

W. T. S. T. C. TO RESUME 18-WEEK SEMESTER PLAN

Educational
Tour Begins
Here July 16Forty-one Have Made
Reservations For Summer Trip

Forty-one people have signed up for the educational tour to be made this summer by W. T. students and exes. Those who go on the tour will enroll and pay their fees here as if they were doing residence work. The tour will begin here July 16 and close August 24.

Here are a few of the points of interest which the tourists will see: Pike's Peak, Garden of the Gods, Yellowstone National Park, Grand Canyon, University of Washington, Rainier National Park, San Francisco's Chinatown, Leland Stanford University, Chinese Theater and Beverly Hills in Hollywood, Tia Juana, Old Mexico, the Painted Desert, and the Petrified Forest.

Cook Is Dean

Places are open for nineteen more students and those who sign up early will get the choice of cars," says Prof. Phillips. Harris M. Cook has been made dean of the group. Classes will be held early in the morning when it is cool, leaving the rest of the day for sightseeing.

Anyone having a school for next year may borrow money to make the trip. Applications must be made ten days in advance. Those who are interested in this proposition should see Mr. Phillips at once.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Powell, W. T. ex-students, who are attending Texas Technological College this summer, are taking their car filled with Tech students.

Exhibit Equipment

The cafeteria truck and the types of tents and beds to be used will be on exhibit at the play night next week. Ten more of the sleeping bags have just arrived. They are double bags built for comfort and service; most students are choosing them in preference to the forty pound mattresses.

Fannie Mae Rees and Grace Burrow, anxious to try the sleeping bags, have been sleeping out-of-doors in one and pronounce it ideal.

Miss Reese and Hilda Miller will serve as aides to Mrs. Frank R. Phillips, dietician for the tour.

Green Reviews
'National Velvet'Enid Bagnold's Novel Is Third in Series of Reviews

"National Velvet," by Enid Bagnold was reviewed by Mrs. Geraldine Green Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock. This was the third of a series of book reviews given by the English department. Dr. Arlin Turner will review the recent edition of "Complete Poems" by John Masefield, July 3.

"National Velvet" is a light novel of unusual quality, presenting a picture of contemporary English life and concerned with the family of a butcher on the south coast. The family is poor, yet it is not their lack of means that matters. Though they have wealthy neighbors, "money and comfortable circumstances are not in question," Mrs. Green said.

The story centers around Velvet Brown, age 13, who loves horses "Velvet wins a neighbor's piebald at a village raffle," explained Mrs. Green, "disguises herself as a boy and rides the piebald to win the greatest of horse races." The book is full of comedy centering around the Brown family, especially around Velvet and her young four-year-old brother, Donald. Miss Bagnold, describes Velvet as looking "like Dante when he was a little girl."

The book is illustrated by Miss Bagnold's 13-year-old daughter Lauran Jane.

The author is the wife of Sir Roderick Jones, an Englishman. Miss Bagnold, a modern writer, is author of "A Diary Without Date," "The Happy Foreigner," "The Sailing Ship," and "Alice and Thomas and Jane."

Dowlens May
Fly Old Flag
On July 4th

A 60-year-old flag with only 44 stars on it may be flown from the C. M. Dowlen home, 2119 Fourth Avenue on the Fourth of July.

The flag is made of all wool bunting and is 42 inches wide and 91 inches long. Though the white stripes of the flag have turned a bit yellow, old age has caused only a few worn places in the flag.

The last state to be represented by a star is Wyoming. Utah, Oklahoma and New Mexico have been admitted to the union since the flag was made.

Mrs. Dowlen's mother, Mrs. Gertrude Wade, said that her father bought the flag when she was a small child. "I would guess that it is about 60 years old," she said.

Mrs. Wade said that the flag was flown from the top of her father's barn in Illinois every holiday, flag day and decoration day.

"The wind in Illinois was not as bad as it is in Texas," Mrs. Wade remarked.

Dr. No Yong Park
To Speak AgainChinese Lecturer Will Conduct 3-Day
Lycium

Oriental opinion concerning the Chinese-Japanese situations will be presented in the next lycium series, a course of three lectures to be given this summer by Dr. No Yong Park. A definite date for the series has not yet been set.

Dr. Park, who feels that the Chinese situation is not generally understood by the Occidental world, will endeavor, through the course of three evening lectures and group conferences during the days, to give a clear explanation of the present Oriental situation. He says that it means much to the Chinese that the American people understand them.

Dr. Park, a Harvard Ph. D., addressed the W. T. S. T. C. students last winter during assembly hour. A clever speaker, he handles American slang with a Chinese slant that is delightful.

