Educators Convene On WT Campus

Noted Speakers Form Program

Noted educators have gathered on the campus for the education conference in honor of Dr. J. A. Hill which is now in progress.

The conference was planned by member of the Texas State Teachers College Board of Regents and presidents of other state teachers colleges to pay tribute to Dr. Hill, who is retiring after 38 years of service to WT.

Prominent men in the field of education were listed on the program for the conference. Teachers and other persons in the educational world, as well as the general public, are in attendance at the conference.

The conference was opened Sunday night with a sermon by Regent Melvin C. Eldson, D. D., First Baptist Church, Austin, in Canyon's First Baptist Church.

Regents Meeting

The Regents met yesterday morning, the first time in history that group has held a regular meeting in Canyon.

The conference started officially yesterday morning in the Education Building Auditorium when Dr. Charles V. Dunham, Dean of Men at the University of Texas, made the principal address "Problems of Administration in the Co-ordinating of School-Community Counseling Facilities."

Yesterday afternoon, at the first general session of the conference, the conference guests were welcomed by Dr. James P. Cornette, President-Elect of West Texas State College. Dr. G. W. Diemer, Warrensburg, Missouri, Past President of the American Association of Teachers Colleges, made an address, "Providing Teachers for the Children of the Nation," and Dr. A. L. Crabb, Professor of Higher Education at George Peabody College for Teachers, made an address on "How Lovely is the Texas Panhandle."

Following the conference session, a conducted tour of the West Texas State College plant was made.

Testimonial Dinner

A testimonial dinner honoring Dr. Hill was held last night at the College Cafeteria. William L. Kerr, President of the Board of Regents of Texas State Teachers Colleges, was chairman of the program for the dinner.

Other regents were introduced. They are: Mrs. J. K. Beretta, San Antonio, chairman of the Local Committee for West Texas State College; V. A. Collins, Livingston; Dr. Melvin C. Eldson, Austin; Newton Harrell, Claude, vice-president of the Board; S. A. Kerr, Jr., Jacksonville; Dr. Hubert L. Mills, Houston; R. L. Thomas, Dallas; and Walter F. Woodul, Houston.

Following the introduction of past regents of Texas State Teachers Colleges, testimonial speeches to Dr. Hill were made by: V. A. Collins, past president of the Board of Regents, in behalf of the Board of Regents; Dr. W. J. McConnell, President of North Texas State College in Denton, in behalf of the presidents of other Texas State Teachers Colleges; Clyde W. Warwick, publisher of the Canyon News, in behalf of Canyon and Randall county; Charles M. Rogers, Superintendent of Schools in Amarillo, in behalf of the public schools of Northwest Texas; Grady Hazlewood, state senator from Amarillo, in behalf of the ex-students of WT; Henry W. Stilwell, superintendent of schools in Texarkana, in behalf of the Texas State Teachers Association; Floyd Studer, Director of the Departments of Archaeology and Paleontology, in behalf of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society; Dr. H. W. Morelock, president emeritus of Sul Ross State College in Alpine, in behalf of the first faculty of WT; and Dean D. A. Shirley, West Texas State, in behalf of the present faculty.

Breakfast for Exes

This morning a breakfast for WT ex-students was to be held in the Main Dining Room of the College Cafeteria. At the same time Ex-students of East Texas State College were to have convened in the Blue Room of the cafeteria.

The conference for this morning has scheduled an address by Dr. Lawrence D. Haskew, Dean of the College of Education, University of Texas, on "Five Crucial Problems in Teacher Education." Also on the program is a panel discussion on "Crucial Problems in Teacher Education" by Dr. A. L. Crabb, President G. W. Diemer, Dean L. D. Haskew, and Texas State Teachers College Presidents Jame G. Gee, Richard Hawkins and Harmon Lowman.

This afternoon at one o'clock a picnic luncheon sponsored by WT faculty members for special guests will be held at Coronado Lodge, Palo Duro Canyon.

Closing event of the conference is a musical program by the Deep River Singers, nationally known Negro quartet, in the Administration Building Auditorium tonight at 8:15.

On the campus for the Education Conference to honor Dr. Joseph Abner Hill, retiring President of West Texas State College, are the Presidents of the six other Texas State Teachers Colleges.

Dr. Harmon Lowman is the president of Sam Houston State Teachers College. He has been president since 1942.

Dr. Lowman has an A.B. from Southwest Texas State Teachers College. He received his A.M. at the University of Texas, and was awarded a Ph.D. from the University of Chicago. He has taught in rural schools in Texas. He has been director of the Demonstration School, Stephen F. Austin State Teachers College; superintendent of the Livingston Schools; superintendent of the Goose Creek Schools and president of Lee Junior College; and executive secretary of Southern Methodist University.

Dr. Lowman is a member of the Texas State Teachers Association, the N.E.A., Phi Delta Kappa, and Kappa Delta Phi. He is the author of "History of Teacher Training in the Gulf States."

The president of Stephen F. Austin State Teachers College, Dr. Paul L. Boynton, assumed his administrative duties at the school in September, 1942.

Dr. Boynton attended high school at Belton, Texas, and attended Rice Institute and Texas Christian University. He received his B.A. degree at Sam Houston State Teachers College. Dr. Boynton was awarded both the M. A. and Ph.D. degrees by Peabody College of Nashville, Tennessee.

