss
Is all I have to show—the broken seal,
That meant to shadow forth the rich emboss
Of dross-free gold and ruby for my rose
Has broken on the chaos of my life
As on disintegrated sand. The throes
Of inspiration died away in strife
With lessons to be learned, and dull books read.
O God, forgive these poor, dry blooms, forgive
The halved and broken arc, the ravell'd thread!
I shall not fail in lives I've yet to live.

—H. B.

TONIGHT

Tonight I gazed in clear, red wine.
First I saw gaiety and oblivion;
I laughed high and shell-like.
The hollow laughter died on my lips.
I saw a vision I thought was
Under lock and key.
It was a summer's romance—
Sweet young love—
Stolen kisses—
Sad goodnights—beautiful tomorrow—
Joyous secrets of trivial nothings
Made sacred by the sharing.
Then—
I saw myself, and despised the image.
I, who trampled your fragile
Soul in unholy glee.

WHERE TO GO AND WHAT TO DO

By Jack Taylor

Proving that a modest theatre can secure first class movies as early as the large ones do, the Olympic has booked for the coming week four shows rating the approval of the most exacting critics.

When you get the most popular of all young singers, one who just can't keep that ever-loving "swing" out of her system, and support her with such screen and stage headliners as ALLAN JONES and FANNIE BRICE, unmistakably you have something there. The youngster is that sweet, petite, JUDY GARLAND. She sings lovelier than ever and her acting is becoming less amateurish with each performance. Miss BRICE is just a little bit of a scream, when she dons the role of "BABY SNOOKS." Swing into the Olympic for a two-bit chunk of Uncle Sam's best legal tender, grab a seat close front, and "swing" with JUDY. Tonight only!

1938'S FIRST BIG SHOW:

WELLS FARGO, starring JOEL MCCREA, BOB BURNS, and FRANCES DEE. A million dollar production of historical nature with wit, romance and tragedy combined in a satisfying manner. You have probably heard much favorable comment about this production, and it has all been true to the last detail. DO NOT MISS this show even at a sacrifice in the financial department. WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY.

M. C. my faithless informant, just ran in and screamed at the top of her lungs that that old dog is here again. I inquire as to what dog, and she says Bulldog. Then I know what's up. Yes, pathetically enough BULLDOG DRUMMOND is back once more. He always gets a good panning, but it is justified. To aid poor M. C. I first administered an alka seltzer and a kiss on the cheek which relieved her slightly. I then told her she did not have to see the film. Seriously though, save your dime. Do not see this sad sad movie.

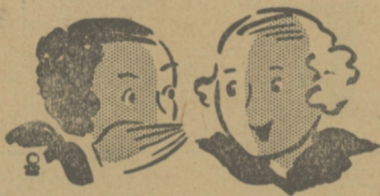

A triple-threat of stars that are hard to beat, take leading roles in "Man Proof" slated for Saturday preview, Sunday and Monday. MYRNA LOY, FRANCHOT TONE, and ROSALIND RUSSELL are starred. They are madly in love with someone, but many difficulties arise before they realize who it is. Finally winding up with a divorce in one love affair and a marriage in another. Mirth and romance are the prime elements of this whole mad affair. It is entertainingly different.

JACK TAYLOR, ace lecturer explorer and connoisseur of fine liquors (aside from the point), was asked to talk to the W. T. H. S. Press Club. A few minutes before time for said lecture, MR. TAYLOR went to the room to read over his notes before time. Six or seven people awaited his arrival.

"Is this the bunch I am supposed to talk to?" interrogated TAYLOR of movie column fame.

"Yessir," they said in unison. Immediately he asked them to get pencils and paper, and take what few suggestions he had to offer. They did and he did. Taylor asked for a back issue of the Tumbleweed. After glancing over the mast-head, he saw that the editor was Mary Kathryn Sharp.

Is this right, or just a typographical error?" he asked Branch Archer, who had said that he was editor.

"Typographical error, I'm plenty sore, too," Archer assured him. The assembled group rose, the spokesman assured Taylor that the Press Club of the Demonstration school would be in in a few minutes. Taylor has his speech memorized from delivering it so much.

Education Building, 1928

With the increase of influence of the college, the need for better teacher training was realized, and in 1928 the Education Building was built. This building offers ideal conditions for the physical needs of a school of secondary education.

By 1933 the interest in the historical development of West Texas culminated in the establishment of the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum. This museum is now one of the most outstanding in the entire Southwest.

Stafford Building in 1936

Stafford Hall, the first boys' dormitory on a Texas State Teachers' college campus, was opened early in 1936. It was named for B. A. Stafford, who was head of the department of Latin from 1910 until 1915.

Other developments of the college plant have been the changing of the landscape in front of the campus in order to have more parking space, the incorporation of the co-operative homes, El Pueblo cottages, Cactus Lodge, and Mesquite Lodge, the building addition to Cousins Hall, and the Phebe K. Warner, Home Economics practice house.

Organizations who took part in the program were the I. R. C., Science club, Pi Omega, T. Club, Spanish Club, Press Club, Stafford Hall, Home Economics Club, and the music department.

In conclusion, the assembled group sang "Alma Mater."

WHAT M. C. COBEN SAID TO HAROLD SNEAD, CHIEF PILOT OF TWA

"Do you find Camels really different from other cigarettes?"

Harold Snead gives his own answer—"Camels agree with me!" he says. And millions of other smokers agree with Pilot Snead, making Camels the largest-selling cigarette in America

ON HIS SECOND MILLION MILES! Snead has been flying since the "night mail" days. He knows what he's talking about when he says: "You've got to take care of yourself in this line of work. Ragged nerves are out. I smoke—all I want. Camels don't get on my nerves."