Condron Speaks
To Grocerymen
Tuesday Night

Prof. Stuart H. Condron, head of the economics and government department, was a speaker at a dinner of the Red and White stores Tuesday. This meeting was the monthly session of the employees of the stores in this area. It was held at the Christian Church.

Mr. Condron's subject was "What the Customer Expects of the Store." He concluded that prices are secondary considerations to cleanliness and friendliness.

Curriculum Class
Attends Meeting
Held at Lubbock

Twenty-eight students in the curriculum classes went to Lubbock to the Curriculum Conference and District Teachers' Meeting held June 28 and 29. Dr. A. M. Meyer and Supt. F. E. Savage, instructors, supervised the trip.

Other members of the faculty who went on the trip were Miss Mary E. Hudspeth, Miss Agnes Charlton, Miss Sarah Miltia Hill, Prof. Wallace R. Clark, Dean Harris M. Cook, Prof. Frank R. Phillips, and Prof. J. L. Duflot. Judge Burney Slack of Randall County, also attended.

Mrs. Louise Brown

Children's Library

Mrs. Louise Walker Brown will have charge of the demonstration school library during the summer session and the 1935-36 long term.

Two Plays Are Presented At Dramatic Club

Two plays, "Thompson's Luck," directed by John Hood, and "Love is Like That," directed by Marjorie Tucker, were presented Thursday at Dramatic club.

"Thompson's Luck," is a play based on "They Grind Exceedingly Slow," a story by Ben Ames Williams. The characters were: Steve Thompson, played by Wendell Cain; Mrs. Thompson, played by Katherine Chandler; Waterman Holmes, played by Huelyn Laycock; and Hiram Pratt, played by Le Roy Roberts.

"Love is Like That," written by Florence Ryerson and Coleen Clemens, is an unusual play centered around the love affairs of Daphne, who wishes to elope with a poet and whose mother wishes her to marry a wealthy young man. The grandmother aids Daphne to elope with the poet. Daphne was played by Maizie Patton; Mrs. Dodd was played by Mrs. Ted Bones; and Granny was played by Mary Beth Campbell.

Claudia Neeley, '35, has been elected to teach at Abernathy next year.

Mrs. Elsie Mae Hood, '34, and daughter returned Saturday from a week's visit at Hearne.

"Texas Federation News" Carries
Speech Given By Dr. H. M. CookDean Gives Five Reasons
For Curriculum
Change

The June issue of Texas Federation News carries in full the speech given by Dr. Harris M. Cook, dean of men at the college, at the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs Convention held at Plainview in April.

Dr. Cook spoke on curriculum revision, citing these five reasons for a change in curriculum: First, elimination and failure in public schools; second, over-estimation of children's abilities; third, educational shortages; fourth, need for revision in small administrative units; and fifth, changed conditions in American life.

Outlines State Plan

After discussing these five main points, Dr. Cook outlined the plan

Stafford Hall
Chosen Name
Of DormitoryMemorial to Life of Former W. T. Faculty Member

"Stafford Hall" is the name of the new $47,000 dormitory for men.

The new dormitory will carry the name of one of the original members of the college faculty, Prof. B. A. Stafford, who taught in W. T. for 15 years, coming here in 1910. Prof. Stafford was at the head of the Latin department during this time and was for a time vice president of the faculty. He retired from teaching in 1926, and died in 1930 after an extended illness.

Was Southern Gentleman

The hall will bear the name Stafford Hall, said Pres. J. A. Hill, because people knew Mr. Stafford as a preeminent scholar and southern gentleman and because of his relationship to the institution.

The Canyon News said, at the time of the professor's death: "Mr. Stafford was a classical scholar with much more than ordinary ability and discriminations. He was an inspiration to the students who came to his classroom and an appreciated companion of those who won his friendship."

"He was one of the wisest men on the campus, and one of the fatherliest men as far as students were concerned," Dr. Hill said. He was familiarly known as "Pop" Stafford.

Mrs. Stafford presented the library with a collection of books after Mr. Stafford's death in 1930. This collection, named after the professor, contains 435 volumes.

On the top of the Stafford Collection book case are two of Mr. Stafford's mottoes.

They are:

The Genius of The Teacher

"I want to help you grow as God meant you to be when He thought of you first."

"After all there are only three things really worth while—to be good—to do good—and always to smile."

The laying of the brick of the new dormitory will start soon.

July Holiday

The Carlsbad trip over the holidays is assured, according to Mrs. T. V. Reeves of the Bureau of Public Service.

There is room for a few more to go. The round trip transportation costs $5.00. Others who want to make the trip should pay this transportation fee to the Bureau of Public Service at once.

Irby Carruth To Study in Europe
During Summer

Irby Carruth, who was graduated from W. T. in '27 and is now superintendent of the Canyon Public schools, sailed Saturday on the S. S. Ile de France to spend the summer studying European educational systems under the direction of Dr. Bruner, professor of education in Columbia University.