His teaching career began in Lufkin High School in 1920. He also taught at Wichita Falls Junior High School and at Appalachian State Teachers College in North Carolina. He was at the University of Kentucky for seven years and was head of the Psychology Department at Peabody College for twelve years.

Dr. Boynton is the author, or joint author of five books in the field of Psychology and has written numerous articles for professional publications. He is Vice-President and Director of Nacogdoches Chamber of Commerce, and has served as Director-at-large of East Texas Chamber of Commerce. He is a member of the Texas State Teachers Association and the American Association of School Administrators.

Dr. John G. Flowers, president of Southwest Texas State Teachers College, received his A.B. degree from East Texas State Teachers College. His A.M. and Ph.D. degrees are from Columbia University.

Dr. Flowers has been a high school principal, supervising principal of a village school, educational director in army camps during the World War, and elementary school principal. He served as Director of Training and Professor of Secondary Education at East Texas State Teachers College and as Director of Integration and Professor of Education at the State Teachers College, Monticello. President Hill's Last Official Speech to Students of WT

THE WORLD WE LIVE IN
An Address before the college assembly
Thursday, May 13, 1948
by
J. A. Hill, President,
West Texas State College
Canyon, Texas

Market Control

Another prime factor that contributes to the chaos of the world we live in is international rivalry for the control of world markets. Here, too, is an age-long conflict that has left a bloody trail through the pages of history. Like all other factors here mentioned this rivalry has been greatly sharpened in the last few years by scientific invention. The present situations in Palestine and the Near East, in the Southwest Pacific, and in parts of Africa illustrate the basic conflicts in the commercial competition of nations.

Perhaps the greatest cause of the present world tumult is the almost universal fear arising out of an impending conflict in political ideologies. These ideologies are so well known that no discussion of them is needed here. Most people recognize the fact that the world is divided into two opposing ideological camps—one represented by a self-perpetuating oligarchic communism exercising autocratic power and the other embodying the idea that all men are created equal and that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed. This conflict, too, is as old as organized society and has been a basic issue, in one form or another, in every decisive battle of the world. This constitutes one of the facts that seem to indicate the inevitability of war and the impossibility of permanent peace.

Standards of Living

This danger will persist, in my judgement, until another world-wide condition is alleviated. I now refer to the unequal level of the standards of living in different parts of the world, and with it the unequal opportunity for people to realize their inborn aspiration for self-development. This is such a vast problem I cannot undertake to discuss it here, but it is perfectly evident, for example, that the millions of Indonesians will not forever be content to pay tribute to the smaller mother country. Holland, and thus condemn themselves to a low standard of living, and defeat the aspirations of their people for achieving the good life. India, too, has repeatedly demonstrated her determination to enjoy greater freedom and develop more fully both her natural and her human resources. With all her vaunted power on land and on sea for hundreds of years Great Britain has been compelled to modify or abandon her policy of exploitation of subject peoples and to recognize the sacredness of human personality regardless of race, religion, sex, or other circumstance. The Book says God created man in His own image. Note there is no qualifying adjective before the word man. Neither the word white, nor black, nor red, nor yellow, nor brown is here used. Our own Declaration of Independence, which, unfortunately some men in high places are belittling, asserts that it is self-evident that all men are created equal, meaning that all men are by nature equal in their right to life, liberty and pursuit of happiness. If this or any other country expects to maintain its world leadership through a policy of exploitation of helpless people and the denial of human rights, she is riding for a fall. The United Nations is now at work on an international declaration of the rights of man—one that will carry for the men of all races, colors, and creeds the same high ideals of individual liberty as those contained in our own Declaration of Independence. If and when this shall be done, there will be a gradual but appreciable rise in the standards of living of a good two-thirds of the population of the earth, and a long step will have been taken toward permanent world peace.

Our Nation's Part

and confusion is the fact that the only nation that is capable of leading us out of the wilderness is itself suffering from indecision, conflicting ideologies, political, social and economic injustices, moral lag, and a general lack of information and conviction as to the real nature of its own way of life. I refer, of course, to the United States of America. It is a grievous fact that we Americans probably are the most lawless people in the world. Our love for individual sovereignty has been captured by greed and covetousness, with the result that violation of law runs riot, creating a nation-wide epidemic of crime and disrespect for legally constituted authority. Theft and robbery and intemperance and immorality and dishonest business practices have become so common as to constitute in the minds of some supposedly good people a justification for evil doing. Everybody else is doing it, why shouldn't I? The net result of all this is near chaos here at home. This condition plays directly into the hands of those whose system thrives on discord, dissatisfaction, hate, and revolution. Before discharging our responsibility for world leadership we must restore decency and order at home. In any democratic country, obedience to the will of the majority as expressed in public law is as essential for the preservation of human rights as is individual liberty itself. Obedience to legally constituted authority is a better safeguard for freedom than is the absence of regimentation.