A FEW of the instruments that Pilot Snead has to watch. After a trip, Hal likes a Camel. "When I feel tired, I smoke a Camel," he says. "Yes, I get a 'lift' with a Camel. You may think I am enthusiastic about them. I am! All in all, here is a cigarette that agrees with me!"

"Some people say all cigarettes are alike, Mr. Snead... Can Camels really be so different?"

"There's a big difference, sir. I know most of the American fliers with records of several thousand hours in the air. The majority are steady smokers and prefer Camels, as I do. Experience has taught them that Camel is a really different cigarette!"

AFTER THE BIG TWA SKYSLEEPER, above, was set down in Newark Airport, M. C. Coben was chatting with Hal Snead, chief pilot of the Eastern region, and Isabella Judkins, air hostess. Hal pulled out his Camels and offered them around. And so they got to talking cigarettes!

Bufs Close Season With 2-Game Series

Butler and Walling Play Last Time For Local Fans

In terminating their regular basketball schedule, the undefeated home record of the West Texas State Buffaloes will be challenged by the stall-crazed Hardin-Simmons Cowboys of Abilene in Burton gymnasium Monday and Tuesday nights.

On their home premises this year, the Bisons have piled up thirteen victories. Also, they have a thirteen consecutive win record at present, and today and tomorrow they are expected to stretch this streak to fifteen.

Cowboys Beat Bufs Last Year

When the Hardin-Simmons Cowboys came to town last year they spoiled a two-year no-defeat record on Burton Gymnasium. By disposing of the Puffers in two games by scores of 26-21 each night, the Buffaloes will be favorites to keep their slate untarnished.

The Cowboys' offense features a peculiar brand of basketball, known popularly as the "Stall." This type of play keeps the score down, although it hasn't been employed so successfully this year as in the past three years. Two seasons ago, the Kimbrough men maintained possession of the ball in one game more than fifteen minutes without the opponent touching it.

Two Say "Farewell"

Two Buffalo seniors, Captain Conway Butler and Craig Walling, will be performing before local fans for the last time. Both are three year lettermen. Butler has been a regular on the team for three years running, and Walling has received the starting nod pretty consistently for the past two seasons.

The hand clinic was so downright interesting that campus wags forgot to "rag" the saxophone section.

Bufs Down Aggies; Kendrick Stars In Last Game Cancelled

West Texas State's Buffaloes extended their winning streak to 13 straight Thursday night when they thumped Panhandle A. & M.'s hardy Aggies 39-35.

The Aggies, old rivals of the Bufs, put up their usual tough scrap and out-paced the Buffs through most of the first half. With only two minutes of the game remaining, the Aggies climbed within three points of deadlocking the score, but the Buffs put a damper on further scoring by brilliant defensive play.

Bufalo Captain, Conway Butler, led the scoring with 13 points. He was trailed by Galloway, Aggie forward, with 12 marks. Shackelford, West Texas center, and Stephenson, forward, tied with 11 points each.

A second and concluding game was scheduled for Friday night, but Coach Al Baggett, dissatisfied with arrangements, cancelled the second game. He announced that athletic relations would be severed with the Oklahoma school until such time as he could secure assurance of more satisfactory playing conditions.

Moore's Plasters Farmers 21-20 In Major Upset of Year

Intramural tournament play last week was cut short by the District 1 basketball tournament. Play resumed its even keel being featured by one upset. Moore's Co-op plastered the upset on the books when they staved off a strong T-Anchor club bid in the last few minutes to emerge with a hard 21-20 victory.

Deluging Norton Curry's Currycombs under a barrage of goals, the Phillips' Polecats demonstrated a world of strength in their 52-15 win. The Polecats met a crucial test last night when they tackled the "on again, off again" Epsilon Beta team. Results of this game were not available at press time.

As was expected the Buffalo T Club made it their sixth in a row at the expense of the Dribbling Dromedaries 15-9. Another stopless team, Jennings' Mules played rings around the Alpha Sigs 24-8.

Team	won	lost	pct.

Students should understand part of the tangled international situation readily—by recalling that they couldn't solve the problem of getting along with tough neighborhood youngsters by ignoring them, as parents suggested.

Kendrick Stars In Buff 54-47 Win Over Loboes

Donald Kendrick, six feet two inch substitute forward, fired five baskets in the final four minutes to pull the game out of the fire and give his fellow West Texas State Buffaloes a 54-47 win over the Sul Ross Loboes in Burton Gymnasium Tuesday night.

Before Kendrick hit his scoring stride, the Bisons commanded a close 43-40 advantage. The visiting Loboes showed every indication of overtaking the sluggish locals, and Kendrick's accurate tosses struck a note that couldn't deny the Buffs of their twentieth win of the year and the second in a row over the Big Benders.

Scoring on both sides was evenly divided, but Raymond Shackelford managed to count 11 times before he was chased from the game. Stephenson, Kendrick, and Morris, Lobo tip-off man, tied for the second rate honors with 10 points each.

The lead changed hands several times in the opening ten minutes of the game when the Loboes relied on their long range firing to good advantage. The Buffs knotted the count at 13-13 five minutes before the rest period. By half-time they paced the field 27-15.

In the second chapter, the visitors gradually approached their taller customers who apparently suffered from the loss of spark-plug Shackelford. A little later Walling also left the game via the foul route.

Somehow this spring semester seems longer than the fall, but maybe it's because nobody is reminding us that it is so many days until commencement. (Do your grade point shopping early.)

Percy: The sort of husband Elsie wants is a strong, forceful, silent man—a ruler, in fact.

Jimmy: That's right—somebody to show her where to draw the line.