He plans to study the economic and political conditions in England, Russia, Germany, and France. Supt. R. B. Fisher of the Pampa schools is also a member of the curriculum field study in Europe. Mason Anderson, Ernest Cabe, and Cleveland Jones are enrolled in Columbia University at Ithaca, N. Y., for the summer session.

Mr. Anderson was a graduate of W. T. with the class of '28 and is now teaching in Trinidad, Colo. Mr. Cabe is teaching in Pampa and was graduated in '33. Mr. Jones, a graduate of '30, is athletic coach in Canyon High School.

Rural Teachers
To Receive $5
To $10 Raises

Rural teachers in Texas public schools are to receive a $5 to $10 raise in salary beginning next fall, and the per capita apportionment for each scholastic was raised to $17.50 by the state board of education.

Minimum salaries were set at $80 and $95 is the maximum to be paid on an eight month basis. Principal's pay in a one teacher school would range from $80 to $100, and in systems of eight teachers, the principal's pay would range from $120 to $135.

Teachers' salaries would range from $85 to $95 in partly affiliated schools, payable on a nine month basis.

Principals in systems of twelve or more teachers would receive from $110 to $120 on a nine month basis. The $17.50 per scholastic is the highest apportionment per capita since 1929, and it is the maximum allowed by statutory limit, or it could possibly have reached $19 or $20.

Mrs. Margaret

F.E.R.A. Jobs Aid
100 W.T. StudentsChoice Based on Need and Scholastic
Rating

More than one hundred students were able to keep themselves in W. T. during the last session by means of F. E. R. A. jobs.

Ninety-one students or 12 per cent of the enrollment in October 1933, worked regularly at F. E. R. A. jobs, and others were employed part time. Approximately 130 students worked at various times during the session.

Students doing F. E. R. A. work were chosen on a basis of their need for work, with emphasis on their scholastic record. An effort was made to give employment to only those students who would be unable to attend school without it. According to C. A. Murray, chairman of the committee on F. E. R. A. work, ninety-one positions were pro-rated equitably to the counties in this territory.

Thirteen students were employed on the new athletic plant, and seventeen worked in the library. Other jobs consisted of work as office assistants, work as laboratory assistants, and similar positions.

mics During Summer
Session

Miss Fern Bowman returned Tuesday from the Panama Canal Zone to teach in the home economics department of the College during July and August. She taught in this department of W. T. in the summer of 1932.

Miss Bowman graduated from W. T. in 1928. She did all of her undergraduate work here majoring in home economics. After graduating she entered the University of Chicago where she received her M. A. degree in home economics.

Miss Bowman then taught foods and nutrition for four years in the Syracuse University in New York. From there she went to Cristoba, Panama, where she taught household arts and had the management of the school cafeteria in the Cristoba High School, a government school. Miss Bowman will return there to resume her position this fall.

New Departments Created, New Courses
Will be Offered

Beginning with the fall term the college will be operated on the eighteen-week semester plan instead of the split-semester or nine-week plan in operation the last two years. This announcement is carried in the 1935-36 catalog just off the press.

The fall semester will open Sept. 17, 1935 and close Jan. 31, 1936. The second semester begins Feb. 3, and ends May 28, 1936.

Classes will be held six days a week with each class meeting on alternate days three times a week, Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, and Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday. The classes are one hour long with the first period beginning at 8 o'clock. One and one-half hours are given for lunch, from 12:00 to 1:30 o'clock.

No Increase in Tuition
The tuition for the regular semester is $35.00 or equivalent to $17.50 for two nine weeks terms, as in 1933-34 and 1934-35. Other expenses, such as room and board, are the same as last year.

The catalog shows that courses in the department of archaeology and paleontology, though not offered at the beginning of the fall term last year, will be offered in September of this year. Prof. C. S. Johnston is head of this department.

The department of commerce has been enlarged, now offering a major in commercial work, but has not affiliated it with a commercial degree. The department is offering the student who wishes to teach commercial work in the high school the required number of hours for a major. Lee Johnson, manager of the College Book Store, has charge of the new subjects offered except No. 321, (Short Term Finance), taught by Prof. W. E. Lockhart. Course No. 301, (Insurance) will be offered the first term and followed by No. 312 (Investments).

New Education Courses

Four new courses in the department of education will be offered. Courses Nos. 111 and 112, nature study in the lower grades, are a seasonal study of the natural phenomena of environment, or season. Trees, flowers, dispersal of seeds, autumn insects, animals, weather and sky, forms of moisture and plains, valleys, hills, and canyons will be observed during the season the course is studied. Other new education courses are No. 471, an orientation course in problems of curriculum construction, and No. 472, technique of curriculum production.