I have thus far tried broadly to outline the unhappy conditions that now confront the world we live in. Next I wish to point out to you that your country and mine carries major responsibility for meeting this world crisis. I have never seen it denied that Russia's foreign policy seeks to keep the outside world in turmoil. Her domestic policy anaesthetizes the spirit of liberty, indoctrinates her youth with Communism, and magnifies her own blessings and power as compared with other nations. If order should be restored to the earth, Russian Communism would be ruined. If it is not restored, at least in considerable measure, the United States will be ruined, for it would be impossible for her to cope with a world-wide communistic state. If our country, the greatest exponent of human freedom and the rights of man that the world has ever known, goes down, then the clock of destiny is again turned back and a new Dark Age is in the offing. This is not an inconceivable eventuality. It could happen here. It will happen here unless the following things are done with dispatch:

1. In this matter of human rights we must make our practice conform with our preaching. We must see to it that the road to economic liberty is kept open to all alike; that those who control organized capital and organized labor shall find a common policy that is consistent with the welfare of the great masses they both serve; that public education shall be kept public and at the same time kept free from the influence of selfish interests and military controls; that our national debt shall be progressively reduced through a radical reduction in governmental expenditures; that Puritan morality and functional religion, being basic elements in a republic, shall be cherished by every good citizen as a patriotic duty; and that our people shall return to the doctrine that honesty is the best policy and there is no legitimate substitute in our economy for hard work, self denial, and simple living.

2. Disaster will happen here unless we can develop a foreign policy consistent with humanitarian principles and the equal right of all men to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. The Golden Rule is as essential in international affairs as in personal religion. Here, as in all other human affairs, natural law is higher than man-made law.

3. Disaster will happen here unless we in America can ourselves come to understand the real meaning and importance of the principles that lie at the base of our government and be willing as individuals to accept and apply its implications. Presently we are very illiterate with respect to the system or democratic organization of which we are the chief exponent in the world and upon whose underlying principles world organization must be built if we are ever to have permanent world peace. Let no American imagine that this or any other nation can long survive an habitual violation by its citizens of the Christian idealism from which free governments derive their peculiar genius. The moral and spiritual redemption of the American people is the first essential step toward the establishment even to the preservation of America herself.

Your Responsibility

This hastily and imperfectly sketched picture of our world is given you that it may help you to know your own place and responsibility in the all-important matter of citizenship in a unified, democratic, peaceful, and happy civilization. It may be you don't want such responsibility. Very well! Then prepare for war and more war, the hell of which has only been suggested by the catastrophe which ended three years ago. If we deliberately choose World War III in preference to assuming the responsibilities that world peace makes mandatory, then we face the practical certainty that your country and mine soon will be carried to the graveyard of nations, and the sacredness of human personality and the rights of man will have been put into a tail-spin for another indefinite period. History will grimly record (if anyone is left to write it) that Americans were unequal to the hour. Destiny gave them the supreme opportunity of the ages, but they didn't have what it took; and the only message that posterity will receive from this human debacle will be: "Stranger, go tell the men of the future that we Americans lie here in obedience to the lusts of our own flesh and the degeneration of our countrymen."

OUR PRAYER . . .

O God! Our God! God of our Fathers and God of our children's children to the last generation! We bow our heads in shame that we are so incapable of conforming to Thy will. We confess with humility our ignorance, our stupidity, our selfishness, our intemperance, our misplaced understanding of values, our littleness and narrowness and prejudice, our lack of vision and our worship of many false gods. We acknowledge with gratitude Thy goodness to us and our country. — We are grateful for the measure of freedom that has come to our people and for the opportunities that are ours individually and collectively. Help us, our Father, to earn even yet greater liberties to the end that we may better lead a sick and hungry and naked and shelterless and stumbling world into the light and happiness that comes through conscious fellowship with Thee. Give us, we pray, intelligence enough to read the price tag on liberty; and give us character enough to pay that price in cash. Help us to know that the ungodly "isms" in the individual lives of our people endanger both our national safety and the peace of the world. Grant that our country may so gird herself with virtue and intelligence and understanding as to enable her to fill nobly the place of world leadership to which Thou hast called her. Let the stern law of duty command every American. Let all the nations of the earth seek the light of liberty and the leadership of Thy love, to the end that peace and happiness may inhabit every heart and Thy name be glorified even in the remotest parts of the world. And may West Texas State continue to be a worthy instrument in the fulfillment of Thy purpose. Amen!

Grady Hazlewood
State Senator from Amarillo and a noted ex-student of West Texas State College

Grady Hazlewood received a law degree from the University of Texas after he had been graduated at West Texas State College. He operates a ranch between Canyon and Amarillo in between the jobs of being state senator and practicing law in Amarillo. He represented the ex-students of WT at the testimonial dinner for Dr. Hill.

New Method for Vets' Accounts

A change has been made in records at the college bookstore so that veterans now will have a booklet in which they keep a running account of all expenditures.

It will be necessary, however, for them to keep their own booklet in order to make purchases on their veteran's accounts.

Hill Family Here For Conference

The Educational Conference now being held in honor of Dr. J. A. Hill is the occasion for a reunion of Dr. Hill's family.

J. Davis Hill, son of Dr. Hill and superintendent of schools at Galveston, is here with his wife, an ex-student of WT, Faye Jordan, and their two daughters, Jo Ann, 19 years old, and Carole Jane, 13 years old. Davis holds B.S. and M.A. degrees from West Texas State. He has two years of study at the University of Texas. He formerly taught in Amarillo, White Deer, and Marshall. He is past president of the Marshall Rotary Club and a prominent leader in the T.S.T.A.

Joseph Francis Hill, another son, is also here. He is Engineer with Douglass Aircraft Company, Santa Monica, California, and has been with that company since 1938 when he graduated from the University of Texas with a degree in Engineering. His wife is the former Wilma Jo Jones of Hereford, and they have two children, Joseph Andrew, 8, and Sue Ann, 5. Joe was the youngest member of the second Byrd Expedition to the South Pole in 1933-35 and was Admiral Byrd's orderly. He drove a tractor 900 miles on ice and was in the Byrd rescue party. With his mother, he is co-author of the book, "In Little America With Byrd," published by Ginn and Company.

Marion Ethel, the only daughter of the Hill family, is a graduate of West Texas State and attended the University of Texas. She is married to Lemore Hill of Amarillo, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hill of 1900 Harrison. Lemore is a graduate of Texas Christian University and is Chief Accountant of the Huber Corporation at Borger. He and Marion have two sons, John Joseph, aged 8 and Davis, aged 4. These two hustling young Texans keep Marion pretty busy, but she finds time for active participation in the religious and social life of Borger.

Mrs. Ernest McCauley of Moody, Texas, wife of Dr. E. R. McCauley, is a sister of J. A. Hill. She came to Canyon with her daughter, Mrs. Juanita McCauley Teague of Longview.

Other sisters attending the conference are Mrs. Alice Martin and Miss Mary Hill of Waco. All three of these sisters received their high school diplomas from their brother when he was principal of Jefferson Academy of Moody, Texas. The last named also received her college degree from J. A. Hill, having graduated at West Texas State in 1930. For several years she was Assistant Librarian at West Texas State and later at Sul Ross State College in Alpine, Texas. Currently, she owns and operates a bookstore in Waco.

Dr. Hill has two other sisters who could not attend these exercises. Two brothers, W. F. Hill, a retired druggist and banker of Eddy, Texas, and E. I. Hill, editor of the Lynn County News at Tahoka, also were unable to be present.

Watching Spectators More Fun Than Watching Game

By Mary Jim Vincent

Anyone who ever attends any kind of sports event is familiar with the two kinds of men who call themselves sports enthusiasts. The first we commonly know as the participant, and the second is usually referred to as the spectator.

We are familiar with the participant. He is easiest identified by his athletic build and his terrific tan. Since most of the girls on this campus can probably identify an athlete when they see one, there is little need to go into a long description.

Therefore, we shall dwell on the spectator.

The first type of spectator to mention after the participant would of course be the participant-turned-spectator. Looking out of place in the bleachers, the athlete-turned-spectator needs two seats because of the room his massive shoulders take. His entire attention is on the court or playing field. He says little, and seems to be oblivious of what is going on along the sidelines. Perhaps he is content in comparing the prowess of the participants with his own. Who knows?

Our next type of spectator we call the "picnicker". He is usually the late arrival with the seat at the other end of the row. As he steps on your feet and blocks your view on his way to his seat, you will notice how he is equipped for the game. He has a program under one arm, a hot dog in one hand and a bottle of pop in the other. In one of his hip pockets is a bag of peanuts, and in the other a box of popcorn. If you will look down in his direction once he has arrived at his seat, you can see that between bites and gulps he reads his program. He occasionally, though rarely, looks into the field of action. He is usually looking for a man from which to buy another hot dog.

The "sportscaster" is found at almost any sort of athletic event. He has some sort of Bill Stern complex and thinks he must broadcast what is happening to whomever is sitting next to him. Should that person be unwilling to listen, it's too bad, because the "sportscaster" is always willing to talk. No fact or figure relating to past records is unfamiliar to him, although some-

Bill Hutchinson Kept Busy at Colorado State

In a letter to W. A. Moore, director of dramatics at WT, Bill Hutchinson reports that he is liking his work at the Little Theatre of the Rockies.

Bill reports that he is being kept busy this summer. He says, "I thought I had a tough schedule at WT, but, boy, I never had anything like this. We work in the mornings from ten to twelve. After a quick lunch, so I'll have time for a little study, I report back at 1:30 and work till 3:45 in the afternoon. After this I usually try to go for a swim or do something else for a little relaxation, but I have to report back at seven. So far it has been past 11:00 when we quit. But I'm enjoying it as it's a wonderful group with which to work."

Bill first role is in "Boy Meets Girl." He plays a songwriter and will sing one of his original compositions.

He also will play in George Bernard Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion."

Bill would like to hear from his friends at WT. His address is:

Museum Receives Gun Collection

The O. T. Nicholson gun collection, regarded by curators as one of the finest of its kind in the United States, arrived at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum last week.

Given to the museum by O. T. Nicholson, Shamrock banker, the collection contains 323 guns and many other weapons. Almost every model and make from the earliest guns to the present models are represented. Every gun in the collection not only represents a certain model and make of gun, but every gun has an interesting history.

Dr. L. F. Sheffy, of the history department, wrote in the Panhandle-Plains Historical Review "The Nicholson gun collection . . . is one of the finest of its kind in the United States . . . Every known system of firing is represented in this collection—the match lock, the wheel lock, the flint lock, which is fired from a tripod, and all types and models from the one-shooter to the six-shooter."

All models of the Colt's six-shooter except the Walker model are in the collection. There are 25 spur-trigger pocket guns, all of different manufacture, and several Wells Fargo Colt guns, and many rifles and shotguns in the collection.