Courses No. 421 and 422 in the department of government and economics are offered in the summer and by extension. No. 421 is contemporary economic problems dealing primarily with modern economic problems. No. 422 includes contemporary political problems with special attention of modern (Continued on last page)

"Black Widow"
Spider Refuses
To Bite Elo

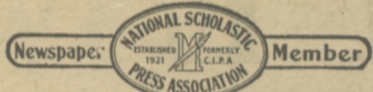

A "black widow" spider refused to bite Gene Elo of Amarillo, former editor of The Prairie, who tried Saturday to persuade the spider to attack him in order "to further the cause of science." Mr. Elo is a reporter on the Amarillo News-Globe.

The specimen used by Mr. Elo had the hour glass markings more plainly than most of such spiders, but the efforts of the Amarillo News reporter to provoke the spider proved fruitless. Mr. Elo expressed regret that the arachnid did not attack him, and believes that he would not have suffered any lasting ill effects from the bite.

Although the bite of the black widow spider is reported to cause death, U. S. Government reports say that only in rare cases and under unusual circumstances is death the result of the bite. These reports say that excruciating pain, accompanied by writhing, muscle spasms, and similar manifestations follow the bite of the spider. The spiders will bite only when they are in quest of food, says the report.

Mr. Elo, a W. T. S. T. C. graduate, served as editor of The Prairie during the winter session, 1932-33.

WHENCE THE POWER?

Whence comes the Supreme Court's power to declare a law passed by the legislature of the United States null and void? Nothing in the constitution gives the Court this authority, nor is there anything in the constitution which can easily be interpreted to mean that the Court should have this power.

Perhaps it was not merely an oversight that such a provision was not put in the constitution. Not only did the makers of the constitution fail to write in any such provision, but it is also plainly evident that they did not wish to have such a provision. A measure was actually introduced to the constitutional committee proposing such a provision, and it was rejected.

The Supreme Court's custom of overriding acts of Congress has been one of slow growth. It began with Chief Justice John Marshall's decision in the case of Marbury vs. Madison in 1803.

The recent slaughter of the Blue Eagle is one of a number of cases where the Supreme Court not only overrode the President and Congress, but also the desire of most of the people. By the Dred Scott decision the Court declared it unconstitutional to pass legislation to rule slavery out of the territories, and thus did a great deal to bring on the Civil War. By decisions in 1922 and 1918 the Court declared it unconstitutional to legislate child labor out in the United States.

Although it may be desirable that Congress and the President should have some check, it seems undemocratic that a group not elected by the people should be able to declare acts of an elected body void.

EDUCATION,—WHAT?

Is an educated person one who knows where to buy the swankiest clothes, the jauntiest way to wear the hat, or the correct fork with which to pierce the pickle? Must an educated person be able to acquire and keep a fortune? Is an education simply the acquired knowledge for aping the latest folkways?

An educated person does not ape his neighbor or defraud him of his wealth. An educated person does not need gold and silver in abundance. He does not need playthings; new shiny automobiles, slick clothes, airplanes, golf sticks, and crowds to keep him happy and contented. He can have fun by himself. He enjoys his own company and thinks his own thoughts. An educated person has riches far greater than those of Midas or Croesus. He has the wealth of being.

THEY HAVE A WORD FOR IT

Those who attend college because they are too lazy to work or because they enjoy college social activities encroach more and more upon the rights of the serious student. The Houstonian, student publication of the Sam Houston State Teachers College at Huntsville, has the following to say about these parasites whom it dubs "aliens"—foreigners to the true objective of higher education: the enjoyment of a wider mental horizon.

Aliens

Just as ill-spoken words disturb the beauty of domestic tranquility—just as harsh discords break into musical harmony—so may misplaced mankind destroy the loveliness of its surroundings.

Nowhere are these aliens more detestable than on the College Campus. One may see them sleeping through lectures, or talking aloud in the library, or giving catcalls in public assemblies and entertainments. Failing to attract attention by legitimate effort, these social grasshoppers must find interest by arousing opposition and consequent disfavor among responsible persons. Therein lies the glory of being a nuisance; the halo or recognition—the golden sense of being noticed.

Perhaps the method most suitable as a remedy for our situation will be similar to that of Congress in recent legislation. More stringent laws have been enacted to better control the governmental alien, but corresponding power of discrimination was given officials to lessen the possibilities of injustice. Just so that the barriers might be raised before young men and women desiring to enter college. But such action is contrary to American educational ideals. We must search further. The power that will change the student body from shallow purposes must originate with the students, even as only they may properly discipline their members.