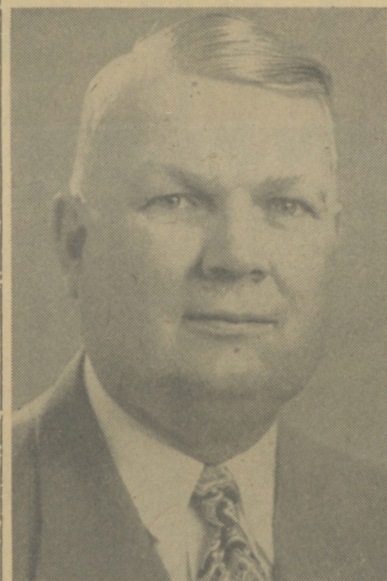

Many of the guns are highly carved and inlaid with precious metals. Among the rarest and most unusual of the cartridge guns in this collection is the Smith and Wesson presentation engraved gun. It is silver plated with gold cylinder, gold medallions, and pearl handles.

Among the many freaks of the collection are the Chicago gangsters' "knuckle Duster," the palm pistol or revolver. The oldest gun in the Nicholson collection is a match-lock, supposedly about 400 years old. It was painted by the East Indian Temple priests. A section of the match is used to fire the gun.

A cross-bow, mace, and battle ax dating back to the Battle of Creecy, 1346, before the time of gunpowder, are also in the collection along with many other weapons such as swords, knives, bolos, Irish Shillalahs, a Japanese Samurai short sword, and a Chinese sword cane.

This collection will be placed on display as soon as space is available.

Tolliver Returns From Missouri

Crannell Tolliver, head of the speech department, returned a week ago Saturday evening from Columbia, Missouri, where he attended a speech conference at the University of Missouri.

The conference was directed by Dr. Loren D. Reid, executive secretary of the Speech Association of America. Dr. Lester Thomsen, associate professor of public speaking at the College of the City of New York, was the speaker.

While in Columbia, Mr. Tolliver visited Stephens College, inspecting broadcasting and recording equipment and buildings.

Mr. Tolliver had planned a trip to the University of Iowa to study the equipment there, but was unable to go because of the floods.

Mr. Tolliver made a special study of methods used in the speech clinic in the University of Missouri.

He served as head of the Department of Agriculture at the University of Florida, and as Director of Athletics at Clemson College. He returned to Sam Houston as professor of vocational and educational guidance. In 1940-41 he served as acting president of Sam Houston State during an illness of the late Dr. Charles N. Shaver.

Dr. W. J. McConnell, the president of North Texas State College, joined the faculty of that school in 1916 as associate professor of mathematics and became professor and director of economics at the college in 1919. He was named dean of the college in 1923 and became president in 1934.

Dr. McConnell has a B.A. and an M.A. from the University of Denver, and a Ph.D. from Columbia.

He was elected president of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in July, 1945. He has served as president of the Texas Association of Colleges, and as a member of the executive council of the American Association of Teachers Colleges. He is a member of the State Teachers College Association, National Educational Association and Texas Academy of Science; was elected fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; and was a member of the executive board of the American Association of Teachers Colleges in St. Louis and served as a board member for a five-year period. He was invited to become sponsor of the Institute of Public Affairs, which is sponsored by the Arnold Foundation and Carnegie Endowment; and a member of the sponsoring committee for World Congress in Education for Democracy in New York City in 1940.

Dr. McConnell was a delegate to the World Congress on Education for Democracy in 1939 and was later chosen as one of the ten teachers college presidents in the country to attend a meeting in Chicago with the Association of American Universities' committee on classification of universities and colleges for discussion of the standards of the teachers colleges in relation to standards of the member institutions of the association. He has served as a member of the Commission on Institutions of Higher Education of the Southern Association; executive committee of this association; and a member of the executive committee of the American Association of Teachers Colleges.

Home Economics Department Maintains Day Nursery School

During this six weeks term the home Economics Department is maintaining a nursery school in order that students taking the child development course may have some practical experience in working with children.

The nursery school is housed in the northeast end of the English Building and consists of a playroom, a kitchenette, a washroom, and a large play yard.

In addition to giving college students experience the nursery school also provides the children, who range in age from two to five years, many valuable experiences. The opportunity for the children to learn to adjust socially to a group under the guidance of trained personnel is one of the major contributions of the school although emphasis is also given to stimulating intellectual, physical and emotional developments of the child.

The nursery school program begins at 9:00 a.m. with health inspection of the children by Mrs. Long, the college nurse. After the brief inspection there is a period of supervised play out of doors; a midmorning lunch, a story time, a music group, and a period for creative finger paints, scissors, paste, crayolas, and blocks are used. The program is rounded out with a short rest before the noon meal is served. By 12:30 the children are through with their meal and are ready to leave for the day. Children enrolled in the nursery school are: Suzanne Kieselbach, Robert & Ernest Gragg, Richard Godfrey, Steve Flanagan, Davis Price, Mary Patricia Haley, Kathleen Hinger, Sherry Ann and Charles Halbert, Martha Connally, Edward Lee Bagot, Ralph Calderan, and Jane Jarrett.

Miss Helen Craig is in charge of the nursery school. She is assisted by twelve child development students and Marilyn Condon.

Student Here in 1911 Back at WT

Mrs. Zella Noble, student number 380, has returned to WT to continue work toward her degree.

Mrs. Noble was first here in the summer of 1911. She has come back here at various times since then.

At the time when Mrs. Noble first attended classes at WT, the old building had not yet burned. All classes were held in this same building. R. B. Cousins was president of the college at that time. Dr. J. A. Hill taught Mrs. Noble history.

There were few houses close to the campus in 1911. One of the main problems of the out-of-town student was finding a place to live as there were few boarding houses.

Mrs. Noble says it is a lot pleasanter going to school now than it was at that time. Of course, she has noted a lot of changes in the college since then—such as enrollment, new buildings, a prettier campus, etc. The most significant changes though are in the larger faculty and in the greater variety of courses now offered.

Mrs. Noble will be a senior after this six weeks ends. She intends to get a B. S. in elementary education. Asked if she intended to get her degree from this college, Mrs. Noble answered, "I'm going to get it here—I wouldn't want it from any place else."

Mrs. Noble says that she has always been crazy about WT. Several of her sisters also went here.

She also attended Clarendon Methodist College. Dr. L. F. Sheffy and Dr. Stuart H. Condon attended Clarendon College at that time.

Mrs. Noble taught social science in the high school at Darouzzet last year. She also taught some seventh and eighth grade work.

Her home is near Clarendon.

Dr. G. W. Diemer
President Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg

Dr. George W. Diemer, president of the Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, Mo., is immediate past president of the American Association of Teachers Colleges. He was on the Educational Conference's first general assembly program, speaking on "Providing Teachers for the Children of the Nation." Dr. Diemer has been a school man all of his adult life. He started as a rural teacher, then did administrative work, and from 1923 to 1937 was president of the teachers college in Kansas City. He then became president of Central Missouri State College. He is a member of the AATC's executive committee and the International Aspects of Teacher Education. In a recent Rotary International convention in Rio de Janeiro, he was elected governor of the 134th district of that civic organization.

His formal higher education work was done at Kirksville and Warrensburg teachers colleges, the University of Missouri, the University of Colorado and Columbia University. He is an author of several professional articles and is affiliated with more than a dozen professional, civic and fraternal organizations. He was one of 27 American educators selected by General Douglas MacArthur, the Department of War and the State Department to go to Japan and make recommendations to insure the democratization of that country.

"Change of Address," should be executed by the insured to notify the Insurance Service in the appropriate Branch Office.

Q—When may a veteran decide whether he will pursue training under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act (G-I Bill) or under the Vocational Rehabilitation Act?

A—After eligibility has been established under both laws.

He is a past president of the board, and now is in his third term. Terms for this appointive office are for six years each. He recently returned from Mexico where he inspected a teachers college summer school there.

S. A. Kerr, Jr., Livingstone, is the youngest member of the board. He is in his early 30's. He is manager of a large chain of men's clothing stores. He is a graduate of Stephen F. Austin College where he won honors both scholastically and in athletics.

Information for Student Vets

Student veterans entitled to increased monetary benefits because they have more than one dependent are reminded by the VA of two important deadline dates to be observed if they are to receive increased allowances retroactive to April 1.

One deadline affects veterans taking full-time educational courses. The other affects veterans taking part time courses, combination school-job training courses or entitled to increased benefits due to new subsistence-earned income ceilings.

Veterans in full-time educational courses who are entitled to $120 monthly subsistence because they have more than one dependent must submit evidence of additional dependency before July 1 in order to have the higher payments retroactive to April 1.

Veterans with more than one dependent and taking part-time school training, combination courses or who are affected by the increased income ceiling must submit proof of additional dependency by September 1. In most cases, veterans in this group may submit this evidence on a form which they will receive from the VA.

Veterans who lose subsistence, compensation or pension checks should notify immediately the appropriate Veterans Administration Regional Office.

VA said a veteran losing such a check should write a letter giving his full name and address, his claim number and the date and amount of the check. He should also state what the check was for and the circumstances surrounding its loss.

On being notified of the check's loss, VA determines first if it may have been found and returned to the U. S. Treasury. If so, the check will be re-mailed to the veteran. If not, VA will request the Treasury to stop payment and take necessary steps to reimburse the veteran.

A veteran who finds his check after reporting its loss should notify VA and hold the check until he has been advised by the Treasury that action to stop payment has been withdrawn.

National Guard Recruiting Men

"The National Guard will continue to enlist men of all ages in each unit which needs men," Maj. Gen. K. L. Berry, the Adjutant General stated last week. "I am anxious to clarify a situation which has been clouded by conflicting reports to newspapers and radio stations from Washington and other sources," he said.

"Each unit has been given a strength ceiling of 100% officers and 60% enlisted men. Units which reached or exceeded that ceiling by midnight June 24 can retain the extra men until absorbed by attrition.

"Units which have not yet reached that strength ceiling are authorized to continue recruiting until they do reach it. At that time recruiting must cease for that unit.

"Several classes of men are eligible for the Guard. Men 17 to 18½ will be exempt from the draft if they remain in the Guard until they are past draft age.

"Veterans who have had more than 90 days, but less than 12 months active Federal service may join the Guard and be exempt.

"Men of draft age may join the Guard and remain until and if their name is called. They will get paid the regular Army pay scale. They will fit themselves for higher ratings and higher pay if they are called to the Army."

"It is doubtful that members of the National Guard ever will be called into active Federal service," Gen. Berry said, "except in time of national emergency. Everything else being equal, a member of the National Guard will be given preference of deferment. It is likely that, depending on the demand for manpower and the quotas required of Selective Service Boards, the Board will defer a Guardsman if any other men are available."