One thing is certain; earnest students ought not to be burdened with the company of obnoxious dilettantes. Aspiring missionaries might set out to humanize some of our collegiate aliens.

SPEAKS AT PAMPA

John McCarty, state president of the Young Democrats, outlined his program for the coming year at the annual Open Forum banquet of the Pampa Young Democrats' club last week. Mr. McCarty attended W. T. in 1924, and is now editor of The Dalhart Texan.

The report is out that tending garden is good for you, but is regarded as a groundless rumor in many quarters.

An Indiana editor says the future is a dream. He should have added that the present is a nightmare.

I. R. C. Coincides With Peace Time Policies

Local Club Organized Under Carnegie Foundation

"Nations that understand each other and have no fear of each other will never fight," says U. S. Sen. Thomas of Utah.

Five hundred International Relations clubs scattered throughout the world are striving for this relationship — international understanding that will outlaw war and insure peace.

The International Relations club at W. T., organized in 1929 by Prof. S. H. Condron, head of the department of economics and government, at the suggestion of Mrs. T. V. Reeves, director of the Bureau of Public Service, and Miss Jennie C. Ritchie, dean of the high school, is a branch under the auspices of the Carnegie Foundation Endowment for International Peace. The common object of all such clubs is to promote intelligent understanding of international affairs, policies, and events, in the interests of world peace. "Meetings are held not to reach opinions and to close minds," says Mr. Condron, "but to study fairly international affairs with open, friendly minds. The aim is to get groups to thinking internationally."

Membership Unlimited

The club meets bi-monthly and has an average attendance of fifty, with as many as 100 at times. Its membership is unlimited, and especially are majors in the field of social science invited to join. There are no fees, no dues. The only requirement for membership is regular attendance and that each person take an active part in the work.

At the beginning of the year a program is formulated. Leaders of discussions are appointed according to their own interests, as far as is possible. The officers are elected by popular vote, usually in the spring, the tenure of office becoming effective in the fall. The club does not function during the summer, being organized on a nine-month basis.

All International Relations clubs are organized under the Division of Intercourse and Education of the Carnegie Endowment Foundation for International Peace with Dr. Amy Hemmings Jones of New York as executive-secretary. Dr. Jones keeps in close contact with each club in the course of a year by correspondence and by annually visiting each club personally. She makes a tour of the world every two years to keep in close touch with all countries of the world and the International Relations clubs. "I have, as sponsor, received cards from her from practically every country of the world," says Mr. Condron. She has been to Canyon three or four times.

Bulletins Furnished

Each club member receives fortnightly from the Foundation bulletins containing a summary of international events. This bulletin is a digest with references and discussions of leading international topics of the day and, if bound, at the close of each year makes a comprehensive book on present day international questions.

Twice yearly the Foundation selects ten to fifteen books from the best books in the field dealing with international affairs and issues. These are sent to all clubs free of charge, with the requirement that they be kept under lock. This is necessary so that an accurate check may be kept on all books.

Sponsors Club

Prof. S. H. Condron, a director of the International Relations club, is an energetic worker for world peace.

In the W. T. S. T. C. main library there are more than 125 books and 125 pamphlets on the International Relations shelf. These are the property of the Canyon club. However, they are available to the public, says Mr. Condron, as the club feels that anything that is good for a small group is even better for a larger number, and to offer the books to the public will be helping to spread the germ of international-mindedness.

Each year the Foundation sends one or two speakers to each area, of which there are twelve in the United States. These speakers are leading European statesmen or men from the eastern United States who speak to the various clubs, and so bring the members in close touch with policies of European countries. Likewise, leading American statesmen go to European clubs to explain America's point of view on international questions and relations.

Entertained District

When the Canyon club was host to the I. R. C. of the southwest area in March, 1934, there appeared on the program the executive-secretary of the Foundation, Dr. Amy Hemmings Jones; Hon. David Maynard, an American official who had spent twelve years in China; and Ernst Ullberall, a young Austrian university graduate. At that time Ullberall was an official in the French government and was in a position to bring specific data on European policies.

"Had the college brought these lecturers to Canyon," pointed out Mr. Condron, "the cost would have been several thousand dollars, but through the International Relations club the service was free." According to the I. R. C. plan a lecturer starts his tour in the East and follows a regular route touring the United States and speaking to each member club.

Another outstanding feature furnished by the Foundation is the awarding of 40 to 50 scholarships annually to students who wish to study in foreign countries. The requirements for such scholarships are a special fitness of the individual for good work and a deep interest in the international field.

Pres. Hill Talks To Rotary Club

Tells of Building Projects Under Way On Campus

Dr. J. A. Hill spoke to the Rotary Club Tuesday about the P. W. A. buildings on the college campus. Stafford Hall, the new $47,000 dormitory for men now under construction, has some distinct features in the way of dormitory construction, he pointed out. Two boys living together will have two rooms, and each four boys will have a bath room. This building will attract boys who wish better rooming facilities.

Dr. Hill mentioned the three projects which are awaiting the completion of plans of the architects: addition to Cousins Hall, the Home Economics cottage, and ten cottages which will accommodate six persons each.

The athletic project while approved by P. W. A. is delayed by the lack of plans, but these should be finished before many weeks.

Application will be made this week for a library building. Mr. Hill believes this plan will be under way quicker than the other five projects.

Student Directories, 5c at College Book Store.

Although scholarships are distributed geographically as nearly as possible, location does not play the leading part; primary consideration is the individual's fitness. A scholarship permits a student to study in any university in any country that he wishes, the location usually depending a great deal on language ability. "If this practice of exchanging students could be carried on on a large scale between nations, what a wonderful thing it would be," says Mr. Condron.

W. T. Club Praised

The Canyon I. R. C. ranks high with the other clubs and members. At the meeting of the southwest area clubs in Canyon in 1934 sixteen clubs were represented. Those who were visiting said that it "was the largest and the best meeting that the clubs in this area has ever had."

Dr. A. S. White, sponsor of the University of New Mexico club, wrote to Mr. Condron after the meeting, saying: "The conference of I. R. C. of the southwest area held as guests of the Canyon I. R. C. offered the best programs and evidenced the best planning of any conference I have ever attended." According to Mr. Condron, Dr. White never fails to attend the conferences of the clubs.

Prof. Condron feels that the club is doing a great deal to create not only a friendly feeling for people of foreign countries, but to teach and to open the minds of the individuals to the problems of other lands. "Some of the best students of the local I. R. C. have become most active in this movement since they left school," says Mr. Condron. "It is tending to create an international outlook on the part of those who are members of the club, and in so doing emphasizes that chief qualification of good citizenship—the theory of the greatest good for the greatest number."

She Seems to Be a Discontented Cow

If that personable dairymaid succeeds in obtaining milk, it evidently won't be from a contented cow. From its mournful expression, this nine-foot bovine specimen apparently dislikes being on exhibition at the San Diego fair.

Goodnight Trail Is Designated as Highway No. 117

The State Highway Department has designated the Goodnight Trail as a state highway, numbering it 117.

The announcement came from Division Engineer W. J. Van London late in June. Mr. Van London had made this request several months ago for this designation owing to the heavy traffic which had developed to the Palo Duro Canyon State Park.

Gravel is now being hauled for the asphalt topping. The contractors have one of the largest asphalt spreading machines in Texas, and will complete approximately one mile per day when this work is started. It is likely that the topping job will be entirely completed in about three weeks.

It has been predicted that a woman may be president within the next 20 or 30 years, but we don't believe it. Now that the U. S. has started celebrating presidential birthdays, no woman wants a job where everybody in the country will know her age.

The weather is discussed more than any other subject principally because it is the most provoking.

June Is Still Most Popular For Weddings

Even the Dean of Women is growing concerned over the number of June weddings among ex-students and graduates (and students) of W. T. this year.

Mrs. Green's statement to the effect there seemed to have been an unusual number of marriages this June was thoroughly investigated.

Nineteen W. T. weddings in June of last year, are overshadowed by twenty-nine, this June.

There seems to be no explanation of weddings in June except the power of tradition. It may be a fact (not verified) that when a young man's and young woman's fancy turn in the spring, they get married in June.

Mrs. Wilmeth's traveling suit was of aqua blue knit with a tea rose lace blouse and pink accessories. Her corsage was of white roses and lilies of the valley.

The bride is a graduate of Amarillo High School and received her degree from the University of Texas this spring. She also attended Amarillo College and West Texas State Teachers College in '32, '33 and '34.

Scales Groan As Women Weigh And Worry

Can you imagine the magnitude of approximately 50 women standing on you every day?

That actually happens—to the downtrodden scales in the women's gymnasium.

Every day from 25 to 50 suspicious looking women steal quietly into the gym to weigh. Don't think that they come in groups for they would never want you to know they are concerned with their poundage, neither do they leave the weights as they were when they finished weighing.

However, the scales is not victimized only by women, for not long ago Registrar D. A. Shirley was caught tip-toeing into the gym.

"Ouch," said the scales.

Miss Zelley has reproduced a western motif in this design with its miniature prairie schooners, Indian fighters, buffaloes, horses, longhorns, and objects typical of the old West.

The spring advanced-art exhibit, shown in the Mary E. Hudspeth room of Pioneer Hall, displayed a number of Miss Zelley's etchings and water colors which were well executed examples of the work this artist is doing.