A Digest of Selective Service Law: The law was signed by the President and became effective June 24, 1948.

All males 18 through 25 years of age (to 26th birthday) must register. Ages 17 through 18½:

May enlist in the Guard at any time.

Must serve in the Guard until past draft age.

May volunteer in the Regular Army for one year.

Then either join the reserves for 6 years, or join the National Guard for 4 years.

Ages 19 through 25 (to 26th birthday):

May enlist in the Guard and remain in the Guard until and if drafted.

If drafted, must serve at least 21 months in the Army.

Then, must serve 1 more year in the Army, or must join the Guard for 3 years, or must join the reserves for 5 years.

Veterans:

Liable, if he has served less than 90 days.

Exempt, if he has served 90 days in war time (Dec. 7, 1941-Sept. 2, 1945) or more than 12 months in peace time (Sept. 16, 1940 to enactment).

Exempt, if he has served 90 days but less than 12 months, and if he is a member of the National Guard. ROTC:

Deferred, if in advanced course, senior division, date of enactment, if he completes course, if he continues in reserve status.

Deferred, if he enrolls or continues in senior division after enactment, if he completes the course, if he agrees to serve in Regular Army 2 years, if he continues in Regular or reserve status thereafter.

High School Students:

Deferred, until he graduates, or until he reaches 20th birthday, or until he stops school.

College Students:

Deferred, until he satisfactorily completes the current school year.

AFFECTION

The country station agent did not wear a uniform, and one day when a train came in he stood at the platform gate to check the passengers' tickets.

A pretty girl came up to him, and when he held out his hand for her ticket she seized it eagerly, gave it a tight squeeze, and followed by clasping him around the neck in a loving embrace; then she gave him a hearty kiss.

The station agent was bewildered, but managed to say, "That's all very nice, miss, but I want your ticket."

"Oh," replied the girl, "aren't you Uncle John?"

John Marshall, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, did more to clarify the intent of the U.S. Constitution than any other man.

Wedding Bells

Elmore-Benson

On Friday evening June 25 in the First Presbyterian Church in Borger, Patricia Elmore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Elmore of Borger, became the bride of W. L. Benson, son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert J. Benson also of Borger.

The double-ring ceremony was read by the pastor, the Rev. James Glen, before an altar with basket arrangements of pink and white gladioli, backed by huckleberry and plumose fern. White satin ribbon and fern marked the aisles.

"Always," "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Charms" and "Salut de Amour" were played as a prelude by Mrs. C. R. Berrian. Roger Klien sang "At Dawning" and "Because." The traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a bluish bridal satin gown. She wore a finger-tip length veil which was held in place by a halo of lilies-of-the-valley, and she carried a prayer book topped with a cluster of baby white orchids.

Matron-of-honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Ed Williams. Bridesmaids were Courtney Phillips and Molly Berrian. Best man was Donald Dorsett, and the ushers were Robert Benson, brother of the bridegroom and Robert Story, uncle of the bridegroom.

Nancy Baker and Janice Calbe lighted the candles and Joyce Glen was flower girl.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the Federated Club rooms.

The bride graduated from Borger High School and attended West Texas State College and the University of Kansas, Lawrence. She is a member of Delta Zeta Chi and Beta Sigma Phi sororities.

The groom is a graduate of Borger High School and attended Texas A and M College, College Station, before enlisting in the army. He is planning on entering Southern College of Optometry this fall.

The couple is at home at 405 Grand in Borger.

From the Summer Lobo of the University of New Mexico: (June 11)

If you are a confirmed star-gazer or if you are curious enough to arise at 2:30 a.m., you can view the world's newest comet, reports the University of New Mexico astronomer and meteorologist, Dr. Lincoln LaPaz.

Tentatively identified as Hondo's comet, the new heavenly visitor is visible near the star Phi in the constellation Perseus in the northeastern sky for several hours before dawn. The comet is visible to the naked eye but the tail can be seen only with some optical aid: opera glasses, field glasses, or, better still, a small telescope. The tail is about two degrees long or about four times the apparent diameter of the moon.

Unless the brightness of the comet decreases with unusual rapidity, it will remain visible for several weeks. During this time its motion about the sun will carry it across the circumpolar sky, Dr. LaPaz reports.

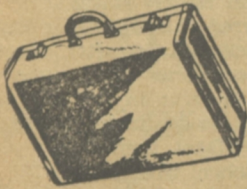

The new comet adds one more to the large number of cometary visitors now in the neighborhood of the earth. There may be some connection between this unusual concentration of comets and the extraordinary number of denoting bolides and meteorite falls that have occurred in recent months.

Also from the Lobo:
Learning, when absorbed by some people, is like a ball of cotton into which is dripping a steady stream of water. When the saturation point is reached, the overflow can become very irritating to surrounding objects.

From the Pine Log of Stephen F. Austin State College: (June 15)

Registration for the first summer term at Stephen F. Austin State College ended with a total of 1,220 students enrolled, Registrar Stanford W. McKewen revealed.

Harmon-Cogswell

La Nell Harmon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Harmon of Poydada, and Jack W. Cogswell, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Cogswell of Eddy, were married at six o'clock Sunday, June 20.

J. B. Tidmore, minister of the Church of Christ at Paducah, performed the double ring ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

A wedding arch entwined with lacy fern and white candy tuft flanked on each side with white cathedral candelabras and baskets of flowers of huckleberry and white gladioli formed the background for the wedding.

Mrs. Carl L. Muench, pianist, accompanied Ruth Elaine Harmon, sister of the bride, who sang "I Love Thee" and "Because." "Ave Maria" was played during the ceremony.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Leeman Norman of Lubbock who wore a formal pink taffeta gown and a corsage of blue delphiniums and pink carnations.

Ruth Elaine Harmon was bridesmaid. She wore a blue nixon formal gown. Her corsage was of pink roses. W. A. Cogswell, the father of the groom, served as best man.

Yvonne Cogswell and Martha Sell lighted the candles.

The bride wore a traditional wedding gown of Skinner's ivory satin with a marquisette yoke edged with seed pearls. Her finger-tip veil of bridal illusion was held in place by a crown-shaped tiar with seed pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of white maline with white satin streamers showered with white stephanotis and centered with a large white orchid.

After a trip to Taos, New Mexico, and other points, the couple will be at home in Houston.

Mrs. Cogswell is a graduate of West Texas State College where she was a member of Pi Omega sorority. She has been employed in Lubbock as medical secretary at Lubbock Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Cogswell completed his pre-medical training at Texas A&M. For the past year he has attended Baylor Medical College. He is a member of Phi Beta Pi Medical Fraternity.

Dr. Alfred Leland Crabb
Professor of Higher Education,
George Peabody College for Teachers

Dr. A. L. Crabb, professor, speaker, textbook author and novelist of George Peabody College was born in Kentucky. He brags that a Kentuckian can out-brag a Texan. He says, "I was born in Warren County near Bowling Green—which is a pinnacle with regard to the fine art of bragging." He attended Bethel in Russellville, and says, "I believe the gentleman who is about to become your president went there too." He taught in rural schools in Kentucky and Louisiana, and was an elementary school principal. He received a master's degree from Columbia University and his doctor's from Peabody. He taught at Bowling Green for a number of years and was dean for two. He has been a member of the faculty at Peabody since 1927. In his words, he has one wife, one son, one daughter-in-law and one grandson. He was scheduled to address the first general assembly of the Educational Conference on "How Love-ly in the Texas Panhandle."

Enrollment for Second Term Next Tuesday

Enrollment for the second six weeks of the summer term is scheduled to begin next Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock in Burton Gymnasium. A faculty meeting will be held at 7:30.

The procedure for enrollment will be the same as that used the first six weeks. A number will be given each person as he enters the gym and he will register when his number is called.

Students who are enrolled now for the first six weeks will not fill out the various information cards when they enroll. They must receive their program permit cards before making out their programs, however, and must make out two fee slips.

Students who are not enrolled for the first six weeks term will follow the instructions on printed forms to be distributed at the door.

Tolliver Directs Radio Workshop

A Radio Workshop carrying one hour credit will be offered during the first two weeks of the second term of the summer session.

Crannell Tolliver, head of the speech department, will direct the workshop, assisted by other members of the staff. It will be offered in cooperation with the four radio stations in Amarillo.

The course has the title of Speech 271 and is open to everyone, no previous speech work being required.

It will meet every day during the two weeks. Although it is scheduled to meet at 1:30, the group will at times meet in various units depending upon the particular interests of the members.

This will be a true workshop course where the members learn by doing. Emphasis will be upon the use of radio in school and community activities, so it will be of interest to teachers of all grades.

The group will make at least one broadcast and an attempt will be made to provide everybody with some actual experience in broadcasting.

Part of the meetings will be held in Amarillo radio stations.

The group will have the use of considerable new radio equipment which is now being installed in the radio studio of the Speech Building by radio technician Dan O'Conner. Those interested in radio from the vocational standpoint will find it helpful to observe the process of installation of equipment in the new studio and to utilize the equipment in its testing stage.

Miss Sarah Thompson, teacher in the West Texas Demonstration School, was guest speaker for the South Amarillo Garden Club when the club met in the film room at West Texas State College on Wednesday.

Mrs. L. C. Moreman's class from the Demonstration School showed their collection of mounted birds and told some interesting facts about them.

Miss Thompson used two films, "Five Colorful Birds" and "Flowers at Work," to illustrate her talk.

Following the introduction to the birds and flower life of this area, the group went to Palo Duro Canyon for further observation, exploration and a picnic lunch.

Water Colors of Redden Shown

Now on exhibit in the cafeteria is a group of water colors by Alvie Redden, summer art instructor at WT. These paintings will be on exhibit until tomorrow.

Most of the water colors suggest Colorado scenes. Some of them were painted on the spot, some were painted by imagination, and sketches were made for some to be painted later.

A number of the water colors were done during Mr. Redden's graduate work for the University of Colorado.

Mr. Redden is particularly interested in painting landscapes. He also has done seascapes and still-life paintings.

Mr. Redden received an art degree from WT in 1940. He served as grade school principal at Samnorwood three years. He has done graduate study at the University of Colorado, and the past year was art director at Mesa College in Grand Junction, Colorado.

WHY... I smoke Chesterfield
(FROM A SERIES OF STATEMENTS BY PROMINENT TOBACCO FARMERS)
Liggett & Myers buy top quality cigarette tobacco and pay top prices for it . . . nobody will average and pay more than they do, year in and year out. I've been smoking Chesterfields ever since I've been smoking. I just like them . . . they have real tobacco flavor.