Research Club Is Being Planned

Group to Study Social, Political, Economic Problems

Plans are being made for the organization of a research club which will be organized and in operation by September, according to Prof. S. H. Condron, head of the department of economics and government. Members of the faculty of several departments are at work on the plans which Herschel Coffee, assistant professor of music and economics, proposed some time ago.

The field of the club will be the study of modern political, social, and economic problems. The sponsors intend that the organization be a vehicle enabling the productive student to further his research by working with others who are interested in the same field.

"The aim is to create an agency wherein the individual may attack economic and social problems in the same way that scientific problems are attacked," Mr. Condron states. The purpose is to encourage individual thought and initiative and formation of new points of view. The club will be a forum where members can exchange individual views on world conditions with plenty of open discussion and criticisms.

The programs are to be strictly informal. A leader will be selected for each meeting who will present a talk on a subject of his own choice, one in which he is individually interested, followed by a round-table discussion.

The membership will be composed of advanced students and faculty members and restricted, probably, to twenty members. Students of social science, including the fields of economics, geography, government, sociology, history, and certain phases of education, are expected to be most interested in the club. The personnel will be selected from those students most interested in this field who are productive and creative.

"The organization of such a club is indeed timely," said Mr. Condron, "due to the fact that graduate work is being re-instated in W. T. this September."

WEST TEXAS SPORTS

W. T. Team Wins Softball Tilt at Play Night Friday

An all-star team picked from W. T.'s six intramural soft ball teams defeated Oakes Agency, a fast team from Amarillo, 11 to 9 in the main attraction of play night last Friday.

The batteries for the Amarillo squad were Curry and Bivins; Wilhite and Hanson pitched for the W. T. team.

Wilhite hit a home run with two mates on base, and Kimmins, W. T. outfielder, also hit for the circuit with one man on base. Bufkin, fielder on the Amarillo team, hit a home run in the first half of the seventh inning with two men on bases.

The score at the opening of the seventh inning was 11 to 4. The Amarillo boys gathered five runs in this inning, but were forced to leave town before overcoming the Canyon team's lead.

Croquet, horse shoe pitching, ping pong, and other games furnished amusement for the 200 people who attended. Both students and townspeople are invited to attend play nights, and out of town people are urged to attend and inspect the new athletic plant.

The local club invites more stiff competition from Amarillo, any Amarillo team which would like a game any Friday night except July 5, write Red Holston or Bob Cox, Box 277, or call 88 at Canyon.

"The second year will consist of production, the actual selecting, organizing and writing of courses of study. In the fourth year the curriculum will be introduced into the Texas schools as rapidly as they are ready to use it."

Ace Log Rollers in Action

Like rolling stones these logs will gather no moss beneath the agile feet of Vic Greenwood, left, Canadian log-rolling champion, and Seth Harris, Pacific Northwest champion, as they demonstrate the log-rolling art at the San Diego world's fair. The two champions extend an open challenge to all comers.

Dillard, Wilhite Teams Tied For Leading Place

Dillard's and Wilhite's teams are tied for first in the intramural softball tournament.

Each of the four teams have played two games during the last week. The results of these games are: Hanson's 12; Davis' 6; Dillard's 13; Davis' 1; Wilhite's 9; Dillard's 7; Wilhite's 6; Hanson's 4.

The feature of the week's play was Wilhite's victory over Dillard's 9 to 7.

By virtue of two wins Wilhite's team went from second to tie for first. Each team has played five games. Dillard's and Wilhite's teams have won four and lost one game; Hanson's crew has won two and lost three games. Davis' squad has lost all five of the games played. The games are being played north and east of Burton gymnasium, and the public is invited to attend.

BISON BULL

Still hitting the sport shots here and there on the past, present, and future football players of West Texas.

Edd McMinn of Kirkland is supervisor of the intramural basketball tournament that is now in progress. Edd was captain of the basketball team last season. He is going to teach and coach in his home town next year.

Ray Cox, brother of Bob Cox, is not attending summer school, but is working here this summer. Ray is a fine blocker and should see plenty of action in the backfield next year.

Frank Van Noy left for Fort Sam Houston at San Antonio last week to enter training in the Air Service of the United States Army. W. T. will probably lose a fine quarterback for next year, but the army will gain a good flying cadet. Happy landings, Frank! May you always find old terra firma close by when you get out to crank!

Leo "Wildcat" Jackson of Floydada is staying in shape this summer by throwing tires, and gas around at the Phillips 66 filling station in Floydada. Leo was a member of the wrestling team and played center on the football team last year.

Clinton Meek of Wheeler is driving a tractor 14 hours a day on his father's farm this summer. Meek is reported as saying that after wrestling that tractor all summer he would like to see some back try to make a yard over his tackle next season. Clinton was a member of the boxing team at W. T. also.

Wayne Miles Is Visitor on Campus

Butler's team won a close game from Daugherty's team Friday night to throw the intramural basketball tournament into a three-way tie.

The score was tied 19 all at the end of the game, and a three minute extra period was added. In the last minute of play, Butler made a long difficult shot from the side of the court to give his team a 21 to 19 victory.

Britt's team dropped its third straight game to Waggoner's team by a score of 39 to 19 in the second game Friday night. This placed Britt's team in the cellar with three losses and no wins.

No Cold Feet, Promises Phillips, On Six Week's Educational Tour

"Zipper" Bags To Protect Health and Temper of Travelers

"What! No cold feet? And how are you managing that on your educational tour, Mr. Phillips?"

The answer is this: Not a heavy mattress and two or three quilts, but a modern, up-to-date sleeping bag, that "zips" up both sides and eliminates all chances of cold air around your feet. This zipper suit, the quilt and mattress, eliminates another evil of a double bed, that of cover pulling. Regardless of the fact that your bedfellow is a hefty 250 "pounder" and has a C. P. (cover pulling) degree, the cover on this sleeping bag will be evenly divided at all times of the night because it is securely zipped onto the mattress.

Is Lighter in Weight

For the men whose duty it is to load the bedding, this compact sleeping bag is a great improvement over a forty pound mattress and several heavy comforts.

But one last word of warning! Careless students who are in the habit of pinning pajamas on are requested to sew snaps on their garments before going on this tour, as the mattresses in the sleeping bags are air filled. Students are advised to avoid pins, otherwise they are in danger of waking up some morning with a flat mattress.

And now to add a comforting word to those who hated to leave home because mother wouldn't be along to tuck you in at night. No tucking is required—just a zip of the zipper and there you are—as snug and comfy a bed as any mother ever tucked.

Library Plans Still In Hands Of Architects

Papers of application for the proposed library building on the college campus are still in the hands of the architects, Rittenberry and Carder of Amarillo.

College officials are trying to get the library through the PWA appropriations. Forty-five per cent of the finances will come from this source and 55 per cent from the local fund.

The style of the building will carry out the architectural scheme of Pioneer Hall. According to present specifications, the building will be three stories high.

Sam Parks, Jr., Pittsburgh Pro Who Turned Dark Horse to Cop the U. S. Open Crown, Finds the Throne a Bit Uncomfortable

"UNEASY lies the head that wears a crown."

Bill Shakespeare certainly spoke a mouthful when he uttered those immortal words, and you don't have to take our word for it. Just ask the man who wears one — in this case Sam Parks, Jr., on whose youthful brow reposes the mythical National Open crown, symbol of golfing greatness.

Although he whipped the nation's outstanding club-wielders over the tough Oakmont course at Pittsburgh, the plodding Smoky City lad who made good in his own back yard unhappily finds himself being regarded by golf-dom at large as a champ who got in on a rain check.

This despite the fact he was the only entry of the large field to come home under 300. He turned in a card of 299.

Parks is frank to admit, however, that he held a psychological advantage over the rest of the pack in that he has been playing over the Oakmont route since way back when, and knew each and every hazard intimately.

IT was a tough grind any way you look at it, what with weeping skies, miniature cyclones, and greens that had been rolled and re-rolled until they compared favorably with a billiard table for smoothness.

And it's on the greens that the Steel City youth really begins to stand out, although he does get plenty of distance in his drives down the fairway.

Sam was born with the golf bug in his veins, his dad before him ranking high for many years among Pittsburgh amateurs. Parks, Sr., incidentally is president of a Pittsburgh golf club.

The champ is an alumnus of the University of Pittsburgh, and captained varsity golf teams there in 1930 and 1931. After leaving Pitt's hallowed halls, Sam searched in vain for an opening in the business world. Finding nothing worthwhile, he turned to his first love, golf.

Accepting a job as a pro, Parks

Hundreds in the gallery held their breath as Sam Parks, Jr., inset, of Pittsburgh, "dark horse" in the National Open, made ready, as shown above, to sink the putt which brought him the championship.

soon became the outstanding exponent of the ancient Scotch hit-and-walk game in the Pittsburgh metropolitan district. However, the National Open was the first major tournament he ever captured, and this, in our humble opinion, seems to be the only reason the golfing bigwigs have frowned on him.

WITH characteristic Teutonic thrift, Max Schmeling has saved his money and is the only current heavyweight to show a sizeable bank balance. . . . A dearth of dependable relief pitchers is causing Mickey Cochrane no end of worry. . . . After a bitter dose of defeat at the hands of Barney Ross, Jimmy McLarin plans to take up the study of medicine.
